The annual excursion of the employees of the Quaker Oats Company is being held to-day to Jackson Point, Lake Simcoe. This morning a special train of ten coaches carried the largest excursion of the season out of the city, the greater number, of course, being employees of the company, but many others took advantage of the opportunity to spend a day on the shores of Lake Simcoe. A good programme of sports had been arranged and will be run off at the Point. The excursion will return this evening.

INTERESTING MUSIC AT ST. JOHN'S

Large Attendance of Members of the Choir and Excellent Musical Services Yesterday

Notwithstanding the heat, St. John's choristers turned out strong for the services yesterday, thirty-one at Matins and thirty-seven at Evensong. At both services the collect for the day was sung during the offertory, viz.: "Lord of All Power and Might," a standard anthem by Mason and Vincent Novello. The verse parts were taken by a small choir, the treble being sung by Cyril Devey and Arthur Horsfield, Mrs. Seward, alto; Mr. Geo. Chandler, tenor; Messrs. Wesley and Richardson, bass, completing an effective sextette. The final movement was splendidly sung by the whole choir, and Mr. R. J. Devey was well pleased with the work. The singing at both services was especially bright and hearty.

THE SUDDEN DEMISE OF A RESPECTED LADY

Miss Isabella Rose Passed Away Yesterday Morning From Heart Failure

There passed away on Sunday morning a much-respected citizen of Peterborough in the person of Miss Isabella Rose, second daughter of the late Alexander Rose, at her late residence on the corner of Hunter and Downie streets. Her death is lamented by a large number of sympathizing friends, more so as it came as a surprise to them. The deceased lady had been in fairly good health previous to her death, and on Saturday night there were no indications of the evening of life. Her demise is attributed to heart failure. She was born in Keene in the year 1852 and came to Peterborough in '94, where she had since resided. She was a respected member of the George Street Methodist Church, which she attended regularly.

Surviving her are two brothers, Alexander, with whom she resided, and John, also of Peterborough, and two sisters, Mrs. John Gilkespie of Scarbrooke street, and Miss Mary of Kingston.

Her death is particularly sad one to her relatives, as it was only about six weeks ago that her brother passed away.

The funeral will be held to-morrow afternoon from the residence, 400 Downie street, to Lakefield cemetery. The funeral will be private, and no flowers are requested.

Y.M.C.A. Camp, Clear Lake, July 13.—The 10th Boys' Camp is in full swing. With the arrival of Tom, the cook, last night, and of the finest of fair weather this morning, the rather unauspicious and disheartening camp-opening has been forgotten, and hopes are high for a record time. TROUBLE OVER RECTORY SITE

And as a Result Commencement of Operations in Construction of St. John's Rectory is Delayed

The committee appointed by St. John's Vestry to look after the building of the new residence for the Rector of St. John's church, are having their own troubles. First the Rector desires the building to be erected on the brow of the hill, cutting away the pines to the east of the church. To this the committee object, and they decided that under no circumstance will this be allowed. The committee have selected for the site the two corner lots on the north east corner of the church grounds, and it is there that it is most likely the rectory will be built. However, there is another dispute, as the present building brings the Rector $180 per year. The committee on behalf of the Vestry agreed to recompense him for the amount of the ground rent by allowing him a fixed sum per annum, but this is not accepted by the Rector, and there the matter rests. Four thousand dollars has been subscribed and paid on account of the new rectory but the dispute over the ground rent and site has caused the delay.

The public are not interested in this dispute further than they do not wish to see the beautiful grounds in any way disfigured, as it is one of the beauty spots of the city. The committee will be supported by the townspeople in refusing their consent to the building being erected on the brow of the hill.

WAS A HEAVY DAY FOR IMMIGRANTS

A Number of Trains Heavily Loaded Passed Through the City Yesterday on Way to West

The largest excursion train passing through Peterborough this season went west on the C.P.R. last night about 6 o'clock, when over 300 passengers, on their way to Toronto, were reported. A number of other trains passed through during the day, the passengers being from some of the steamers arriving on Saturday. No less than five ocean steamers arrived at Montreal that day, and each of them carried several hundred newcomers. A few from those passing through stopped off at Peterborough, and took places waiting for them.

A number of the immigrants complained of having experienced an unusually hard journey over. Owing to the continuous rain they were fifty-four hours late in reaching port.

G. T. R. HAD A BUSY DAY AT ORILLIA ON 12TH.

Train Masters Handle the Crowds That Take in Excursions

Peterborough was not the only busy place on July 12th. Mr. Dan McMillan of Allandale, was in the city over Sunday and reported that at Orillia on the great day, he had to look after five thousand people who visited that town. Mr. McMillan is a trainmaster on the G. T.R., with headquarters at Allandale. He was certainly kept busy. Mr. John Irwin was in the city to-day looking after the Quaker excursion to Jackson Point. A large crowd took in the trip to Lake Simcoe.

Bell Telephone Company's Wires To Go Underground

Revised Agreement With City Has Been Officially Signed—Poles Will Come Off George Street.

QUESTION FINALLY SETTLED

The revised agreement between the Bell Telephone Company and the city council, regarding the underground wires has been returned from the head office at Montreal, to Mr. F. D. Kerr, the local solicitor, satisfactorily signed. The agreement came up before the city council at their last meeting for consideration, and a clause respecting repair work on the streets, was inserted. There was some doubt whether the company would agree to the changes, or not, but this is now abandoned, since the agreement has been signed and returned.

The long drawn out discussion between the company and council, after a two years' life, is at last at an end, and the wires of the company will go underground in conduits, at least on the principal streets. George street, from Sherbrooke to Brock streets, will when the work is completed, be cleared of the poles of the Telephone Company. This, it is hoped by the general public, will be the first step in the paving of the streets.

By the agreement the work of placing the wires underground will be completed by January 1st, 1908.

HEREDITY LAW IN DAIRY CATTLE

T. H. Binnie Gives Some Interesting Information and Helpful Hints to Dairy Farmers

TO INCREASE THE YIELD

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—While talking with a very well informed farmer the other day our conversation drifted to the principles of breeding. It was this conversation which led me to prepare the following notes on this very important branch of agriculture.

It is a recognized fact that heredity is the corner stone upon which the breeder builds. In other words he mates hi sanimals knowing that "like begets like." In the vegetable Kingdom we do not get apples from plum trees nor potatoes from cherry trees. In the human family we find that generations have kept the Teutonic peoples, large-framed and blonde, while the negro races are dark and curly haired. In building up the dairy breeds we also see this law brought to the front. Many Jersey bulls have been advertised as "butter bulls" because their dams were excellent yielders of butter and they transmitted this quality to their progeny. The breeders of dairy cattle should mate their best yielders to bulls from a good milking strain if they wish to get the best results and build up a good dairy herd.

The term "reversion" in breeding means to return to the type of some remote ancestor. It is quite possible that in a herd of excellent milkers a poor bull was used for only one season some years ago. Even with the use of the best animals which which can be procured it will occasionally be found that a poor milker will appear. This shows how important it is to use the best and nothing but the best kind of a bull at the head of the dairy herd.

It sometimes happens that one cow is a good milker, while all her relatives are poor yielders. Occasionally we find a poor milk producer in a family of good cows. This may be due to variation, which does not play such an important part as heredity and reversion in practical breeding.

It must always be remembered that to obtain good dairy herds they should be headed by the best bull obtainable. This bull should come from a family that conforms to "dairy" type and performs at the pail.

Yours truly,
T. H. BINNIE.

YOUNG GIRL ARRESTED AT MIDNIGHT LAST NIGHT

Monday Got Off With a Good Start at Police Court

On Saturday night Mr. John Reid was arrested on Rink street by P. C. Meharry while in a drunken state, and in possession of a long butcher knife, with which he said he was going to kill somebody. As he was the worse of liquor Magistrate Dumble was lenient with the man and imposed a fine of $2 and costs, amounting to $5.75. The next time it occurred the Magistrate said he wouldd be more severe.

A young girl from East City was arrested last night about midnight, in a suspicious place and could not give a satisfactory account of herself. She was taken to the police station. She pleaded not guilty when charged with being a wanderer on the streets, by Magistrate Dumble, this morning. She was remanded until four o'clock this afternoon.

The father of the girl said she had gone out yesterday afternoon, and did not return last night.

Mr. A.J. Johnston Says They are Looking Better in Ontario Than in Peterborough

"Talk about the good crops around here" said Mr. A J Johnston, manager of the Peterborough Baseball Club, and a man who knows something of farming, too, "but you should see those in Ontario County, between Myrtle and Oshawa." On Saturday the baseball team took this route on their way to play their game in Oshawa and had a good opportunity of seeing the condition of the crops. He stated that they were looking simply perfect, and unless all the signs fail the yield of grain in that section will be unprecedented.

THE TATE OPTICAL CO.
PETERBORO.

Practically during my whole life (prior to June 1905) I was troubled with terrible pains in my head which I attributed to violent attacks of neuralgia. I tried innumerable headache and neuralgic preparations, but without obtaining the slightest relief. The suffering I endured for a year or more previous to the time I consulted you is indescribable. At times I became delirious through the intense pain, and was obliged to call in a local Physician. Many times morphine was administered to allay the terrible suffering I was undergoing, but this did not give me the slightest relief. A friend advised me to consult your Mr. Babcock, I did so and found out from you that I was suffering from muscular nervous asthenopia, caused by astigmatism. It was remarkable the relief I obtained after the treatment I received, and the wearing of the glasses you prescribed and made for me, since that time I have experienced no difficulty with my eyes, nor have I suffered the slightest return of the old trouble. I cannot help but attribute the ill-health and suffering I experienced as being due to the trouble in my eyes before consulting you. I feel very grateful indeed for the interest taken in my case, as I had almost despaired of ever getting any relief. I might also say I consulted opticians in Lindsay and Toronto in reference to my trouble, but obtained no relief. I desire to again express my sincere gratitude to you for the trouble taken in my case, as well as the wonderful cure effected. Yours sincerely

FRENCH PRESIDENT WAS SHOT AT

Lunatic Makes Mad Attempt to Kill French President.

ESCAPE WAS MIRACULOUS

No One Hit by Bullets—Mob Try to Lynch Would-Be Murderer—Fired at President Fallieres While Returning From Review at Longchamps—In Full View of of a Large Holiday Throng.

Paris, July 15.—The national fete day was marred by an attempt on the life of President Fallieres by Leon Maille, a naval reservist of Havre, who, it is believed, is suffering from the mania of persecution. Maille fired two shots at the President, but did not hit him. He was at once placed under arrest.

On account of the activity of the anti-militarists, who tried to organise a demonstration throughout France yesterday, exceptional precautions were taken to safeguard the President.

The attempt on his life occurred on Avenue des Champs Elysees, while the President was returning to the palace from Longchamps, where he had reviewed the garrison of Paris in the presence of 250,000 people.

Premier Clemenceau and M. Lanes, the President's secretary, were with the President in his laudau, which was escorted by a squadron of cuirassiers.

Saved as by Miracle.

The carriage had safely emerged from the Bois de Boulogne, where the anti-militarists had stationed themselves, with the intention of hooting the soldiers, and was descending the broad Champs Elysees amid the acclamations of the crowds thronging the sidewalks, who were shouting "Vive Fallieres," "Vive l'Armee," when Maille, from the curb at the corner of Lesuer street, fired two shots point blank at the President in quick succession.

As by a miracle no one was hit. President Fallieres was cool and collected when the cortege stopped. The diplomats who were following the President's landau, alighted from their carriages and hurried to his side. Finding nobody had been injured, the President ordered the cortege to move on.

Prisoner Nearly Lynched.

In the meantime two policemen seized Maille, who made no resistance. But the police with difficulty prevented the irate crowds from lynching the prisoner, until a cordon of reserves came up and conducted him to the station. There Maille refused to give any reasons for his act, saying: "The revelations I have are so grave and serious that I will only make them before a magistrate for transmission to the chief of state. It is a matter between the Government and myself. I am the victim of many villianies."

Some of the witnesses of the shooting said that Maille fired in the air.

It is believed that the man participated in the recent seamen's strike and that his mind has been unhinged by fancied grievances. It is believed also that he aided in the revolutionary agitation of the general federation of labor and the anti-militarists.

There is no reason to suspect a plot, as Maille only arrived here from Rouen the night previous.

Mind Affected.

Maille appeared before an examining magistrate last night, but the authorities succeeded only in extracting from him a rambling statement about family persecution directed against him. It was in order to draw public attention to his grievances, he said, that he fired the shots. The prisoner terminated the examination by announcing his intention to give no further explanations, as he believed the magistrate would do nothing to remedy his wrongs.

President Fallieres has received numerous telegrams of congratulations from the rulers of many countries on his fortunate escape.

The attempt on the life of President Fallieres probably will strengthen the Government's intention to put a stop to the anti-militarist propaganda, which already is demoralizing the army and becoming a menace to the republic.

Thirty-nine ringleaders were arrested yesterday for hissing soldiers who were returning from the review. Other arrests were made at the Place de la Concorde, where the League of Patriots held its annual ceremony.

Loses Right Arm.

Windsor, July 15.—While attempting to board an east-bound train last evening Louis Tyrell, aged 20, son of a prominent Rochester, N.Y., man, fell beneath the wheels. His right arm was cut off close to the shoulder.

Startling Developments In Steunenberg Murder Trial.

STATE'S REBUTTAL EVIDENCE

Miner Corroborates Portion of Orchard's Confession—Defence Witnesses Severely Handled—Doctor Arrested for Perjury—Dewey Swore He Was Present at Destruction of Two Concentrators.

Boise, Idaho, July 15.—There were startling developments in the trial of William Haywood for the murder of Frand Steunenberg when the state began its rebuttal Saturday.

One witness confessed to participating in a labor riot resulting in the death of two men, and the record of a witness for the defence, showing his conviction for murder in the second degree, was introduced, and the proof of another having been sent to the insane asylum on the information of his neighbors, was offered. The admissibility of this last was argued, and the court will hand down a decision this morning.

Finally shortly after court adjourned for the day, information was sworn to and a warrant for perjury was issued against Dr. I. L. McGee, a physician at Wallace, Idaho, who was one of the witnesses for the defence.

A crowded courtroom showed close attention to the second session of the trial, when William Dewey, a witness, in rebuttal for the state, confessed to active, armed participation in the destruction of the Bunker Hill and Sullivan concentrators at Wardner on April 2, last, 1899, when two men were killed in a riot of a thousand men. Harry Orchard began his series of crimes at Wardner, where, he said, he lighted one of the fuses which started the explosion, and he swore that William F. Davis, known among his fellows as "Big Bill" Davis, led the mob.

Witnesses for the defence, however, swore that Orchard was not at Wardner on April 29, 1889. Davis himself has sworn that he was elsewhere, and has positively denied any connection with the crime, for complicity in which Paul Corcoran was tried and convicted and some dozen men, including Davis himself, were indicted. Davis on the stand admitted that he went into hiding immediately after the rioting.

Dewey swore that not only did Davis accompany the mob to Wardner, but that he served out guns and ammunition to the union men gathered in the hall at Burke before they went to Wardner, and was one of the leaders of the column that advanced on the concentrator before the work of destruction began.

With downcast eyes and fingers nervously picking at the braiding around the rim of a gray sombrero, Dewey told it all. He was repeatedly requested to raise his voice, and with a quick glance at counsel, he complied, only to relapse into almost inaudible tones.

Under the provocation of a sneering cross-examination by E. J. Richardson, Dewey rallied and even became combatative; but throughout the recital, he gave evidence of remorse. Under the same cross-examination Dewey told why he had come to Boise to confess after eight years of silence. He had been a miner in Colorado for several years, he said, and had even risen to a town marshalship.

"What promise of immunity of punishment was given you, before you decided to make confession of the crime? What reward will you receive? What induced you to make this statement now after all these years?" were some of Richardson's questions.

"None," was the laconic reply to the first two questions, but to the last one, "I read Orchard's confession."

"You saw how well he was treated and decided to get a little of it?" sneered Mr. Richardson.

"It was nothing of that kind," responded Dewey quietly. "I thought I ought to help along with the doing of justice."

Dr. McGee was also one of the witnesses who swore that Orchard was at Mullin on the day of the explosion at the Bunker Hill and Sullivan concentrator.

Ten witnesses in rebuttal were examined. Most of them were called to disprove statements as to Orchard's movements in North Idaho, and as to the disposal of his interests in the Hercules Mines.

One of the most interesting witnesses was August Paulson, once a poor miner partner of Orchard's in the Hercules Mine. He retained his interest in the mine for five years until the mine became one of the richest in the country and is now rich. Orchard swore that he planned to kidnap Paulson's children and extort a ransom of $30,000. Paulson was called to show that Orchard disposed of his interest in the mine some time before he left Idaho.

Counsel for the state expect to finish the rebuttal by Tuesday evening Wednesday at the latest.

Orchard's Grandfather Insane.

Boise, Idaho, July 15.—Last night the Haywood defence says it has discovered new evidence to show that Orchard's maternal grandfather, formerly a resident of Canada, was a maniac of the subject of crime.

INDICATIONS POINT TO A STRUGGLE

Cobalt Mine Managers Adopt Adverse Resolutions.

LOOKS LIKE HARD FIGHT

Will Adhere to Existing Agreement—Miners Are Determined to Hold Out—Managers Claim Can Get Plenty of Labor. Scale Asked For—Western Federation the Real Cause of the Whole Trouble.

Cobalt, July 15.—A prolonged strike is evidently in store for Cobalt, though several mine managers declare they will be able to bring in all the labor they require.

The committee of the Miners' Union was prepared to modify their schedule of daily wages as follows: Carpenters $3.50, carpenters' helpers $2.75, mechanics $3.50, pipe fitters $3, blacksmiths $3.75, helpers $3, engineers 32 1-2 cents an hour, firemen 27 1-2 cents per hour, ore sorters $3, hammermen $3, teamsters $2.50, hoistmen $2.75, cage or buckers $3, surface laborers $2.50, underground labor and cage or bucketers $2.75, machine helpers $3, machine men and timbermen $3.50.

The union also asked for a nine-hour shift all round, and not more than 60 cents per day for board.

The above scale was prepared by the union committee and is said to have been ratified by a mass meeting of union men, but this cannot be confirmed. However, the six union and non-union men on the miners' committee were prepared to recommend the above scale.

Managers' Statement.

The mine managers handed out the following statement: "At a meeting of the representatives of the undersigned mines, in session, the following resolution was adopted unanimously:

"That this body of mine managers and superintendents firmly believe that the schedule of wages offered to the employes of the Cobalt mines is eminently just and fair, and is higher than any other wage scale at present in force in Ontario, unanimously adhere to the agreement and scale of wages and hours published by themselves, and that no deviation be made from the same."

Want to Fight Now.

The fact that the Cobalt union is a branch of the Western Federation is the cause of the trouble. The mine managers believe a struggle with this body has to come, and the sooner the better. Some mine managers who have been engaged in prior contests with this federation have strongly impressed this feeling among other managers and to-day some Canadian managers of small companies are believed to have fallen in line rather out of a dislike to fight with other managers than from a dislike to the proposed schedule. Some, however, of the superintendents of small companies are as emphatic as any in their determination to give no increase.

The mine managers are now busy preparing scales, which, they say, will be uniform, and claim that the union has taken the maximum paid at any mine in camp for each particular class of labor and used it as the minimum in their schedule.

West Ends Defeat Strathconas; Are First Holders Of Trophy

A Good Exhibition of Ball at the Nicholls Oval---Final Score Was 10 to 3---Some of the Players Have Developed Into Good Men---L. Dobson and Weatherstone Put Up a Fine Article---Mr. Fred. Whitcroft, Umpire, Pleased With the Style of Ball

The West Ends are champions of the Intermediate Baseball League as a result of their victory over the Strathconas at the Nicholls Oval on Saturday afternoon. The final score was 10-3 in favour of Jack Oldham's nine from the neighbourhood of Jackson Park, and the genial manager is wearing one of those Pettijohn smiles which is guaranteed to last. The better team won, was the general opinion, but the score would not have been so wide had not a few juicy errors and misjudged plays been made by the Strathconas. However, on the game they played Saturday the West Ends deserved to win. Butcher in the box had four strike-outs and did not give one man a walk, whereas F. Parnell passed four and fanned three. The West End infield played one of the best games seen in the league in this its first year. Len. Dobson, at short, played a strong game, missing only one out of many chances that came his way. He had two put-outs and four assists to his credit. King, at first, put up a good article of ball, getting several fast ones that would have made good. He had four put-outs and nine assists. Cameron played a steady game at third, and Halpin, at second, was there when needed. The outfield pulled in a couple of high ones in a clever manner.

The Strathconas infield played good ball except on one or two occasions, when there were signs of a balloon ascension.

The teams batted in the following order:—

Seventh Innings.

The seventh innigs was of short duration. Heard grounded to King and Delaney and F Parnell both hit to Len Dobson, who threw them out at first.

For the West Ends, Rose fanned; C Dobson reached first and stole second, but was caught at third.

Halpin was out on a fly to Allinston.

Eighth Innings.

Weatherstone grounded to King; Allison put one through Len Dobson; Curtis was out on a grounder to Halpin, who threw to first. Allison was put out trying to steal home.

The West Ends made a strong finish; Halpin put one past Allison. Moore was thrown out at first by Curtis; L Dobson got a walk; Halpin went home on F Parnell's wild throw, McNern's fly was caught by Weatherstone; Butcher got a walk and and Dobson came home; Cameron's grounder was too hard for Weatherstone; Butcher scored; Rose was out at the plate.

Last Innings.

Bert Parnell was hit by Butcher and was caught stealing second; Regan flew out to C Dobson; Wilson was safe but Heard ended the game by putting an easy grounder to Butcher.

Mr. Fred Whitcroft gave entire satisfaction as referee.

Notes

Thus endeth the first season.

What about the funds in the treasury?

Mr. Lang deserves the gratitude the boys have all extended to him.

Dobson, King and Cameron played a great game. They are the pick of the West Ends.

Weatherstone, Curtis and Wilson were the stars among the Strathcona nine.

Len Dobson was at bat five times. He swatted the leather safely four times and got a walk, stole to third base every time and notched five runs. That's playing some!

Weatherstone and L Dobson are, perhaps the best base runners in the League.

A few changes will have to be made in the rules next year and it is hoped that with the experience gained during the present season the League will be better and stronger than ever.

Talagoos Were Beaten In Decisive Manner

Peterborough Lacrosse Team Showed Its Real Form on Saturday, Beating the Tourists Handily---Large Crowd Saw a Grand Game of Lacrosse ---The Details

The Peterborough Lacrosse Club showed their real form on Saturday afternoon when they won their first victory of the season by defeating the Newmarket Talagoos by a score of 6 to 4 thereby delighting their own supporters and throwing into a state of despondency the 300 Newmarket enthusiasts who showed their confidence in their team by following them to Peterborough. A big crowd saw the contest and went away delighted with the exhibition given. The contest was a decidedly interesting one.

It was not all fast lacrosse or good lacrosse, but for the most part the teams dished up a splendid article of lacrosse. The checking was hard but at no time was the game rough. Our friend F. C. Warhorne was referee and he had the players in hand all the way. "Nothing less than five minutes unless I say so" was his instructions to Cass Cameron of Beaverton, who acted as penalty timer but Wag never said so, in fact some of the players received 10 minute sentences.

The Newmarket home used the short lobby pass game which although pretty to look at was not effective when it met the determined resistance of the Peterborough defence. They did a lot of passing while on side, but when they attempted to come in they were met man for man with the result that the passes were nearly always intercepted and the combination broken up.

Peterborough on the other hand used the long swift pass, which while not always accurately made or cleanly caught, was far more effective than the Newmarket tactics, the defence being drawn out in a manner that meant that the getting of goals was only a matter of time.

The showing of the locals was an indication of what the team could have done if they had gotten into shape earlier in the season. They played grand lacrosse on Saturday and had it on the the Newmarket tourists all the way. The defence was especially strong; Baetens, Regan and Morgan made a trio in front of the flags that would be hard to beat, and the field was also very affective. Every one of the home played a fine game. McDonough opened the eyes of the crowd with some spectulator stick-handling and was always prominent. Fred McGrath and McLean gave him good support and Best, although he had hard luck in his shooting, was of great assistance.

The Newmarket team is a well balanced aggregation and play fast clean lacrosse.

The game was never in doubt after the first minute. Newmarket started off at a terrific pace scoring the first in 30 seconds but it was only a flash in the pan. Peterborough came back with four in a row before the hour was up. Several Peterborough men were on the fence during the second quarter and Newmarket scored the only goal. Honours were even in the third and fourth quarters, each team getting two goals. Peterborough contented themselves with holding the lead they had established in the first quarter and did so without much trouble.

Newmarket started off at a pace that made the Peterborough supporters look anxious. In thirty seconds they had carried the ball by a series of rapid passes to the nets and Skelding was given an opportunity of which he made good use. Then Peterborough got four in a row and it was all off. McDonough got the first after some pretty combination with Best and McLean. Patsy also scored number two on a neat pass from Best. Two more followed quickly, the first scored by Best and the second by Glover.

As far as scoring went honours were about even for the rest of the game although Peterborough had the best of the play throughout. The score was 6-3 at the opening of the last quarter and when Newmarket scored in six minutes their supporters began to sit up and take notice. Then Regan intercepted a pass, and after a long run transferred to McDonough who passed to Best and Peterborough was once more in the lead. It was all over then. The summary tells the tale—

Baseball Team Lost the Midland League Game in Oshawa on Saturday Afternoon

NINE WERE OFF COLOUR

The unexpected happened on Saturday afternoon when the Peterborough baseball club were defeated in a Midland League game in the Lakeshore town by 9 to 5. The game was looked upon as an easy win for Peterborough and under ordinary circumstances it would have been so. The locals, however, did not play up to their usual form. Four of them, including the three pitchers had played the day before and this did not leave them in any too good shape. They had no luck with them either as Smith the Oshawa pitcher was hit hard all through, but most of the drives went to the fielders. The three men in the Oshawa garden had the busiest time of their lives. Once Burridge cracked out a drive with three on the bases that looked good for a homer, but the Oshawa fielder had moved away back and it came right into his hands.

The Peterborough team did not play their usual snappy fielding game. The nature of the diamond bothered the infield and many grounders were fumbled. Corney Burns who had pitched the day before with Picton, was not batted hard, but the hits were enough with the errors to give the game to the tail-enders. Smith pitched for Oshawa and looked like an easy proposition, but the hits were going to the fielders.

Wilson, of Oshawa gave the greatest of satisfaction as umpire and the boys speak in the highest terms of his good work.

The Peterborough team lined up as follows:—

Burns p, Callaghan, lf, Burridge, c, Connors cf, Quinlan 2b, Halfpenny 3b, Cheatham ss, Graham 1b, Flaherty rf.

The score by innings was as follows:—

Peterborough ... ...3000010100—5

Oshawa ... ...200010210—9

Batteries — Burns and Burridge; Smith and Andrews.

INDIAN RUNNER IS NOT LEAVING HERE

No Truth in Rumour That Simpson Will Run Under Other Auspices

The statement made in the Toronto press that Fred Simpson, the Hiawatha Indian runner, was to go to that city under the management of Rosenthal, is utterly at variance with the truth. Fred was in the city to-day and called upon his trainer, Mr. Dick Baker, in response to a letter regarding the story printed. He was seen by an Examiner reporter, to whom he stated that he had known nothing of the rumour until apprised of it by his trainer by letter Saturday evening. He also stated that he had no intention of running under any other auspices than Peterborough, and that he did not know Rosenthal, who was supposed to be looking after him.

Simpson intends remaining with Baker, and will act according to his instructions.

BASEBALL

PORT HOPE BEAT COBOURG.

Port Hope, July 13.—For the third time this season Port Hope has defeated Cobourg in Midland League games, twice at home and once in Cobourg. Cobourg's victory from Oshawa last week placed them tie with Port Hope, and to-day's game was for the leadership of the Midland League. The local nine were in great shape and won the game in the easiest manner by a score of 17 to 4. The Port Hopers had a batting streak and they forced McKinnon, Cobourg's crack twirler, to retire. Surphlis, in the box for Port Hope, allowed only four hits and struck out nine men. J. M. Rosevear umpired the game to the satisfaction of both teams.

Absurd Complaint From Newmarket in Regard to Saturday's Game

The following despatch from Newmarket would be amusing were it not for the serious effects the report may have:—

"Newmarket, Ont., July 14. — The Tatagoo Club have earned a reputation in past seasons for being good losers, taking defeat when it fell to their lot without any kicking. To-day however, indignation is not a strong enough term to express the feelings of Newmarket people. The treatment received at Peterborough yesterday was the most brutal in the experience of lacrosse here, and Newmarket is one of the oldest lacrosse centres in Ontario. With two exceptions the whole team are battered from their knees to their heads. There are three seriously injured, one with a broken jaw, one with a broken cheek-bone, and Dusmore with a gash in his scalp requing four stitches. No penalty was inflited on the player who did it."

Anyone who saw Saturday's game will know that this report is not founded on facts. The game was far from being rough, being even more clean than is the average game, and the statement that the Tatagoos were "battered from their knees to their heads" is absolutely false—only a couple of men were hurt, one of them at least purely accidentally. The truth of the matter is that the Newmarket team is decidedly sore over their trimming which was entirely unlooked for by the team and their supporters.

Goselin Well Known To Many Peterborough Horsemen

Man Arrested on Charge of Complicity in Passing Bad Money Was Regular Visitor at Local Race Meets.

HAVE 2 MEN CONFESSED?

Goselin, the man arrested in Port Hope, on Saturday, in connection with the Lindsay counterfeiting case, is well known in Peterborough, where he frequently visited, especially around the dates of the racing meets of the Turf Club. He was an enthusiastic horseman and was a regular attendant at the races held here. In this way he became well-acquainted with the local turf men. It was not thought, however, locally, that he was connected in any way with the passing of bad money. He indignantly denies all knowledge of the alleged illegal actions of the gang, and gave an interview to a newspaper man to this effect:

"I have been all over Canada from the Atlantic to the Pacific," he said, "and as far as I know, never did a wrong action in my life."

"Did you know this man Burke?" he was asked.

"Lived within forty rods of him all my life," was the reply, "and I never saw anything wrong."

Goslin did not seem to be at all worried over his arrest, but laughed and chatted with his friends as if nothing had happened.

"They'll have to prove it, that's all," he said; "a man can't get through life without a little trouble."

"Who gave the game away?" one of his friends asked.

"Oh, I don't know," was the reply; "I've been handling quite a lot of money lately and often had $1200 and $1500 in my pocket, and when this came out someone who had a grudge against me must have got talking about it."

Have They Confessed?

That Charles Burke and Robert Logie have confessed and will plead guilty to the charges that have been laid against them; that it was on the information obtained from them that George Millar and Jack Goslin were arrested; and that other sensational arrests of prominent citizens are likely to follow, are the outstanding features of the counterfeiters' case, acording to rumour of an authenitic nature. That these are not far from the facts of the case was admitted by one of the officials this morning.

It is understood that the confessions point to Miller in a case of two years ago. At that time, Miller, it is said, went to Belleville, ostensibly for the purpose of purchasing a small printing press with which to start a job printing business here with his brother.

It was alleged that while he was there he passed several counterfeit bills, but when the merchants who had been victimized were confronted with a photo of Miller they failed to identify him. Owing to insufficient evidence the case was dropped.

Now, however, Burke and Logie are claimed to have stated that Miller not only assisted them with their presses but at one time sent them a package of copying ink from Toronto. It is also said that Jack Goslin was an accomplice of Millar's at that time.

MR. HOWSON BUSY AT PROVIDING EMPLOYMENT

Many Immigrants Seeking Employment at His Office

Mr. George Howson, the local immagration agent, states that he is almost daily receiving requests from immigrants to provide them with employment. The opening of the agency here has done much to facilitate the placing of men in good employment and also of providing farmers with labourers.

HEART-THROBS

On the Grand Trunk train which leaves Toronto at 1.50, and, after stopping at every station reaches here about 5.30 a lady, no longer young, with a kindly face-tear-stained and wrinkled, indications that the world had not dealt kindly with her, not nearly as kindly as she deserved, you would say, after you looked at her face, as those who noticed her said, to themselves, if not to their neighbours,—was a passenger. During the journey, a long and tedious one, she occupied a seat alone, and every few minutes a handkerchief with a suggestive black boarder was used to wipe away a tear, which could not be kept back.

As the train neared Peterborough she made a brave effort and tried to look as pleasant as possible, and when it finally pulled into the station, she was met at the step by a sober, thoughtful-looking young man, who kissed the lady, who, it is presumed, was his mother, on both cheeks and enfolded her in his arms. There was no mistake about the sincerity of his display of affection. Those who saw the incident would trust that young man. You can trust any young man who treats his mother like that. He drew her gently to a corner of the waiting room, and there on his shoulder she sobbed out her trouble, and he, with gentle words of endearment comforted her, though her trouble was his, because it was not difficult—nor did he try to hide it—to see that the tears were coming unbidden to his eyes.

It was a trouble that these two were bearing, probably unknown to and unshared by any other soul in the whole world, and they both felt better after the first spasm of uncontrolable grief was spent. They were then able to go out and fight it out again, and live it down—whatever it was. Just the two of them, the young man with the face which told of a clean life and a serious view of it, and the lady in the faded black dress—his mother. She is fortunate in having a son like that.

WORLD'S CROP PROSPECTS IMPROVING

Broomhall's Weekly Letter Indicates a Better Condition, Though Full Crop Will Not Be Realized

THE WEATHER FAVOURABLE

(J. R. Heintz & Co. Special.)

Liverpool, July 16. — Broomhall's weekly foreign crop report says:—

United Kingdom—The weather is favourable, being fine and hot. The wheat plant, however, is backward.

France—In the Northwest and East the plant has large ears, and appears very healthy, while elsewhere the outlook is fair, but the crop is late. Supplies are very small.

Germany—The outlook is fair, but the crop is late; supplies are very small. Oats, on the whole, is satisfactory.

Hungary—All reports confirm additional damage as a result of heat and rust.

Roumania—The maximum yield for wheat will be only half a crop, with the quality good. Light rains have fallen, which were beneficial.

Russia—In the southwest of Russia the damage is feared to spring wheat owing to the great heat, but a fair harvest is expected. The outlook for winter crops is poort. In the southeast the year's harvesting of the crops, with the exception of some districts in the Asoff, which are poor, will be fair. In the east the condition is less favourable, owing to drought.

Italy—Harvesting returns are satisfactory.

Spain—Reports received are of a more favourable nature, and no more deterioration is heard.

Kidney Disease on the Increase

Recent reports from the New York Board of Health show that kidney disease is greatly on the increase. Bright's Disease as well as all the other dreadfully painful forms of kidney disease can always be prevented and easily cured by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills, which have a direct and combined influence on the liver and kidneys,

BRAIN AND BODY

The function and development of the human brain, with incidentally an expression on the old problem of the difference between man and the lower animals, forms the subject of an interesting article in the recent issue of Everybody's Magazine. The author is William Hanna Thompson, M.D., LL.D., physician to the Roosevelt Hospital and consulting physician to the New York State Manhattan Hospitals for the Insane.

Years ago it was thought the brain had nothing special to do except to keep the blood cool for the heart. About 160 A. D., Galen demonstrated that the brain is the bodily seat of the conscious mind. Until a few years ago the great teachers in medicine thought that the brain in its relation to the mind was one organ, acting as a unit in all mental operations. Now it is proven that some distinctly mental functions are dependent upon particular areas of the brain surface.

Careful observations of accidents show that a portion of the speech region is over the eye. A man injured over the eye lost the power to talk, but none of his other faculties were impaired. Speech itself has three anatomatical seats in the brain. One is in the auditory region where the words heard are registered; another is in the visual region, where words seen are stored; while the third in the motor region, enables men to utter words by the movement of the larnyx, tongue or lip. Again, disorders of speech, due to physical injuries, show that words are carefully arranged in their area. When a man learns a new language he must provide a new shelf for his words. There are cases where men becoming word blind in one language, could still perfectly read another language. Observations of men recovering their lost speech show that in their minds verbs are placed first, pronouns next then prepositions and adverbs, and last nouns. Verbs are the first learned, and innermost words; nouns are something outside of us to which we give names.

But man does not come into this world with this highly developed brain. It has been discovered that the brain is a pair organ consisting of two perfectly matched hemispheres, of which only one developes special mental human endowments. Originally both hemispheres, Dr. Thompson holds, are thoughtless, and in their form and convolutions show absolutely no difference from the brain of a chimpansee. To become intelligent creatures it is necessary to acquire a host of mental faculties. Every kind of knowledge must be secured by personal education. Recently it was discovered that this education necessitates the creation of local anatomical changes in brain matter to make the special seats of the accomplishments, the changes taking place in only one of the two hemispheres. For instance in one hemisphere a marvellous group of additional brain places is found around the original centre for hearing. One of these knows what hearing is; another is for hearing words; while another is for the recognition of sounds. Any one of these centres may be destroyed without the others being affected.

Recent discoveries have, however, shown that the brain, wonderful as it is, is not the source of thought, but is rather the instrument of the thinker. Dr. Thompson faces the problem of the chief executive in man. He solves it by an indefinible power he calls the Personal Human Will. "Like clay in the hands of the potter, so is brain matter fashioned by the will, bit by bit, each small area made to acquire a mental faculty according to the purpose of this unmistakable creator." That the brain itself cannot make another brain speech centre for example, he believes, is clear. How could any other part of the brain create a mechanism for words without itself giving a sign of having a word in it? "The will is a specific and positive stimulus to nervous matter."

With these facts in mind Dr. Thomson touches on the unsolved question of the difference between man and the lower animals. Zoologically man is closely allied to the primates,—as the orang-outang, gorilla, and chimpansee are called. But mentally, the doctor holds, he is far removed. Man is a true creator, and the possessor of the creative power called "will." No chimpanzee, for example, could be taught to pass an examination in Greek: nor could an orang-outang plan the bridge over the Firth of Forth. The doctor's argument, however, will possibly not satisfy those who insist on the discovery in the lowest form of mankind of the peculiar quality of man. Could a Bushman or a Hottentot be taught to pass in Greek or construct the gigantic bridge? It is hardly fair to compare the highest in two orders to ascertain the peculiarities of the orders. The true solution will probably only be secured by the discovery of the relationship of the highest primate to the lowest class of mankind.

AROUND THE WORLD

Jules Verne's popular book, "Around the World in Eighty Days," was regarded not many years since as a pleasing flight of the "scientific imagination." A month ago Lieut.-Col. Campbell of the British Army finished a world-girdling trip, which occupied 40 days, 19 1-2 hours.

The London Advertiser regards it as gratifying to Canadians to know that one-half the journey was made in the steamships and trains of a Canadian railway company. Lieut.-Col. Campbell left Liverpool on May 3 at 7.30 p.m. on the Empress of Ireland, reaching Quebec on Friday, May 10, at 3 p.m. He left the ancient capital two hours later on the overseas mail, and at 5 a.m. on the 14th was in Vancouver. From thence he sailed at 12.30 p.m. on the C. P. R. steamer, and at 7 p.m. on the 26th of May he was landed in Yokohoma, 23 days from London, a distance traveled of nearly 10,000 miles in the care of one company. Five days later he was at Harbin, and on June 10 this train steamed into Moscow at 2.38 p.m. Proceeding, via Warsaw, Berlin, Cologne and Ostend, he landed at Dover on June 13 at 2.50 p.m., 40 days, 19 1-2 hours from the time he left England. He lost only 9 1-2 hours at both ends of the C.P.R. and his other delays consumed less than a day.

Verily, modern science is making the world smaller, and the imagination of one generation pales before the facts of another.

A COMPENDIOUS APOSTROPHE

"It would be idle for me to tell you that the past year has been one of unexampled prosperity in every branch of Canadian industry. You all know it. Prosperity confronts you on every hand. The artisan, the farmer, the manufacturer, the financier, the professional man, the railway magnate, all reap their share of the bounties of this fair country of ours. In the great period of prosperity factory in the country is working to full capacity and yet orders are being declined every day. Canada is growing so fast that the output of her factories cannot equal the demand, and she has to depend on outside sources of supply. Industrial expansion has been unable to keep pace with the growth in population, and the consequent greater demand for goods.

"But the fact remains that the condition of the export trade is far from satisfactory, and this is due partly to the lack of transportation facilities and partly to the stringency of the money market, caused by the tying up of vast sums in enterprises which will be non-productive for some years, thus lessening the amount of capital which can be devoted to the expansion of our manufacturing industries."

No, dear reader, says the Montreal Herald, this is not an extract from an election address written in advance by some aspirant for a Liberal nomination. It isn't part of a paean of victory to be chanted at Sir Wilfrid Laurier on his arrival at Rimouski. It isn't an excerpt from a First of July oration by the leading orator of a youth's debating club.

It is—it seems almost a shame to say so, with Sir Charles Tupper on his way to the country where ten years ago he heard the wail of ruined industries—it is an expression of opinion by John Firstbrook, president, delivered at a meeting of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, held in Toronto a couple of days ago.

It seems impossible, but there is the fact, as undeniable as the conditions described.

EDITORIAL NOTES

It is announced that a San Francisco couple intend forsaking their family of young children and entering upon missionary work amongst a colony of lepers. There is not much of the Christian spirit about parents of this type. In their case the most important work is to give guidance and care to their children.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

Alberta and Saskatchewan are working for the establishment of what will be practically a common system of education for both Provinces: that is to say, primary and secondary schools of the same sort in both Provinces, with an interchange of Normal School graduates. Suggestion, For Girls

Toronto Saturday Night.

There were over six hundred accidents in the various factories in Ontario during the year 1906. In her report Miss Carlyle, one of the women inspectors, says: "Young girls prefer to run the risk of being scalped," rather than put up their hair in such a way as to keep it clear of machinery, and the regulation as to the style of coiffure is hard to enforce. It is understood that in some instances girls have threatened to strike rather than be dictated to as to how they should dress their hair while at work.

Alleged Pickpockets To Come Before Judge Weller

Date Fixed for July 29th at 11 O'clock—Bradford Asked for Bail But Was Refused.

PROTESTS FROM COUNSELS

The four alleged pickpockets, who are now incarcerated in the county jail, awaiting trial, came before His Honour Judge Weller yesterday evening, and elected to be tried by him, the trial to begin at 11 o'clock on Monday, the 29th day of July, in the county court room. Despite the strong pleas made by Messrs. D. O'Connell and F. D. Kerr, to have the trial at an earlier date, the Judge refused on the grounds that the Crown asked for a fortnight in which to obtain more evidence.

Mr. O'Connell, who appeared for Bradford and Lewis, asked His Honour to grant bail to the former, as his case was a particularly sad one. The prisoner, he said, resided in New York city; he had only been married a little over a year and was the father of a little babe which was now lying seriously ill. Yesterday Mrs. Bradford, who is here, together with the prisoner's mother, received a telegram from New York, stating that the baby was ill, and asking her to come at once.

His Honour refused to grant bail intimating that the wife of the prisoner might go home if she wished to attend to the child, and he did not believe anyway that the husband would be of much assistance to the babe. In the absence of any voucher or security from New York, he did not care to grant bail, especially as the case was so serious.

The prisoners through their counsels, then elected to be tried by Judge Weller on the three charges for which they were committed by Magistrate Dumble. They pleaded not guilty before the judge.

Mr. A. P. Poussette, who was acting on behalf of Crown Attorney Wood, stated that the Crown would not be able to proceed before a fortnight, as it was necessary to obtain some evidence not now in their possession.

Mr. Kerr, on behalf of Goldfarb and Phelps, protested strongly, asking that the trial be held at once, as the prisoners had already suffered three remands in connection with the police court and apparently with no other reason than to satisfy some personal demands, as those who gave evidence in the case when the preliminary trial was held, were all present at the first date set for the hearing.

Mr. O'Connell also objected strenuously to the prolonging of the time for trail, but His Honour on the strength of the statements of the Crown Attorney that two weeks were necessary to obtain further evidence, fixed the date for Monday, July 29th, at 11 o'clock.

Excitement Is Intense At Blairton Mines Now

Everyone Looking Forward to Re-Opening of Iron Mines—Diamond Drill Will Soon be Put to Work Here.

VISIONS OF ACTIVITY

Special Correspondence

Havelock, July 15. — When a town once lively and business-like, and well known for miles around, has become quiet, with nothing doing at all, and has sunken into apparent obscurity, all at once is brightened by news that it may become known once more, there is great excitement among the inhabitants. This is the case with the village of Blairton, once one of the most prosperous villages in the district, when the iron mines were in operation there, but of late has been reduced to only a few inhabitants. But now those that reside in that small yet picturesque village wear a smile on their face, and the hearts of the property owners in the place are filled with gladness for in all probability the iron mines there will be opened in the near future.

When the mines were in operation before, Blairton was one of the most prosperous and gayest towns to be seen. At that time there was a large population, and although men and their families were continually flocking in, still there was a demand for labourers.

The village soon grew from a few houses to fifty, some of them very large and of the latest design. Stores, blacksmith shops, harness shops, and other buildings, sprang up, as if by magic, and it is said that a person who was away for a month, did not know the village when he returned. Sawmills were scarce in the district, and although there was lots of timber lumber could not be cut fast enough to supply the demand.

A railway connected Blairton with the docks at Trent Bridge. This railway was kept in continual action even on Sunday, for when there was no ore to ship there was something else. Machinery for the mines was brought in daily, and supplies of provisions and groceries could not be got in fast enough. On the whole, it was as hard to get goods to Blairton as it is to Cobalt at the present time.

Nor, was it all work, for nearly every week during the summer there was an excursion of some kind to Trent Bridge, and from there to Rice Lake and and other points by steamboat.

Every evening after working hours the lake near by was crowded with boats filled with the happiest people that ever lived in America.

Although the school and church were of a fair size they were not large enough to accommodate the large number that attended.

But there is a fall to all greatness! The end must come, and thus it was with Blairton, when operations at the mine were discontinued. There was a general exodus of people, and although quite a number remained, they kept gradually dwindling away, until now there are only a few left. There is no weekly excursion, no crowded church or school, no great demand for labourers, and as any person now visiting the place would say, it is practically dead to the world.

But, now, it is stated on good authority that the mines will reopen once more. A few weeks ago, two men representing a large mining company, visited Blairton, looked over the site of the iron mines, and reported themselves as highly pleased as far as they had investigated. Men are expected to arrive in a few days to locate the mineral which, if all reports are true, forms a large portion of the rock.

According to statements of the Blairton residents, Messrs Pearce, of Marmora, who own the mine, have refused a large offer, but it is likely that an agreement will be reached after the mine has been better examined. The mine is situated in the near neighbourhood of Blairton, about three miles north of Blairton station, and seven miles east of Havelock. They cover about 25 acres. If the purchase is made, and the mines re-opened it is likely that a siding will be built from Blairton station or Havelock. If it is laid to Blairton station, it will be necessary to place an agent at that station.

When Your Health Fails--What Then?

BETTER TO GUARD AGAINST SUCH AN EMERGENCY BY KEEPING VITALITY AT HIGH-WATER MARK BY THE USE OF

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

Good health is the capital of persons who earn their livelihood with brain and muscle.

In these days of strenuous life and keen competition there is no place for tired brains and weak bodies.

Success is for the strong and alert for those whose blood is rich and whose nerve cells are filled with vigour and energy.

It is not pleasant to contemplate what might happen with failing health, and for this reason it is well to heed the first symptoms of nervous exhaustion, such as brain fag, headache, nervous dyspepsia, sleeplessness, failure of memory and loss of power to concentrate the mind.

While Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has succeeded in curing many cases of partial paralysis, locomotor ataxia, and the most severe forms of nervous prostration and exhaustion, it is not well to delay treatment until these stubborn and dangerous diseases set in.

At the slightest indication of waning nerve force, begin the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and with a few weeks' treatment you will be able to restore the vitality of the body to high-water mark, remove the cause of nervous disorders, and prevent serious results.

Miss Mary Leitch, Coulson, Simcoe county, Ont., writes: "When I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food my nervous system was all run down, and I suffered terribly with nervous headache and sleeplessness. Sometimes I could not sleep for three or four nights in succession. By the use of several boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food these troubles were entirely overcome, and I consider the preparation an excellent nerve tonic."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50; at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

FIREMEN ARE INVITED TO MIDLAND

Band May Also Go and Take Part in Band Tournament on August 7th—May Run Excursion

The Peterborough firemen have been invited to go to Midland on August 7, to take part in a celebration which will be held there under the auspices of the fire brigade of that town. The matter is under consideration here, and it is considered probable that an excursion will be run from this city. A band tournament is one of the features on the programme at Midland, and the 57th Band may be entered in the competition, the first prize for which is $100. A proposal has been made to run an excursion from here under the joint auspices of the band and firemen, and it is probable that were such an excursion run it would be largely patronized.

CHEESE PRICES BELOW A YEAR AGO

From 11 to 11 1-2c. a Pound Being Paid at Country Boards—15 Days' Make Will be Sold Here To-morrow

To-morrow the semi-monthly meeting of the Peterborough Cheese Board will be held, when the cheese made up to the 15th will be disposed of. The price of cheese this season, compared with the corresponding period a year ago, is lower. The sales during the last few weeks at the country boards have been running from 11 to 11 1-2 cents, which is about half a cent a pound lower than this time last year. There is no prospect that the prices paid to-morrow here will be much, if any, higher than those quoted, though the superior quality of the product of the local factories may result in the buyers being willing to pay a little more to secure it.

The Inquest At Millbrook Brings Out Peculiar Facts

Disappearance of Schultz Not Reported Until Long After Circus Train Arrived in Lindsay---Coroner Determined to Thoroughly Investigate the Death ---May Bring the Whole Circus to Millbrook ---Again Adjourned

Little new light was thrown on the peculiar death of "Con." Schultz, the dog trainer with the Hargrave circus, at the inquest att Millbrook yesterday afternoon. After hearing the evidence of four witnesses Coroner Gray decided to again adjourn the proceedings until to-morrow afternoon at 1 o'clock as the testimony presented was not of a very satisfactory character. The only circumstance in connection with Schultzs death beside the railway tracks brought out in the evidence was that his absence from the car was not reported until Friday morning about 9 o'clock after the circus had arrived in Lindsay. The evidence showed that Schultz and his wife occupied the same apartment in the car, and it appears strange that neither the manager, the conductor nor the brakeman were notified that the man had disappeared.

Coroner Gray was not at all satisfied with the evidence and is determined that he will solve the mystery of the man's strange death, if a solution is at all possible. Besides the testimony of the Millbrook doctor, the evidence of Manager Campbell of the circus, the conductor and two brakemen who were on the train when the fatality occurred was also taken. The coroner has sent a constable to Brampton to serve subpoenas to a couple of the C. P. R. secret service men and to Mrs. Schultz, so that these parties will will probably be at the adjourned inquest to-morrow to tell of the circumstances which occured on the run between Havelock and Lindsay on the eventful night.

The Coroner informed Mr. Campbell yesterday that he must have explanations why so much delay was caused in not reporting the disappearance of the late dog trainer sooner than it was done, and also that he wanted answers to other pertinent questions bearing on the case. If such testimony was not forthcoming he emphatically stated that he would bring back the whole Hargrave circus to the Village of Millbrook.

Doctor's Evidence

Dr. H. A. Turner, of Millbrook, was the first witness called and gave testimony on the appearance of the dead man and the nature of the nature of the wounds inflicted. He discovered a small scalp fracture; a lacerated wound above the right ear; a punctured wound one-half an inch deep behond the upper margin of the ear; a number of blood clots; a contusion above the right eyebrow; a wound on the nose and one on the left cheek and traces of hemorrhage from the ears, nose, and mouth. On the body there were abrasions on the lower part of the back and over the left hip. Two ribs were also fractured. The lungs appeared to be filled with coal dust, but otherwise were normal. He considered the man to be about 60 or 65 years of age.

Testimony of Conductor

Mr. John McGill, the conductor on the circus train, stated that the train left Havelock about 8.55 on Thursday evening and that it arrived in Lindsay about 2.30 on the following morning. He believed that the train passed the spot where the man was killed about 11.30 o'clock. As the train had slackened down east of Peterborough that night, he heard a man yelling to stop the train. He went out with a lantern and found a man with his foot caught in a cattle guard, who told him that he had been shoved off the circus train. He appeared to be about 40 years of age, was clean-shaven, and had the facial disfigurement of a twisted nose. He helped him out of the cattle guard, and also stated that he was intoxicated. He had seen the same man in Lindsay the following morning. He knew of no damage to windows in the train, and had neither seen nor heard any disturbance. In Lindsay he heard the man was missing, but made no inquiries.

Circus Manager

Mr. Wm. Campbell, manager of the circus, was next sworn, and, in addition to the evidence given on Saturday, stated that he had known Schultz for many years and that he had never seen him intoxicated. Before joining the Hargraves circus he had been with the Forepaugh Company. So far as he knew, the deceased and his wife had been on good terms, and stated that they had children in New York. In his opinion he was not a man who would be liable to commit suicide. He gave as the reason for not bringing Schultz's wife to the inquest, that he feared she would drop dead, being a very nervous lady. He also stated that the two slept together in the second car from the caboose, which brought up the rear.

The circus train has no night-watchman, and if a disturbance arose the biggest man in the car usually quelled it. He had no reason to think of foul play, and he considered that Schultz must have walked to the platform of the car for some purpose, and fell off.

The witness identified the dead body, and also the man with the twisted nose, whom, he stated, was Hanson, the black-faced comedian. He did not ask any person about the man who was missing.

Herbert Counahan and Alfred Coulter, two trainmen, also testified, their evidence being of the nature of that of the conductor. The latter stated that the train was running about 20 miles an hour about the time of the suspected crime.

The evidence yesterday ended with these witnesses, and, as stated above, the inquest will be continued to-morrow.

Will Erect New Church In Stewart Settlement

Important Decision Reached in Respect to Holding Services in the Settlement, by Presbyterians

ST. PAUL'S CONCREGATION

A congregational meeting of St. Paul's church was held last night to consider several important matters. There was a good attendance. Rev. Dr. Marsh, interim moderator of session, presided, and conducted the opening devotional exercises, after which business was proceeded with.

It was decided to deed the Knox church property over to that congregation free of charge (except a consideration of $1.00 to make the transfer legal) as soon as Knox church elects trustees. A proposition to ask Knox people to pay to St. Paul's $1,000 for the property, was defeated as it was felt that Knox church had, in view of the rapid growth of that section of the city and the career of usefulness opening out before it, all the financial obligations that it could carry.

To Mortgage St. Paul's

The Presbytery of Peterborough at its last meeting, gave its consent to St. Paul's church to mortgage the church property for a sum not exceeding $5,000. The congregation last night decided to place a mortgage on the property, not to exceed this amount. This sum will cover teh present mortgage indegtedness of over $1,000, and provide for the repairs and renovation of the church building, which will be carried out at once.

A New Church

Rev. Dr. Marsh was appointed a commissioner by the Presbytery to ascertain if St. Paul's had any objection to the organization of a new church in the Stewart settlement in Otonabee.

Mr. Alex. Stewart was present and explained that it was the desire of several families in that locality that regular service should be held every Sunday. Many Presbyterian families do not go to church at all now, the distance to the city being too great and they seriously felt the need of regular service in the settlement.

Rev. Dr. Marsh explained that the organization of a church there would mean the taking away of a few families from St. Paul's Church, a few from St. Andrew's, one or two from Knox, and some from Centreville Commissioners had been appointed by Presbytery to ascertain if these congregations had any objection to raise to the organization of a church at Stewart's settlement, and, so far as he could learn, they had not. He would like to learn the views and interest of St. Paul's Church in the matter so that he could report to Presbytery.

It was decided, after some discussion, to offer no objection to a church being formed and regular service held at Stewart's Settlement, and Dr. Marsh will so report to the Presbytery at its next meeting.

In the meantime, Rev. Mr. McKenzie of Centreville, who has been conducting services in the new hall there every second Sunday, will continue his ministrations.

Pulpit Supply

It was reported that a committee of three members from the session and three from the Board of Managers of St. Paul's church had been appointed a pulpit supply committee and that Rev. Mr. Currie, of Forest, Ont., would occupy the pulpit for the next two weeks. No clergyman preaching with a view to the call to the vacant pastorate of the church will be heard until the holiday season is over, or until early in September.

In the meantime, as St. Paul's has a large number of families, and pending the selection of a successor to Rev. Dr. Torrance, a permanent supply will be obtained to visit the sick, conduct funerals and occupy the pulpit, when men with a view to preaching for a call are not present. Such a man will, in reality, be a temporary pastor. An arrangement such as this is made in many large churches, without a permanent pastor until one is called. St. Paul's will follow this precedent, as it will likely be some months before a choice of a minister is made.

In the meantime a permanent supply will be engaged. The committee have several names under consideration.

Mr. J. C. Shook presided at the meeting and Mr. William Pringle acted as secretary.

The gathering, which was harmonious and enthusiastic throughout, was closed by prayer by Rev. Dr. Marsh.

Man's Features Greatly Altered After Assault

Unknown Commercial Traveller Met With Unlucky Experience at Jackson Park, According to His Story.

CLOTHES SOAKED IN BLOOD

Covered with blood, and with his clothes soaked in blood, an unknown man of about 30 years of age, yesterday evening walked into a local livery barn, and presented a spectacle of a rare character to the proprietor, and the crowd that assembled around. He carried two valises and apparently was a commercial traveller. He told a brief but pitiful story of a brutal assault made upon him near Jackson Park, and from the appearance of his clothes it looked as if it had been committed in the middle of the road. He did not wish to prolong his stay in Peterborough, and was almost too impatient to remain while a horse was being hitched to take him away. From his actions it did not seem probable that he was to blame for the condition of affairs, but he appreciated the fact that his facial appearance and the dusty state of his clothing, was no souvenir to be carrying around the city.

He told the proprietor of the livery barn that he had been out at the park, and that he had been assaulted by a man whom he did not know. He had been accused, he said, of having insulted a young lady, but he denied that he had done so.

The countenance of the injured man was anything but pleasant looking. A large cut was noticeable below the left eye and those who saw it say that it must have been inflicted by a kick from a boot. The left cheek was badly swollen, and in colouur was black and blue. His face and clothes were bathed in blood, intermingled with dust from the roadside. The man did not appear to be intoxicated which makes the assault all the more strange.

When the vehicle was ready, the unknown with difficulty climbed in, and was driven out of the city, possibly to his home, but, if so, his own mother would not recognize him.

LINDSAY ASKS NOW WHO'S NEXT?

Unrest Created in That Town as a Result of the Numerous Arrests Made in Counterfeiting Case

THE LATEST FEATURES

Lindsay, Ont., July 15.—Never in the annals of crime in Victoria County, has a case created more excitement than the present rounding up of the men accused of counterfeiting. The arrests of respectable citizens of several walks of life creates amazement. "Who next" is the question on everybody's lips. First, Charles Burke, the supposed ring leader, thought to have been an unambitious idler; Bouyea, a trusted employe and the head of a grown-up family; Wynn and Logie, well known farmers of advanced years; Eveleigh, a fireman living in Lindsay for four years; Miller, a promising young preseman with a bright future.

Goselin Was a Horse Man

The latest arrest, John Goslin, is the only one of the prisoners with a police court record. He is a well-known horseman, and owns the stallion "Black Mac." He is a widower, with two children, and also a resident of the now notorious "Pumpkin Hollow." In appearance he is a rather insignificant looking man. He always dressed like a typical horseman.

Reception at Lindsay

When he stepped off the train on Saturday night his brother Jim was there to meet him, and wrung his hand. "Hello Jack, old fellow," said a prominent merchant, standing near. Jack turned his head, but could hardly speak. Tears filled his eyes.

Sunday was passed quietly here, but everyone was on the alert for developments. Rumours and counter-rumours spread like wild-fire.

Investigation Postponed

On the arrest of Burke, it was announced that to-day would see the commencement of the preliminary investigation. The further developments in the case have prevented this. It is thought possible, now, that the investigation will go on Thursday, but certainly not before. Mr. G. E. Hopkins has been retained to defend George Miller, and T. E. Weldon will act for Goslin. Both these prisoners deny absolutely all suggestions of complicity. Miller's father is alive. He is a Baptist, and a regular churchgoer. He was popularly known as "Teddy."

Bouyea and Wynn will be here on Wednesday.

WEDDING BELLS.

IRWIN-BRAKENRIDGE

A very quiet wedding was celebrated on Wednesday, July 10, at 9 p.m., at the residence of Rev. H. J. Keith, pastor of the Knox Presbyterian Church, when Miss Annie Brakenridge, youngest daughter of the late William Brackenridge, became the wife of Mr. George C. Irwin. The happy couple were unattended. The bride wore a handsome dress of embroidered net over white silk, and wore a hat to match.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Irwin returned to the home of the bride's parents, at 108 Monaghan road, where a dainty luncheon was served to a few of their immediate friends.

Many presents were received, testifying to the esteem in which both parties are held.

Mr. and Mrs. Irwin will reside on Charlotte street.

NEW PICTURES AT THE PARK

Many People Enjoyed Entertainment There Last Night

The new bill of pictures at Jackson Park should be very popular this week. Judging by the manner in which they were received last night. A very large crowd was at the park and heartily enjoyed the pictures, which are the best of the season. Among the good ones are "The Squatter's Daughter," "The Camera Fiend" and "Fun on Skis." The band will be present to-night, weather permitting.

ADDITIONAL LAND FOR CHURCH

Improvements Affected to Church Property at Springville—The Sheds Are Moved

Additional land has been acquired by the Presbyterian Church at Springville, and, in consequence, the church sheds have been removed to the north and east, giving more room in the churchyard. The men of the church have been busily at work during the past few weeks, and, as a result of their work, a decided improvement has been effected in the appearance and arrangement of the church property.

THE QUAKER PICNIC A SUCCESS

About 400 Took in Excursion to Jackson's Point, on Lake Simcoe

SPORTS WERE FEATURES

Ideal weather accompanied the fifth annual Quaker picnic of the Quaker Oats Company's employees to Jackson Point yesterday and, combined with the enthusiasm displayed by all, placed the event amongst the most successful of the five already held. Beautiful Jackson Point, situated on a bay of Lake Simcoe, was the destination of the picnic, and it proved an attractive spot.

The sports during the afternoon were of course the feature of the stay at the Point, and were considered to be the best which have yet been held. Many also enjoyed themselves at the dancing pavilion, on the grounds, where excellent music was provided by an orchestra composed of employees of the company. A large number went sailing and canoeing on the lake which was not the least of the pleasant ways of enjoying the day at Jackson Point.

The excursion train which left the Grand Trunk station at 8.45 o'clock carried about 400 passengers, and arrived at Lake Simcoe at midday. Returning the train left the Point at 6 o'clock and drew into Peterborough about 9.45.

The feature of the sports was the baseball game between the office and packing departments, the former winning easily by the score of 8 runs to 2, in 6 innings, with an innings to the good. The captains of the teams were F. Heaslip and O. Callander respectively, and both did good work for their teams. Heaslip did the crab work for the winners and was certainly all to the good. The Packers got their two runs in the first innings, and in the fourth and fifth Heaslip retired the others in one, two three order. Patterson was the other half of the battery for the winners. Ferguson pitched for the vanquished and did himself justice, but the support from the field was not very encouraging. Bightmyer acted as back stop very acceptably.

Mr. Douglas Stuart umpired the game and proved himself second to none in that capacity. His decisions were of the "Silk" O'Laughlin calibre and never disputed.

The results of the races were as follows:

Girls' race, 50 yards, for girls under 15 — L Grady, S Hyde, M O'Reilly.

Young ladies' race, 75 yards — Misses V LeGros, M McIntee, and L Grady.

Boys' race, 100 yards — under 15 years — Eman Miller, Jas O'Brien.

Boys' race, 50 yards, boys under 12 years — H Godfrey, W Wallace.

Girls' race, 50 yards, under 12 years — L Murphy, O McMahon.

Girls' race, under 7 years — E Sims, M Walsh.

Boys' race, under 7 years — L Walsh.

Men's race, 100 yards — D Hillier, T Connor.

Ladies' sack race — Miss M Dunsford.

Men's sack race — R Lamond, J E Sullivan.

Special handicap race, 100 yards — T J Grant.

Consolation race, boys — S Sheehy J Doherty and H Gorrie.

Consolation race, ladies — Miss E Miller, Miss G Grady.

The chairman of the sports was Mr. W. H. Denham, the judges being Messrs. R. D. Stuart, A. Miller, and M. J. Kirn.

The committee on Management were Messrs. M. J. Kirn, Geo. Carruthers, O. C. Callander, A. Miller, G. P. Edwards, T. J. Grant, W. Walsh, J. E. Sullivan, E. Pakenham, J. Taylor, F. White and P. Garden.

The committee on Games and Sports was Messrs. T. J. Grant, O. C. Callander and G. P. Edwards.

HAIR TELLS CHARACTER

Color of Hair Said to Indicate a Person's Temperament

Many people believe that blonde, or light hair, denotes affection, and dark hair, constancy. A person without hair is not devoid of character; far from it. The disposition of the average bald-headed man is to show such solicitude for the welfare of others that he neglects himself. A germ causes baldness. Prof. Sabouraud of Paris, France, innoculated a rabbit with dandruff germs, causing it to become totally bald in five weeks' time. To rid the scalp of these dangerous germs it is necessary to apply Newbro's Herpicide.

"Destroy the cause, you remove the effect."

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Two sizes—50 cents and $1. McDermid & Jury, Special Agents.

THE TATE OPTICAL CO.
PETERBORO.

Practically during my whole life (prior to June 1905) I was troubled with terrible pains in my head which I attributed to violent attacks of neuralgia. I tried innumerable headache and neuralgic preparations, but without obtaining the slightest relief. The suffering I endured for a year or more previous to the time I consulted you is indescribable. At times I became delirious through the intense pain, and was obliged to call in a local Physician. Many times morphine was administered to allay the terrible suffering I was undergoing, but this did not give me the slightest relief. A friend advised me to consult your Mr. Babcock, I did so and found out from you that I was suffering from muscular nervous asthenopia, caused by astigmatism. It was remarkable the relief I obtained after the treatment I received, and the wearing of the glasses you prescribed and made for me, since that time I have experienced no difficulty with my eyes, nor have I suffered the slightest return of the old trouble. I cannot help but attribute the ill health and suffering I experienced as being due to the trouble in my eyes before consulting you. I feel very grateful indeed for the interest taken in my case, as I had almost despaired of ever getting any relief. I might also say I consulted opticians in Lindsay and Toronto in reference to my trouble, but obtained no relief. I desire to again express my sincere gratitude to you for the trouble taken in my case, as well as the wonderful care effected. Yours sincerely

Mixed and taken in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime, is pronounced by a prominent physician to be the best mixture for the cure of the kidney, bladder, and all urinary troubles.

This says the doctor, is the most simple though remarkable prescription ever written to cleanse the system of impurities and waste matter. It acts as a powerful tonic to the kidneys, forcing them to filter out the acids and poisons, overcoming rheumatism, lame back, sciatica and other afflictions arising from sour, impure blood.

The ingredients can be procured at any good drug store, and being purely vegetable and entirely harmless, can easily be mixed at home.

If you have a suffering friend show this to him, as he will undoubtedly be pleased to learn of so simple and highly recommended a remedy.

MAN'S TONGUE SLIT BY THE BURGLARS

Faithful Servant Barbarously Treated By Burglars.

REFUSED TO GIVE UP KEYS

Buffalo Coachman Horribly Tortured and Left For Dead—Tongue Was Slit With Knives and Feet Gashed—Then Thrown Down Stairs—Assailants Escaped But One Has Now Been Arrested.

Buffalo, July 16.—Because he would not deliver to two burglars the keys of his employer's house, Frank Smith, 45 years old, a coachman in the employ of John Gehm, a wholesale meat dealer, was horribly tortured Sunday morning and left for dead by his assailants.

Smith slept in a room above the barn at the rear of Gehm's house. He was awakened shortly after midnight by two masked men, who demanded the keys of the house. Smith refused to give them up and the burglars then began a series of revolting tortures.

Smith's tongue was slit with a knife and the soles of his feet were slashed in a score of places until he became unconscious. The man then threw Smith down the stairs, where he was found the next morning.

The matter was kept a secret by the police until yesterday, when one arrest was made. The prisoner gives his name as Taylor.

EAGER TO KISS RELIC.

Crowds Fight to Get Near Famous Ikon at St. Petersburg.

St. Petersburg, July 16.—The arrival of the famous Ikon of the Resurrection, brought from Palestine by the Patriarch of Jerusalem for presentation to the Emperor, was made the occasion of a remarkable anti-revolution demonstration.

It was borne along Nesny Prospect, in procession by a dozen bishops. A long train of ecclesiastics followed, and there were several hundred people in the cortege. The Ikon was guarded by squadrons of Cossacks, and was deposited in Kazan Cathedral, the Metropolitan of St. Petersburg officiating.

There were no disorders, but the moving shrine was besieged in its passage by crowds of devotees, who fought for a chance to kiss the Ikon. Many persons fainted. Subsequently a great mass meeting was held, and was addressed by reactionary leaders, including Dr. Drubovin, president of the League of Russian People, and Prince Volkonsky, who, in violent language, denounced the second Douma, and called upon his hearers to register a vow that not a single Jew be allowed to enter the portals of the third Douma.

The vow was taken amid great enthusiasm.

LINDSAY LOSING INTEREST.

Alleged Counterfeiting Case Thought to Be Greatly Exaggerated.

Lindsay, July 16.—Charles Burke was remanded yesterday morning until Monday next. He did not appear in court, the formality being gone through in the jail by Magistrate Jackson. None of the other prisoners appeared.

Interest in the case is waning somewhat. The wholesale "shoving of the queer," alleged by the officers, is now thought to be exaggerated. The detectives still assume a mysterious air and speak of startling revelations to come, but the consensus of opinion is that the case is practically closed. The man who made the plates said to be a resident in Toronto, is wanted, but he has got across the border.

The suspicion cast on Lindsay men who went west, has developed nothing. The Soo prisoners, Wynn and Boyeau, will be brought home Wednesday, and Eveleigh will come from Montreal Thursday or Friday.

They will all be remanded until Monday next, when the preliminary investigation will be held.

Killed Between Cars.

Chatham, July 16.—J. Saunders, aged 40, an employe of the Wallaceburg Sugar Refinery, was killed yesterday while engaged in uncoupling Pere Marquette freight cars in the factory grounds.

He was on the end of a car when the engine stopped suddenly, and then started, hurling him between two cars. His body was cut in two.

Powder Explodes On Battleship Georgia With Fatal Results.

FIFTEEN SEVERELY INJURED

Three May Die From Wounds—Spark From Smokestack Set Fire to Powder—Men Were Engaged at Target Practice—Gun Crew In Turret Had No Chance—The Vessel Escaped Without Damage.

Boston, Mass., July 16.—By the explosion of a case of powder in the hands of a gunner in the after superimposed turret of the battleship Georgia, in Massachusetts Bay yesterday, six men were killed and 15 injured. Not one of those in the turret escaped injury.

Three of the injured, Lieut. Goodrich and Seamen Fair and Walsh, were in a very critical condition when brought to the hospital here, and it was announced that their injuries were probably fatal.

Lieut. Goodrich has undoubtedly lost the sight of both eyes and is horribly burned.

Lieut. Goodrich and Seaman Mallick jumped overboard immediately after the explosion, to end their terrible sufferings apparently. Both were quickly rescued by uninjured comrades.

The accident happened while the Georgia was several miles off Provincetown, engaged in target practice with other vessels of the battleship squadron of the Atlantic fleet.

The powder had just been taken from the ammunition hoist to load an eight-inch gun.

It was seen at once it was burning and in an instant it exploded in the very face of the gunloader.

As the powder was unconfined, it caused no damage to the ship, but fire and heat, together with the concussion, caused injury to every person in the turret at the time. The theory of naval men here is that the powder became ignited from a spark from the smokestack of the battleship.

No damage was done to the vessel, because the powder was not confined, and early yesterday morning, under orders from Washington, the Georgia sailed to the target grounds off Provincetown.

Directly after the accident the Georgia headed for the Charleston navy yard. There the dead and injured were taken ashore. The wounded were conveyed to the naval hospital at Chelsea.

The second division of the Atlantic fleet has been at target practice off Provincetown for the last three weeks.

She is one of the newest battleships of the navy, having been in commission only about ten months. She is commanded by Capt. Henry McRea.

BARTELS AGAIN CAPTURED.

Wealthy Brewer Who Escaped From Osgoode Hall Is Re-Arrested.

Toronto, July 16.—While brushing his teeth in a house in McMillan street yesterday afternoon Herman Bartels, the wealthy Syracuse brewer, was taken into custody by Detectives Robert Moffatt and Ben Anderson. Bartels, under the name of Barnes, had a flat in the house on July 9 and had not since been out on the street. He was unshaven and looked worried and sick.

He is lodged in No. 3 police station with a special guard standing watch over him, as the detectives fear he will attempt suicide.

The story of his flight from Osgoode Hall at noon July 4, and of his movements since that time, as supplied by himself and the information in the hands of the detectives, while incomplete, is one of alternate bold dashes in the open and periods of hiding.

When taken into custody Bartels could only gasp and the detectives feared that he would collapse. He begged to be taken to headquarters in a cab, and his request was granted.

At the detective office he was searched and $25 was found in his pockets. A suitcase was his only baggage, and it was searched.

A further search of Bartels person disclosed, cunningly sewn into the lining of his vest, a draft drawn June 14 by the National City Bank, 52 Wall street, New York, on the Dominion Bank here in favor of Amale Bauer for $650. In addition to this two American treasury $100 notes were found and a Providence National and Gloucester National Bank note, each of $100 denomination, together with four $20 treasury notes, making $1,158 in all.

He had in addition in his room a new suit of clothes.

Makes His Will.

Bartels was allowed an interview with Norman Sommerville, his solicitor, who later saw him in No. 3 police station. There he drew Bartels' will, but on communication with Inspector Duncan permission for Bartels to sign the document was refused.

H. H. Dewart, K. C., will appear for Bartels in police court this morning, when he is arraigned on the warrant of Provincial Chief Mains, charging him with escaping from legal custody.

Business Men Arrested.

Montreal, July 16.—Montreal creditors of the Ideal Manufacturing Co. of Sorel have caused the arrest of Aristed Prudhomme and Samuel N. Pearson, alleging that concern did not exist for the purpose of manufacturing, but for the purpose of defrauding its creditors. The company became insolvent in April, with liabilities of $35,000 and assets of $1,300. Wholesale merchants in Montreal are interested to the extent of $13,000.

Gave Cows Paris Green.

Belleville, July 16.—Robert Cowen, an elderly man, residing in the Township of Bangor, in the northern part of Hastings County, is in jail here charged with poisoning cattle belonging to his neighbor, Joseph Lang. The latter had a cow and two steers killed by eating paris green and it is alleged that Cowen placed the poison where the cattle were feeding.

RED ROSE TEA

The Name Guarantees the Quality

Do you want to be sure of getting the same quality of tea every time you buy? Not good one time and poor the next, but always good, always that rich pungent flavor which is so delightful.

If you do, ask your grocer to send you a package the same as the one above. After you use Red Rose Tea once, you will buy again and you will always find the quality the same.

Depredations on Farmers.

Berlin, July 16.—James Bunyan, aged 30, whose home is at Roseville, is lodged in Berlin jail charged with committing a series of depredations which have kept farmers in the vicinity in a state of worry during the past few weeks. Horses and cattle have been maltreated and numerous implements stolen.

Bunyan's mind is believed to be unbalanced.

The offences charged against him are killing and mutilating cattle, twitching horses and committing various outrages on buildings and crops.

Destructive Forest Fires.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 16.—Reports yesterday from every direction tell of forest fires.

A report from Raber says that the camps of the Mud Lake Lumber Co. have been destroyed, as well as several farm houses. Flames swept across Mayfields, driving all before them.

Much live stock is reported to be lost.

Colored Nuns.

Rome, July 16.—The form of organization and statutes for the sisterhood of negroes and Indians, organized by Miss Catherine Drexel of Philadelphia, have been approved and authorized by the Pope.

Drowned While Bathing.

Kingston, July 16.—A. G. Bryant, of Kingston, while in bathing at Plevna, was attacked with heart failure and died before he could be taken ashore. He was aged 28.

"WAG" SHIVERED FOR FEAR

Another Complaint From Newmarket In Regard to Saturday's Game

AN ABSURD LETTER

Some one who has evidently lost about two bits on Saturday's game, has been writing to The Toronto World as follows:

"Last year I wrote a communication to one of the city papers calling attention to the uncalled-for roughness in a lacrosse game where the referee allowed deliberate fouling. The editor was evidently not interested in clean sport, and the communication found its way to the waste paper basket.

"On Saturday last at Peterborough was another exhibition of brutality and discourtesy to a visiting team. Newmarket scored the first goal, and then the Peterborough defence began to rough it, cutting and slashing in most deliberate fashion.

"In the last quarter particularly the game degenerated into a 'butchery.' One of the Newmarket home, a most courteous and gentlemanly player, had several of a fine set of teeth knocked from his jaw when he was examining a wounded thumb, and the ball nowhere near him. The blow was a most cowardly one, and no penalty was given.

"The Peterborough players boasted that they would either win the game or kill their opponents. The referee shivered with fear during the whole progress of the match.

"I am not in any way particularly interested in the Newmarket team, but am simply an onlooker, who dearly loves to see our national game played in a courteous manner.

"Let the referees be men like Charlie Querrie, Jimmy Murphy, Eadie Baker, Jack Kelly, or our respected but absent Jack Kearns; otherwise respectable citizens will soon remain at home."

A more absurd letter has never been published in the press, and the statements are simply a mass of lies. The Peterborough team are accused of brutality and discourtesy. They might have committed a breach of etiquette in not letting Newmarket's expensive aggregation of amateurs win the game, but any fair-minded man who saw the game knows that there was no rough work to speak of. The statement that the referee shivered with fear, is enough to make an Indian laugh. Anyone who knows Waghorne—and who doesn't?—knows that he would be master of the situation at all times. Whenever an offence was committed the offender went off, and a five minute sentence was the least handed out.

The last quarter was a "butchery" because one man was accidentally hurt. The player in question was caught between two Peterborough defence men while carrying the ball, and the three went down in a heap, the Newmarket man being injured in the fall. No blow was struck at him as intimated, and the ball was certainly there when he was hurt.

"Respectable citizens will soon remain at home," the writer remarks, and certainly citizens with such eye-sight as Anti-Slugger should remain at home, or consult an eye-doctor.

SUMMER COMPLAINT.

One of the Commonest and Most Dangerous of Diseases.

Everyone Should be Prepared for it with a Bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry.

Very few people escape an attack of Summer Complaint. It may be slight, or it may be severe, but nearly everyone is liable to it.

You cannot tell, when it seizes on you, how it may end.

Let it go for a day or two only, and see how weak and prostrated it will leave you.

There is only one safe way to cure it and that is by DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY. It has been on the market for sixty-two years and has been proved and tried so you are not experimenting when you buy it.

Do not accept a substitute or imitation, as many of these are positively dangerous to life and health. Insist on having DR. FOWLER'S.

Mrs. Norman H. Eisau, Ship Harbor N.S., writes: "Last summer my baby was very bad with Summer Complaint. I tried most everything for him, but nothing seemed to help. One day a neighbor called in and told me to try DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY, so I got a bottle and after a few doses my baby was cured. I shall always keep it in the house."

OSHAWA WILL BE HERE ON SATURDAY

Meet Locals in a Midland League Ball Game

There will be a good ball game at Riverside Park on Saturday, when the Oshawa team, who defeated the locals last week, will again try conclusions with them. Peterborough must win the game to be in the running for the championship, and, as Oshawa will be strengthened for the occasion, the game should be one of the best of the season. It is likely that Phelan, the star Toronto twirler, will be on the slab for Oshawa, and if so, the locals will have to extend themselves to win. In any event, the fans will see a good exhibition of baseball.

LACROSSE

The locals' next game is on August 5 with Young Torontos. Peterborough still has a chance for the honours, and are going to make the most of their opportunities.

WANTED A GAME.

There is a celebration in Bracebridge to-morrow, and the Peterborough lacrosse team has been invited to play an exhibition game with the locals. A lacrosse match with Oshawa was to have been one of the features, but Oshawa had notified the management that they would not be on hand. Peterborough was unable to get a team together on such short notice and had to decline the offer.

TENNIS

The members of St. John's Anglican Young People's Association Tennis Club are reminded of the meeting which will be held at the Oval to-night at the conclusion of play. Business of importance will come up, and every member is asked to be present.

CORRESPONDENCE

ST. JOHN'S RECTORY

To the Editor of the Examiner,

Sir, — I have read with astonishment, you article in last night's issue on the above subject. It is not only utterly misleading (of which you would be unaware), but it deals with a domestic matter pertaining to St. John's congregation, and one which is still in the committee stage and, therefore, entirely private.

I am not accordingly able to go into the matter at present, but it is necessary to say that your statement that "the Rector desires the building to be erected on the brow of the hill, cutting away the pines," is wholly untrue.

Into the other supposed details of the case, I am not able to enter for the above reason, but in regard to your concluding paragraph, allow me to point out that there cannot possibly be in Peterborough any one individual, or group of individuals, who have as much interest — if not responsibility — in maintaining the beauty of St. John's grounds, as that which falls to me, and to which I, with all my heart, shall give myself in the future, as I have done undeviatingly in the past.

The preservation of St. John's grounds, does not yet need the guardianship of either the Press or the Public. It can safely be left to those to whom it belongs.

The project which I did suggest to my congregation, some considerable time ago, would, I considered (rightly or wrongly) have added materially to the beauty of the grounds. But the location was not the one you picture, with such dire suggestiveness. However, as the suggestion did not meet with approval, it was voluntarily, and publicly, withdrawn, and has not been, for some time, a subject of consideration.

Your reporter has been led to imagine the presence of grave "trouble" over this matter, which is information to me, though it is by just such ignoble means as this, that trouble is stirred up, whether in a congregation or a community. For my part, I do not fear it.

The choosing of a site, in which many individuals are concerned, is, necessarily difficult, as we have already seen in other instances in this city. In this particular case, the difficulties are of a peculiar and private nature, and such as require considerable time for adjustment, and in due season they will be, I am sure, satisfactorily settled. In so far as I know there has been no proposition to build this year, which increases my surprise at the appearance of your article.

Yours, etc.,
J. C. DAVIDSON.

In reference to the above letter, and in explanation of the item published, to which it is a reply, the Examiner was informed that the Rector desired the new Rectory building erected directly east of the church, which, it was stated, would mar the beauty of the grounds. Outside of this circumstance of course, the public has no interest in the matter, and that the committee will place the building on a site which will preserve the beauty of the grounds, of which Peterborough people are justly proud, the Examiner has no doubt. That there should have been differences of opinion on a matter of this kind, is perhaps, natural, and the Examiner is informed that these differences have existed, but doubtless a solution which will be satisfactory to all the interests concerned, will be reached, and the Rectory will not be erected upon the site first selected, and rejected by the committee. Sometimes the guardianship of the Press is beneficial to the best interests of the community, whether the interests of the individual are concerned or not, therefore the Press will go on in the even tenor of its way, though sometimes meeting with disapproval. The facts published by the Examiner were, and are, practically correct.

OBITUARY.

GEORGE VANZANT

As a result of injuries received in an accident while at work in a cellar, Mr. George VanZant passed away at the Western Hospital, Toronto, on Sunday evening. The deceased, the Examiner is informed, was a former resident of Peterborough, and it will be remembered that his house at 132 Lansdowne street was completely burned some time ago. The late George VanZant was 38 years of age. According to the notice in the Toronto Globe, his funeral was held yesterday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock from his late residence, 725 Manning avenue. Interment took place at Pefferlaw on the arrival of the 4.30 train from Toronto.

An Interesting Meeting

At the meeting of the Epworth League of the Mark street Methodist church last night, the topic was taken by Miss Howson, and it was dealt with in an interesting manner. Musical numbers were given by members of the League, and were much enjoyed. There was a good attendance of young people.

A Good Opening

"We would call attention to the fact that there are a few good openings for bright young ladies and men at the Weston Shoe Company, Campbellford. Those who are desirous of learning a trade cannot do better, as shoe-making is a standard industry, and shoes are worn and have to be made whether times are good or bad."

Preliminary Steps Towards Establishing Street Delivery

Assistant Deputy Postmaster-General Writes to the Mayor Asking for Information Concerning Streets.

MUST BE LABELLED

The Mayor has received a letter from Mr. E. A. Leachinger, assistant deputy postmaster-general, in connection with the free postal delivery service, which it is proposed to establish in Peterborough. The letter reads as follows:—"In connection with the proposed extension of the letter-carrier delivery system to the city of Peterborough, I beg to inquire whether the streets are labelled at intersecting points and the houses numbered. Unless this is done, it will not be possible to put the letter-carrier delivery system in operation. I would be glad, therefore, to hear from you in regard to the matter."

The letter will be replied to by the Mayor and the matter will be taken up by the Council. The labelling of the streets is something that certainly requires looking after, whether there is a mail-carrier service or not. In many parts of the city the streets are not labelled, a fact that has been unfavourably commented upon by many strangers. The numbering of the houses is also done in such an unsystematic, slovenly fashion that in many places it is practically useless. The Council should see that these defects are remedied, especially in view of the letter just received from the Post Office Department.

CEREAL PRODUCTS ORDERS MAKE INCREASE IN STAFF NECESSARY

The business of the Quaker Oats Company is increasing to such an extent that to-day an advertisement has been inserted, calling for 40 additional girls for work in the package department of the mills here. It is understood that there has been a very remarkable increase in the demand for the package goods of the Company, the introduction of the new food, "Quaker Wheat Berries" having been followed by a regular avalanche of orders for that food, and the result is that the staff formerly employed was not sufficiently large to handle the orders coming in, and it has been found necessary to increase the number of employees materially. It is stated, too, that not only is activity being experienced in the package department, but in the matter of bulk goods and in the flour mill the orders are coming in rapidly, and taken altogether the Company is experiencing a season of unusual and unprecedented activity.

A DISGUSTING CASE AT POLICE COURT

Police Quickly Nipped in the Bud Licentious Actions of Four People

The residents of Parnell street, in the neighbourhood of No. 24, related a tale of the misdoings of Mrs. J. Dancy, Annie Whittaker, Wellington Cannon and Harry Thompson, at the police court this morning. These four persons were charged with being keepers of a house of ill-fame, and from the evidence of some of the gentlemen who live on the street, their actions have been scandulous, and the place has become a veritable nuisance.

Considerable evidence was taken, but it all went to show that within the past month or six weeks, the house has gained the name of being one of ill-repute.

P. C. Newhall's evidence was very damaging to the four prisoners, as he had closely shadowed the house every night last week, and had strong evidence for each time he was on duty. On Friday night the house was raided by the police, with the result that all four inmates were arrested.

rM. Gordon and Mr. Hatton appeared for the defence.

His Worship reserved judgment until to-morrow.

LITERARY MEETING IN THE LEAGUE

Interesting and Instructive Programme Presented at the Charlotte Street Epworth League Last Night

An interesting programme was that provided by the Literary Committee of the Charlotte Street Epworth League last night, when the meeting was under the direction of the convenor of that committee. A pleasant feature was the fact that a former president of the League, Mr. H. J. Latimer, occupied the chair. A short but pleasing musical programme was given, piano and vocal solos being contributed by Miss McCaw and Miss Olive Howell. The literary contribution to the programme was a paper given by Miss Frances Manning, convenor of that department, on "Wherein was Moses' Greatness?" A helpful discussion followed the reading of the paper.

YOUNG GIRL SEVERELY REPRIMANDED YESTERDAY

Magistrate Dumble Had Cause to Give Her Good Advice

The young girl, Kate VanNorman, who was remanded yesterday morning for trial in the afternoon, came up before His Worship Magistrate Dumble at the Police Court in the afternoon. Mr. VanNorman, the girl's father, was present, and was much disturbed over the affair. P. C. Mehirry found the girl on Sunday evening in the vicinity of Mervin's tutoier shop on Aylmer street. She did not give a satisfactory account of her actions to the officer, and was taken into custody. She had been in company with a number of young men, who disappeared when the constable came along.

Magistrate Dumble gave the girl some good advice and said that a repetition of the affair would mean a term in the Mercer Reformatory.

Dead Body Found In Cabin In The Heart Of Belmont Forest

Startling Discovery by the Young Brother of George Armstrong, Not Far From Havelock—Poisons in Adjacent Rooms.

CAUSE IS YET UNKNOWN

Log Cabin Was Unoccupied for Many Years — The Former Home of Deceased—Inquest on Monday.

Special Staff Correspondent.

Havelock, July 17. — In a lonely log cabin in the heart of Belmont, George Armstrong, a native of the township, was found dead on Monday evening, about 5 o'clock, after a whole day's diligent searching. His lifeless form was first discovered by his younger half-brother, reclining, as if in sleep, in a corner of the front room, in the cabin. In the adjoining and only other room of the ancient dwelling, which has been unoccupied for many years, was found a half-pound package of Paris green, with several spoonsful of the powder missing, and also an empty bottle of aconite poison. Although these conditions apparently point to suicide, on the part of the deceased man, the authorities here are rather inclined to believe that the cause is of a more serious nature, and investigations are being made.

From the appearance of the dead man, the position in which the body was discovered, and from the past history of his uneventful life, there is little reason to believe that the mysterious death resulted from suicide by poison. Other indications, however, point to the supposition that Armstrong's life was aided by the deadly poisons found in the room but a few yards distant from where his lifeless body was stretched. The authorities here, therefore have reasons for doubt, and this morning on the advice of Coroner Gray a post mortem examination was held in the old cabin. While the coroner was here yesterday a jury was empannelled, but the inquest was adjourned until Monday next.

A Sudden Surprise

The story of the man's death is a peculiar one and the finding of the body in the cabin came as a sudden surprise to the family and the acquaintances of the deceased. Armstrong was the oldest son of Mr. Thomas Armstrong, a respected farmer of about 70 years, residing on the road to Blairton, between four and five miles from this village. Some years ago he lived in the same log dwelling where his son was discovered but as times got better he moved close to the main road, where he had built a frame house of respectable proportions for himself and family. The mother of the deceased has been dead for a number of years, but his father repeated the marriage vows, and a step-mother now governs the duties of the house. George Armstrong was the only child to the first marriage. At his death he was 40 years of age.

Story of Disappearance

The first intimation of the disappearance of the man was on Sunday evening when he did not return home to supper as usual. He was

FIVE DEATHS IN ONE DAY ARE REPORTED FROM NEAR HAVELOCK

The hand of death fell heavily upon Havelock and vicinity during the past couple of days and no less than five deaths has occurred there in that short space of time. Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Joseph Harrison an old lady who had almost reached the century mark, passed away from old age. The deceased was 96 years of age and has resided in the west end of Havelock about 20 years. On Monday night Mrs. Jas. Mack, who lived near Blairton, died after a two years' illness from tuberculosis. The funeral took place to-day to the Maple Grove Cemetery.

Two of the other deaths were Mrs. Caverly, of Havelock, and Mrs. Edward Carr, about two miles from the village. The fifth was George Armstrong, who was found dead on Monday night in a log cabin in the heart of a forest between Havelock and Blairton, the report of which will be seen in another column.

OLD RESIDENT OF COUNTY DEAD

Mr. Robt. Tudhope, of Birdsall, Has Passed Away—Well Known in the District

DIED ON SUNDAY LAST

The friends, relatives and neighbours of Birdsall's Station, were shocked on Sunday, the 14th inst., to learn that during the night Robert Tudhope had passed away. Deceased had been suffering for some months from consumption, and, although all medical and careful aid was given, death claimed its victim. He was in his 57th year and was born in Canada. Some years ago he married Miss J. Stuart, who, with three small children, have the sympathy of a large circle of friends and relatives.

The funeral services at the house and grave were conducted by Rev. D. A. Thompson of Hastings Presbyterian Church, of which deceased was a regular attendant. Rev. D. D. McDonald of Keene assisted Rev. Mr. Thompson. Four sisters also survive. They are Mrs. H. Davidson of Birdsall, Mrs. S. Fraser of Alberta, Mrs. Williamson of Percy township, and Miss Tudhope of Hastings.

In politics the deceased was a Liberal.

The late Robert Tudhope was widely known in the vicinity of Birdsall's. He had for some years been sole agent for the Farmers' Co-operative Binder Twine Company of Brantford, also of the People's Salt Company of Kincardine. He was for the past two years salesman of Westwood and Villiers cheese factories.

The funeral on Monday afternoon to Westwood cemetery was attended by a large number of friends and relatives, evidencing the respect to a much beloved friend and neighbour.

BRIDGE ON REID STREET COMPLETED

Work Finished Last Night—Will be Opened in Few Days

The bridge on Reid street, across the creek, in the vicinity of Wm. Hamilton's foundry, was finished yesterday under the direction of Street Commissioner Ewing. To-day a number of men were at work cleaning up around the structure, and already half is ready for traffic. The Commissioner states that the whole bridge will be opened in a few days.

TWO BODIES FOUND IN RUINS

Remains of Mr. Long and Mr. Hamilton Were Found in Wrecked Store at London This Morning

WERE TERRIBLY DISFIGURED

London, Ont., July 17.—The bodies of Messrs. Hamilton and Long have been removed from the wreckage of Reid & Co's store, after one of the most memorable struggles ever fought by human hands.

The remains of Mr. Long were extricated with difficulty shortly after 3.30 this morning. The head had been terribly crushed and the body was recognized only by rings on the fingers. Mr. Hamilton's body also was found early this morning.

It was stated this morning that it had been discovered that the bodies of three young women still remain in the wreckage, but this report could not be confirmed. This would have brought the number of these still missing, up to five. The patients at the hospital are all doing as well as could be expected, but the physicians in attendance say there is danger of reaction from the severe shock.

FALSE ALARM SENT INTO FIRE STATION

Brainless Youths Again Atempt This Old Time Joke

Some of the boys again worked old stale joke of sending in a fire alarm when no fire existed, last night, and gave the firemen an unnecessary run. Alarm box number 35 at the corner of Hunter and Park streets, was the spot where the brainless youths got in their work. The alarm rang about 11 o'clock and the firemen were promptly on the spot a few minutes later.

Home He Finds Not As Expected

He had not been home since he left it to make his own way in the world, and departed with his few belongings for "the west," which might have meant then any place between Detroit and the California gold fields—the Canadian west being unknown—and it was so many years ago that he does not tell you how long it is since that May morning, when, with a heavy heart—but a stout one—he got up in the grey dawn and left his home, because—well, he hardly knew himself, except that he wanted to get away and do something in the world of which he then knew but little.

He came back a few days ago, but the place was not the same. No, indeed. His mother wasn't here. That in itself was enough to spoil the home-coming for him, though there were others—friends of his boyhood days who welcomed him, and congratulated him on his success, for he had made money and was rich—was what we call a successful man. Men like he are generally successful. Industry — a trait he developed on the farm, and honesty, without which no one can be a real success, and best of all, a big heart, that made those he came into contact with like him, were qualities contributory to his success. But he came back hoping to find the old place—changed, of course—but nearly the same as he knew it, and he was disappointed. His success, in a material sense had not killed his love for the old home, but the home he knew was gone. The cottage organ—the one with the asthmatic wheeze, which his mother used to play on in the evening, had given place to an upright piano and an automatic piano player, that his little niece—the child of his brother, who after he went away, got the farm—ran in and rattled off a tune on between her croquet.

His home was gone, and after a few miserable days he went off again to his business, and to the memory that he would never again find the home he left as a lad. His mother and the cottage organ—both gone.

Toronto, July 17.—Word was received at the meeting of the leather workers on horse goods, at Labor Temple last night of the suspension of Jacob G. Huber of Kansas City, the International president of the organization, for unsatisfactory conduct. Mr. Huber will be given an opportunity to defend his action, and, in the meantime, Mr. Edward J. Baker of New York, the first vice-president, will perform the presidential duties. All the other officers will be promoted one step forward.

Strike in Peterborough

It was reported that though the strike of some 29 members of the organization in a shop in Peterborough had lasted for 12 weeks, no satisfactory settlement thereof had been obtained. The employer offered them the increase they wanted, but on the condition that they should abandon the union, and this they refused to do. Strike pay was still forthcoming from the International Union at the rate of $7 and $5 a week for married and single members, respectively, and strikers were assured that this support to the end of the struggle. Most of the 29 men who left the shop had secured other positions.

DEAD BODY FOUND IN CABIN IN HEART OF THE BELMONT WOODS

last seen by his younger brother out in the field picking and eating wild strawberries. As he did not return during the night the surrounding country was searched, the following day with no results.

At five o'clock on the evening of Monday his younger brother, who is yet in his teens, chanced into the old log cabin, and to his horror his gaze met the spectacle of the dead body in the corner. Dr Crawford of this village was notified as soon as possible of the fatality and reached the old house later in the evening, where he viewed the remains.

The log cabin is situated about a mile from the main thoroughfare, known as the Norwood road, as it leads directly to that village. The nearest dwelling is also more than a mile distant, so that the man, if he did commit suicide, could not have chosen a more lonesome and unpopulated spot in that district. Or if foul play was exercised, and there are suspicions of the same, the depredator of the deed could not have selected any better surroundings.

The Doctor's Story

Dr. Crawford, when seen by the Examiner reporter at his office last night, related in detail the facts of the case so far as he was concerned. He arrived on the scene of the fatality about 9 o'clock Monday evening and saw Armstrong's lifeless body lying in the corner of the front room. His back and head rested against the wall, so that he was almost in a sitting posture. His clothing and boots were on and he wore his hat slightly tilted over his eyebrow. There was no furniture in the room. One of his hands and also his face were slightly blackened, but whether from violence or from the effects of poison it is not known. The man had apparently died easily, as there was not the slightest indication of a struggle from the quiet manner in which he lay. The usual effects of paris green poison are of a painful character, and much distortion of the body is caused. Even the legs of the man were crossed and his arms folded, and his whole appearance would lend the impression that he merely lay there in the corner of the lonesome cabin in a tranquil sleep.

The Poison Found

After viewing the remains in the front room, Dr. Crawford found, as he had been informed, a half-pound package of paris green on the floor of the other apartment of the house. From the contents there had apparently been three or four spoonfuls taken, and the poison still remained in the powder.

Close beside it stood an empty bottle which had contained aconite. It was stated by the man's parents that he must have gotten that from the house, and which, when they had last observed, was almost full. The father had used it on his cattle. Also on the floor of this apartment the doctor noticed signs of paris green and strawberries, which he may have ejected from his stomach. Dr. Crawford was accompanied on his trip of inspection by Mr. Mathison, J. P., of Havelock.

Yesterday morning he notified Coroner Gray of the condition of affairs, and the latter, although at first not deeming an inquest necessary, came down on the noon train, and, accompanied by County Constable Williams, drove out to where the deceased lay.

Jury Empannelled

Yesterday afternoon a jury was summoned, and the inquest was begun in the cabin, when Dr. Crawford gave his testimony somewhat similar to the above. This morning a post-mortem examination was held on the body, Drs. Crawford and Kindred conducting it. The inquest was adjourned until next Monday, when all the evidence available will be presented before the jury. The latter consists of the following Belmont men:—Jno. Sexsmith, Foreman; Fred Toms, Frank Toms, W. R. Warren, John Seabrook, Jason Roe, Fred Taylor, Albert Keene, Jno. Spinks, Emmanuel Stevens, Jas. Seabrook, Antony Seabrook and David McQuaig.

Constable Williams, as stated above, drove out to the house yesterday afternoon and related much the same story as that of Dr. Crawford. In his opinion, the man died very easily, according to his posture. No arrests have yet been made, as this will depend solely on the outcome of the inquest.

Family of Deceased

The cabin in which the body was found and where the deceased was born, is estimated to be over half a century old. It has now been vacant for a good many years, and probably will be for a good many more. The family lived there, a mile from the main road, until the father erected the frame building, where they now reside. Mr. Armstrong, Sr., although past the three score and ten age, is yet rather active. He has been living in fairly good circumstances in recent years, so that if suicide was committed it could not have been the result of poverty.

So far as the neighbours knew, the family lived on good terms, and nothing can suggest itself to the father why his son should take his own life, if he did. It was particularly on account of these circumstances that an inquest was decided upon to set aside all doubts.

There is a rumour going around the village here that some two years ago the father raised objections to his son's alleged laziness but if this is true, he has not been known to mention it in later years. The whole story seems yet to be enveloped in a mysterious cloud, the partial solution of which will undoubtedly be in the issue of the post-mortem and inquest.

A Quiet Disposition

The deceased was about 42 years of age and was unmarried. His quiet, reticent disposition kept him apart from acquaintances and society, so that there were none who understood his character and the exact nature of his mind. Fairly tall in stature, he was not a stout man, had a dark complexion and was clean-shaven, with the exception of a slight moustache. He was not known to visit the village very frequently, although he was here on Circus Day and also on the Twelfth of July. On Saturday, before his disappearance, he sprayed some potatoes with paris green at his father's farm, but recently he had been working for Mr. Fred Taylor, a nearby farmer.

He was a Presbyterian in religion, but did not attend church very regularly, so far as can be learned. He was not, however, addicted to the use of strong drink.

The funeral was held this morning from the old log house to a cemetery east of Havelock village.

HORSE CRASHED INTO FENCE

And Rider Was Thrown—Exciting Race Track Episode

There came near to being a serious accident at the driving park on Monday when the local horses were working out in preparation for the race meeting to be held on August 12 and 13. The running horse, Marious Carious, owned by Mr. S. Duncan, and trained by Mr. J. Gibson, was being worked out, and bolted with his rider, G. Cairns. The animal turned into the fence and Cairns was thrown off with considerable force. Fortunately he escaped without serious injury, although badly shaken up. The horse was not injured.

CHARLOTTE STREET NEW BRIDGE

Steel Structure to Be Erected Over the Creek Within a Month's Time

WORK BEGUN THIS MORNING

This morning Street Commissioner Evans placed a number of men at work on tearing down the ancient wooden bridge across the creek on Charlotte street. At last the city is going to be accommodated by a steel structure which will probably be erected in position some time during August. Last autumn the contract for the steel work was let to Hill & Co., of Chatham, Ont., and it was expected that the bridge would then have been constructed but owing to Hill & Co. not being able to obtain the material desired the work was left over until this year.

The Street Commissioner will superintend the tearing down of the old bridge and the construction of the abutments beneath. A number of men were at work this morning deepening the channel below and to the south of the street to permit of the lowering of the dead water immediately underneath. The south side of the bridge will be finished first so as not to stop traffic on the street. This morning when the planks were torn away the decayed sleepers indicated that time had not dealt very leniently with them. One of the three that had borne up the south sidewalk was almost decayed through the middle and could not have possibly remained up much longer. The remainder of the bridge, however, has held up some heavy loads recently among them being the heavy circus wagons.

Thousands of Women

ARE MADE WELL AND STRONG

Success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Rests Upon the Fact that It Really Does Make Sick Women Well.

Thousands upon thousands of Canadian women have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Their letters are on file in Mrs. Pinkham's office, and prove this statement to be a fact and not a mere boast.

Overshadowing indeed is the success of this great medicine, and compared with it all other medicines and treatment for women are experiments.

Why has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound accomplished such widespread results for good?

Why has it lived and thrived and done its glorious work for a quarter of a century.

Simply and surely because of its sterling worth. The reason no other medicine has even approached its success is plainly and positively because there is no other medicine in the world so good for women's ills.

The wonderful power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over the diseases of womankind is not because it is a stimulant—not because it is a palliative, but simply because it is the most wonderful tonic and reconstructor ever discovered to act directly upon the female system, positively CURING disease and displacements and restoring health and vigor.

Marvelous cures are reported from all parts of the country by women who have been cured, trained nurses who have witnessed cures, and physicians who have recognized the virtue in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and are fair enough to give credit where it is due. If physicians dared to be frank and open, hundreds of them would acknowledge that they constantly prescribe Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in severe cases of female ills, as they know by experience that it will effect a cure.

Women who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, bloating (or flatulence), falling, inflammation, ulceration, that "bearing-down" feeling, dizziness, faintness, indigestion, nervous prostration, or the blues, should take immediate action to ward off the serious consequences and be restored to health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Anyway, write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for advice. It's free and always helpful.

WHEN YOU CATCH A COLD

Always Take a Few Doses of Pe-ru-na It Is Dangerous to Neglect a Cold.

Mr. George A. Nicholas, 76 Wellington street, Launceston, Tasmania (Australia), is a prominent grocer, having been in the business about 18 years. He writes as follows:

"I have on several occasions, when afflicted with a cough or cold, used Peruna with the best of results. I believe it to be a splendid remedy for such ailments."

MR. GEORGE A. NICHOLAS.

A LARGE per cent. of chronic ailments begin with a neglected cold. A cold produces congestion of some internal organ. The congestion at last becomes chronic and organic disease is the result.

When an organic disease becomes thoroughly established, it is absolutely incurable. Thus it is dangerous to neglect a cold.

A remedy should always be at hand that can be relied upon to promptly relieve a cold.

There is no better remedy in the world for this purpose than Peruna, which has been in use for a great many years.

It has been the standby in a multitude of homes as a remedy for colds, coughs and catarrhal ailments of summer and winter.

We will give a few specimens of the many testimonials we have received from different parts of the world as to the efficacy of Peruna as a remedy for colds:

"I contracted a severe cold, and became afflicted with a bad cough. I began taking Peruna. In a short time my cough and cold were gone."—Mr. Louis Monpetit, 251 St. Elizabeth Ave., St. Henry, Montreal, Canada.

"I have received great benefit from Peruna, and hope to see it in my country, Cuba. The home protected by Peruna is free from catarrh."—Mr. Jose I. Soler, President Cuban Fruit Co., 2018 Jerome Ave., New York, N. Y.

"As soon as I get a cold I send for Peruna, and it drives it out of my system."—Mr. L. Clifford Figg, Jr., 2929 E. Marshall street, Richmond, Va.

WOMEN IMPLICATED IN THE CASE?

This is the Latest Rumour in Connection With the Lindsay Counterfeiting Case—Miller on Suspicion Only WHO'LL TRY THE CASES?

Lindsay, July 16.—Prominent citizens deplore the unenviable notoriety forced on the town by the recent arrests on charges of counterfeiting. From end to end of the fair stretch of farmland, known as Victoria County, the story of the alleged counterfeiters is on everyone's lips. "Disgraceful," a business man remarked concerning the undesirable prominence being given Lindsay. Last evening was band night at Victoria Park. Every group on the park, it would be safe to say discussed the remarkable developments of the past week. One young man vouched for it that he was afraid to leave the town ... on his holidays for fear of creating suspicion. This merely instances the number of rumours spread and how easily they are formed.

Are Women Implicated

A report spread yesterday stated that two or more women were implicated. This has not been confirmed. Other wild rumours are flying.

Regarding the detention of Miller, some say that it is merely on suspicion. His almost irreproachable character previous to his arrest makes it hard for his acquaintances to imagine him guilty. He had rented a cottage for the summer at Pretty Pleasant Point on Sturgeon, and there he lived with his wife and child, coming up on the boat in the morning and going back again after his day's work was done.

Question of Jurisdiction

Counterfeit bills are scarce around town, but are eagerly sought after as souvenirs. Some of the bills are a trifle shorter than the real bills. It is thought that expert lithographers and photographers might have been implicated.

Four of the prisoners probably will appear before County Police Magistrate Moore, and the others before Town Police Magistrate Jackson. All depends on whether the offence, if any, was in the town or in the county. Burke's house is in the town limits and Logie's just outside. If cases are made out against the prisoners in the preliminary hearing, they will probably be remanded to the fall Assizes, commencing on September 15th.

Sault. Prisoners Home

Lindsay, Ont., July 16.—Wynn and Bouyea unexpectedly arrived from Sault Ste. Marie this morning on the 11 o'clock train from Toronto. Detectives Parkinson and Rogers accompanied them. There was no scene as on the occasion of Logie's home-coming, as contrary reports were thrown out as to their arrival. Both looked dejected as they alighted at the G.T.R. station, and walked to the hack in waiting. They were not recognized until they were ready to get in the hack, when a flurry of excitement occurred among the few present. They were not handcuffed, but walked quietly beside the detectives. Wynn was dressed in brown corduroy velveteens and wore a slouch hat. He looked a typical farmer with his long black beard. Bouyea had his cap pulled down over his eyes and wore glasses.

They were immediately driven up back streets to the county jail. There are now in the Lindsay jail Burke, Logie, Miller, Goslin, Bouyea, and Wynn. Eveleigh will complete the septet. He will be here shortly. The train was late in arriving, being delayed on the way by an accident to the engine.

JOINT COMMITTEE OF BAND AND FIRE BRIGADE

On Friday Night to Decide on Excursion to Midland Aug. 7th

Committees from the Fire Brigade and the 57th Band will meet jointly in the band hall on Friday night to consider the proposal of going to Midland on August 7. It will also be considered whether the band will enter the competition in the band tournament. For the sum of $100. From present indications it is probable that an excursion will be run, but this will be finally settled on Friday night.

The Fire Brigade will not be able to go in a body as they have no uniform, and have had none for the past 13 years.

Band to-night and Thursday evening at Jackson Park. Don't fail to see the Moving Pictures at Scott's Coliseum.

HERD OF DEER NEAR LINDSAY

South Verulam Farmers' Dogs Round Up Deer Which Have Been There For Three Years

Some two or three years ago two deer—a buck and a doe—found refuge in some thick swamp bordering on Emily Lake, about fifteen miles east of Lindsay. The animals in all probability had been chased by hunters' dogs in the fall out of Somerville or Laxton townships, and, having crossed Sturgeon Lake, found safety close to civilization, because most save duck hunters penetrated the region of their new home.

There the visitors bred in peace, although ever since their arrival some Lindsay hunters were aware of their presence. Like true sportsmen they desired to protect the newcomers, and as a result, the original pair have increased to a herd of eight. Unfortunately, whilst the farmers in the vicinity also spared the deer, they have been unable at all times to control their dogs, and Mr. Archie Bradshaw, fish and Game Warden, town, has received information to that effect from a prominent farmer, residing on the Scotch Line, near Dunsford, and has written to the owners of the dogs in question, asking them to grant him an interview at his office in Lindsay at an early date.—Lindsay Post.

HIGH STANDING OF A KEENE BOY

Young Son of Mr. A. St. A. Smith Made Good Record in Matriculation Examinations for McGill

It will be a pleasure to very many of its readers to learn, as it is a pleasure to the Examiner to note, the high standing taken by a Peterborough boy in the matriculation examinations at McGill University, Montreal, of which the results are just announced. Mr. Henry Deane St. A. Smith, at these examinations, took the high aggregate of 433 marks, the pass standard being 240, nearly fifty per cent. above pass. Harry Smith's specialty is mathematics. In his matriculation examinations he took the very high percentages of 98 p.c. in algebra, 95 p.c. in geometry, and 90 p.c. in arithmetic. He also took first prize in mathematics at St. Alban's School, Brockville, when he was under instruction. Mr. Smith is a son of Mr. A. St. A. Smith, manager of the branch of the Bank of Toronto at Keene, and a grandson of the late Mr. Henry Deane of this city. The congratulations due him are all the more indicated, when it is known that he is only a few months beyond seventeen years of age.

The election of the Grand Master and other Grand Lodge officers will take place on Thursday morning. The next Grand Master will undoubtedly be R. W. Bro. A T Freed, present Deputy Grand Master, of Hamilton. He is spoken of as a thoroughly capable and efficient man for the position.

There are three candidates for the position of Deputy Grand Master:—R. W. Bro. Judge D F McWatt, of Sarnia; R. W. Bro. Aubrey White, of Toronto, and R. W. Bro. Abraham Shaw, of Kingston.

The position of Grand Senior Warden will, as is the custom, go to some Ottawa man, as Grand Lodge meets here this year.

Two of these seeking the position of Grand Junior Warden are W. Bro. W J Hallett, of Barrie, and Bro. L H Luke, of Toronto.

For Grand Chaplain the names mentioned are W. Bro. Rev. Dr. Johnston, of Welland, and W. Bro. A E Brace, of Richmond Hill.

At the opening session His Worship, Mayor Scott delivered an address of welcome to the visiting fraternalists, and an address from the Craft in Ottawa was presented D. D. G. M. Bro. Wm. Northwood, and a deputation consisting of the Masters of the seven city lodges.

Expenditures totalled $34,351.72, made up of $14,201.72, total general charges, $19,150.00, grants for benevolence and $1.00 to the Jamaica Relief Fund. The total receipts on account of the semi-centennial fund from subordinate lodges up to 1907, are $38,358.35.

RECORD CROWD AT THIS SOCIAL

400 Persons Attended Social in Connection With St. Mark's Church, Otonabee, Tuesday Night

A GOOD PROGRAMME

Last night (Tuesday evening) the annual strawberry festival under the auspices of St. Mark's Church, Otonabee, took place. The weather during the day had been very unfavourable, but during the afternoon and evening most excellent weather conditions prevailed and helped to make the attendance at the festival a record-breaker. Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Smithson has most generously placed their spacious and beautiful grounds at the disposal of St. Mark's congregation, and the central location of their home, as well as their popularity in the community, attracted a large number of people. It is estimated that about 400 people were present. The grounds were illuminated with Chinese lanterns, the tables were tastefully arranged, and all the surroundings gave a festive character to the occasion. Mr. and Mrs. Smithson were not sparing in giving everyone a hearty welcome. A refreshment booth, in which ice cream, bananas, candies and lemonade were sold, was in charge of Miss Thorn and Miss Emma Dixon, and the attraction of this place was so great that everything was sold out before the entertainment was over. Mr. Perry, Rev. Dr. Langfeldt's assistant, had done everything possible to attain to a high standard of the entertainment, and to him and his co-workers the unprecedented success is due. The ladies of St. Mark's Church have attained a reputation in providing excellent repasts, and on this occasion they sustained their reputation. Strawberries and cream, bread and butter, cake and tea, were dilatily served on large tables put up for the occasion. A large contingent of people from Peterborough was present. Among them were Mr. J. H. Burnham, Mr. Dawson Kennedy, Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Langfeldt, Mr. and Mrs. A. Kingdon, Mr. Chas. Crane, Mr. Jas. Ball, Mr. Sam. Whittaker, Mr. Chester Taylor, Mr. Chas. Sisson, Mr. and Mrs. R J Devey, Misses Ruth and Birdie Dawson, Miss Gillespie, and many other. The Mayor of Peterborough and Mr. E. A. Peck sent their regrets at being unable to be present. Keene was also largely represented, Rev. Mr. Harrison, and Mr. A. St. A. Smith, manager of the Bank of Toronto, being present. Rev. D. D. Macdonald sent his regrets at being prevented from coming.

It was about 10 o'clock when the programme began, which was given from the verandah. Mr. Wilson's orchestra was present, and rendered several selections during the evening.

Rev. Dr. Langfeldt acted as chairman. In his opening remarks he expressed his great appreciation of Mr. Smithson's kindness in giving his grounds to hold the festival on. He also thanked the people for their generous support.

The programme was as follows:—

Vocal Solo—Miss Ruth Dawson.

Recitation — "Them Oxen," by Miss Payne.

Vocal Solo—"Sailor Song," Master Cyril Devey.

Orchestral Selection.

Recitation—"Aunt Jemima's Courtship," by Miss Robinson.

Vocal Solo—Miss Ruth Dawson.

"God Save the King."

Rev. Mr. Harrison, pastor of the Methodist Church, responded on being called upon for a speech. His remarks were highly appreciated; he exhorted the people to be kind one toward another, and to heartily cooperate and unite in their common cause, striving for the Divine ideal.

Mr. J. H. Burnham also responded to being called upon for an address. He complimented the ladies their good work, and paid a high tribute to the generosity and broadmindedness of his friend, Mr. Smithson, whom to honour he was present. It gave him great pleasure to witness such hearty co-operation and fellowship.

Mr. T. H. Perry, who is in charge of St. Mark's Church, thanked the people for their support, and Mr. and Mrs. Smithson for their great help and kindness.

Mr. Smithson, being called upon, said that he welcomed the people most heartily, and that he and Mrs. Smithson hoped they would all so enjoy themselves that they would come again.

The evening's entertainment then closed with the singing of the National Anthem. Mr. R. J. Davey acted as accompanist.

To Increase Assessment In South By Million Dollars

Resident of South Side of the City States That Assessor Makes This Statement of His Intentions—A Protest Entered.

SOME SUGGESTIONS MADE

To the Editor of the Examiner,

Dear Sir, — I have always looked upon Peterborough as destined sooner or later, to become one of the most important industrial cities on the American continent. Bountifully endowed by nature, and inhabited by such a sturdy and thrifty citizenship, there is no reason why our beautiful and prosperous young city should not advance by leaps and bounds towards the goal for which nature intended it, if our municipal governors and their officials, would only keep within the bounds of reason and common sense. There are several rocks, however, which it will be necessary to avoid by those having in charge the municipal ship, if all our hopes are to be realized, and our City Fathers escape from finding themselves driven shattered and dismasted on the lee-shore of indelible disgrace.

One of the rocks is the action of the assessor at present at work in the south part of the city, who, I am told, is increasing the taxes on the working people to such an extent that they will find it impossible, owing to this and other increases in the necessaries of life, to live in Peterborough. This official states, I understand, that he is going to increase the assessment in this part of the town to the extent of a million dollars. If this is so, the question arises, is he acting on his own responsibility, or has he received instructions from the powers that be?

I am also told that this official makes the assertion that houses do not rent as well in other parts of the city, where his own are situated, and therefore the citizens and working men of the south are called upon to pay such a disproportionate and unfair tax — in many instances double that of a couple of years ago.

Now, I ask, is this the way to build up a great city, and make it a desirable place to live in? Was it not partly to escape such oppression in Europe that our fathers forsook their homes, and through untold hardships and sufferings succeeded in carving out homes for their families in the Canadia nwilderness? And is it possible now that we will have to dispose of these homes in order to escape the enormous burden of taxation which has been increasing from year to year until it is almost impossible to meet it, and endeavour to build up homes for ourselves and families in the Canadian Northwest, or seek shelter on some foreign soil?

I beg to remain, yours respectfully,

P. J. FULLER.

Peterborough, July 16, 1907.

WEDDING BELLS.

SLIGHTE-SPENCELY

Yesterday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock a pretty wedding was solemnised at the residence of Mr. Mark H. Spencely, Bethune street, when his youngest daughter, Miss Carrie Josephine became the wife of Mr. Ernest Malcolm Slighte, of this city, son of the late Thomas Slighte of Port Hope. The ceremony was performed by Rev J. G. Potter, in the presence of about 35 guests.

The bride who was given away by her father, was becomingly dressed in a beautiful cream nun's-veiling Princess gown, trimmed with lace, and carried a bridal bouquet. Miss Ada Straine was bridesmaid, and she wore a pretty white dotted muslin gown, trimmed with lace. Mr. Wilbert Spencely, brother of the bride, was best man, and Miss Etta Kemp played the wedding march.

The house was prettily decorated with marguerites and ferns, and presented a very pretty appearance. At 5 o'clock the wedding party sat down to a dainty supper, and the happy couple left on the G.T.R. train for Port Hope and Toronto. On their return they will reside at No. 7 John street. Both the bride and groom were well known in the city, and have many friends as was evidenced by the large number of handsome gifts received by the bride.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. Geo. Steep, the bride's sister, and Miss Irene and Master Earl Steep, of Oak; Misses Dougan, of Young's Point; Mrs. Spencely of Ottawa; Mrs. Hodge, Rochester; Mrs Slighte, Port Hope; Miss Florence Pammett, Young's Point.

WALKER-HAMILTON

An interesting wedding took place on Thursday evening, July 11th, at the summer residence of the bride's brother, Rev. J. C. Speer, D.D., when Mrs. Carrie Hamilton was married to Mr. Cecil Paul Walker, eldest son of Joseph Walker, of Berlin, Rev. Dr. Speer performing the ceremony.

JOHNSTON-CHASE

This morning a wedding was performed by Rev. E. A. Pearson at the George Street Methodist parsonage, the principals being Isaac Johnston of Chemong and Ruth Chase of Alderville. They were attended by D. Whetung and Lillie Jacobs, both of Chemong. Mr. and Mrs. Johnston, who are members of the Mississauga tribe of Indians, will reside in Chemong.

HARLING-CLOSE

At All Saints' rectory this morning a quiet wedding was celebrated by Rev. Wm. Major, when Miss Ethel Lemay Close, daughter of the late William Close, was united in marriage to Mr. Carl Fred Harling of Bancroft. Mrs. Close, mother of the bride, was a witness, and the parties were unattended.

Mr. and Mrs. Harling will reside in Bancroft.

HOUSE FAMINE IN PORT HOPE

100 Men Required for Work but no Houses to Live in

The Port Hope Guide says:—That Port Hope needs a number of small, comfortable dwellings was clearly demonstrated last evening. The immigrants who arrived yesterday morning wandered aimlessly about town unable to secure a place of abode. At 6 o'clock, when other people were enjoying their suppers, the new arrivals were looking for some place to rest their weary bones. The officers of the Salvation Army came to their assistance and they were treated to an open-air lunch on the green opposite the town hall.

Twelve of these new men will commence work at the Ideal to-morrow morning, and a request for 100 more has been made by the Central Foundry Company, to be here by the 15th of August.

RECORD BUSINESS FOR POLICEMEN

Are Having Their Hands Full These Days With Prisoners, Summons and Subpoenas

HOT AFTER OFFENDERS

"Harry H. Tyle you are charged with having been drunk and disorderly on the 16th day of July. What have you to say regarding this charge?"

"Guilty, sir," replied Harry to His Worship. The prisoner showed several facial evidences of a recent bout with the flowing bowl, and was the very personification of Raymond Hitchcock's song "Aint it Funny What a Difference Just a Few Hours Make." His left ear was swollen and cut and his left eye was adorned with a bluish-black lump that almost put his optic out of commission.

"Two dollars and costs, amounting to $5.75, to be paid forthwith," was the judgment of the court. Tyle did not have the five, odd, dollars but a friend handed the money to him and he left the room doubtless in a hurry to remedy his injured member.

Harry Seddon was the next man to toe the mark. His offence was that of vagrancy, idleness, having no means of support and being generally a nuisance to other people. He pleaded not guilty. It was said in court that he had but lately taken a wife, who furnished a home and it appears that he did not appreciate her kindness. The outcome of his conduct was that she broke up house sold the furniture and like the ten cent novel's title, "Lovers once but strangers now." Mr. Seddon was discharged, but another misdemeanor means Central Prison for him.

Three young men, David Smith, Alfred Pittsburg and Ernest Emmerson answered to the charge of being disorderly in a public place on the evening of July 9th. The last mentioned youth acknowledged his guilt, but his two companions said they were not guilty.

P. C. Newhall testified that a number of young men including the three in court were in Jackson's Park on the night in question and when the moving pictures were being exhibited some of them threw grass and others used very bad language. The officer said they were a source of annoyance to those who had visited the park to see the pictures.

Emmerson went in the box and said that he and another lad were the only two who had thrown grass and he had heard no bad language. They were making use of slang phrases, such as "blow your nose your brains are dusty," and such like, but nothing more serious than that.

His Worship declared that hoodlum actions of that character is a disturbance to the public and must be stopped. Regarding the words that were said the Magistrate remarked, "I would rather you throw dirt at me than pollute my ears with nasty expressions; the one you can brush off, but the other remains with you." The three youths were fined $2.00 each with costs amounting to $4.60.

And still they come. A man who eleven years ago took unto himself a wife promising to love, honour and protect her, and be a good, kind husband, was charged with non-support and having wilfully neglected to provide for his family. Such is life, the old story repeats itself, and the promises that are so easily made when two lives are united prove empty under the test of years. The prisoner was given a week to return to his work at the Cordage Works and a report will be given His Worship next Wednesday. According to the wife, he has been drinking when there was nothing in the house for the children. The Magistrate told the husband to go and be a man and care for his children and wife.

"Bill" Richards was brought down from the hill this morning where he has been incarcerated for the past week. Since he and his wife arrived in the city they have been a continual source of trouble to the police and to the public. Bill was discharged to-day and told to behave himself. His better-half is still in the jail and Bill says he cannot get along without her.

Practically during my whole life (prior to June 1905) I was troubled with terrible pains in my head which I attributed to violent attacks of neuralgia. I tried innumerable headache and neuralgic preparations, but without obtaining the slightest relief. The suffering I endured for a year or more previous to the time I consulted you is indescribable. At times I became delirious through the intense pain, and was obliged to call in a local Physician. Many times morphine was administered to allay the terrible suffering I was undergoing, but this did not give me the slightest relief. A friend advised me to consult your Mr. Babcock, I did so and found out from you that I was suffering from muscular nervous asthenopia, caused by astigmatism. It was remarkable the relief I obtained after the treatment I received, and the wearing of the glasses you prescribed and made for me, since that time I have experienced no difficulty with my eyes, nor have I suffered the slightest return of the old trouble. I cannot help but attribute the ill-health and suffering I experienced as being due to the trouble in my eyes before consulting you. I feel very grateful indeed for the interest taken in my case, as I had almost despaired of even getting any relief. I might also say I consulted opticians in Lindsay and Toronto in reference to my trouble, but obtained no relief. I desire to again express my sincere gratitude to you for the trouble taken in my case, as well as the wonderful cure effected. Yours sincerely

MRS. THOMAS J. BEGLEY,

Headaches Mean Your Blood Is Poisoned

If your bowels, kidneys or skin are not ridding the system of waste-matter, the blood is laden with impurities, which inflame the nerves. It is these irritated nerves that make the head ache.

Powders and pills won't cure, they merely drug the nerves into unconciousness and relieve for a short time.

"Fruit-a-tives" cure Headaches, Neuralgia and Nerve Pains because they purify the blood. They act directly on the three great eliminating organs—Bowels, Kidneys and Skin—and restore them to healthy action, thus ridding the system of all poisons.

"Fruit-a-tives" are fruit juices—chemically changed, by the process of combining them, into a far more effective medicinal compound than the natural juices. 50c. a box—6 for $2.50. At all dealers' or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

Appalling Disaster Reported; London Stores Collapsed

Eight Persons Crushed to Death in Collapse of Stores—Business House Wrecked—People Were Panic-Stricken—Had No Chance of Escape—Women and Girls Buried Beneath Tons of Debris—Heroic Work of Rescuers—Partial List of Victims—How Calamity Occurred

London, July 17.—Causing one of the most horrible disasters which London has ever known, the building occupied by W. J. Reid & Co., on Dundas street, collapsed like a thing of cards, at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

In the ruins were at once buried, under tons of debris, a number of employes and customers. The exact number is not yet known and, indeed, may not be for several days, until the debris is cleared away.

Not only was the famous Crystal Hall completely gutted and demolished, but the store of Hamilton & Long, and of Brewster, the "five and ten-cent" establishment, suffered greatly.

Both Messrs. Hamilton and Long are numbered among the dead.

It is said that there were in the neighborhood of 20 people at work on the building of Reid & Co., the gangs of Contractors Richardson and Wilson.

The work of rescue was commenced immediately after the cloud of dust had cleared away. The fire wagons and patrol, as well as the ambulance, were brought into service, and all did good work in helping in the work of rescue.

The first to be taken from the ruins was John Loney of 75 Cartwright street, who was immediately removed to Victoria Hospital in the ambulance, where it was found that he was suffering from deep scalp wounds, and is perhaps hurt internally.

Reid Building Collapsed.

From all appearances the east wall of the Reid building was the first to give way, and falling out with tremendous force went across the laneway separating the building from the photograph gallery, where it smashed into the five and ten-cent store, completely demolishing it and letting down the photograph gallery, which had just been moved into the second floor.

Fortunately fire did not add its horrors to the collapse.

Had this dread feature been added to the horror the extent of it would have been far worse, and many more lives might have been lost.

The cause of the disaster is given out to have been the weakening of the centre wall on the second storey. The steel beams are said to have been too weak and snapped, allowing the brickwork and masonry to give way and fall like a mighty avalanche from the west wall toward the east, sweeping toward the other stores, and carrying down an enormous weight of masonry and crockery from the Crystal Hall.

A Tremendous Crash.

Howard Houston was one of the survivors, and he said that the experience was an awful one.

Frank Smith escaped from under the wreckage.

J. Loney, W. Langham, E. Pinch and E. Fauler all fell three storeys and escaped death miraculously.

Immediately following the disaster a great crowd surged down from all the streets in the vicinity, and swept past the policemen and joined in the work of rescue.

Frank Reid, manager of W. J. Reid & Co., said that he and Mr. Dromgole were standing inside the store when he heard a terrific crash, as though tons of dynamite had been exploded. He immediately ran to the back of the store, and was caught for a short time, but managed to work his way out. Mr. Dromgole escaped through the front of the store.

Howard Houston was one of those employed at Reid's, who had a narrow escape. He was seen following the accident, and described the scenes as the worst he had ever seen.

He did not know how he escaped, and saw people struggling everywhere about him. On the sidewalk he thought there were several people caught.

Thrilling Scenes.

One stout woman was caught under two feet of bricks. She was brave as a lion when several persons, including E. Pennick, ran up to her and pulled her out by the shoulders.

Girls Caught In Ruins.

Shortly after 5 o'clock cries could be heard from the cellar of the Brewster store, and rescuing parties immediately rushed into the cellar of the Graves store, and there they found that three girls were imprisoned in the adjoining cellar, but could not move. They said they were not seriously hurt, but wanted fresh air and water.

From the rear of the Hamilton-Long stores cries could be heard from a lady and her small babe, who were pinned fast in the debris. It was thought she was the wife of Mr. Hamilton of the firm of Hamilton & Long. The babe was still alive, but all efforts to release them seemed to be of no avail.

They were all removed in safety within an hour.

The walls of the Graves store were condemned immediately by the city engineer, as they were in a most precarious state, and were liable to fall at any minute, placing the lives of all those in the neighborhood in a most dangerous condition.

The Dead.

John Robinson of Hamilton & Long.
Jos. Long of Hamilton & Long.
Mr. Hamilton of Hamilton & Long.
Mr. Lane of Hamilton & Long.
Said that there were ten customers in Hamilton store.
Probably six of gang at work on building.

Searching the Ruins.

Police lines stretched for a block on either side of the collapsed buildings last night.

The scenes of the disaster was wierdly lighted by improvised clusters of electric lights. The scene was as bright as day. Ropes, ladders, teams and men united in tearing down and pulling away threatening portions of walls.

Shouts of warning came from the workmen as they dragged piles of lumber and plaster from the ruins. Men ran with heavy planks, calling out to their fellows to clear the path. Every man of them worked as if his own life was at stake.

Nothing was more striking in connection with the calamity than the escape of the pedestrians on Dundas street. It is believed that only two women were injured, although a large pile of debris still remains to be cleared away from the sidewalk immediately in front of the demolished buildings, and which may reveal a most gruesome story. But from all indications no more than two were injured seriously. One of them was Mrs. G. Crabb, King street. She was struck down by the cloud of bricks which fell and buried in a pile over two feet deep. She was rescued with difficulty by W. J. McLeod and a number of citizens. She was taken into the store of Gammage & Sons.

MONTEITH GOES TO ENGLAND.

Will Look Into Emigration and Other Matters of Interest.

Toronto, July 17.—Hon. Nelson Monteith had a prolonged interview yesterday with E. D. Smith, M.P., North Wentworth. Co-operation in spraying and the care of fruit was under discussion, and the methods to be adopted on the Jordan Model Farm.

Mr. Smith described the successful results attained at Simcoe by a thorough spraying treatment, and the enhanced profit derived thereby.

Secretary Murray of the Manufacturers' Association; J. W. Walker and J. W. McCullough of Hamilton also saw the Minister of Agriculture during the morning.

Hon. Mr. Monteith will sail on the Dominion from Montreal on Saturday for England, where he will look into emigration and other matters in Britain in which Ontario is interested.

He stated that ex-Mayor Thomas Elliott, Brantford, had been appointed a commissioner to the Dublin Exhibition for the months of August, September and October. Mr. Elliott, who is a shrewd business man, will collect information on transportation and other matters, and will have an opportunity of interesting intending emigrants in Ontario. The salary was not stated, but former precedents would indicate $125 a month and expenses as probable.

PASSENGER TRAINS COLLIDE.

One Man Killed, But Others Have Miraculous Escape.

Kansas City, Mo., July 17.—A Chicago Great Western passenger train ran into and damaged the rear Pullman on a Burlington passenger train, both northbound, at Bethel Janse, 10 miles north of Kansas City, early yesterday. Fritz Ulrici of Rochester, N. Y., traveling salesman for a paper box manufactory, whose western headquarters are at Chicago, was so badly injured that he died later. The other passengers on the Burlington train were slightly hurt. The Great Western engine was damaged, but no one on that train was hurt.

The collision is believed to have resulted from confusion of train orders.

Richard Allan Drowned.

Fergus, July 17.—A drowning accident took place at Aboyne, one and one-half miles below here, in the Grand River.

Richard Allan, second son of Col. Allan, was in bathing, and, getting below his depth, was drowned. His brother and other companions were along, but were unable to save him.

It was over an hour before the body was recovered.

Killed During His First Turn.

St. Thomas, July 17.—Peter Solirianos, a Greek, aged 19 years, was instantly killed in the Pere Marquette yards early yesterday morning. He was under an engine cleaning out the ashes when another locomotive came up slowly and moved the one the young fellow was under. He was cut in two. Deceased had only started to work Monday night.

General Alikanoff Blown to Pieces By Bomb.

WAS THROWN AT CARRIAGE

General Glieboff's Wife and Coachman Share Same Fate—General Was Hated by Revolutionists on Account of His Cruelties While Stamping Out Disorders—Nearly Assassinated Last Year.

Alexandropol, July 17.—Gen. Alikhanoff, former governor-general of Tiflis, Madame Glieboff, wife of Gen. Glieboff, and the coachman, who was driving their carriage, were blown to pieces by bombs thrown at their conveyance at half-past two o'clock yesterday morning.

A son of Gen. Alikhanoff and a daughter of Gen. Glieboff sustained serious injuries.

The party was returning to the residence of Gen. Alikhanoff from his club. The bombs were hurled in Bebouloff street.

Gen. Alikhanoff was nicknamed "the wild beast" by the Caucasian members of the Lower House of Parliament, who often referred to his cruelties in the Kutais district, where he had led a number of punitive expeditions to stamp out disorders. His rigorous methods to this end brought down upon him the enmity of the revolutionists.

Gen. Alikhanoff was seriously injured by a bomb at Borjam May 30 of last year. This bomb was thrown just as he was about to take a train for Tiflis. Its explosion seriously wounded, in addition to the general, a number of his staff and several Cossacks. The remainder of the Cossacks fired into the crowd, killing many persons, and then burned to the ground the buildings into which the people had fled.

Daring Burglary.

Galt, July 17.—Burglars broke into the boarding car yesterday afternoon, and made away with money and jewelry. The robbery was a particularly daring one.

Most Successful Sale Of Year Was Held To-Day

5,000 Boxes Were Boarded at Peterborough Cheese Board Meeting---11 5-16c. Was the Highest Price Offered and Every One Was Satisfied---Bidding Brisk

The most successful sale of the season was held this morning by the Peterborough Cheese Board. The largest number of boxes of the year was boarded, 5,000 boxes in all, and the factories were sold, save two, Trewern and Hope, which would in all probability be sold off the Board. The highest price paid was 11 5-16c, the top-notch figure reached at the last meeting, and a large quantity of the cheese was disposed of at that figure, while the remainder sold at 11 1-4c. The bidding was decidedly brisk, and in all ways the sale was a good one. Mr. Cook was the biggest buyer, getting more of the cheese than anybody else.

The factories boarded as follows:—

Keene	200
Warminster	150
Spaurer	200
Central Smith	206
Selwyn	208
Villiers	115
Warnaw	170
Westwood	225
Oakdale	130
Lakefield	115
Pinegrove	130
Otonabee Union	80
Maple Leaf	155
Myrtle	190
Ormonde	259
Young's Point	120
Lang	175
Fraserville	115
Indian River	155
North Dummer	80
East Emily	160
Trewern	180
Bensfort	200
Cedardale	90
Cavanville	160
Crown	165
Mount Pleasant	60
Norwood	125
Fleetwood	200
Oak Leaf	50
Bucknorn	155
South Burleigh	51
Hope	50
Killarney	170

Mr. Whitton opened the bidding at 10 1-2c. Mr. Wrighton raised to 10 3-4c. Mr. Gillespie bid 11c; Mr. Wrighton, 11 1-8c; Mr. Squires, 11 1-4c; Mr. Cook, 11 5-16c, getting the call. He took Ormonde, Westwood and Villiers, and offered 11 1-4c for further selections, getting the call again.

At the lower figure he took Pinegrove, Lakefield, Maple Leaf, Bensfort and East Emily, while Shearer, Trewern and Central Smith refused.

Mr. Wrighton, at 11 5-16c, took Warsaw, Shearer, and Warminster.

Mr. Weir, at 11 5-16c, took Central Smith, Lang and Oakdale.

Mr. Geo. Gillespie, at 11 5-16c, took Buckhorn, Selwyn and Keene.

Mr. Cook, at the same figure, secured Fraserville, Otonabee Union, Myrtle, and Norwood, and, at 11 1-4c, took Killarney, Cavanville and Mount Pleasant.

Mr. G. Gillespie, at the same price, called Young's Point, Fleetwood, Cedardale, and Indian River, all accepting.

Mr. Squires bid 11 1-4c for the balance off the board, and took North Dummer, Oak Leaf and South Burleigh, while Trewern and Hope refused.

Magistrate Took A Firm Stand Against House Of Ill-Fame

Mrs. Annie Davey and Annie Whittaker to Mercer for One Year; County Gaol and Hard Labour for the Two Men—A Severe Sentence and a Blow at Loose Morals.

A CROWDED COURT ROOM

The four persons connected with the house on Parnell street, known as "No. 24," were severely dealt with this morning when they received their several sentences at the police court. His Worship said the public would not tolerate such actions and conduct, and the best way was to suppress it at once. He did not say very much about the place or make any speech to the prisoners, but while Mr. Gordon was making a plea in their behalf, he was apparently writing the judgments on the information papers. He began at once to pronounce sentence on the two men and two women who occupied the prisoners' box.

Annie Whittaker was adjudged guilty of being an inmate of the house and was sentenced to one year in the MercerReformatory. Thompson was found guilty of the same offence and was fined $20 without costs, to be paid forthwith, or in default of payment one month in gaol. Mrs. Annie Davey was adjudged guilty of being the keeper of the ouse and was fined $50, and was also sentenced to one year in the Mercer Reformatory. Wellington Cannon on the charge of being an inmate was found guilty and sentenced to three months in gaol with hard labour, and also fined $50; and in default of payment three additional months on the hill.

Cannon said nothing and apparently did not move a muscle. Young Thompson wanted to know if he could have time to pay his fine, and the two women cried and created a scene as they were taken below to the cells. They have been confined in the gaol since their arrest on the 12th inst.

Sentences such as these should discourage further attempts to carry on unlawful actions, such as keeping a house of ill-fame, and is striking a blow in protecting the morals and the good name of the city.

Referee Talks of Saturday's Game With Newmarket

The following, which appeared in the Toronto News last night, should silence the Newmarket knockers:

Referee Waghorne reports that the game in Peterborough was not as rough as reported. He states that "while the game was rough at times, the offenders were promptly penalized. Nine Peterborough players were sent to the fence and three Newmarket men. All the men on both teams with one exception, finished the game, which would tend to the belief that the 'slaughter' was not as great as has been depicted."

SCOTT PATON IS AFTER THAT STEEL ROD

Caught a Small Mouthed Bass Which Weighed 5 1-2 Pounds—Young Fisherman Well Known Here

Scott Paton, of Lindsay, a son of Mr. Alex. Paton, is well known in Peterborough, and in view of this fact the following reference to his his fishing exploits from the Lindsay Post will be of interest:—

Mr. Alex. Paton doesn't go fishing as often as in the olden days, but when he does he generally gets the goods Last weak, while trawling in the old river channel, he caught a 14 pound 'lunge. About the same time his son, Scott, who was fishing off an old scow, landed, after a short struggle, a small-mouthed black bass that tipped the scales at 5 1-2 pounds and measured 18 1-2 by 13 inches. The fish were shipped to friends in Toronto. The bass will probably be entered in the Toronto Daily Star's bass competition.

Miss Allin sold $106 worth of tickets. Miss Maggie Sullivan was second, her record having been $83. Both young ladies deserve credit for their energetic work in this connection.

RESULT OF THE SPORTS

Favoured by perfect weather, the excursion to Rice Lake yesterday, under the auspices of the Sunday School and congregation of All Saints church, was the most successful in the history of the church; 400 people were on board the steamer Otonabee when she left the city at 8.30 o'clock yesterday morning. The day was one of thorough enjoyment, the contrast between the heat of the dusty city and the cool breezes and beautiful scenery of the river and lake, being thoroughly appreciated.

IS FAMILIAR WITH THE CRYSTAL HALL

Mr. McFarlane Wilson Has Often Visited Building Which Collapsed in London

Mr. McFarlane Wilson, of the China Hall, perhaps more than anybody else in Peterborough, is able to fully comprehend the nature of the London disaster, which has been the principal topic of conversation today. Mr. Wilson has been in the Crystal Hall many times, and is a friend of Mr. Reid of the firm of W. J. Reid & Co., china and glass warehousemen, who occupy the building. Mr. Wilson stated to the Examiner to-day that the store was a magnificent one, with a frontage of 40 feet, and a depth of 200 feet. The ground floor was used as a show room, and in the story above were kept many tons of crockery. The firm did a large wholesale as well as retail business and in this way Mr. Wilson became acquainted with the store and its owner.

Mr. Reid was in the building at the time of the collapse but fortunately escaped without injury.

MISS THOMPSON IS NOW SEVENTH

Miss Thompson's friends are hoping that she will pull up sufficiently during the remaining days of the contest to place her among the three who will be given the trip to the world's metropolis.

Bloody Stick Said To Have Been Near Where Body Lay

Information in Connection With Circus Man's Death Came After Inquest---Jury Brought in Verdict of Accidental Death---Red Marks to be Analyzed

"That Col. Schults came to his death by accident," was the verdict brought in by the coroner's jury, yesterday afternoon at Millbrook, after all the evidence had been taken on the mysterious death of the circus man.

Since the inquest, however, Coroner Gray was informed by Section Foreman Albert Elliott, of Cavanville, that a stick, apparently covered with blood, had been found on Sunday by Augustus Howden of Cavan, about 25 yards west of the spot where the dead body of the dog trainer was discovered. The stick was about the size of a pick handle and, according to reports, was marked with red spots. This information came at the conclusion of the inquest, so that it was not used in the evidence. It is possible, however, that the stick may be brought to Peterborough and the alleged red marks analysed.

On resuming the inquest yesterday morning the first witness called was Albert Elliott, the section foreman of the C. P. R., at Cavanville. He testified of having been notified by the fireman of the Tweed local on the morning of July 12th, that a dead man was lying in the ditch, and that he found the body about 9 a.m., some 8 feet from the track. It was supported by the knees and right shoulder; the head had been twisted to the left, the feet were turned towards the back, the whole body being partly doubled up.

He saw the marks on the ballast, about 45 feet in length, where presumably the body had been hurled along close to the ends of the ties. The manner of striking the ground, if thrown off, would depend, in his opinion, on the way he left the train.

The next witness was John R. Robson, chief watchman of the C. P. R., who was on duty on the circus train on the night of the occurrence. His chief evidence was to the effect that an employee of the circus told him near Peterborough, that he had been shoved off the train, and that the person who did it on the following day. Next day the man told him that he had fallen off. The witness had known Col. Schults to see him, and had always noticed him busy and attending to his own business.

Widow's Evidence

Mrs. Schultz, the widow of the dead man was next sworn. Her husband, she said, was 67 years of age, and she herself was the same. They were both born in Hanover, Germany, but were married in Whitechapel church, London, Eng. Her husband's name was Magnus Schultz, and in character he was always a good natured man. They had dined together on the evening of his death, and had slept together, retiring about eight o'clock. Her husband was in his bunk beside her, at 9 o'clock, but when she awoke at 1 o'clock he was gone. She then awakened a number of the men in the car but no person had seen him. The car being hot the door was left open. Her husband had no enemies with the circus, so far as she knew, and he had no insurance on his life.

Dr. Wilson Montgomery, who had assisted in the post mortem with Dr. Turner, believed that death was due to a fracture of the skull sustained by a fall.

Mr. Raper, the constable who served the widow with the summons at Brampton stated that he had been in the car where the deceased had slept, and saw nothing singular with the windows or any other furniture.

Mr. William Campbell, the manager, concluded the evidence by telling of the time that he had last paid Schults.

On this evidence the jury brought in the verdict mentioned above, and the inquest was over. The body of the dead man has been sent to New York for burial.

Native Of Peterborough County Is Highly Honoured

Rev. W. J. Ford, Who Was Elected to Presidency of the London Methodist Conference, Born in This County.

BROTHER OF DR. FORD

Another native of Peterborough county has been given a high honour. The Christian Guardian of this week contains a half-tone picture of Rev. W. J. Ford, LL.B., who was, at the last session of the London Conference of the Methodist Church, elected to the presidency of that body. In connection with it, too, the following reference is made:

The president of London Conference, Rev. W. J. Ford, LL.B., was born in Peterborough, of English parents, in 1845. He received his early education in the public and "grammar" schools of his native town. He afterwards went to Victoria College, Cobourg, from which he received the degree of LL.B. He entered the ministry in 1868, and was ordained in the old Great St. James' Street Church, Montreal, in 1872. His probation was just contemporaneous with the presidency of Dr. W. M. Punshon, he being taken into the work at the first Conference of which Dr. Punshon presided, and ordained at his last. Mr. Ford's first two years were spent on the Belleville District, after which he was moved west, and since the division into separate conferences, he has always been in what has been called the London Conference. He has been a connexional man, and has served his brethren in many offices, frequently having been district secretary. He has been chairman of the Barrie, Chatham, Windsor, and Ridgetown Districts. He has also been a member of four General Conferences, and has now been made the recipient of the highest honour of his Conference. A level-headed, practical, spiritual man, a good preacher, an efficient officer, he is eminently worthy of the confidence and esteem of his brethren.

Rev. Mr. Ford is a brother of Dr. Ford of Norwood.

Former Peterborough Man Drowned In Lake Erie

Canoe Upset on Sunday and Martin Willoughby Met His Death—Well Known Here.

WORKED WITH MR. HIGGINS

Last night, news of the drowning of Martin Willoughby was received by Mr. W. J. Green from Vermilion, O., on the southern shore of Lake Erie. This morning a letter coming to a friend of the deceased confirmed the report and gave the particulars of the drowning, which took place on Sunday last about mid-day, while he was out canoeing on the treacherous Erie. Young Willoughby formerly lived in Peterborough and worked in the tin-smithing department of Mr. Wm. Higgins' hardware store.

He left here a year ago last February and has since worked for Mr. W. E. Bailey of Vermilion, O. On Sunday, in company with a Mr. Buell, he went out on the lake for a paddle, when the canoe upset and he was drowned. The information does not give the fate of Mr. Buell, but it is probable that he was also drowned.

The young man was only 27 years of age and was born in Sarnia, Ont. His parents, three sisters and three brothers survive, and reside at Watford, Ont.

It was only last autumn that Willoughby was almost killed by falling off the rigging of one of the big schooners on Lake Erie. Since that time he had not been as strong as he had been before the accident, and it is thought that his weakness might have had something to do with his inability to keep on to the canoe. He was a rather daring young man and was the only one in the village in which he lived who ventured on the lake in a canoe. He had been accustomed to the canoe all his life and used one which had drifted into shore last year, as none could be procured at Vermilion.

The father of the deceased man has gone over to the scene of the tragedy to assist in the search for the body, which so far as has been heard has not yet been recovered.

Willoughby, while in Peterborough, joined the Oddfellows' Order, in which he was ingreed. His employer at Vermilion is a brother of Mr. Walter Bailey of this city. He was a young man of sterling character, and his sudden and unexpected death will come as a great shock to a large number of friends in Peterborough.

Beautiful Keene To Be Made More Beautiful

Important Forward Step Decided Upon by Keene Improvement Society — More Granolythic Walks Decided On.

FAIR SOCIETY'S PLANS

Special Staff Correspondent.

Keene, July 17. — Last night another step was taken in the beautification of the beautiful village of Keene, which has greatly benefitted in this respect by the activities of the Keene Village Improvement Association.

A meeting of the Committee of the Association was held last night in the rotunda of the post office. The committee consists of Messrs. James McNeil, chairman; Andrew Shearer, secretary; Dr. Harrison, Jas. Henderson, John Laing, J. C. Read, W. Campbell and William Drummond.

The subject of pavement extension and other improvements was discussed and the following gentlemen were appointed a sub-committee to arrange for the construction of two more sections of granolithic pavement—Messrs. Wm. Drummond, J. C. Read and James Henderson.

The new pavement decided to be laid this year extends from Mr. Kennedy's property on Main street, to the corner of Main and High street, where it will join the existing pavement. The second stretch will consist of a continuation north of the High street pavement, already laid, from the dividing line between Mr. Lumsden's and Mrs. Kindred's grounds, northward to a point a little beyond Mr. Marshall Weir's residence. The plans of the committee also include a crossing on the west side of Main street from Cliff's shop—the old English Bros.' stand—to Wedlock's smithy. It is stated that Mr. Alex. Anderson will himself pay the cost of a crossing to his residence on High street. Outside the line of new walk on High street, a covered drain of six inch tile will be laid to carry off storm water; and to protect Mrs. McFarlane's property, a similar drain will be laid inside the pavement connecting with the main drain.

Last year a pavement was laid from Dr. Harrison's residence to the Roman Catholic church, and this year's addition will provide the two principal streets of the village with excellent pavements, good as any found in the cities.

This condition speaks well for the public spirit and good taste of the villagers, who, as a rule, have nicely kept lawns, and creditable displays of flowers.

The morning the committee began work looking for men to excavate for the drain mentioned, and tenders will be invited at once for the construction of the pavement, contract made, and the work pushed to completion.

The Otonabee Agricultural Society has erected a new wire fence on the eastern, or river side, of the driving park. The society would also do wisely in running a mower over the portion of the park inside the track before the rather plentiful crop of ox-eye daisies goes to seed.

Prescribes Horse-Whipping Cure

"You look tired this morning. Are you sure you had your breakfast before you came to work?" This was the question a lady in Peterborough asked a woman whom she had engaged, on the advice of a friend, to do her washing this week. She received this reply, "Well, I wasn't very hungry this morning, you know, and I didn't take breakfast." Further inquiry revealed the fact that not only had she not eaten that morning, before coming to do a big day's work—washing—but that she had only eaten one meal the day before.

And the reason—she had given what little she had in the house to her three children and her husband. Her husband was sick, of course? Sick, nothing. He was just lazy. Looking for work that he did not want to find, and in the meantime with a brave little wife struggling to keep her children, and her great hulking piece of humanity—unworthy the name of a husband, at home, eating and probably drinking up what little money she was earning.

There was no complaint from her, though, but when the lady for whom she was working told her husband, which she did when he came in to dinner, there were some words said. The washing was postponed until another day, but the pay was forthcoming, and the gentleman paid a visit to the little home—if one can call a house with a little woman handicapped by a husband like that a home—and told the man he found there a few things, a little more forcibly than he had heard things said for a while, and delivered his ultimatum, which was to the effect that unless he went to work in one day, he would have him arrested. Had he delivered this ultimatum accompanied by a threshing he would have been justified. The next morning the man got a job, and he's working now.

Kind words are all right in their place, but there are times when a horse-whipping is better. This was one of them.

MR. WM. ANDERSON IS RECOVERING

Enjoyed a Drive Yesterday—Going Home on Saturday

The many friends of Mr. Wm. Anderson, ex-M.P.P., for East Peterborough, will be pleased to learn that he is rapidly recovering from his recent illness. During his confinement in the Nicholls Hospital, he has greatly improved, and yesterday, for the first time, enjoyed a drive around the city. Should his recovery continue until Saturday Mr. Anderson intends going out to his home in Otonabee.

DEATH RESULTED FROM INJURIES

Ed. C. Attrill Passed Away as the Result of an Accident at Chemong

As a result of injuries received by falling on a stump while reclining in a hammock at Chemong Park on Sunday evening, the 7th inst., Edward Chauncey Attrill passed away this afternoon at the Nicholls Hospital. He was visiting at the cottage of his brother-in-law, Mr. Heaton, of Toronto. He was taken to the Nicholls Hospital on the evening he met the injury and has gradually weakened until the end came to-day.

It will be remembered that the report of the accident was given in the issue of the 8th of July. Mr. Attrill was lying in a hammock when one of the cords broke and he was thrown to the ground, his back striking a stump injuring his spine. The injuries gradually became more serious and Mr. Attrill had to be taken to the hospital.

The late Ed. C. Attrill was born in Baltimore, Md., and was 37 years of age. He was unmarried and a member of the Church of England. He is a nephew of Mr. Thos. Attrill, Water street, city, and has a sister in Los Angeles, Cal.

His remains will be sent to Goderich to-morrow morning at 8.15 a.m.

THE CHILDREN'S SHELTER

The Children's Aid Society has set itself seriously to the problem of securing suitable quarters in which the work of the Society may be carried on. At the meeting yesterday, a committee, representative of the best citizens, was appointed to consider the best means of providing the accommodation necessary.

A suggestion has been made, which might prove of some benefit to the committee, and, in any event, is worth considering. The city now owns a house on the Hilliard farm, purchased a few years ago, and it has been suggested that this house could be utilized for the purpose of a Children's Shelter. In making this suggestion, it is pointed out that the plan of establishing a House of Correction for incorrigible boys — a place where they could be put to work during the time of their confinement in the Shelter—could be carried out.

The Society has about $1,300 in the treasury at the present time, thanks largely to the generosity of the trustees of the Nicholls Estate, and it is believed that $1,000 would be ample to effect the necessary changes in the house referred to to make it suitable for the purposes of a Shelter. This would practically mean that the gift of $1,000 from this estate would provide the building—that is, of course, provided the city authorities were willing that it should be used for that purpose, and relinquished their right to it in favour of the Children's Aid Society.

This is a suggestion which will no doubt be taken into consideration by the committee, and if it is found practical and that can be carried out, with profit to the cause, it will be acted upon.

PROGRESS IN MEDICINE

A few days ago, says the Brantford Expositor, Sir Frederick Treeves, at Preston, England, in an address, startled his hearers by stating that he looked forward to the time when the bottles on the doctors' shelves will be reduced to an extremely small number, and the empty shelves replaced by simple living, suitable diet and plenty of sun and fresh air. He pointed out how the power of these natural remedies had been shown in the campaign against consumption. Fresh air and sunshine, alone, will kill the germs of tuberculosis. Forty years ago the mortality from consumption was 25, while it is now only 12 per 10,000. It is truly encouraging to realise that medical science is making such progress, and when it is joined with education among the people, it will be a really strange thing for them to die of fever, typhoid, or diphtheria. Such is the optimism of a great doctor, and the lesson it teaches is one of the greatest possible encouragement and cheer. Of its spiritual application, we need say nothing. Let each one make it for himself.

THE "WATER CURE" ADMINISTERED

Punishment Meted Out to Fractious Member of the Y. M. C. A. Boys' Camp—The Outing is Being Enjoyed

THE BASEBALL LEAGUE

Y. M. C. A. Camp, July 17.—The first to go into the drink was Sleepy. His crime was swiping bananas from Section 1. As soon as the theft was discovered and he suspected, he was at once placed under arrest. His guilt was soon clearly proven and he was forthwith deposited in the waters of the lake. Such is the system of justice in vogue here.

Skin cams in last evening with a nice five-pound lunge. It made a tasty addition to to-day's dinner. Everyone is determined to be the next lucky one and great catches are looked for any day now.

Under the joint management of Flynn and Tom a wharf has been constructed which fills a long felt want in our camp equipment. So now with our new wharf, our new freshly painted tables, our seven tents and, neat little cook shanty, there is little could be desired to add to the convenience and comfort of our jolly crew. Our genial physical director is managing his department in fine style. However there are whispers going about among the boys that he is running grave risk of undergoing the drink punishment. The reason is said to lie in the frequency with which he turns his eyes and oars "down the line," to use the camp phraseology. Evening song services on the lake are his especial delight. Cheek has already met punishment on the same score and the camp justices are hoping that his case will serve as a wholesome example to Soap, and any others inclined to like ways.

As the result of this morning's game between the Chips and Tees, teh former retain their lead, having won all their 4 games, three being shut-outs. The Tees played stellar ball and the work of their batttery, ball, and the work of their battery, Fifty and Frigggy, was a vast improvement on their other games. It was the best game of the league so far, and the issue was always in doubt. Minnow's splendid, consistent work in the box was what saved the Chips from defeat. The score was 3—0.

A most pleasing little incident occurred yesterday which shows how kindly our neighbours look upon us. As a boatload of our boys was going to the store, they called at one of the cottagers across the lake to ask if they could do any errand. On returning with the mail at the cottage mentioned, they were presented with a fruit cake just out of the oven, "for the Y. boys." Did they enjoy it? "Whew!" "Isn't it swell," "Aw! gimme some more," etc., etc. Such were the expressions that followed its rapid disappearance. The boys would die for Mrs. —, now. Such is life at the Y. Camp. Come up and see us on Friday. You will miss it if you don't. Listen for the Camp Fire Pow Wow to-night.

"SCRIBBLER."

Y. M. C. A. Camp, July 16.—All goes well. The weather still holds fair. Everyone in camp from the tall Flynn to the miniature Midget is in the best of spirits. Sunday was a beautiful day and was passed most enjoyably and profitably by the boys. Directly after breakfast Flynn conducted the daily twenty-minute Bible Study. These morning studies are made very interesting and practical each day, and are a source of profit to the boys. A song service was held at night and a dozen skits and candes gathered from the neighbouring cottages. All the old favourite hymns were sung most heartily and the service was thoroughly enjoyable.

The ball league has been organized and three games have already been played. The three teams are the Capitals, Captian Steve; the Tecumsehs, Captian Friggy Perks, and the Chippewas, Captian Buster Layfield. The Chips head the league, having two wins to their credit. This evening the Chips and Caps meet, and a battle royal is expected, for "Soap" teh speedy new twirler of the latter team, is developing into a second Matheson. The Chips however, with strong battery, Buster and Minnow, who have already won them two shut out games, are confident of victory.

Thursday is the trip around the lakes. Friday is visitors' day and everyone here is expecting that many of their friends will take advantage of the Millbrook Sunday School excursion on that day to come and see the good time they are having. The day's programme will include two league games which promises to be of absorbing interest.

A RESOLUTION FROM THE BROTHERHOOD

COMMENDS ACTION OF MR. DUMBLE

In Dealing Heavy Sentence to Keepers of House of Ill-fame in the City

Editor Examiner.

Allow me to use your valuable columns to express my hearty gratitude to our worthy Police Magistrate, Mr. Dumble, for the severe sentence he has given to the inmates of one of the houses of bad repute. If I am informed rightly, there are many places like this in the city. Our police are doing their best to root-ing these places out, and their efforts are appreciated by the good element of Peterborough. The action of Mr. Dumble is highly commendable, as it is in the best interests of the morality of our city.

CHANCE FOR POULTRY FANCIERS

If They Wish to Become Identified With Ontario Confederation of Associations

Mr. Harry Lush has received a letter from Mr. J. E. Peart, of Hamilton, secretary-treasurer of the Confederation of Local Poultry Associations, of Ontario, addressed to the secretary of the Peterborough Poultry Association, and enclosing a copy of the constitution and bylaws of the Confederation.

The letter, in part, says: "Enclosed herewith please find copies of the constitution and bylaws, which will explain. Would be pleased to have your association represented by two delegates at our annual meeting, and also become a member of the Confederation."

The Peterborough Poultry Association has been defunct for a number of years and unless some of the local poultry fanciers wish to endeavour to bring about a revival it is not likely that anything will be done in connection with the above communication.

Anyone who is interested in the scheme may obtain a copy of the constitution and bylaws by calling at this office or communicating with J. E. Peart, 31 Pine street, Hamilton, Ont.

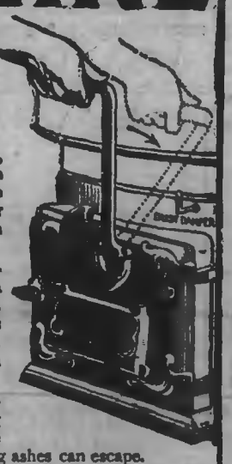
SUNSHINE FURNACE



NOT SHAKING. JUST A GENTLE ROCKING OF THE LEVER.

Shaking is a hard, back-breaking exercise, peculiar to common furnaces, while you can stand erect at the Sunshine—and moving the lever, to and fro, about half the length of your arm, a few times, is mere play. A child can easily do it.

Grates of the Sunshine are in two sections—right and left. By gently rocking the lever, a few times, the ashes are released from the right. Repeat the operation on the left and the ashes from that side drop into the ash-pan, too. You couldn't wish for anything easier than the Sunshine Method.

When this lever is not in use it can be disconnected from the grates and the opening capped. But when connected it fills up the opening so snugly that no dust from the falling ashes can escape.

Every detail is thought of on the "Sunshine"—that's what makes it the best.

Children's Aid Society Takes Initial Steps For New Shelter

An Enthusiastic Meeting Held in Council Chambers Yesterday---Sub-Committee Appointed to Investigate Sites and Other Details in Connection With Another Building---An Important Question to the City and County

An important meeting of the Board of Management of the Children's Aid Society was held in the Council Chambers yesterday afternoon to deal with a question that has recently presented itself and which requires the careful consideration of the Society. This matter was referred to in one of last week's issues, and concerns the procuring of premises for a new Shelter. Mr. J. H. Burnham, president of the Society, explained the necessity of dealing with the matter at once, in his opening address yesterday. The meeting was well attended, and the different classes of the citizens were well represented. Mayor McWilliams, on behalf of the city, Magistrates Dumble and Ramison for the city and county departments of justice, Rev. Dr. Langfeldt and Rev. Canon Davidson for the clergy, Chief Roszel for the police department, the officers of the society and the ladies were represented by a number who always take an active interest in the affairs of the Society. Mr. Geo. Cochrane and Mr. William Henry were also present.

President's Address

Mr. J. H. Burnham called the meeting to order and explained its purpose in the following words:

"The Board of Management is called together to-day to consider a question of very great importance to the county and city, as well as to the Children's Aid Society, viz.,—The purchase of a Shelter. We have asked the Mayor, the Warden, the Police Magistrates, the Chief of Police, and others, to be present in order that we may have the benefit of their experience and advice. It will probably be in order, after we have heard the views of those who may wish to express them, to appoint a sub-committee to look up a suitable place for a Shelter, and to see how the financial part of the question may best be dealt with. When, in the course of a month or so, this sub-committee is ready to report, we shall call the whole Society together, to submit the question to it for final consideration. Of course, it is known that the owner of the present Shelter, Mr. Best, has put it up for sale, and, as a consequence, the Society must be prepared to vacate it at short notice, if necessary. This season of the year is best suited for the consideration of the purchase of a Shelter, and it has been deemed advisable, in view of our recent gift of $1,000 by the trustees of the Nicholls Estate, Mr. Hall, and what we already have in hand for the same purpose, to proceed, with energy and deliberation, in the matter of such paramount importance. It is necessary to have a Shelter with plenty of ground attached, and as the Chief of Police is not averse to his men going some distance, in case of necessity, with waifs and strays picked up at night, as they sometimes are, there seems to be no great obstacle to the acquirement of spacious premises at a reasonable figure."

A general discussion of the question was then begun. Mr. Cochrane said that the matter was virtually the Society's becoming indebted for the sum of $5,000 of $6,000 in purchasing the present Shelter, on some suitable place on which the Society could erect a building. Rev. Dr. Langfeldt suggested that some of the wealthy citizens might lend assistance if they were asked.

Mr. Burnham said that it was not a desirable precedent of the Society to personally solicit aid for many reasons. It meant more work for the officers; in fact, it was a double duty, and, further, it was much better to have contributions offered voluntarily. If those men who have plenty of money feel that they can assist the Society, they have ample means of knowing how to present it, and to whom, through the daily press.

Mr. Campbell, treasurer of the Society, gave the encouraging information that three influential men, having heard of the meeting of yesterday, had made substantial offers to the Society.

Other Opinions

Regarding the appointing of a sub-committee, Mayor McWilliams considered that three or four persons should be chosen, as they could do the work of inquiry, and report to the Society when they had prepared their data. He believed that the Society should have a good Shelter, well located, where the children would have room to play and amuse themselves. If the sub-committee was for the purpose of determining the location, the money to be paid and the other details, he thought that a representative committee should be selected. It was to the interests of the city and county, he said, that a suitable place be chosen that would meet all requirements of the future.

The Sub-committee

It was then moved by Mr. George Cochrane, seconded by Mr. D. W. Dumble, that a committee, composed of the Mayor, the Warden, president of the Society, convenor; Police Magistrate Dumble, Police Magistrate Ramison, Rev. Father McColl, T. F. Matthews, vice-president of the Society; E. L. Goodwill, solicitor of Society; Peter Campbell, treasurer of Society, and Meadames Best and Birdsall, be appointed to consider the advisability of buying a Shelter or of otherwise procuring it, and of its locality, and that they report to a meeting of the Children's Aid Society, to be called at a convenient date.

Mr. D. W. Dumble, who, in his capacity of Police Magistrate, is in close touch with the Society's work, in seconding the motion, said that a good, roomy place was needed to meet any emergency. It was advisable, he considered, that an adequate building be erected, and provided with sufficient dormitories for any possible need.

Canon Davidson, Mr. Goodwill and Chief Roszel also made approving remarks, and considered the movement advisable.

The meeting was then adjourned.

When Your Health Fails, What Then

Good health is the capital of persons who earn their livelihood with brain and muscle. Success is for the strong and alert — for those whose blood is rich and whose nerve cells are filled with vigour and energy. It is not pleasant to contemplate what might happen with failing health and for this reason it is well to heed the first symptoms of nervous exhaustion and to keep health at high water mark by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

A MONTH-OLD CASE WAS SETTLED TO-DAY

The Only Case That Had to be Dealt With To-day

Chief Roszel had but one case at the police court this morning, and things have calmed considerably since the stormy sessions of the past two weeks. Two young men from the country in East Peterborough were charged with having been disorderly one day in the early part of June. One of the men, the aggressor in the rumpus, pleaded guilty and was fined $1.50 and costs, amounting to over $6.00. This man did not appear in court. The other pleaded not guilty and testified that he had done nothing but defend himself. He was discharged.

SAYS THIS IS BEST

A leading health journal in answering the question, "What is the best prescription to clean and purify the blood?" prints in a recent issue the following:

Fluid Extract Dandelion one ounce;

Compound Salatone, one ounce;

Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, four ounces.

Shake well and use in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime.

A well-known physician states that these are harmless vegetable ingredients, which can be obtained from any good prescription pharmacy.

This mixture will clean the blood of all impurities. In just a few days the skin begins to clear of sores, boils and pimples. It puts vigor and energy into run-down debilitated men and women. For many years Sarsaparilla alone has been considered a good blood medicine. But while it built up and made new blood, the impurities remained within and the good accomplished was only temporary. Sarsaparilla, however, when used in combination with Compound Salatone and Extract Dandelion, works wonders. This combination puts the kidneys to work to filter and sift out the waste matter, uric acid, and other impurities that cause disease. It makes new blood and relieves rheumatism and lame back and bladder troubles.

Decided To Confer With C. P. R. About Foot Bridge

Board of Works Dealt With the Problem Last Night--- Reeve of Douro Was Present in Connection With Maintenance of the Warsaw Road

Considerable business was transacted at the weekly meeting of the Board of Works Committee last night. Among the important things was the decision reached to communicate with the C. P. R., in reference to a footbridge being constructed across their bridge from the station to East City. A petition that had been very largely signed was read pointing out the desirability of taking some steps to make the southern part of East City more accessible. Other matters taken up were the diversion of the Downie street creek, and the filling in of Water street from Dublin street to Antrim street.

There were present, Ald. Duncan, chairman; the Mayor, Ald. Johnston, Wilson and McIntyre, City Engineer Hay, and Street Commissioner Harry Evans.

Wanted Better Connections

Mr. Angus McIntosh was present, and asked the city to re-arrange his sewer connection. He desires to lower his cellar and the sewer at the present time is not deep enough.

Ald. Wilson moved, seconded by Ald. Johnston that the City Engineer be instructed to have the sewer from Mr. McIntosh's house to the street line lowered as much as necessary.—Carried.

Mr. McIntosh objected to having to pay for the cost of relaying the sewer, but the board could not do anything for him in this respect.

Douro Boundary

Reeve Moher of Douro, was present and discussed with the board the boundary road between the city and the township of Douro. Mr. Moher said that he knew of no particular agreement between the city and teh Douro council in respect to the maintenance of the road running and the Douro council in respect to the road running north and south, he said that there had been an agreement with the city. The township of Douro had done its part, but the city had not carried out its share. He suggested that the city do on the road running east and west what they had neglected to do on the other.

City Engineer Hay stated that Mr. Fitzgerald had estimated that it would cost $100 to place the road over the hill between Smith street bridge and the finger post, in fair shape.

The Mayor remarked that the best thing to do was for each municipality to assume its share of the cost and get the work done at once. It appeared to him that neither body had done much on the road in the last few years.

The Mayor moved that Mr. Fitzgerald be instructed to have the road running east and west repaired at a cost not exceeding $100, the township of Douro to pay half of the cost. Ald. Johnston seconded the motion, which was carried.

Downie Street Creek

Mr. A. W. Tamblin of Downie street, waited upon the council in connection with the diversion of the Downie street creek, which he said he wanted to see done as soon as possible. He was willing to do the oribwork himself, if the city would supply him with the timber.

The Mayor moved that the City Engineer be instructed to supply Mr Tamblyn with what timber he considers necessary for the cribbing of the diverted creek through Mr. Blodgett's property, provided that Mr. Blodgett sign the agreement. Ald. McIntyre seconded the motion, which was carried.

Sidewalk Petitions

Some petitions for granolithic sidewalks, which had been properly signed and in before May 1st, which had been inadvertently missed in the list, were ordered to be done. They were on Boncord street, from Park street to the railway, and on Dalhousie street, south side, Stewart street to Rubidge street.

Ald. Johnston moved that a wooden sidewalk be constructed on the eastern side in front of Mr. Wright's property on Jackson avenue, as far as Albert street. The motion, which was seconded by Ald. Wilson, was carried.

A petition for a sidewalk on the south side of Sherbrooke street, from Bethune street to Rubidge street, was considered and the committee decided to have the property owners consent to extend it to Park street, before doing the other work.

The Bridge Difficulty

A petition was read signed by a large number of ratepayers, asking for some method of crossing the river at the southern end of East City owing to the C. P. R. forbidding traffic on their bridge.

The Mayor said that those getting up the petition, had two ideas in view. One was to have a foot bridge built alongside the C. P.R. bridge, or else build a new bridge from the foot of Maria street.

Ald. Wilson remarked that the construction of a new bridge was out of the question this year, and that the council should communicate with the C. P. R. on the matter.

The city engineer was of the opinion that a foot bridge on the C. P. R. was quite practicable.

Ald. Wilson moved, seconded by Ald. Johnston, that the General Superintendent of the C. P. R. be communicated with, and asked if the company would be willing to confer with the city in respect to a foot bridge across the C. P. R. bridge. —Carried.

Bridge Repaired

The chairman stated that the bridges over the creek on Simcoe and Hunter street needed repairing. The structure underneath was rusting, and needed repainting badly. He said the work should be done at once.

On motion of Ald. Johnston, seconded by Ald. Wilson, the matter was left in the hands of the chairman.

Filling in Water Street

The filling in of Water street inside the sidewalk, near the Goose Pond, was considered.

Ald. Wilson did not think that the city should do any of the filling.

Ald. McIntyre said that he had heard the property had been ruined, and he thought that the city should do the work of filling up the property. "I didn't go to see it myself," remarked the alderman, "or I would be able to talk more about it." He moved that the city do some filling there.

The mayor and the chairman were in favour of filling in the lowest holes.

The city clerk suggested that the city fill up the hole where the old sidewalk had been built, and build it up to the level of the other ground.

The mayor said that if the practice of filling in was started, it would have to be done all over. He thought, however, that if the conditions were abnormal that the city should do some filling.

The Mayor moved, seconded by Ald. McIntyre, that the engineer be instructed to remove the old sidewalk between Dublin and Antrim streets, and to fill up the whole left to the level of the ground between the two sidewalks. — Carried.

Sewer on Rogers Street

A petition for 190 feet of sewer on Rogers street, south of Hunter, was sufficiently signed, and on motion of Ald. Wilson seconded by Ald. McIntyre, the request was granted.

New Entrance to Oval

The Mayor stated that Mr. Richard Hall, executor of the Nicholls estate, had purchased the lot between Dufferin street and East Nicholls park, for the purpose of obtaining an entrance into the park, and was anxious that the city should grade the extension of Ross street through this property. The new entrance to the park would prove to be of great advantage.

It was moved by the Mayor, and seconded by Ald. Wilson, that the Engineer be instructed to have the grading of Ross street to the oval done as soon as possible. — Carried.

Revered Minister And Wife Celebrate Golden Wedding

Rev. Henry McDowell and Mrs. McDowell, Who Are Related Here and Are Well Known Here, Married 50 Years.

BEEN VISITING IN THE CITY

The golden wedding of Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Henry McDowell of Aurora, parents of Mrs. Lightfoot of Peterborough, was celebrated recently, and was attended by Mrs. Lightfoot, and her daughters, as well as a large number of others from different parts of the Province. Mr. and Mrs. McDowell have been visiting their daughter here recently, and received warm congratulations upon having reached the half century mark in their married life. The Christian Guardian, referring to the pleasing event, says:—

On Saturday, June 29, surrounded by the members of their family, Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Henry McDowell celebrated their golden wedding at their home on Catherine avenue, Aurora. Among those present were Mrs. and the Misses Lightfoot of Peterborough, Mr. and Mrs. Whelan, Master Charles and Miss Louie Whelan, of Detroit; Dr. and Mrs. McDowell of Spokane, Wash.; Mr. and Mrs. F E York and family of Aurora, Miss Louise McDowell of Winnipeg, Mrs. R H Bryce of Winnipeg, Mr. and Mrs. George Kerr of Toronto, Mrs. W H G Kerr, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Von Saciski, of Toronto; Rev. Mr. and Mrs. T Dunlop of Parry Sound, and Rev. Mr. and Mrs. A. Bedford of Aurora. After luncheon, congratulatory addresses were delivered by Rev. T. Dunlop, Rev. A. Bedford, Dr. McDowell and Messrs. York and Whelan, all referring to the long and useful lives, and now mellowed and enriched characters of the couple they delighted to honour. Afterwards a reception was held for the friends in town, and many hearty congratulations were received. Among the many presents were a suitably engraven purse of gold from thier children, and a gold pin from the ladies of the W. M. S. of Aurora. We feel assured that Mr. and Mrs. McDowell's numerous friends upon the many fields where they have laboured throughout the Province will join in the prayer that the latter days of this most estimable couple may be calm and bright, that the evening shadows may gather very slowly, that the night may be very tardy in its approach, and that when it does come, as come it must, the sunset may be golden.

CHARITY TO COVER RATHER THAN TO EMPHASIZE ONE'S FAULTS

To the Editor of the Examiner,

Dear Sir, — In your issue of Wednesday last a writer signing himself "Reader" criticizes my correction of "Cleanliness is next to godliness."

It is evident from "Reader's" remarks that his ambition was to get a knock at me; in so doing he lost sight of the true object of my correction, which was to acknowledge my mistake, of which many others are guilty, and to show the necessity of recognising and of giving credit to the good anyone may have expressed for this good was the true individuality.

If you will allow me space I will try and be more explicit.

I am pleased to know my little effort has not been in vain, some of our most intelligent citizens profiting by it. One of our bank managers states that he had always thought the statement was scriptural.

Our "Reader" seems to think he has convinced everybody as to John Wesley being the author of the quotation. Not yet! Some college graduates are still of the opinion that Shakspere is its author. A minister of the Gospel and a medical doctor still hold that its was Shakspere who first said it. No person will doubt but John Wesley used te expression, as scores of others have done, without giving credit. To myself it sounds as if Wesley were emphasizing what had already been said.

If it be true that Wesley is the author of this statement he has been robbed of what belonged to him. I have heard it used many times, but never before that it was John Wesley's thought; therefore it adds to my claim of the necessity of ascribing to each one the good he expresses.

The tendency of mortals is to magnify the evil they see in their fellow beings, instead of giving him credit for even the little spark of good manifested by him. Since the good reflected is the true man, we are often found burying our brother alive by thinking and speaking of his faults.

A few years ago I listened to a sermon by a man who had earlier spoken against Mrs. M. B. G. Eddy. In this sermon, however, he quoted a whole paragraph from "Science and Health, with Key to the Scriptures, by Mary B. G. Eddy, without giving her credit. This thought added much to the strength of the sermon. I may have been the only one in the audience familiar with the notation consequently the people were deceived. They to a certain extent were listening to and following Mrs. Eddy, whom the same speaker as denounced as a bad woman.

This is the thought that I wish to convey in my correction—that the real man is the good, the mortal reflected. By recognising the good, thinking and speaking of it, we would develop our own concept of good, and thus aid in bringing more of Heaven (Harmony) on earth.

Hoping that I have not trespassed too greatly on your valuable space, and again thanking you, I am,

Sincerely yours,
R. J. TODD.

FATHER RISKED LIFE TO SAVE YOUNG SON FROM DROWNING

The Hastings Star says: — What might have terminated in a drowning fatality occured at the locks on Saturday evening when the little son of Mr. Robt. Bateman of Belleville, who is a guest at the Clarendon House, fell in the river at the west side of the lock gates. The little fellow was crossing the lock on the gate holding his father's hand and on arriving at the farther side let go and jumped out to reach the landing, but jumped short and landed in the water at the head of the lock. His father, who could not swim a stroke, at once plunged in to his rescue and with the aid of Messrs. John and James Welsh and Ed. Lynch, got the little lad and himself out of the water. As the water is almost twenty feet deep at this spot, it was certainly a heroic act of Mr. Bateman, as had there been no one close at hand he would likely have had a very hard time saving himself and the boy.

ONLY ONE COW BUT A GOOD ONE

Mr. R. H. Little Has Dairy Cow Which Leads the Pine Grove Cow Testing Association

In the last issue of the Canadian Dairyman, Mr. T. H. Binnie has a letter in reference to a good record made by a dairy cow, the property of Mr. R. H. Little. Mr. Binnie says:

Ed. the Canadian Dairyman,—To set his patrons a good example, should be the object of every cheese and butter-maker who keeps a cow. This is being done by Mr. R. H. Little of the Pine Grove factory, Peterborough county. Mr. Little keeps only one cow, but she is leader in the Pine Grove Testing Association. She is of grade Holstein, and during May, gave 1,112 lbs. of milk, testing 6.1., yielding 67.8 lbs. of butter-fat, while for June she gave 1,330 lbs. milk, testing 5.5, yielding 73.15 lbs. of butter-fat.

Mr. Little is a firm believer in supplementing his pasture with grain. While he is milking, the cow is contentedly eating her allowance—usually ground oats. Mr. Little always feeds his cow well when she is dry, and to this he attributes the secret of the handsome returns he gets from her. If more cows, like this one, were kept throughout the Province, there would be a great increase in the amount of money left in the country.

BIG 'LUNG CAUGHT IN THE LAKE

Messrs. Court Poussette and Geo. Irwin Landed One Weighing 15 5-8 Pounds

About the biggest lunge caught in Little Lake this season was landed yesterday afternoon, when Messrs. Court Poussette and George Irwin succeeded in pinning a monster, which tipped the scales at 15 5-8 lbs. The Liz lunge was hooked opposite the Peterborough Lumber Company's mill, and made a game fight before being finally landed and dispatched. Needless to say the two anglers are very much elated over their capture.

Dear Sir, — I understand that the first installment of taxes is due on August 1st, less than half a month off, and in many cases, I understand, mine among them, the tax bills have not been delivered. I happen to own a few houses in the city, and I suppose that I shall have to pay taxes on them. I should like to know how much these taxes will be in order that I may be able to make some provision for meeting them.

When will the bills be delivered?

Editor Post-Card Column.

Before the public support the excursion to be held on Friday next on behalf of the Children's Aid Society and the Sick Children's Hospital, it should be ascertained how the receipts are to be divided. The management of the Otonabee Navigation Company takes for itself 80 per cent. of the total receipts, and doles out 20 per cent. to the respective societies, Sunday schools, etc., under whose auspices the excursion is being held. If only 20 per cent. is to be given to aid these worthy institutions, the money to be spent on this proposed excursion, under conditions as outlined, might be invested to better advantage of the two societies.

GOT HIS HAIRBACK

Was Perfectly Bald When He Started to Use Newbro's Herpicide

Butte, Montna, bought a bottle of Newbro's Herpicide, April 6, '99, and began to use it for entire baldness. The hair follicles in his scalp were not dead and in 20 days he had hair all over his head. On July 2, he writes, "and to-day my hair is as thick and luxuriant as any one could wish." Newbro's Herpicide works on an old principle and with a new discovery—destroy the cause and you remove the effect. Herpicide destroys the germ that causes dandruff, falling hair, and finally baldness, so that with the cause gone the effect cannot remain. Stops falling hair at once and a new growth starts. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Two sizes, 50c. and $1. McDermid and Jury, special agents.

SAME TERMS AS OTHER SOCIETIES

Official of Otonabee Navigation Company Makes Statement in Reference to Excursion To-morrow Night

In connection with the letter published in another column in reference to the excursion to Berrum to-morrow night, for the benefit of the Children's Aid Society and the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto, the Examiner interviewed the manager of the Navigation Company, and his statement is to the effect that a committee of young ladies waited upon him and made the usual arrangements for the boat, upon the same terms as those given other societies, 20 per cent. of the receipts, up to a certain point, and a higher percentage if they go beyond that point, being given to the committee. He stated that the Navigation Company was not running the excursion, and had nothing to do with it beyond chartering the boat for the purpose. It is understood that Mr. J. H. Burnham, the president of the society, was spoken to in reference to accepting the division of the percentage available for the purposes of the two institutions named, and expressed his willingness on behalf of the society to accept it.

One of the young ladies on the committee arranging the excursion was also communicated with in this connection, and she explained that the idea sprang out of a suggestion made by some member of a young ladies' Bible class in connection with the Y. W. C. A., and, in devising plans for some charitable work during the summer, the idea of an excursion was suggested, and acted upon. She expressed herself as greatly pained that the motives of herself and her young lady associates should be misunderstood.

OSHAWA TEAM HOPE FOR VICTORY

Will Meet Peterborough Here on Saturday Afternoon

One of the best ball games of the season should be seen at Riverside Park on Saturday, when Oshawa and Peterborough meet in a Midland League contest. Both teams will work hard for a victory, and the Oshawa bunch, encouraged by their victory over Peterborough last Saturday, will take a lot of beating. The locals will have their strongest line-up on, however, and will make the visitors extend themselves more than they did last Saturday. Phelan of Toronto will likely be on the slab for Oshawa.

SUCCESSFUL SOCIAL AT FRASERVILLE

Salvation Army Band Discoursed Their Best Music and Pleased the People

A section of the Salvation Army Band went to Fraserville last night to assist in the entertainment at a lawn social which was given at the Methodist Church there. They report that a most enjoyable time was spent, and the people who were there in large numbers were apparently delighted with the music. There were seventeen bandsmen at the social, and they did their best to entertain the Fraserville people. The proceeds were encouraging and the affair was a success in every way.

LOCAL STEAMERS WERE INSPECTED YESTERDAY

Inspector Davis in the City—Boiler Inspection Last Friday

On Friday last Mr. Thompson, Government Inspector of Boilers of Steamers, was in the city and looked over the boilers of the local steamers before proceeding to the upper lakes. Yesterday, Inspector Davis, Government Inspector of Hulls, was here before going to the lakes. It is understood that all the local steamboats passed their inspection and were given the necessary papers for operation for the coming year.

FINGER CRUSHED BY HEAVY CASTING

Mr. Jack Sheridan Injured at C. G. E. Works Yesterday

Mr. Jack Sheridan met with a very painful accident yesterday afternoon while at work in the machine shop of the Canadian General Electric Company. He will be unable to resume work for some time.

DEDICATION SERVICES AT S. A. BARRACKS

Special Ceremony on Sunday Morning—Open Air Meeting

On Sunday morning there will be a dedication service at the Salvation Army Barracks. It is similar to a christening in other churches, and the child who will be dedicated is the infant son of Mr. Wesley Boorman. Also, in the morning, the weekly Sunday morning open-air service will be held on Mark street, East City, at 10 o'clock. A full attendance of the band is requested, and a large turn-out is expected.

DOG POISONER AGAIN GETS IN WORK

Valuable Fox Terrier, the Property of Mr. C. F. Browne, Was Killed This Morning

The dog-poisoner is at work again, and this morning a fox terrier of some considerable value, belonging to Mr. C. F. Browne, George street, was found dead. The dog left the house and in a few minutes was back again, and immediately was taken sick, and died in a few minutes. The method of the administration of the poison is mysterious, but it is certainly effective.

Mr. Browne is naturally much annoyed at the loss of his dog, and more particularly at the means made use of to effect his demise, and if the guilty person is apprehended the law will be invoked.

YOUNG CANOEIST HAD A DUCKING

Fell Into the Otonabee Off Landing Stage at Rye's Boat House Last Night

A young man was given an unlooked-for ducking last night at Rye's boathouse on the Otonabee. He had taken a couple of young ladies down the river for a paddle, and had returned to the landing place, when the mishap occurred. The ladies had been helped out of the canoe and he had reached over to draw the craft close to the landing stage, when he fell into the water which, fortunately was not deep, and the only inconvenience was that of his discomfort.

THE TATE OPTICAL CO.
PETERBORO.

Practically during my whole life (prior to June 1905) I was troubled with terrible pains in my head which I attributed to violent attacks of neuralgia. I tried innumerable headache and neuralgic preparations, but without obtaining the slightest relief. The suffering I endured for a year or more previous to the time I consulted you is indescribable. At times I became delirious through the intense pain, and was obliged to call in a local Physician. Many times morphine was administered to allay the terrible suffering I was undergoing, but this did not give me the slightest relief. A friend advised me to consult your Mr. Babcock, I did so and found out from you that I was suffering from muscular nervous asthenopia, caused by astigmatism. It was remarkable the relief I obtained after the treatment I received, and the wearing of the glasses you prescribed and made for me, since that time I have experienced no difficulty with my eyes, nor have I suffered the slightest return of the old trouble. I cannot help but attribute the ill-health and suffering I experienced as being due to the trouble in my eyes before consulting you. I feel very grateful indeed for the interest taken in my case, as I had almost despaired of ever getting any relief. I might also say I consulted opticians in Lindsay and Toronto in reference to my trouble, but obtained no relief. I desire to again express my sincere gratitude to you for the trouble taken in my case, as well as the wonderful care effected. Yours sincerely

Trouble In Connection With The Park Street Excursion

Inspector Prevented Monarch From Taking Barge—Went to Chambers' Point Instead of Jubilee.

HAD TO MAKE TWO TRIPS

The excursion of the Park street Baptist Sunday school was supposed to have gone by steamer Monarch and barge to-day to Jubilee Point, but owing to the intervention of unexpected circumstances, it only went as far as Chambers's Point, and sailed minus the barge. The cancellation was due to the refusal of the Government inspector to allow the barge to be taken, as it had never passed inspection. Also there were more passengers wishing to go than the Monarch was allowed to carry, so that only part of them could have gone to Jubilee Point. In order therefore that all who wished might go down the river the excursion was run to Chamber's Point, a couple of miles below the Locks bridge, two trips being necessary to carry the crowd. A number returned home and refused to participate.

It appears that this morning many of the passengers go on board the Monarch at the Wolfe street wharf and sailed happily down to the landing at the end of the street car line. Here, however, their aspirations were dampened considerably when they learned that Mr. Robert Hall, acting on behalf of the Government, refused to allow the barge to go as it had not passed inspection. A number of those connected with the church had been working all morning getting a refreshment booth and chairs and benches on board, but their work was all in vain. There were too many passengers for the steamer alone to carry so that the termination point was made at Chambers Landing.

The Government regulations in regard to passenger barges are such that no steamer is permitted to take a barge alongside. When it has been inspected, it must be towed some 60 or 100 feet to the rear, and to pass inspection must contain a life preserver for every passenger that its capacity allows.

It is stated by the steamboat men that it is almost impossible to tow a scow behind a steamer in the Otonabee river, and hence for some time the steamboat companies have been violating the laws more or less, not only in regard to barges, but also in the matter of overloading boats. The Government intends to rigidly enforce the regulations, and it is understood that there is a heavy penalty for the violation of them.

ANOTHER IMMORAL CASE IS REPORTED

Two Well Known Characters Placed Behind the Bars

Still another unsavory case will be heard in the Police Court to-morrow morning, the principals this time being "Tidy" Hern and Nellie Drain, who were arrested in Jackson Park this afternoon by Police Officers Meharry and Newhall. The constables were seen to shadow the couple to the park just after midday, and about 2 o'clock they were arrested.

The prisoners were brought to the police station by P. C. Meharry and will spend a few hours in the cells before their trials. They will probably be charged with indecent exposure. The girl is a well-known character in police circles, having recently spent a month in Castle Nesbitt on a somewhat similar charge.

The constables were in civilian clothes when they shadowed the two to the park and made the arrests.

Peterborough will likely play in Lindsay some evening during the early part of next week. A letter was received from Mr. R. J. Menzies of Lindsay in regard to the game some days ago, strictly amateur game, and the locals will likely accept. The game is a benefit for some Lindsay player.

It is some years since the Oshawa ball team played in Peterborough, and their visit here on Saturday is being looked forward to with interest by the fans. The lakeshore team will have its strongest line-up on Saturday, and hopes to beat Peterborough again, while the locals are confident that they will reverse Saturday's score. Whichever team wins there will be a great game, and no doubt the bugs will be out in full force at Riverside Park. The game will be called at 3 o'clock sharp.

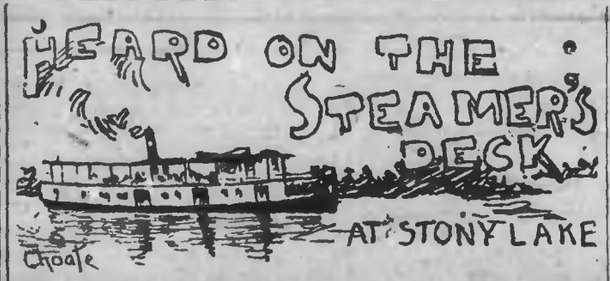
HEARD ON THE STEAMER'S DECK AT STONY LAKE



Stony Lake, July 17.—This week has opened with typical Stony Lake weather. Old Sol appears to be on the job in earnest though he was a trifle shady yesterday when a dash of rain passed over. The evenings which until quite recently have been decidedly cool, are now more pleasant owing to a rise of several degrees in the thermometer.

A moonlight excursion party came up from Lakefield on Monday night and spent a few hours at Juniper Island.

DUBBIE SHEA IN THE .300 CLASS

Just Four Points Behind the Leader in Brantford City League Race

Dubby Shea, formerly short stop of the Peterborough baseball club, and now with the Dufferins in the Brantford City League, is doing well with the willow. The Expositor says:

The fight for the batting prize has now become intensely hot and eight men are hitting over .300. Al. Watts is still ahead, but his lead has been reduced to a single point over Dinny Burke. The latter's fine work with the willow on Saturday, and Watts' slump, put the Duff second bagger away up, and the game next Saturday, when the Soldiers meet the Vets., will have a lot to do with the disposition of the prize. Al. Watts dropped from .412 to .368, and Burke jumped from .327 to .307. Dubby Shea dropped three points, and is consequently hitting a .364 clip, only four points behind the leader.

BABY HAD DIARRHOEA FOR SEVEN WEEKS

Thousands of infants die annually who could be saved by the timely use of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry.

There can be no doubt about it. Sixty-two years experience has proved this sterling remedy to be the best for Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Colic, Cramps, Cholera Infantum, Cholera Morbus Summer Complaint, and all bowel troubles in both children and adults.

Many of the imitations sold are positively dangerous, as they often check the diarrhoea too suddenly and cause inflammation.

Always insist on the genuine Dr. Fowler's. Sold at all medicine dealers at 35 cents a bottle.

Mrs. A. B. De Marchand, Bath, N.B., writes: "My baby was troubled with Diarrhoea for nearly seven weeks. I tried three different doctors, but none of them could do her any good. I was advised to try Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry and less than half a bottle cured her."

BRACEBRIDGE WANTS A GAME

Chance for Local Lacrosse Players to Get a Good Trip

The Peterborough Lacrosse Club has been invited to play an exhibition game in Bracebridge on Tuesday next, and will accept if a team can be gotten together for the occasion. A good chance is offered for any local lacrosse player who would like to take the trip. All expenses will be paid by the Bracebridge club, and the outing would be enjoyable. Players desiring to go should leave their names with some of the officers of the club not later than tonight, so that a reply can be given to the Bracebridge club.

BEAVERTON BADLY BEAT THE TORONTOS

Score in Yesterday's Game Was 17-6 in Favour of the Checkers

Beaverton swamped the Young Torontos in an intermediate C. L. A. game at Beaverton yesterday, the score standing 17-6 in favour of the Checkers. The result of the game was awaited with much interest amongst the local enthusiasts, and was a big surprise. Many thought the Torontos would win, and no one imagined the score would be so large.

The win practically gives Beaverton the district unless the Checkers should lose their game in Toronto and in Newmarket, and the young Torontos should win the three games they have to play, two in Toronto, with Newmarket and Beaverton, and the other in Peterborough.

PETERBORO' MAN MAY BE SELECTED

Mr. C. H. Hill May be Chosen for International Cricket Team

In last night's issue of the Toronto Star an article appeared on the sporting page, referring to the selection of the players who will represent Canada in the annual cricket match with the United States. Among others whose names will come up before the Selection Committee is Mr. H. C. Hill of Peterborough, formerly of Montreal, who, the Star said, carried a good bat in the Toronto—R. M. C. game." This is an honour for Mr. Hill, whose ability in the great English game has been recognised, and his chance for a position on the representative team of Canada is quite promising.

FOOTBALL

In the first soccer game for the People's Shield, the Caledonians of Calgary, beat the Toronto Thistles at Winnipeg yesterday by 2 to 1.

The proposed association football match between Warkworth and the intermediate Quakers, on the grounds of the former, will not be played on Saturday, but probably will the following Saturday.

"ALL GOOD THINGS"
must win upon their merits. The International Dictionary has won a greater distinction upon its merits and is in more general use than any other work of its kind in the English language.

A. H. Sayce, LL.D., D.D., of Oxford University, England, has recently said of it: It is indeed a marvelous work; it is difficult to conceive of a dictionary more exhaustive and complete. Everything is in it—not only what we might expect to find in such a work, but also what few of us would ever have thought of looking for.

A supplement to the new edition has brought it fully up to date. I have been looking through the latter with a feeling of astonishment at its completeness, and the amount of labor that has been put into it.

HIGH HONOUR FOR A LOCAL MAN

Mr. Duncan Walker Elected to Office of District Deputy Grand Master of Masonic Grand Lodge

FOR OTONABEE DISTRICT

Mr. Duncan Walker has been honoured by election to the office of District Deputy Grand Master of the Masonic Grand Lodge, for the District of Otonabee, which includes the territory extending from the eastern limits of Peterborough county, south to Lake Ontario, and west to Whitby and north to Bobcaygeon.

CAPT. DUNCAN WALKER

Who was yesterday elected District Master of Masonic Grand Lodge for Otonabee District

This is a distinct honour, and Mr. Walker's friends here and throughout the district will learn with pleasure of his election, which is in succession to Mr. E. R. Bounsell, of Bowmanville, who held the position last year.

At the meeting of the Grand Lodge being held in Ottawa, the Grand Master, in his address noted that the numerical increase has been 8,000, the total membership now standing at over 40,000. The capital account stands at $114,852, after an expenditure of $31,351 for all purposes, including benevolence. Financially the year had been the most prosperous in the history of the Grand Lodge. The Grand Master asked approval of his action in forwarding a cheque for $1000 for the Masonic sufferers at Kingston, Jamaica. Six warrants for new Lodges had been granted, and thirteen lodges were dedicated and constituted.

The gross gain in membership during the year was 3167, the roll at the beginning of the year numbering 37,628.

The Grand Master also deplored the custom of canvassing for office, alluding specifically to one case where a typewritten circular had been sent out.

ST. JOHN'S RECTORY

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir, — The Rectory Committee and Advisory Board of St. John's church, who met in representative number on Tuesday evening, were a unit in expressing their strong disapproval of the article that appeared in your issue of Monday evening last, headed, "Trouble over a Rectory Site."

The Vestry and congregation of St. John's are loyal enough to Canon Davidson and the Church, to erect a Rectory on a site satisfactory to all parties concerned, and do not desire any outside interference in the matter, through the public press, or otherwise.

Yours truly,
D. Hughes Charles,
Rector's Warden.
Chas. H. J. Mitchell,
People's Warden.
P. Campbell,
Chairman Rectory Com.

In reference to the above letter of explanation, the Examiner can but restate its position. That it was desired by some to have the Rectory built in a position which would mar, if not actually destroy the beauty of the grounds surrounding this picturesque church, is admitted, and, since the preservation of the present unique beauty of this spot, is a matter in which the citizens, as a whole, take some—it is assumed—warranted concern, it was thought not inappropriate to call attention to the action which, if successful, would have resulted detrimentally to the beauty of the grounds.

It must not be forgotten that a block in the heart of the city is under the control, to a very large extent, of the Rector, and it is to be hoped, in the interests of the city—the preservation of the beauty of which the citizens are jealous of—those in the control of these affairs will not contemplate the prosecution of anything which would tend to destroy the picturesqueness of this beauty spot.

Peterborough Excursionists Were Witnesses To Suicide

Messrs. Chas. Seymour and A. Long, on Foresters' Excursion to Niagara Falls, Saw Man Go to Death Over Cataract.

THEY TELL THE STORY

Examiner Special.

Buffalo, July 19. — Charles Seymour and A. Long, of Peterborough, were witnesses of a suicide at Niagara Falls yesterday. A man whose identity is unknown, went to his death at 7.50 o'clock, by jumping into the Niagara River from the Goat Island bridge. He was a cripple, about 60 years old, and behind him he left a crutch and a cane. In the crotch of the crutch was found the following note, poorly written, and mis-spelled, "Tell my friends that I have gone to glory." It was signed "D.T.," and the initials "J. D." were found on the top of the cane. The man was on Goat Island and he was returning to the mainland when he took the fatal jump. He was about midway on the bridge when he dropped his crutch and cane and climbed over the side. Nightwatchman L. C. Harwood and Charles W. McKee, colored, witnessed the death from the bridge and they shouted. Harwood then ran to the police court where Superintendent Perry was attending an inquest, and notified him. Both Mr. Perry and Coroner Scott hurried to the scene. Seymour and Long were sitting on a bench near the bank of the river, and only a short distance from the bridge. Mr. Seymour saw the man's actions. "As he climbed over the bridge, he hesitated for a moment," says Seymour, "and I got a good look at him. He was slightly bald and had a sandy moustache. He wore a cap and appeared like a prosperous business man. He wore dark clothes. As soon as he struck the water he began to make overhand strokes. He was carried over towards the island, and I lost sight of him about fifty feet from the bank."

The Charles Seymour referred to in the despatch, is well known here. He is an accountant in the office of the Peterborough Light and Power Company, and was at Niagara Falls yesterday on the Foresters' excursion from this city. He was not in town to-day having remained over for a few days' holidays.

Relief Officer Has Many People To Look After

Newly Arrived Immigrants Give Him Trouble — Twelve From Montreal Last Night Without a Cent and Had to be Provided For.

TROUBLE NEXT WINTER

Relief Officer Miller has his hands full these days looking after the newly-arrived immigrants from the Old Country, a large number of whom come to Peterborough without a cent in their pockets and no place to go to, and have to be cared for by the relief officer.

"It's a shame the way these people are treated," said Mr. Miller, and he went on to tell of a case that came to his notice a few days ago. An English family, consisting of father and mother and three children, arrived in the city with no money, nothing to eat and no place to sleep. Their destination was Birdsall's, which they could not reach until next day, and, accordingly, Mr. Miller had to see that they were provided with food, after which they were accommodated at one of the local hotels for the night.

"The immigration authorities at Toronto know, or should know, that they couldn't get through to Birdsall's that night," remarked Mr. Miller, but they sent them down here without a cent of money, trusting that they would be looked after here."

Last night Mr. Miller had to act again. Twelve young Englishmen, recent arrivals from the Old Country, came to the city from Montreal, on the understanding that they would be given work at once. They had, Mr. Miller states, signed contracts with the C. P. R. to work for $1.50 per day, but on their arrival they found that the local representative of the company knew nothing of any work for them here. They were stranded and none of the party had any money. Some of them found their way to the Mayor and were sent to a restaurant for their supper, while the others sought the relief officer and were accommodated in the same way. The night was spent in the C. P. R. station, and this morning Mr. Miller had to see that they were provided with breakfast. Mr. Dodds is endeavouring to find out why they were sent here.

Mr. Miller expects trouble next winter, as he thinks that it is practically impossible for the families that are reaching here now without a cent to get in shape for the cold weather, which means that the city's charity forces will have to look after them.

"Last winter was the worst on record," said Mr. Miller, "but this coming one promises to surpass it. I am keeping an eye on those whom I think will need assistance later on, and will be ready when the cold weather comes."

Last winter the city had to look after a number of families who had to be kept in fuel, food, clothes, in fact, all the necessities of life. The appropriation for charity was $1,800, and it is thought that more will be required next winter.

Just now there are four cases of charity, the newcomers coming to be doing well at present, but it will be different when winter comes.

CANADA IS A FAVOURED LAND; 200,000 IMMIGRANTS SINCE JAN. 1st

Ottawa, July 18.—The Immigration Department reports that the total arrivals of immigrants in Canada to date for the present calendar year totals over two hundred thousand, a large increase over the total immigration of the twelve months of 1906. For the past month or so almost all the available space in the trans-Atlantic steamers sailing for Canada is already taken up, and indications point to the realization of the prophecy made last spring that this year's immigration would total in the neighbourhood of three hundred thousand.

BLOWN TO PIECES ON A BARGE

Craft Loaded With Dynamite is Torn to Kindling Wood

Ketchikan, Alaska, July 18.—Four men were blown to atoms by the blowing up of the barge Japan, loaded with dynamite. The barge belonged to the Brown Alaska Company of Hadley. It was in tow of the tug Marion at the time of the accident. The explosive was being taken to the property of the Brown Alaska Company. About 8 o'clock as the convoy was off Bold Island, 12 miles south of here, the explosion occurred.

Three members of the Japan's crew were torn to fragments and parts of the shattered bodies were hurled into the sea. One of the Marion's men was killed by a piece of the wrecked barge which struck him.

Little remains of the dynamite barge.

Act Of Kindness; How It Resulted

The other morning a young fellow carried a parcel wrapped in a newspaper from his boarding house to the place where he worked, and during the course of the forenoon the contents of that parcel were transferred to the possession of an individual who would be called "seedy" by some, and half an hour afterwards he re-appeared dressed in the best suit of clothes he had owned in many months.

There's a little sermon in this incident. The night before, on his way home, our young man with the bundle had seen the other. Impressed by his forlorn appearance he stopped him and got into conversation in which his story was learned. It isn't necessary to repeat it here. It is not a pleasant one, and anyhow that is not the theme of the sermon. It developed that the one with the ragged clothes was discouraged—was just going to give up the fight—but five minutes of straight talk from his new-found friend put new life and new determination into him, and he allowed himself to be taken to a lodging house, where his bed and breakfast were paid for, and he was told to call around the next morning and get some clothes. His interest did not end there, for he found him work and helped him to get his feet on bottom again. He's got them there now, and is likely to be able to strike out for himself soon. It wasn't the clothes that made him a new man, nor the meals, nor the job. It was the feeling that he had a friend. Someone who had faith in him and was willing to give him a chance.

His benefactor didn't tell this story. He's too modest for that. He doesn't belong to any church, either, nor an Epworth League, or a St. Andrew's Brotherhood, but he's got the right idea of things and a big generous heart that would rather give a man a lift than keep him down. If there were more like him, both in the churches and out of them, this world would be better. Is he your style?

CANADA, GREAT REVIVAL OF THE STATES

An American Official Says this Country's Development Will Surprise the Republic.

Seattle, Wash., July 18.—Secretary of Commerce and Labour Straus, declared yesterday that the tide of immigration is changing, particularly from the Oriental countries, and is turning toward Canada.

"In the last three months," said the secretary, "the number of immigrants coming into the United States through six points has increased ten per cent., while immigration from Japan has decreased. Canada is a wonderful country, and it is going to be one of the biggest problems you men of the Pacific Coast will have to face in the future."

TIN CHIMNEYS ARE PROHIBITED

People of Bottesford Must Now Use Brick Instead of Tin—Mr. Austin Reports From the West

Mr. W. C. Austin of the Peterborough-Saskatchewan Land Company, who has been in the Canadian West for some weeks in connection with the business of the local company, has sent the Examiner a report copy of the Bottesford Herald, in which several paragraphs of interest to persons in the east appear. The following are a few of these:

Brick is now being made, and you are requested to bear in mind that the council has decided that no tin or iron chimneys will be allowed in any building.

Over seven hundred people from all parts of Saskatchewan attended the banquet given to Hon. Walter Scott in the Auditorium Rink, Regina, on Friday night. The occasion was a welcome home to the premier on his return to health after a long and serious illness.

Tree tops are to bloom in the Herald garden, and the trees carries that fragrant perfume for a league and a mile.

As an evidence of the remarkably fine growing weather of the last few weeks, lettuce and radishes were the market several days ago weeks from the date of seeding, onions were on sale in five weeks from the time they were put in the ground. Peterborough Excursionists Were Witnesses To Suicide

TIN CHIMNEYS ARE PROHIBITED

People of Battleford Must Now Use Brick Instead of Tin—Mr. Austin Reports From the West

Mr. W. G. Austin of the Peterborough-Saskatchewan Land Company, who has been in the Canadian West for some weeks in connection with the business of the local company, has sent the Examiner a recent copy of the Battleford Herald, in which some paragraphs of interest to persons in the east appear. The following are a few of them:

Brick is now being made and you are requested to bear in mind that the council has decided that you are to put away with your tin chimneys.

Over seven hundred people from all parts of Saskatchewan attended the banquet given to Hon. Walter Scott in the Auditorium Rink, Regina, on Friday night. The occasion was to welcome home the premier on his return to health after a long and serious illness.

The lilacs are in bloom in the Herald garden, and the breeze carries that fragrant perfume for at least half a mile.

As an evidence of the remarkable fine growing weather of the last few weeks, lettuce and radishes were marketed several days ago — weeks from the date of sowing, whilst onions were on sale only five weeks from the time the seed was put in the ground. Mr. G. G. Speers, of practical gardening and an old resident, says that he has not remembered such rapid growth in all kinds of garden stuff for 20 years.

A Fine Bass

Mr. F. Frostard of Gordon's caught a fine 3-lb. bass yesterday afternoon while fishing in the canal below the lift lock. He was quite proud of his capture.

DEBENTURES WILL NOT SELL

The recent experience of some municipalities shows, better than anything else, the present condition of the money market. There is no credit above that of the municipality whose affairs are well conducted ,and when the credit of Winnipeg or Halifax does not invite offers for its bonds, the people are surprised.

"Winnipeg," says a contemporary, "has been hawking her credit in every probable part of Eastern Ontario, and has, it is believed, also tried to place a loan in England, with indifferent success." Halifax has decided to sell her debentures at ninety-five, which would make the four per cents. sell to yield a little less than four and a half per cent. There may be a rush for them at this rate, but it is hardly likely when it is known that other securities, quite as good, are selliong to yield four and three-quarters per cent. For Winnipeg, four per cent. bonds, to the extent of $3,-000,000, the rate of ninety-four was offered, with one-half per cent. for brokerage, without a sale.

New York and Boston have failed to sell their securities in bulk at tthe price they desired, and arrangements have been made to dispose ot them in small lots to suit the purchasers. The idea is to get par at least, as it will not get more at a private sale. This distribution of municipal securities "over the counter" is disapproved by the brokers. They are offended because they say that it costs money to establish agencies through which buyers of bonds may be hunted up. There is force in that contention. At the same time, there are men with small savings who may be willing and anxious to buy what he can of debentures at interest all the way from one to one and a half per cent. higher than the banks allow.

The conclusion is that the times have not improved so far as the sale of securities and municipalities are concerned. The councils that have been holding off, expecting better terms, find no encouragement in the information which is to hand. Money is simply worth more than they are offering for it, and they cannot sell their debentures.

A JUDICIAL VICTIM OF HEAD-HUNTERS

The Whitney Government yielding to the pressure of its partizans and dismissing Police Magistrate Woodyatt of Brantford, has created a political issue which it may find it inconvenient to meet a little later. The more the circumstances of the case are considered the more it is apparent that Mr. Woodyatt's dismissal is an outrage in itself and a political mistake. "It seems," says the Toronto News, "that two or three clergymen desired to obtain assurance of what would be Mr. Woodyatt's action in a certain case before suit was entered. On account of his failure to give such assurance, and his statement that he could give judgment only upon a suit actually entered and evidence actually presented in court, and because of a certain other judgment touching Sabbath observance, he was denounced from the pulpit, his proper action censured, and his real position misrepresented,. This was annoying and unjust, and led to some strong expressions of opinion by the magistrate." This was made the pretext, by the head-hunying Conservative committee in Brantford, for demanding his dismissal; and at the same time they recommended his successor. "The truth is," says the News further, "that Mr. Woodyatt has been pursued persistently, bitterly and relentlessly. Ever since the change of Government in Queen's Park, spies have dogged his heels, he has moved for months under sentence of official death by the patronage mongers of the Conservative party in Brantford. There is no adequate reason that he should be removed. He has been throughout the victim of deliberate misrepresentation and persecution; and Mr. Whitney will deny his own better qualities and do himself and his Government grave injustice if he insists upon Mr. Woodyatt's removal from office."

LABOURERS NEEDED IN NORTH WEST

10,000 Men Could Be Given Work in Manitoba

Regina, July 18.—The labour situation in connection with this year's harvest is already giving concern to the Saskatchewan Government. Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, has just returned from Winnipeg, where he interviewed the railway and immigration officials on the subject. The aggregate acreage, according to the best estimates available at this time, is about 350,000 larger in the three prairie provinces than it was last year. The acreage in 1906 was the greatest on record up to that time, and the increase this year means that a larger number of men than ever before will be needed to assist in saving the golden grain. There is no foundation for the reports that the yield will dwindle greatly.

The supply of labour plays an important part nowadays in the protection of the wheat from damage by frost. With modern machinery and plenty of horses and men, a crop of 50,000,000 bushels can be cut and stacked in a much shorter space of time than would have been possible in the old days. Every day counts when the season of frost is approaching, and the problem of saving the 1907 crop from damage will depend to no little extent on the amount of help which the farmers receive from outside sources. The hope of the West for this season lies in a late autumn, and if frost holds off until the middle of September there will be no worry about the wheat. Wages for all classes of labour are tending upwards, and the advance will be reflected in the farm labour market during the coming autumn. The Manitoba Immigration Department has published a statement to the effect that at least 10,000 labourers are required in that province, and the grain harvest will not begin for more than a month yet. It is stated that there is work available for the number of men mentioned, and that there is no need for any competent or deserving man to be out of a job. The same conditions apply to Saskatchewan and Alberta, although estimates of the number of men required in these provinces have not been made public. The railway construction camps seem to absorb practically all the men who offer, and the surplus is not apparent. In the cities and larger towns there are many men out of work, but this is due to the fact that they are rather particular about the nature of the employment which they follow. They gradually drift out to the smaller centres and rural districts, and no man is long idle. Under these circumstances it is natural to expect that there will be a shortage when the great call for harvesters is raised.

Mr. Motherwell impressed upon the railway officials at Winnipeg the urgency of the situation, and it is likely that steps will be taken to promote a vigorous campaign for workers in the older portions of the Dominion.

COMMITTEE REPLIES TO "CHARITY'S" LETTER

Some Further Facts Connected With the Moonlight Excursion To-night for Children's Aid Society

To the Editor of the Examiner,

Sir, — In reference to the article in your issue of last night, signed "Charity" regarding the moonlight excursion to be held this evening under the auspices of a committee of young ladies of the leading churches, proceeds to be equally divided between the Children's Aid Society and the Sick Children's Hospital, the committee think that it would have been more "charitable" if the writer had waited for the statement of proceeds, which it was intended to publish after the excursion. We notice by the Examiner that they asked the management of "the navigation company for information before publishing the article, regarding the arrangement with the committee, and the answer given that we were to have 20 per cent. of the proceeds is correct; but the Otonabee Navigation Company evidently believe in not publishing their "good deeds" before they do them, as they also suggested in this particular case, purely on account of the cause (as they explained their methods are to use all Sunday schools and societies alike) to give us a subscription to the fund. This was agreeable to all, as we preferred to engage the Otonabee in preference to the Water Lily, which they offered at a reduced price. We are business-like enough to know the larger boat was not built or is not run on "charity." As we wanted to accomplish some charitable work during the summer months, and as "every little helps," we had courage to undertake this, and think it may not be a dead failure. Had we known "Charity," we might have had suggestions ahead turning our time to "better advantage."

"Charity" leaves the impression we are asking 25 cents from the public for the above societies, without giving any value, but conveniently forgets that everyone is getting the worth of his or her money, and helping on a good cause at the same time. We think the only harm — thanks to free advertising — will be with the narrow minded people, like the writer of the article, who are always ready to criticize and try and hinder the good and honest intentions of others. We would also imagine that there is some personal grudge against the O. N. Co.

Regretting that this explanation is necessary and thanking you for your valuable space, I am,

Yours very truly,

ONE OF THE COMMITTEE.

P. S. — Perhaps "Charity" would like to contribute to this fund by buying some tickets and not using them; thus the O. N. Co. would not get any benefit.

DENTIST FINED FOR CAUSING PAIN

Advertised to Perform Painless Operations but Neglected to Do So.

BARBER WON HIS CASE

The "Dental Practice" a journal published in the interests of the dental profession contains the following in reference to painless dentistry:—

The trial of the suit for $200 damages brought by Austin Carty against the proprietors of the Hamilton Painless Dental Parlours, resulted in a verdict in his favour for $65.

J W Nesbitt, K.C., for the defence, argued that there was no evidence to show that the defendants had entered into a contract, written or verbal, with the plaintiff, to perform any painless operation; that they were not therefore liable, because the advertisement on the building advertising painless dentistry was a mere puffing and exaggeration common to trade. Mr. Nesbitt argued that no one would think of prosecuting makers of patent medicines, or the pushers of Cobalt stocks, because the advertisements led people to expect more than was performed.

Judge Snider said that he took the advertisement of painless dentistry, which was on the outside of the building in which the parlours were situated, to be sufficient evidence of a promise to perform painless dentistry. He held, moreover that the advertisement carried a promise of more than ordinary ability on the part of the dentist, because dentistry, usually so painful and dreaded, must be performed with unusual skill to be painless.

Dr. Kinsman, the dentist, who pulled Carty's tooth, and Dr. Caverhill both said that they thought it was good dentistry to leave the root in gum if it could not be removed without taking away part of the jawbone or tearing the gum unduly. The plaintiff Austin Carty is a barber.

BIG EXODUS TO LAKES TO-DAY

Many City Persons Took Advantage of Excursion to Spend the Day There.

A great many Peterborough people are spending to-day at Stony Lake. This morning an excursion was run from Millbrook to the lake and many from this city took advantage of the trip to spend the day with friends at the lake, or getting a breath of Stony Lake air.

To-day is visitors' day at the Y.M. C.A. Camp, and that fact is responsible for the absence of many from the city. The excursion, with those from Millbrook, and the additions made here, was one of the largest of the season from Peterborough to the Lake.

Lindsay, July 18.—John Eveleigh was brought here from Montreal last night by Provincial Detective Rodgers, and lodged in the jail. All the prisoners are now here, Eveleigh, Burke, Logie, Wynn, Boyeau, Millar and Goslin. It is understood that they will come up for hearing as soon as the Crown have their case ready, probably on Monday.

Up to the present, no further arrests have been made, in spite of persistent rumours implicating prominent citizens and as it is now thought that perhaps the limit has been reached, interest is beginning to centre around the prisoners already in the jail.

The Case to Date

Following is a summary of the case thus far:—

Monday, July 7.—John Eveleigh arrested in Montreal, charged with passing counterfeit bills. He is said to have made a confession implicating prominent Lindsay citizens.

Tuesday, July 8.—Charles Burke was arrested and placed in the jail here by Dominion Detective Parkinson, of Ottawa.

The same day two Lindsay men, R. Wynn and A. Boyeau, were arrested at Sault Ste. Marie, on a charge of passing counterfeit bills, and when searched, 12 bogus fives were said to have been found on Wynn, and $60 on Boyeau.

On Wednesday, July 9, Robert Logie was arrested at the Union Station, Toronto when about to take the train for Buffalo.

On Friday, July 10, George Miller, one of the proprietors of The Watchman-Warder, Lindsay, was arrested, as a result, it is said, of confessions made by Burke and Logie, implicating him.

Saturday morning Jack Goslin was arrested at Port Hope by Chief Bond, presumably on the same information, and brought to Lindsay, where he was lodged in jail.

Brought to Lindsay

On Saturday, Detective Rodgers went to Sault Ste. Marie for the prisoners Wynn and Boyeau, arriving in Lindsay with them on Tuesday.

He immediately proceeded to Montreal for the prisoner Eveleigh, arriving in Lindsay with him last night.

The excitement has quieted down somewhat, although the interest is still intense.

The detectives who have been working on the case are: Commissioner Sherwood, of Ottawa; Dominion Detective Parkinson, Detective Cowan, of Montreal, and Chief of Police Ralph Vinvent, of Lindsay.

COUNSELS ALDERMEN TO GO SLOW

In Reaching Final Decision in Respect to the New Public Library—Citizen Makes a New Suggestion

ERECT A NEW BUILDING

A citizen, a gentleman largely interested in the welfare of the city to-day called on the Examiner to suggest that in connection with establishment of a public library, as a result of the donation of the building by the Trustees of the Nicholls Estate, care should be exercised by the council in dealing with the matter to take no steps hastily. The question of a library was one in which the best thought of the community should be consulted, he considered, and in his opinion, it was just possible that the best interests of all parties concerned could be served by adopting a course somewhat different from that proposed. It was, he stated, the belief that it would cost about $10,000 to fit the building donated by the Nicholls Estate to the city, up for a Public Library, and then it would be possible to light and ventilate it from the front and rear only.

In view of this fact he suggested that it might be better to sell the property on Simcoe street and, with the money received from its sale and the amount estimated as necessary to fit it up, build a new library. He believed that possibly $15,000 could be received for the Simcoe street Building, and this with the $10,000 estimated as necessary to effect the improvements to it if it were used would give a building to cost $25,000. His thought was that a site on Central Park could be selected, and that a handsome building, with an imposing appearance could be erected.

This citizen, however, is not dogmatic in his views and admits that there are arguments on both sides of the question. His idea is that before decisive action is taken, the whole matter should be carefully considered, and, since Peterborough is to have a new library, let it be the best possible for the money available.

Clergymen and educationists should, he believes, be consulted by the council, and their advice given heed to, in a matter which concerns the public.

SAWDUST PILE BURNED FOR FOUR DAYS

Firemen Called Out Yesterday and Soon Extinguished It

Yesterday afternoon the fire brigade was called out about 4 o'clock to extinguish a fire that had been burning since Sunday in the sawdust piles north of the Quaker Oats Company's factory. The blaze had been making rapid progress during the afternoon, and it was feared that it might extend down as far as the old dam, to which it was making good headway when the firemen arrived on the scene.

The origin of the fire, according to the younger population who were present to see it, was from a lighted cigarette which had been thrown on the sawdust pile Sunday afternoon. It did not appear to be dangerous, however, until yesterday, after it had silently crept along the sawdust and over the bank to the long pier beneath. Before the fire brigade arrived the pier had been consumed for about 30 yards, and the blaze was then within about 10 yards from the dam. The firemen stringing out about 1,200 feet of hose in order to reach the nearest hydrant.

There's Danger in Every Cold

Once you come to realizing the danger of neglecting coughs and colds you will not run the risk of depending on any cough mixture the druggist may choose to hand you out and will insist on getting a medicine with a reputation such as Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. Croup, bronchitis, asthma and coughs and colds are promptly and thoroughly cured by this treatment.

POLICE OFFICER NEWHALL GETS PRAISE

Writer Does Not Sympathize With Those Who Knock

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir,—There appears to be a large number who do not sympathize with the strenuous actions of P. C. Newhall in his efforts to suppress crime in the city. There is one in particular who has indirectly felt the pangs of the policeman's claws, and it seems to me that it would be well for him not to voice his opinions too freely, lest he attach the cat to the mouse's den. One of his chief reasons for crying down P. C. Newhall to every one who will listen, is that an associate has felt the stings of the lash of the law. The policeman, according to the majority of the citizens, has been and is doing a work which will have a great effect in uplifting the morals of the city, and it is to be hoped that he will continue in the good work without the interference of the petty public.

Yours truly,
FAIR PLAY.

Stony Lake Year Book A Useful Work Of Art

Pretty Souvenir of the Lakes Contains Much Valuable Information---The Sunday Services and the Speakers Who Will Take Part---Song Services

The year book of the Stony Lake Cottagers' and Campers' Association for 1907, has just been issued and the members are receiving copies of the booklet which is not only an attractive souvenir of the lake, containing as it does many beautiful views of well known points, but which also includes much information that is useful.

A chapter headed "Helpful Suggestions" deals with the following matters:—

Flags

This is a British country and the British flag should be flown at the top of the flagstaff on shore, and where a foreign emblem is displayed it is a matter of national courtesy and good taste that it should be below the flag of the country. When flown from a vessel the British flag should always be flown from the stern, and when a foreign flag is used it is only proper to fly it from the bow, thus indicating the nationality of the owner.

A flag flown upside down always indicates distress and a call for assistance.

A flag flown any distance from the top is at "half-mast," and indicates death.

The proper flag to be flown on all ordinary occasions is the Canadian red ensign.

A white flag at the topmast is a signal for the boat to call and should only be used for this purpose.

Concerts and Hops

All are invited to make these as enjoyable as possible by participating and by keeping them as free as possible from objectionable features. The pavilion will be closed at 11 p.m. except by special permission.

Launches and Boats

Launches, yachts or boats must not tie up to the landing wharf, but must be moored or anchored elsewhere. The canoe wharf is for canoes and boats, and a passage of at least three feet must be kept at the water's edge. All launches are required to carry regulation lights and whistles. It is suggested that launches may promote attendance at services, regattas, etc., by offering to tow boats and canoes from a distance.

Unseemly Conduct

Attention is called to the fact that the discharging of firearms is strictly contrary to the municipal regulations and subject to fine. So also is the blowing of horns or the making of disturbing noises at night, and the police authorities are instructed to prosecute offenders to the utmost. Screaming or disorderly conduct of kind will not be tolerated, and those interested in the good name and well-being of the community are asked to cooperate in putting down everything that is unseemly.

Sanitation

Stony Lake is one of the most helpful and pleasant places in this fair Dominion. With many people the only water supply must necessarily be the lake itself. Let it be kept free from contamination of every kind. Garbage and refuse should be burned. Closets overhanging the water, and sewage drained into the lake, are contrary to the Public Health Act. Please assist in promoting the abolition of unsanitary conditions.

Sabbath Services

Service will be held every Sunday at the pavilion at 11 o'clock a.m. It is strictly interdenominational, and the speakers are requested not to introduce controversial questions. The order of services outlined on the inside cover of the hymn book will be followed. The following speakers have consented to speak during the summer. Definite announcements will be made from week to week. Rev. J. A. Rankin, D.D., Toronto; Rev. E. A. Pearson, Peterborough; Rev. R. V. Bingham, Toronto; Rev. J. E. Stair, Toronto; Rev. Dr. Langfeldt, Peterborough; R. J. Colville, Esq., Toronto, and others.

Evening Song Services

Song services will be held as follows during July and August, at 7.30 p.m.:

July 7—Juniper Island.
July 14—Acton's.
July 12—Addison's (Boschink.)

Aug. 11—Rogers', Sandy Beach.
Aug. 18 — Ferguson's, (Boschink.)
Aug. 25—Henderson's, (Mt. Julian.)

Two Years In Reformatory For Unfortunate Woman

Nellie Drain Given a Severe Sentence This Morning,— Immoral Conduct Has Marked Her Career in Peterborough---Magistrate Deals With Three Cases in a Manner Which Should Discourage Others.

THE EXAMINER'S NEW STORY TO-MORROW

To-morrow the Examiner will publish the opening chapters of its new serial story, "The Helmet of Navarre." A generous installment of the story will be given to-morrow, and no reader of the Examiner should miss to-morrow's issue. Be sure and see that your newsboy gives you both sections. The new story is one of absorbing interest, and will, it is believed, prove one of the most popular ever published in these columns. There will be some other features of interest in the Examiner to-morrow, one of them being an illustrated article on the summer resorts of the West. It is a particularly timely contribution.

LOAFERS IN THE COURT

Nellie Drain, the woman who was found at Jackson Park yesterday afternoon in company with Ed. Herron and another man, was sentenced to two years less one day in the Mercer Reformatory, Toronto. The prisoner's home is in Norwood, and, according to what she said, she came to Peterborough yesterday, having had a row with her husband. She intended to return that night, but in this case, "Man proposes, but the law disposes," and Nellie is now about to commence a long term in Mercer.

P. C. Newhall, who, with P. C. Mebarry, started the trio from the park, stated that the woman is but out on jail ten days, having served a term of one month for vagrancy. She was found a month ago in the barn at the rear of the Royal Hotel with three men. The officer said her reputation was very bad.

All the prisoner said for herself was that she wanted to go back to Norwood and would not return. His Worship said, "I am going to send you to the Reformatory. You may be past redemption, but we will try it. I am not going to let you go back to Norwood, where you would be as great a pestilence as you have been here." Nellie broke down when she heard her sentence, and, sinking back in the corner of the prisoner's box, cried for a time until the first feelings of despair had passed.

The prisoner was certainly a hopeless looking, fallen woman, to whom the world had given but little happiness, and by her own folly had sunk to the lowest depths while still but a young woman. She wore a dark gray raincoat that was creased and unbrushed; a dilapidated black dress which was much the worse for wear, and the neck was low and dragged to one side as if improperly hooked behind. Her hat was not so bad, and she had a pair of gold-rimmed eyeglasses. Her glances were furtive, and she did not look at any one steadily, but had a half-hunted appearance that added to the effect of her unkempt clothes. It is pitiful that woman can fall so low and ruin all her chances for a decent future.

NO RESPECT FOR HIS CONGREGATION

Paris Minister, in Resigning, Tells Members of His Church a Few Things About Themselves

Paris, July 18.—Rev. B B Williams in tendering his resignation as pastor of the Congregational church, addressed a letter to the congregation in which he stated it gave unspeakable relief to separate himself from those for whom he had no sympathy, no respect, no fellowship.

In his letter of acceptance to the call of the church, the reverend gentleman stated it was his intention to do it more for the welfare of the congregation, and he declared he had laboured zealously to that end. However, the deacons held a meeting on June 27, and resolved unanimously to ask him to resign July 31.

Mr. Williams had no notice of this meeting and the statement that he had an invitation to the meeting he declared as false, and further, if the deacons had the authority to ask his resignation, then it was not a Congregational church, but an autocracy. Had he left some months ago, as he desired, he would have been better off financially and physically. But he stayed at the request of his friends. Those who said withdraw from the church had not placed their grievances before the congregation in writing as called for by the constitution, which was not waste paper as some parties thought.

Writer Explains Why He Assaulted Unknown Man

Gave Him One Hour to Leave City —Insulted a Woman, He Says.

CAME ALONG MAIN STREET

More light has been thrown on the assault case, the story of which was published in the Examiner the other day, referring to a young man who was badly punished in the vicinity of Jackson Park. It is now learned that the assault was committed at the Nicholls Oval, and, according to a writer whose letter appears below, was very well justified, and explains why the victim did not report the case to the local police. The writer of the letter says that he gave the alleged evil-doer but one hour to leave the city, and it appears that the threat was made good.

Authentic reports state that the young fellow came here from Toronto, and attempted to practice some ungentlemanly conduct towards an elderly lady when the son of the latter happened on the scene. After the assault the young man was driven down to the city in a delivery wagon, with a badly cut up face, and as he was too late to catch the train at the G.T.R. station, was driven to a southwestern village by an employee of a local livery barn. It was learned on the following morning he boarded a train at the same village and came back towards Peterborough, with his face bandaged up. He declined to relate to the conductor how he came by his angular features, and would only say he was going to the hospital. Inquiry at the two local institutions here brought out the fact that he had entered neither, so evidently he had gone through to Toronto, via Lindsay.

The letter of explanation from the person who gave him his battered face and his last orders here, is, in part, as follows:

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir, — I see by your paper, that a man was up against a hard thing the other day. Allow me to inform you that he was not kicked but that he got the pure fists against the face. He says it was a young lady who was connected with the case, but he did not say it was a woman of over 60 years of age whom he tried to make do something she had no right to do. If the man who gave him the trimming had brought him to the police station it would have certainly showed him up. But the shame of it saved this woman forcer the night in the cells.

As it was I made him go on the main street so that he might be seen, and no wonder he wanted to get out of the city so quickly, as I only gave him one hour to do so. If he ever runs up against me again I will put another gap in him. The poor woman did not know she had a son so close to her, when she was used in such a manner.

This woman forcer was not hit when he fell but was always made to get up and face the music. He got a square deal, more so than he offered to the woman.

Yours, etc.,
"DEFENDER OF HONOUR."

DELIGHTFUL TRIP TO NIAGARA

Forester's Excursion Yesterday Was Well Patronized and Pleasant Day Was Spent.

The excursion under the auspices of the Canadian Order of Foresters to Niagara Falls yesterday, was well patronized, and a most delightful day was spent. In the past the custom has been to run this excursion on Civic Holiday, but this year the action of the railways in deciding to run no excursions on that day, made it necessary to arrange this trip for another day. Yesterday was selected, and a special train service on the C. P. R., gave the excursionists a good opportunity of visiting either Toronto, or spending a few days in Buffalo and Niagara Falls.

A large number, both from this city, and from other points along the line between Havelock and Toronto, took the trip. At Toronto the steamer Corona, of the Niagara River Line, was boarded, and the sail across the lake was greatly enjoyed.

The new departure on the part of the Foresters, proved entirely successful, and it is probable that the custom adopted this year will be followed in the future.

BUSY SEASON FOR THE "AJAX"

Mr. J. E. A. Fitzgerald's Steamer Has a Good Summer's Work in Prospect

Mr. J. E. A. Fitzgerald went to Lakefield last night to be present at the inspection of his steamer, Ajax by the Government inspector. This steamer since it became the property of Mr. Fitzgerald has had a busy season, and at the present time Mr. Fitzgerald states that he has enough work in sight to keep it busy until late in the fall. The steamer has been towing logs all spring since the opening of navigation, and when that work is completed he will put her into commission towing for himself. It is possible that later in the fall she may again be put on the canal route between Peterborough and Lakefield, hauling cement for the Lakefield Portland Cement Company.

Should the same difficulty in procuring cars be experienced this season as last year, it is probable that the Company will again adopt the method of shipping by water.

DIED ALMOST ON HER WEDDING DAY

Mrs. Wm. Mulligan Had Planned to Celebrate Her Golden Wedding But Died Two Days After

Yesterday the funeral of the late Victoria Mitchell, wife of Mr. Wm. Mulligan of Omemee, and mother of Mr. G. W. Mulligan of this city, took place from her late home. Deceased was 69 years of age and had lived in the vicinity of Omemee all her life, having been born in almost the same spot where she died. Her death occurred after an illness of about three weeks, and was due to paralysis.

A peculiarly sad feature of her death is the fact that on July 13, Mr. and Mrs. Mulligan were married fifty years, and preparations had been completed by the sons and daughter to hold a reunion and a celebration in honour of the event. The illness of their mother, however, prevented them from carrying out these pleasant plans, and, instead of gathering to spend the day in jollification, they were all called to the bedside of their dying mother.

The deceased is survived by five sons and one daughter, H. J. of Rochester, N.Y.; R. J. of Omemee; G. W. of Peterborough, Dr. J W, and H. W. of Fort Coulogne, Que., and Mrs. G. H. Adams of Lindsay. Her husband also survives her.

The funeral yesterday was very largely attended, the funeral services being conducted by Rev. R. McCullough, Methodist minister, and Rev. J. H. Toney, Anglican clergyman.

LESS CHEESE WILL BE MADE

Production Will be Decreased This Year, but Quality and Prices Are Reported Better

Reports received at the Agriculture Department show that the cheese production in Ontario will be smaller this year than last. The quality will be as good, if not better, than last year, and the prices this year are higher. The decreased production is due to the backward spring, and consequent scarcity of feed.

MR. BENNETT CATCHES A FOUR POUND BASS

Towed His Canoe Down Stream Like a Steam Tug

Mr. Marcus Bennett, of Harry LeBrun's clothing store was one of the proudest of anglers last night as he walked up through the streets of the city with a four pound bass which he had hooked on the Otonabee below the Yankee Bonnet. Mr. Bennett spent his Thursday half-holiday on the river to advantage and was certainly more lucky than most of the others in the same pursuit. The angler hooked the fish from a canoe and as he had no anchor it pulled him down stream for several rods before he succeeded in tiring the monster. If Mr. Bennett continues in the good work he may come within sight of the Star steel rod.

BRONCHIAL TROUBLES

Readily Yield to Soothing, Healing Treatment of Hyomei

Bronchial troubles are purely local. They cannot be helped by stomach dosing. They are caused by irritation in the air passages, and can be relieved and cured by medicated air alone. In this lies the secret of the great success of Hy-o-mei in the treatment of bronchial troubles.

The first breath of Hy-o-mei's medicated air soothes the inflammation, stops the cough, and relief soon becomes permanent and a cure results.

Hy-o-mei has made many remarkable cures in the worst and most chronic forms of bronchial troubles, and is sold by Wm. Madill with the same guarantee as he gives when Hy-o-mei is purchased for catarrh, that is to refund the money in case the remedy does not give satisfaction. The complete outfit costs but $1.00.

Ill Temper From a Bad Liver

Calyle justly attributes the ill-temper which made him a monster in the eyes of the world, to a bad liver. Nothing makes one feel more miserable or gloomy and discouraged than liver complaint, and consequent biliousness and dyspepsia, and nothing so thoroughly and promptly sets the liver right and overcomes these ailments as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, the great family medicine.

TRAVELLED MANY MILES ON DUTY

During Past Year Mr. J. A. Tully Covered Over 16,000 Miles as Superintendent of Agencies for Relief Association

ANNUAL MEETING HELD

Mr. J. A. Tully has returned from Kingston, where he has been attending the annual meeting of the Oddfellow's Relief Association. Mr. Tully's report, presented at this meeting was one of the most interesting given, and indicated that the work of that branch of the Order was making good progress. Mr. Tully's report recorded the fact that during the year he had travelled over 16,000 miles, in the prosecution of his duties.

The directors reported that the changes ordered by the legislation of last year had been carried into effect; that there had been distributed as benefits $184,357.75 on claims arising within the year; that the surplus for the year was $71,987.38; that securities to the value of $86,252.97 had been purchased and placed with the others in the safety deposit vaults of the Bank of Montreal; that the interest on the later debentured or securities ran from 4 3-8 to 4 3-4 per cent.; that the average interest on all the securities had advanced from 3.86 to 4.20 per cent.; and that the assets were half a million dollars over all actual liabilities.

The report of the secretary-treasurer referred to the manner in which the meeting of the sovereign grand lodge in Toronto, last year, was marked by the association; to the fact that the agents of the association were bonded with the Dominion of Canada Accident company; to the working arrangement which was had between the association and several of the grand lodges respecting the service of agents in which both were interested; to the re-classification of the hazardous and extra-hazardous occupations in order to remove some misunderstandings which had arisen through the classifications last year; to the prompt payment of claims for benefits usually on the day on which they were presented; to the slight increase in the rate of mortality in the year 1906-7, and the consequent payment of benefits to the extent of $34,000 in excess of the amount similarly expended one year before; to the marked increase in the revenue of the association which last year amounted to over $300,000; and to the very substantial increase in the reserve fund. The net membership on June 30, was 21,382, and the increase in amount of a bi-monthly account over $11,000. The average age of new members was 29.25 years and of the entire membership 38 years. The average annual death rate per thousand was 6.41. There were 19 accidents during the year, and 11 of these were directly attributed to the occupation of the members. Revenue of the year from all sources was $318,825.82 as compared with $256,543.97 in the previous year.

The auditors' reported that they had made regular and systematic inspections of the books and accounts of the association, that they followed the office staff from month to month and completed their work simultaneously, and that every requirement of the laws of the province and association had been complied with.

The report of the superintendent of agencies referred to the growth in membership during the year. It had been almost as good as in 1906. The applications numbered 2,412, and it was predicted that within a reasonable time, the total would reach 25,000. His travels during the year covered a mileage of 16,579. The superintendent reported that in Ontario 16 new lodges had been instituted, of which 14 were instituted by officials of the Relief Association. He made a review of the field work generally, and pictured a most hopeful outlook for the association.

AMATEUR DOCTOR SET FRACTURE

Mr. Ira Cumming, of Norwood, Came to the Rescue of Man Who Broke His Arm

A man employed in the gravel pit at the head of Colborne street, broke his arm yesterday morning. The fracture was repaired by our next door neighbour, Mr. Ira Cummings and the man was able to return to work in a few hours. Though Mr. Cumming is not a licensed surgeon it is not likely that the Ontario Medical Council will find any bone to pick over the affair. —Norwood Register.

TENNIS CLUB PICNIC ON TUESDAY EVENING

The Nicholls Oval Club Will Have an Evening Down the River

The Nicholls Oval Tennis Club has decided on next Tuesday evening as the date of its pleasure trip down the Otonabee. The president has already arranged for skiffs to be in waiting at the Rye boat house at 6 o'clock, and the members of the club are requested to be there at that time, if possible, or as soon after as convenient. The little picnic will be held probably at Chambers' Point, about two miles below the Locks bridge.

THE TATE OPTICAL CO.
PETERBORO.

Practically during my whole life (prior to June 1905) I was troubled with terrible pains in my head which I attributed to violent attacks of neuralgia. I tried innumerable headache and neuralgic preparations, but without obtaining the slightest relief. The suffering I endured for a year or more previous to the time I consulted you is indescribable. At times I became delirious through the intense pain, and was obliged to call in a local Physician. Many times morphine was administered to allay the terrible suffering I was undergoing, but this did not give me the slightest relief. A friend advised me to consult your Mr. Babcock, I did so and found out from you that I was suffering from muscular nervous asthenopia, caused by astigmatism. It was remarkable the relief I obtained after the treatment I received, and the wearing of the glasses you prescribed and made for me, since that time I have experienced no difficulty with my eyes, nor have I suffered the slightest return of the old trouble. I cannot help but attribute the ill-health and suffering I experienced as being due to the trouble in my eyes before consulting you. I feel very grateful indeed for the interest taken in my case, as I had almost despaired of ever getting any relief. I might also say I consulted opticians in Lindsay and Toronto in reference to my trouble, but obtained no relief. I desire to again express my sincere gratitude to you for the trouble taken in my case, as well as the wonderful cure effected. Yours sincerely

ZAM-BUK SAVED THIS BABY

Mrs. M. Fitzpatrick, 304 Morgan St., Montreal, says:—"A horrid rash came out all over my baby's face and spread until it had totally covered his scalp. It was irritating and painful, and caused the little one hours of suffering. We tried soaps and powders and salves, but he got no better. He was so fretful all day long that it made it very hard for me. He refused his food, got quite thin and worn, and was reduced to a very serious condition. I was one day advised to try Zam-Buk, and did so. It was wonderful how it seemed to cool and ease the child's burning, painful skin. He gradually became more easy and able to sleep. Zam-Buk from the very commencement seemed to go right to the spot, and the pimples and sores and the irritation grew less and less. Within a few weeks my baby's skin was healed completely. He has now not a trace of rash, or eruption, or eczema, or burning sore. Not only so, but cured of the tormenting skin trouble, he has improved in general health. He has got fat and plump, weighs no less than 32 lbs., although only 7 months old, and is in first-class condition."

Zam-Buk is sold at all stores and medicine vendors, 50c. a box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. 6 boxes for $2.50.

THREE CHILDREN DROWNED

Great Property Loss In Virginia—Bridges Swept Away—Churches and Houses Carried Off by Flood—Families Rendered Homeless—Railroad Service Held Up—Millions of Dollars Damage.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 19.—The loss of several lives and great monetary damage has resulted from heavy rains throughout Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and West Virginia during the last 24 hours. The rivers and mountain streams are out of their banks, live stock have been drowned, bridges and building washed away, railroad tracks swept off or undermined, trolley systems demoralized, electric light plants put out of commission, and hundreds of families compelled to abandon their homes and take refuge on higher ground.

About this city the rivers have risen over six feet in ten hours. Reports from above the city say that recurring storms during the past 48 hours have resulted in a precipitation of from 3 to 4 inches, which, being at the head waters, when they reach this city, may cause some damage unlooked for at this time of the year.

The interior of West Virginia has sustained heavy damages. Miles of trackage of the Western Maryland, and the coal and iron railroads in Luckre and Barbour counties have been washed away. The service on these roads is said to be at a standstill. The Dry Fork and Baltimore & Ohio railroads are under water for many miles, and no trains can be operated. In the Tygarts Valley, the towns of Grafton, Rowlesburg and Tunnelton are almost submerged the property damage amounting to nearly a quarter of a million dollars.

At McCombs, W. Va., the home of Mrs. Mary Ballard was wrecked by the high water, and three young children of Mrs. Ballard were drowned. The bodies were washed away.

Lives Lost.

Baltimore, July 19.—A special to The News from Grafton, W. Va., says that from three to five lives have been lost and half a million dollars damage is the result of a cloudburst and heavy storm Wednesday between Grafton and Tunnelton. Among the dead are Claudius Wolfe of Evansville and Frank Gibbons of Newburg.

Damage by Cloudburst.

Clarksburg, W. Va., July 19.—More than half a million dollars damage resulted from cloudbursts, storms and floods Wednesday night at Newburg, and along the Cheat River valley in Preston County and this vicinity.

Houses were washed away, the main line of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad is out of commission, and telegraph and telephone wires are all down. Much damage has been done to property along the Monongahela River, at Fairmont, Kingwood and Evansville.

The sudden rise in the Monongahela River wrecked the new bridge between Monnessen, Pa., and Charleroipa. The loss is estimated at $100,000.

CAR CONDUCTORS QUIT.

Detective Reported That They Were Pocketing Fares.

Kingston, July 19.—For some time the Street Railway management has suspected that the fares collected were not coming into the treasury.

A detective was brought here from Montreal, and in a couple of days he was able to report where the leakage was. He found that several of the conductors were accustomed to collect the three cent fares from the children, and instead of putting a yellow ticket into the fare box, as they were instructed to do, they withheld it and, in each case, were, of course, three cents ahead.

Some of the guilty have resigned and the assistant superintendent has been dismissed because he, it is said, screened a defaulting conductor.

William T. Benson Suicides.

Mexico, July 19.—William Townley Benson, a Canadian artist, was found dead in a public park at Saltillo, Mexico, with a bullet hole through his head. It is believed he committed suicide.

INJURED ARE STILL IN DANGER

Victims of London Disaster Remain In Critical Condition.

DEAD BURIED YESTERDAY

Talk of Criminal Responsibility—Other Buildings Said to Be Insecure—Citizens Are Scared—Crystal Hall to Be Demolished — Searching Operations Now Ceased—Mr. Reid Cautioned Contractors.

London, Ont., July 19.—Interest in the Dundas street catastrophe has now been transferred to the injured in Victoria Hospital, one or two of whom are reported to be in a very critical condition. Inquirers yesterday were informed that John Loney, who sustained a fracture of the skull, was in a comatose state, and, although it is not thought that he is beyond hope, his condition is such to to give rise to the gravest fears. Attempts made to rouse him have so far proved unsuccessful, and to all questions he replies in a kind of murmur, "I don't know." A change for the worse was also noted in the case of Miss May Hardingham. She is suffering considerable pain, and the doctors are afraid of internal developments. Mrs. Peters, too, has not yet passed the critical stage. She is still feeling the effects of the shock, but it is hoped that once these have passed away she will make a rapid recovery. Miss Peters is progressing satisfactorily, and Ethel Earl, Libbie Smith and James Clugson are all doing well. Percy Robinson, it is expected, will be able to leave the hospital in a day or two.

A Feeling of Insecurity.

That someone blundered is still the feeling of the community. There is even talk of criminal responsibility. One result of the disaster has been to draw attention to the condition of other buildings in the city. The fact is that the people have been badly scared, and many gave credit to a story circulated Wednesday that there were no fewer than fifty buildings in the town that were absolutely unsafe. Mr. Graydon, the city engineer, describes the story as about forty-nine degrees exaggerated. One or two buildings, he said, had recently received his attention, and in these cases he had given warning to the parties concerned.

Crystal Hall to be Razed.

A satisfactory development was the announcement by the City Engineer that the remaining portion of Crystal Hall would be demolished. This was the result of a conference held with Mr. W. J. Reid, the proprietor of the store, and others interested, yesterday morning, and it will have the effect of removing what was obviously a serious danger. Mr. Reid, who was out of town when the disaster occurred, stated that he also had cautioned those making the alterations against doing anything that would in any way injure the building.

Searching operations having ceased, there was nothing to be seen on Dundas street yesterday forenoon, but the yawning gap, extending some 60 or 70 feet, and piles of debris which have still to be removed.

Funerals Yesterday Afternoon.

The funerals of all the victims but one took place in the afternoon. Miss Clara Mullin's remains will be interred to-day. Messages of condolence have been received by Mayor Judd from, among others, Mayor Coatsworth, Toronto, and Hon. Adam Beck.

SEVEN YEARS IN PEN.

Thief Who Snatched Lady's Watch Severely Dealt With.

Montreal, July 19.—"You will go to the penitentiary for seven years," were the concluding words of a scathing judgment rendered by Judge Choquet on Alfred Beauchamp, who snatched a gold watch pinned to the breast of Miss Blanche Hardy on Tuesday afternoon, and made a desperate attempt to escape up City Hall avenue.

He was overhauled and captured by the gentleman who was with the lady at the time of the robbery.

Drowns in 18 Inches of Water.

Brockville, July 19.—At Thousand Island Park Rutherford Brown, the two-year-old son of Capt. and Mrs. George Brown, fell from the pier into 18 inches of water. He was discovered about 15 minutes later and carried quickly to his home.

Five physicians worked over the child for an hour and a quarter in a vain attempt at resuscitation.

CABINET MINISTERS RESIGN

Rioting Takes Place Near Palace—Placards Call for Death of Japanese Officials—Mob Attacks Newspaper Office—Open Hostility Declared Against Emperor—Haunted by Fear of Assassination.

Seoul, July 19.—The Cabinet Ministers, including the newly-appointed Household Minister, have resigned. It is reported that the Emperor was very angry at his Ministers on account of their having advised him to abdicate. He said to them that he occupied the throne by right inherited from his ancestors, and that his subjects had no authority to advise his dethronement, much less to do so with the support of foreigners.

Placards were posted yesterday in one of the thoroughfares calling for the death of all Japanese officials in Seoul. The Ministers are strongly guarded, and every precaution has been taken to prevent riots and attacks upon officials. The Emperor is reported to be too warried to take food or to sleep, but this report is considered to be one of his usual manoeuvres to enlist the sympathy of his people.

The Emperor's loss of loyal adherence of a large portion of his subjects will, it is believed, result in the gradual development of his policy to always play one Minister or faction against another so as to prevent the concentration of power in any single body. The Emperor himself is constantly distrustful of all about him, and haunted with the fear of an attempt on his life.

The Il Ching Hoi, a progressive association, claiming a membership of over a million, is now openly hostile to the Emperor, and it is doubtful even if the few now standing by him will continue their support until the last.

Tokio, July 19.—A despatch from Seoul says that the Emperor convened the elder statesmen at 1 o'clock yesterday morning. The Cabinet Ministers waited in an adjoining room while the Emperor conferred with the elder statesmen.

After a two hours' conference His Majesty finally yielded and made up his mind to abdicate.

It was decided to hold abdication ceremonies at 10 o'clock this morning.

Much unrest prevails about the palace and at another place a crowd of 2,000 is assembled. A portion of this crowd assaulted the office of The Daily Kokumin, but the mob was dispersed before heavy damage was inflicted.

ESCAPED FROM RAISULI.

Caid MacLean Now Safe on Sacred Territory of Marabouts.

Tangier, July 19.—Aided by sections of the Elkmes, the Beniarrous and the Benimansour tribes, Caid Sir Harry MacLean has succeeded in escaping from the hands of the bandit, Raisuli.

He has taken refuge in the inviolable sanctuary of the territory of the Marabout of Saouia Yonstidi.

It is suggested that Raisuli connived in the escape of the Caid as the best way out of a difficult situation.

Stomach Troubles Of Long Standing

WHEN DOCTORS' TREATMENT FAILED THIS SEVERE CASE WAS ENTIRELY CURED BY

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

Doctors failed to cure Mr. De Courcey because they were satisfied to treat the stomach instead of getting at the cause of trouble, in the liver and bowels.

The most complicated and deep-seated digestive troubles yield to Dr. Chase's Kidney-Livre Pills, because of their direct and certainde action on the liver, kidneys and bowels. We are continually receiving such letters as the following in regard to the failure of mere stomach treatment:

Mr. Patrick De Courcey, Midgell, lot 40, P.E.I., writes: "For some time I had stomach trouble, and was scarcely able to do anything at all. I was treated by doctors, but they did not seem to do me any good. A friend advised me to try Dr. Chase's Kidney-Livre Pills, and I did so, to very great advantage, for my old trouble has disappeared, and, though past middle age, I feel young and hearty again. I have great confidence in Dr. Chase's medicine."

Another interesting case of liver derangements and stomach troubles is that described in this letter:

Mrs. James Monteith, Sarnia, Sarnia County, Ont., writes: "I have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Livre Pills for liver complaint, biliousness and terrible sick headache, and have found that they are more effective than any treatment I ever tried. They cleanse the system thoroughly, remove the cause of pains and aches, and make you feel fresh and strong again. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are also excellent for stomach troubles."

By means of their direct and specific action on the liver—causing a healthful flow of bile—they regulate and enliven the action of the bowels and ensure good digestion in the intestines. At the same time they stimulate the kidneys in their work of filtering poisons from the blood.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box; at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Operators Of Greased Pole Got Unexpected Bath

Attempted to Pin Down the Dollar Bill at the Sunday School Picnic Yesterday.

FEATURE OF EXCURSION

The greased pole game was the most popular of all the sports at the Park street Baptist Sunday School picnic at Chambers' Point yesterday, but it was unfortunately the means of dumping a couple of the enthusiastic excursionists into the refreshing waters of the Otonabeee. The pole was arranged horizontally extending over the water some twelve or fifteen feet and was covered with a lavish costing of soft soap or some otehr slippery compound, making travelling along it a little difficult.

On the end of the post in the river which supported the pole was pinned a dollar bill to be given to the boy who succeeded in walking the limberp iece of timber and grabbing the money. The youths of course were attired in bathing suits as they were more liable to fall in them to meet with success.

The dollar was finally secured and the spectators considering the sport a rare one decided to have it repeated. Soon another bill was secured and two men attempted to stand up in their canoe beside the greased pole and nail the money on the post.

This was the cause of the unexpected bath and the rest may be easily imagined. One of the gentlemen is married and it was stated that his wife almost fainted when she saw her other half struggling in the Otonabee.

FIRST STEAMER TO REACH THIS CITY FROM ORILLIA

The first steamer to reach Peterborough from Orillia came through the Lift Lock this afternoon. The boat was the private steam yacht, "Idler," owned by Mr. Thompson, a wealthy lumberman of Orillia. With a party he has taken a delightful sail through the stretch of Trent Canal from Orillia to this city, making the journey by easy stages, and those in the party express themselves as greatly pleased with the trip. Some difficulty was experienced in navigating the reach from Nassau to the Lift Lock, the heavy growth of weeds interfering considerably with the easy passage of the boat.

BAPTISTS ENJOYED DAY'S OUTING

Picnic Under Auspices of Park Street Baptist Sunday School, Yesterday.

A very large and good-tempered crowd gathered yesterday morning at the Wolfe street wharf, and also below the locks, and after the first shock of disappointment, by the spacious scow being ruled out of business by the Government Inspector, till it is examined on Saturday next, had passed, the party settled down to the new arrangements, fully intent on a good day's enjoyment, in which they succeeded right royally.

The new arrangements were Chambers' Point in two trips and a sail up and down the river during the afternoon, which was done to the heart's content of young and old. Swings were put up and the spacious grove afforded ample shade. The change was even more satisfactory than the longer journey, as the whole party were given more time. Instead of leaving at 5 o'clock they were able to continue the fun until 8 o'clock, and returning home in good time.

The refreshment department, including the ice cream freezer, were well manned, and the Sports Committee were experienced athletes as the following programme will show:—

Walking the slippery pole for the dollar bill at end, was very exciting and caught the great crowd who lined the river bank and crowded the decks of the steamer. The young men and boys had provided themselves with bathing suits and went into the affair in a business-like manner, again and again tumbling headlong into the deep water. The winners were Frank Barrie, Chas. Pogue and Norman Barrie.

Girls Races—

Under 6 years — Jessie Peters, Emily Cook.

6 to 10 years — Olive Sherwood, Mary Consey.

10 to 14 years — Pearl Pogue, Ada Barrie.

14 to 10 years—Eva Goodan, Marion Sloan.

Young Women's Race—Bessie Gillespie.

Married Women's Race—Mrs. Walters, Mrs. Pilling.

Boot Race — Pearl Pogue, Ada Barrie.

Potato Race — Pearl Pogue, Edna Lee.

Consolation Race—Lottie Davis.

Boys' Races—

Under 6 years — Leonard Vase, Herb Trianter.

6 to 10 years—Wm. Anderson, Harvey Holt.

10 to 14 years—Frank Barrie, Wilmot Griffin.

14 to 16 years—Walter Libby, Martin Lee.

Young Men's Race—Norman Lee

Married Men's Race—John Pilling, Nipper Vase.

Stold Race—H. Lincoln Brace, W. Libby.

Boot Race—John Copperthwaite, W. Anderson.

Three-legged Race — H. L. Brace and Chas. Pogue.

Baseball Match—Captained by John Pilling; a tie.

The shorter journey permitted the time for canoes. A number were hired and the river presented a lively scene. The tickets were reduced to 25 cents for the round trip, including the sails in the afternoon, and altogether the change of programme tended to increased enjoyment, and a balance, it is hoped, for the school fund.

Rev. A. H. and Mrs. Brace were present and looked after the comfort and safety of the party, generally.

A SUCCESSFUL PICNIC YESTERDAY

Salvation Army Sunday School Had Pleasant Outing.

Boys under 7 years—Oliver Wiggins, Stanley Braund, Harry Gray.

Girls under 7—Lois Braund, Bessie Killenbeck, Lily Harding.

Boys under 10—Norman LeBar, Fred Gray, Eddie Stevenson.

Girls under 10—Nellie MacDonald, Nellie Gray, Elsie Northcotte.

Free for all boys—Ray Sullivan, Herb Blanchard, Norman LeBar, Walter Elliott.

Mr. Albert Bonn was starter and Mr. John Hobbs was judge. Mr. R. C. Braund, superintendent of the Sunday school had full charge of the events. A call was made on returning at Gore's Landing and the home trip was as enjoyable as the whole trip.

LITTLE GIRL TELLS A FALSE STORY

Told Mother of Little Boy That He Had Fallen Into River.

The story that a little boy named Cherrett has fallen into the river above the Quaker Oats Company's factory yesterday evening at the time of the fire in the sawdust pile, created quite an anxious look on the face of the mother, who was one of the first to hear of it. Her son had followed the fire waggons, and she, dooming that he had been away longer than necessary, left her home at 428 Water street and walked down Hunter street. There she met a little girl, who asked, "Are you looking for your boy?" and added, "He fell into the river and I saw a man pull him out and carry him towards home."

Mrs. Cherrett was almost distracted on hearing this news, but could find no other person who knew anything about it. She hastened home by way of College and Brock streets, only to find that her son had not arrived. A few minutes later he came running in, but with no indications that he had tumbled into the water. Such practices on the part of children who tell falsehoods for the purpose of frightening others does not appear to be altogether proper and should be carefully attended to.

Chicago, July 19.—While talking to friends on the fifteenth floor of the Masonic Temple, Miss Anna Normoyle, a stenographer deliberately walked to an open court window and, without a word of warning, threw herself to the stone pavement of the rotunda, 250 feet below.

The girl was mutilated almost beyond recognition. No cause is known for the suicide.

DAILY GRIND OF MILL OF JUSTICE

One Man Requested That He Be Sent Back to Central for Six Months

It was the same old crowd that daily gathers at the Police Court, and they did not fail to be present this morning. As Chief Ruzzel remarked, there must be a lot of idle men in the city, judging by the number that gather about the police station every day.

The first man to be dealt with today was Ed. Herron, who was charged with being a common vagrant, having no home and no means of support. Herron pleaded not guilty and P. C. Newhall was called to give evidence. He said that a call had been received to go out to Jackson Park yesterday, and, with P. C. Mohurry, he had searched the park looking for suspicious characters. Finally, on the east side of the G.T.R. tracks, they saw Herron, Nellie Dunn and another man. The three caught sight of P. C. Mohurry and started down the tracks. The second man got away. Herron said that they had just come up to the park for a walk. Nellie Dunn told Officer Newhall that she had had a row with her husband and could not stay at home. "I know I have done wrong this time," she said, "but if you give me another chance I will get out of town." Witness said that Herron had been convicted before and has been keeping company with thieves and drunks while he was in Peterborough.

Herron went into the witness box and testified that he was 27 years of age. He was married, but had been separated from his wife for the past five years. They had had two children, but both are now dead. Herron said he did not want to go to jail. He declared that he had been on a drive of logs all spring, works in the shanty during the winter, and has an offer to go to Buckhorn as a guide for a party of Americans. His intongect to take this yesterday, but had been locked up. He asked the Magistrate to give him a chance to get out of town. His Worship replied that he did not want to deprive the man from making an honest living, but he must behave himself as his character was against him.

"Let me go back to that dear old Central Prison," said Henry Waters, an Englishman, who has been in Canada about three years. He has just been released from a six months' term, and was treated so well that he wants to be sent back. This is a somewhat unusual occurrence, as most people dread the idea of spending six long months in a prison's confinement. Waters is beginning to know the effect of his 60 years or whatever the exact number is, and when a man reaches that age and has not acquired enough money to spend the rest of his life in leisure, there is not much hope for him. Perhaps that is the reason why the jails and prisons are welcome havens, as the struggle with the world for existence is at an end for a short time. Waters was given six months in the Central.

DOG POISONER BACK FROM HIS HOLIDAYS

And Sudden Death is Rampant Among the Canines Again.

The dog poisoner who has, it would seem, been away on a vacation trip for the past few weeks, has evidently returned to the city, as at once take are coming in of mortality, sudden, painful and unexpected among the canine population. Yesterday a spaniel belonging to Mrs. Mason, Murray street, received a fatal dose and departed into that mysterious regions where dead dogs go, if indeed, they go anywhere.

BEST GAME OF THE SEASON TO-MORROW

Oshawa Will Have Their Strongest Line-up Here

The Peterborough baseball team had a good practice at Riverside Park last night, and will be in the best of shape for the big Midland League game with Oshawa to-morrow, which promises to be the best of the season and which should attract a big crowd of fans. The Oshawa team is confident of being able to repeat their feat of a week ago by defeating Peterborough, while the locals are equally confident that the score will be reversed. Both teams will have their strongest line-ups on and it will be a slugging-and-batting contest from start to finish. The game will be called at 3 o'clock sharp.

SCHOLARSHIP WINNERS IN RECENT ENTRANCE EXAMINATIONS IN THE CITY

ROLAND PALMER
Winner of the Boys' Scholarship

ELSIE KIRK
Who Won the Girls' Scholarship

To-day the Examiner gives half tone illustrations of the two bright pupils in the city's schools who won the scholarships given by the Board of Education for the boy and girl taking the highest marks in the Entrance Examinations. It is a matter of which the principal and teachers of that school should be proud that both these pupils were graduates of the South Central School. Roland Palmer is a bright English lad, who lives with his mother on Weller street. He is a studious boy, and his success has come as a result of consistent work.

Elsie Kirk, has not always attended the South Central School, but was formerly a pupil in the Central School. She now lives on Bolivar street, and her mother is Mrs. Sarah Kirk.

The scholarship consists in each case of free tuition for a year in the Collegiate Institute.

The total marks possible in the examination were 650, and Roland Palmer secured 565, while Elsie Kirk's total was 523.

Continuation Class At Ennismore Is Growing

Forty Will Take Work in It After Mid-summer Vacation—A Result of Good Work in Entrance Examinations.

ANOTHER ROOM ADDED

"This means that we will have forty in our Continuation Class this year," said Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, in commenting on the result of the entrance examinations in the the county, when he learned that out of 21 candidates in Ennismore, 16 had passed.

This is a remarkably good record and the popular parish priest of that township was greatly pleased at the good showing the young people in his parish had made. They came from five schools in the township, and the work was uniformly good.

Another room will be added to the school at the Cross, in which the Continuation Class is taught, and provison will be made for the additional pupils who will take up that work, as a result of these examinations.

Continuation Class work in Ennismore has, apparently, been a gratifying success, and that the benefits resulting from its establishment, are appreciated, is evident.

Recognized Act Of Kindness Years Old

Local Business Man, Who Endorsed Draft for Traveller and Had to Pay It To Be Rewarded.

WAS EIGHTEEN YEARS AGO

Eighteen years ago a George street merchant endorsed a draft for a young commercial traveller for $35. The latter's firm failed, and the local merchant had to pay the $35. The sequel of the story came this morning, when a letter came from the former commercial traveller, now a member of a well-known Montreal firm, stating that he had found out that the local man had had to pay out the money, and would rectify the matter at once. Needless to say the merchant had forgotten all about the transaction, and the letter was a complete surprise to him.

Bancroft Desperadoes Have Been Apprehended

Three Men, Alleged to Have Held Up Constable of That Village, Caught at Depot Harbour.

AN INTERESTING CAPTURE

Bancroft, July 20. — The two men who created so much excitement here recently by shooting at Constable Steenberg and his assistant when they attempted to arrest them, were captured at Depot Harbour, in the Parry Sound District, last week. The senior member of the gang, who kept in the background here, was also taken into custody, and is said to be already doing time in the Kingston penitentiary.

Last week a message was received here, asking for a description of the men, which was forwarded and yesterday Constable Stanyer received photographs of the two younger men. These were positively identified by Constable Steenburg and others.

IS PETERBOROUGH RAPIDLY GROWING WORSE? A BIG JUMP IN COURT CASES INDICATES IT

It would seem that crime is on the increase in Peterborough according to the police court figures so far this year, which show a tremendous increase in the number of cases over the same period last year. To date this year there have been no less than 443 cases tried at the police court, an average of over two cases each day, while up to this time last year there had been 292 cases. This, in the face of the fact that the number of cases last year was the largest in the history of the city, is a most serious state of affairs.

The increase in the number of police court cases may be due in some measure, at least, to the fact that the police force has been increased since last year, but it is a fact that cannot very well be gainsaid in view of the figures, that there is an alarming increase of crime; one that would seem to require the serious consideration of those in authority.

It is possible that there may be a falling off in the number of cases for the remainder of the year in which case, the figures at last year will not be exceeded to any great extent, but at the present rate of increase there will be over 300 more cases this year than last.

Sons of England Excursion

The many patrons of the annual summer excursion of the Sons of England and Daughters of England will have to be content with a half day's "jolly outing" this time. A whole day was never too long, as every minute was happily filled in. But the committee has decided on a half day's outing to take place on Saturday next, July 27th, to Idyl Wyld. An orchestra will go along to furnish music for dancing. Posters are out.

HUCKLEBERRY CROP WILL BE FAIR

Late Spring Will Tend to Produce a Belated Harvest

Towards the end of spring things looked pretty blue for the huckleberry crop on account of the belated frosts and cold weather. However, with the coming of the warmer sunshine and the summer showers the huckleberry plants began to look up and the prospects are that a fair crop will be realized.

Like most of the other harvests, the huckleberry will be late this year. During other years the berries are usually ripe around the twelfth of July, but so far, only a few scattered ones here and there have turned blue. The bushes are fairly well loaded, however, and the crop will be up to the average.

ATTENDING CONVENTION OF MOULDERS

This morning Mr. Hugh Robertson left for Philadelphia where he will attend as the representative of the Peterborough Moulders' Union, the annual convention of the International Association. There will be about 500 delegates in attendance and the sessions will continue for several days. Mr. Robertson will be away for about ten days.

YANKEE TOURIST LOST WALLET AND $200

Was Fishing at White Lake When the Money Disappeared

A New York gentleman, who is staying at Glenwood, Stony Lake, yesterday lost a wallet containing $200, at the head of White Lake. He had the money and also a ticket to New York, in his pocket, before leaving the cottage, but while he was fishing from a rock it disappeared mysteriously. It probably dropped from his pocket into the lake and unnoticed was washed away.

IS THE PROSPERITY OF PETERBOROUGH ON THE VERGE OF THE EBB TIDE

Business Man Interested in Building Trades, Expresses His Belief That a Lull in Building Operations is Coming.

GIVES HIS REASONS WHY

Unless a New Industry Comes to the City There Will be Little Building Done Next Year, He Believes.

Has Peterborough reached the end of its period of prosperity? A gentleman to-day stated his belief to this effect to the Examiner, and pointed to evidences, which, in his opinion, substantiated his statement. He pointed out that the building operations this year were very much below the aggregate of last year, both in number of buildings erected and in their value. The great falling off, of course, is in dwelling houses, and he stated that while last year it was an easy matter to dispose of a house after one has been built, and pretty nearly any figure asked could be obtained, things were totally different this year. There was not nearly the demand for houses, and it was becoming increasingly difficult to get a good price for a new house.

The reason for this condition of affairs is that the number of houses erected during the year has been more than the actual demand, and while there have been a great many dwellings built this year, and he expected that the greater portion of them would be either rented or sold, next year will see practically a cessation in the building line.

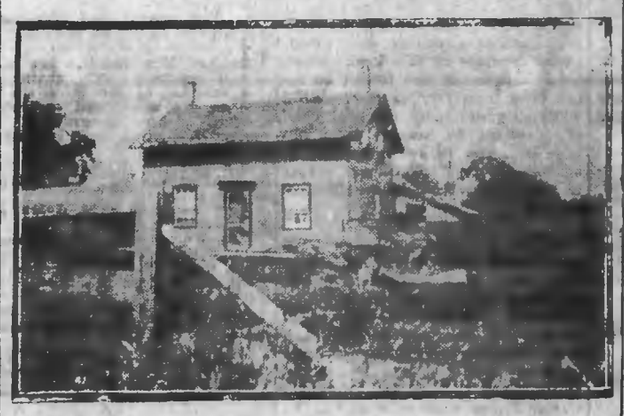
The only circumstance, he believes, which will effect a revival in building operations is the establishment of a new industry which will give employment to a large number of hands. At the present time no such industry is in sight, and unless something of the kind comes, houses will not sell as well next year as they are at the present time.

This is, of course, but one man's view, and it is possible that it is not the correct sizing up of the situation. Other men can be found who are as positive that the era of prosperity and extension of the city is but commenced, and they advance arguments which, to them constitute proof of the existence of the condition of affairs they describe.

BEAUTY SPOTS IN THE RAINY RIVER BREATHING SPOTS

Fisherman's Delight.

THE HOUSE FORMERLY OCCUPIED BY JAMES BURKE, THE ALLEGED COUNTERFEITER, AND HIS BOAT HOUSE



On Monday, the trial of the alleged counterfeiters at Lindsay will be opened, and interest in the case is intensified in quarters outside the town in which the manufacture of the "green goods" is alleged to have taken place. Many conflicting rumours have been circulated throughout the Province in reference to the case, and it is stated that all but two of those arrested have practically confessed to the crime of which they were charged.

Interest in the case centres pretty largely in James Burke, the first one to be arrested, and the man who was looked upon by many to be the ring-leader. In this issue, pictures of the house in which Burke lived, and the boat-house on the shores of the Sougog River, in which it was said that the mysterious flying machine was being constructed, but which, it is later believed, housed the counterfeiting plant with which the bogus bills were manufactured.

Y. M. C. A. Men's Meeting

AN IDEAL NEWSPAPER

In a recent address Mr. Harrison Parker, assistant business manager of the Chicago Tribune gives his idea of an ideal newspaper. He says:—

"The ideal journal must be human, replete with humour, the pathos, the tragedy, the success and the failure and sometimes of human existence. It is dishonest journalism to make a sensation where there is none, but it is silly journalism to ignore a real sensation. The purpose of ideal journalism is to hold up the mirror to nature; to tell the tale palatable or unpalatable; to amuse the weary; to instruct those eager to learn; to unsparingly uncover fraud. Such journalism has been an inspiration to free peoples for a century."

SOME FACTS ABOUT THE FOREIGN POPULATION OF CITY AS IT IS TO-DAY

Peterborough is Not a Cosmopolitan Place as Compared With Other Towns—A Large and Flourishing Colony of Italians.

NEGROS SHUN THE PLACE

Compared to other Ontario cities of its size, the population of Peterborough can hardly be called cosmopolitan, inasmuch as there is only a very small percentage of the people living here, foreigners, and of these, the nationalities represented do not number more than half a dozen. There are no Japanese residents, and what is more peculiar, not a single negro. Doukhobors, Finns, Galicians, Armenians, and other European people who are found in other parts of Canada are missing here.

It is however, interesting to note that if the foreign population is comparatively small, it is for the most part composed of the class of people who make good citizens, and it is a well-known fact that most of those who come here from lands across the sea are thriving in their new-found homes, and are giving trouble to no one.

Many Italians

The biggest portion of Peterborough's foreign population is made up of Italians. Mr. Tom Minicola, of the firm of Minicola Bros., who thoroughly knows and is known by every Italian in the city, is the authority for the statement that there are between 60 and 75 natives of Sunny Italy residing in Peterborough, including some 17 families, in 15 of which husband and wife are Italians, while in the other two, the wife is of one nationality, Irish, and in the other, French.

Despite the statements to the contrary, the Italian appears to make a good citizen. They are becoming Canadianized in their ways, particularly the younger men, who are seen on the streets on Sundays clad in store clothes, and vieing with each other to appear as well dressed as their Canadian neighbours.

Still Clannish in Ways

The Italians are still somewhat clannish in that they live around themselves as much as possible. A large number will live under one roof, packed in such quarters as the average Canadian would hesitate to dwell in. A few of the Italians who have lived for some time in the city occupy more comfortable houses, some of them owning desirable dwellings of their own. The men who work on the streets and for the railways, for the most part, live together in communities in which there are perhaps 15 or 20 Italians in one small house. The principal headquarters of this kind in the city is on Bethune street, between Simcoe and Hunter streets, and there is another on Aylmer street, while still more are found living on Elm street. There is this to be said about the Italian population, that in no case have the charity forces of the city been called in to give assistance to any of the colony. All of them seem to be prospering; they at least have enough to eat and drink, and we find that some of them save enough to enable them to spend the winter in their native land, returning again in the spring.

The Italian is a great beer-drinker, and on Sundays especially a vast amount of that fluid is consumed in the hours in this city in which they dwell.

The Minicola Brothers

The most prominent Italians in the city are the Minicola Brothers, who have for years conducted a fruit business on Hunter street. They are known and respected by almost every resident of Peterborough, having lived here 21 years, and there are no better citizens. They take an intelligent part in what concerns the best interests of the city, live quiet, orderly lives themselves, and exercise an influence upon their fellow Italians that is decidedly productive of good, and which has saved much trouble

Understand One Another

Isn't it a pity we don't understand each other better? How many embarrassing situations would be averted and how much trouble saved, if we only knew the motives which actuate others in their actions. Within the last few months a young man came to Peterborough from the old country—it doesn't matter which one of the three countries it was from — and in his first feelings of jubilation at finding in Canada conditions of freedom which he had not enjoyed "at home," he became a little reckless, and as a matter of fact, did not quite live up to the "advance notices," in the shape of letters from his minister, and Sunday school superintendent, which pictured him as a youth of good inclinations, and a member of the church.

He got a little off the path of rectitude, but he did not do it because he had a vicious disposition, and he was soon sorry for it, and was ready to make what amends he could, and do the right thing in future. But this inability — or was it disinclination? — to understand, was present in his case, and when he tried to regain the place which he knew he had lost in the estimation of those who should have been his friends, he found that his honest efforts were misunderstood, and motives entirely foreign to his mind, were imputed. The very persons who should have helped him were the ones who turned a cold shoulder to him.

That young fellow is made of the right sort of stuff, though. It's no disgrace to go astray, though it is a disgrace to continue, and in spite of the misunderstandings and the failure to appreciate the little good that is in him, he is going ahead, regardless of it all. Some day that young fellow will develop into a man who will be heard of beyond the circumscribed sphere in which he now moves. He's got a heart in the right place.

LONDON TRIP CONTEST CLOSES MONDAY

Efforts Should be Made to Maintain the Local Representative in Lead

The contest for the trip to London, conducted by the Toronto World, closes on Monday at midnigh. Yesterday's poll showed that Miss Birdie Thompson, the candidate from this city, was leading in No. 3 district, the district from which these young ladies will be selected to make the trip. All the coupons to be counted must reach the World office by midnight on Monday, and it is desirable that all who are saving them for the purpose of giving the popular young Peterborough lady a chance to take the trip, should hand them in to-day.

Miss Thompson in one day jumped from sixth to first place, with a lead of about 12,000 votes over her next nearest competitor. It does not by any means follow, however, that she will be able to maintain the lead she has gained, and for the sake of patriotic pride, and to have the satisfaction of seeing Peterborough represented, a united effort should be made to-day to place Miss Thompson undisputedly in the lead.

CLOTHING CAUGHT IN A DRILL

Roy Pilling Received Serious Injuries in C. G. E. Machine Shop

Mr. Roy Pilling, an apprentice in the machine shop of the Canadian General Electric Company, met with a painful accident while he was at work a couple of days ago. He was running a speed drill, when a portion of his clothing became entangled in the rapidly revolving drill, with the result that he was thrown against the machine, and sustained some internal injuries. He is under the doctor's care, but it is anticipated that he will soon be able to be out again.

JAPAN'S LOAD OF DEPT.

Japan's population is given officially as 48,864,000. Her revenue this year is estimated at $308,200,000. The national debt is $1,100,000,000. About half of this debt most of which was incurred for war purposes, is in the shape of foreign loans. The internal loan of more than $500,000,000 is mostly at 5 per cent. Of the foreign war loan $107,393,000 bears 6 per cent.; $292,800,000 bears 4 1-2 per cent., and $122,037,500, is at 4 per cent.

In 1880 Japan's revenue was $31,000,000; this year it is expected to reach $308,220,000. Among the items of revenue this year are: The land tax, $43,000,000, the liquor tax, about $33,000,000; the customs revenue about $18,000,000; the income tax, $11,600,000; the "receipts from public undertakings and state property," $63,380,000; receipts from salt monopoly, $13,600,000; from tobacco monopoly, $15,350,000; and railway profits, nearly $12,000,000.

Japan's debt is large considering the per capita wealth of her people. The struggle with Russia cost her about $600,000,000, and the interest on that sum costs her $26,000,000 a year. The people pay with commendable patriotic self-sacrifice, but the sum taken from their earnings tells severely on a population whose per capita wealth is not, perhaps, over $150. The nation is industrious and ambitious, however, and a few years of peaceful industry will do much to ease her of her load.—Hamilton Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES

A Hamilton barber has won a suit against a firm of alleged painless dentists. There's no chance for the barber's victims to get back at him, because he makes no pretence at painless operations.

The Ontario Government is reaping an exceptionally large harvest from the succession duties, which Mr. Whitney opposed at the time of their introduction by a Liberal Government, when it took a great deal of courage to support them against the attacks of the ignorant, but which he has been far too sensible to abolish merely for the sake of consistency. The Liberal Government has been urging that exceptional revenues of this kind, which come in unevenly and cannot be relied upon from year to year, should when they are more plentiful than the average, be treated exceptionally, and used to swell the surplus against future hard times, rather than spent immediately. — Montreal Herald.

A few days ago we had a lurid story from San Francisco about the arrest of a Japanese caught sketching the fortifications details at Fort Rosecrans, says an exchange. He was said to have had a load of plans and photographs, and to have made desperate efforts to escape. Now it is learned that there was a Japanese arrested on suspicion, but that he turned out to be a restaurant waiter; that he did not know the why of his being detained, and that nothing more incriminating was found upon him a common blank memorandum pad, used in his everyday work. The effort made to create by falsehood a bitter feeling between Japan and the United States is a disgrace to an intelligent people. And some New York papers and press agencies are just as guilty as the San Francisco gutter press. It is a fiendish work.

Water, But Nothing Else

A flowing well is something unusual in this section of the country, but one was struck by Mr. Geo. A. Johnson last week while digging for water on his premises. He had purchased a windmill which he had intended erecting to pump water, but thinks he has no use for it now. —Stirling News-Argus.

The county prize of ten dollars goes to Lillian Brock, of S. S. No. 9, Belmont.

A prize of five dollars given by Rev. Father Phalen goes to Victor Bullock, of Lakefield.

Another prize of five dollars by the same generous donor, goes to Catharine Windsor, of Young's Point.

A good second for the County prize was made by Clara Young, of S. S. No. 2, Smith.

A good third was made by William Kerr, of 11 Smith. His arithmetic paper was admirable both as to the correctness of the solutions and the neatness of the work.

In No. 1, of the arithmetic paper there was a good opportunity for cancelling. Few took advantage of it. Part 1 of No. 2, when reduced became thirty-seven thirty-sixths, divided by thirty-seven thirty-sixths, plus six-fifths, divided by six-fifths. This was considered by several as equal to naught, plus naught, equals naught; thus showing that the proper relations between the divisor, dividend and quotient were not understood. Perhaps the greatest failure in the arithmetical solutions was in No. 6, an example in compound divisions, involving square measure.

MOSQUITOES DROVE MEN FROM WORK

Operations on Power Plant in British Columbia at Standstill Because of These Pests

New Westminster, July 20. — Reports from Shuva Lake say that the Shuva Lake Power Company at times is forced to abandon operations on the erection of its big power works owing to the large number of workmen leaving work every day on account of mosquitoes.

The insects invade the camps and bunk-houses in armies, and many of the men are scarcely able to work, sleep or eat without great annoyance, and rather than stand it they are leaving their positions in large numbers every day. Some as as many as 25 leave. Large gangs of new men are arriving, but in spite of this, the number on the works has decreased.

The mosquito season will soon be over now, as it generally lasts about six weeks, and it is now four weeks since the insects first began to infest the woods. It is expected that operations in a number of logging camps up the river will be started shortly. Operations were suspended several weeks ago on account of the mosquitoes.

COVERED BY BEES LAD SLEPT PEACEFULLY

Father Removes the Queen and Others Follow Her to Hive.

Somerset, Pa., July 20.—Apparently to match the remarkable weather there have been many remarkable stories of the vagaries of bees in their annual swarmings, but the oddest to date comes from Mill Run, near Addison, Somerset County, where members of the Frazee family hold a reputation as apiarists.

Hiram Frazee came home from work in a field last week and on a bench in the apiary yard he saw his nine-year-old son fast asleep. From head to foot the youngster was covered with bees to the depth of several inches, it seemed, but he slept on.

Afraid to waken the boy, lest he anger the bees and be stung to death, Frazee looked sharply and found the queen bee, whom the others had followed from the hive. He carefully removed her, put her in the hive, and within five minutes the other bees followed, leaving the lad still sleeping and unharmed.

It appears that the queen bee had been crippled and had crawled up on the boy's body, where she was shortly joined by the whole bee community.

DOCTOR A MARTYR TO FIND AN ANTITOXIN FOR ASTHMA

Died After an Experimental Infection—Was a Victim to the Disease

Denver, July 20. — In an effort to discover a remedy that would bring relief to sufferers from asthma, Dr W. W. Robinson, of Loveland, a widely known physician and surgeon, aged 36, gave up his life yesterday.

Dr. Robinson was himself a victim of the disease, and for months he had been experimenting with an antitoxin as a cure.

On Friday Dr. Robinson said to Dr. M. M. Bailey, whom he had called in, that it would be a good time to learn the efficacy of antitoxin, and then proceeded to give himself an injection. Shortly afterwards his face and lips turned black. He tore his collar from his neck, crying that he must have air, and in a few minutes fell to the floor dead

Dr Bailey asserts that Dr. Robinson died from a sudden attack of asthma

MOTHERS AND AUNTS RAID POLICE STATION

New York Women Would Not Believe Their Children Could Do Wrong

New York, July 19.—A score of mothers, aunts and other women relatives of twenty boys arrested yesterday afternoon for stealing rides on street cars, descended on the East One Hundred and Fourth Street Police Station last evening, bent upon rescuing the captives. The raiders gave the reserves a lively time before they were subdued.

Superintendent Reith, of the New York City Railroad Company, accompanied by Policeman Selven, rounded up the boys. Among them was Jacob Blumson, 10 years old, 168 East One Hundred and Seventh street. His aunt, Mrs. Diana Kosworth, convinced that her nephew could do no wrong and that the police were tyrants, assembled the excited relatives of the other prisoners and advanced on the station house.

Doorman Hugh Armstrong, at his post of duty, was brushed aside like straw by the onrush.

With cries of joy, the women singled out their respective boys and attempted to drag them forth to freedom.

Lieut. Masterson saw that he had a small-sized riot on his hands and called the seven reserves from the rear room. Policemen Dineger and Murtagh received the brunt of the attack by the thoroughly frenzied women.

After it was all over these policemen would have had to go home in barrels, had not their fellow-policemen loaned them clothing. The station house was finally cleared and none of the prisoners escaped. Mrs. Kosworth was arrested for disorderly conduct.

SEE WINDOW DISPLAY

A Massing of Economies — Sale will be a Record Breaker.

Let's get at the root of things. What is "Clearance" as we use it? Ask the Dictionary. It says "the act of clearing; riddance." That tells a part of the Sale story, but it says nothing of the movement or of the forces employed. Now we will simplify matters — explain, suggest and advise. Spring got lost on the road, the result we are overstocked with all sorts of WARM WEATHER WEARINGS. Now's the time to clear decks — to effect riddance. There is much to move, hence much of Price Reducing. Every Department, every Stock is effected. All Summer Goods must go, and WILL go at a lively rate. No reservations, no favorites. Everything summery joins the whirl. Selling will begin with a rush. Stocks will disappear as if by magic. Come early while assortments are complete.

Sale begins on Monday, July 22nd, and lasts Two Weeks.

Why The Coates Company Did Not Come To This City

Liabilities of the Firm Amounted to Over $350,000—Mr. Henry Coates Appeared in Perth Bankruptcy Court.

SOME INTERESTING FIGURES

To the many in Peterborough who are interested in the Coates Company project and to whom the failure of the Company to establish a Canadian factory here as had been agreed upon, the following clipping from a Perth paper in connection with the financial affairs of the company, will be read with interest. It was sent to a local gentleman by a friend in Scotland:—

Henry Coates, manufacturer, Perth, appeared in the Sheriff Court on Monday for examination in bankruptcy.

A statement submitted by the bankrupt showed assets amounting to £3963 and the liabilities to £70,427. The debits include £13,500 due to the Bank of Scotland, £2300 to the Union Bank of Scotland, £2600 to the National Bank of Scotland, Glasgow; £1700 to O. and A. Syndicate, London; £1500 to J. & K. Morison, accountants, Perth; £6180 to C. Lemario Adams, Wolverhampton; £3550 to F J Benson & Co., London; £100 to M'Adam, Glasgow; £5000 to Sir James Coates, Bart.; £7000 to Mr. James Coates, junior; £2000 to Mr. Daniel Coates; £1000 to Mr. Archibald Coates; £7000 to sundry creditors; £3000 liabilities in connection with the Perth Shipping Company, £2400 of bonds on Pitcullen House. He was also cautioner in various concerns, but thought that other cautioners would relieve him of responsibility of these.

When Mr. Coates took his place in the witness box there was a large attendance of people interested and of the general public. Examined by the trustee, Mr. George A. Miller, W.S., Mr. Coates went through a list of his principal losses, by which he accounted for the deficiency brought out in his state of affairs. Those consisted mainly in losses on shares, advances, guarantees, etc., to companies, and amounted to £55,832. He stated that eh also out in advances to individuals sums estimated at £4983—a total of £60,815. In interest on bank overdrafts, bills and loans he paid £3315 annually; on life insurance premiums he paid £300, while his personal expenses, including subscriptions, etc., he put down at £300. His total annual expenditure amounted to £3915. His income from dividends he estimated at about £1200, and directors' fees at £640—a total of £1840. His annual excess of expenditure amounted to £2375. His money losses for the last five years amounted to £79,815. Sheriff Syme pointed out that it had not been shown what the assets in the earlier stages were. The trustee said he had received all information that he required; but as one of the agents who had not seen the state of affairs asked for a continuation, the Sheriff granted his motion for an adjournment until 22nd June.

Nurse Tells of Eczema Cure

Miss C. Stanley Jones, professional nurse, 283 Simcoe street, Toronto, writes: "In my occupation as nurse I have come across many cases in which Dr. Chase's Ointment has been used with extraordinary results. One case in that of a sixteen months old child who was cured of a scald head and another that of a woman cured of eczema on the face, after her doctor had given her up

RARE COLLECTION OF CURIOS GATHERED AT THE POLICE STATION

Articles That the Constables Never Use Kept for Years—The Modern Curiosity Shop of Peterborough.

MANY LADIES' POSSESSIONS

If the history of every articlen which lies within the four walls of the police station, had been recorded during the past quarter of a century, the city of Peterborough would certainly be the possessor of a miniature museum, containing more curios of interest than many a larger institution of a similar character. An Examiner reporter was given the privilege yesterday evening of a glance at the various receptacles containing collections of rarities, coming years ago, from almost every possible class of store imaginable. And although the reporter had visited the money-making establishment almost daily for a couple of years, his attention was directed, through the generosity of P. C. Adams, to interesting articles whic no one ever dreamed of forming a portion of the contents of the police court.

In almost every article there lies a silent story, which if it could be unfolded now, would be appreciated by many a reader. But the connections in most of thee cases have been forgotten, and only the proofs that tales exist remain.

Yesterday evening the four cells of the interior were vacant except for the benches, the bareness of which imparted a sombre tinge to the apartments that have harboured many a sinner.

The present police station has only been in commission about 22 years. Before this the mills of the law ground out justice above the old opera house arcade. Chief of Police Roszel has been 19 years in the employ of the city, and at the rate at which the prisoners are coming before the bar of justice the past few days, he must have looked upon many an offender.

Policeman Adams has served the city longer than any who have ever been on the force, and on the third of August next will have exactly completed a quarter of a century. P. C. McGinty, whose ill-health now compels him to take a vacation, has been a constable for about 23 years, and the remainder of the force are recent arrivals, who have already shown their cababilities.

Some Collections

In reference to the motley collection of goods, it may be said that few persons realise their variegated quality. If the immortal Dickens of Curiosity Shop fame, were to observe the contents of the ancient receptacles he might discover a few corners which would rival his Curiosity Shop of old. For who would expect to see a paper of pins, a string of horse bells, or a flip box, to be utilized by a policeman? Or what constable ever wore a silver necklace or was found to flash a gold brooch from the breast of his uniform? Neither has the fact been recorded that any member of the force ever chased a rugby ball around the corridors, yet the "elusive pigskin" hangs from a rusty nail, unused and practically unseen for years. The ball had once been the property of some boys who were negligent of the appearance of a neighbour's garden, and it was confiscated and presented to the Chief.

There are pocket books galore, which have been unclaimed, at the station. The majority are empty, but a few contain the coppers, nickels and dimes which were found in them. A silver bracelet, which once, perhaps, had encircled the arm of a pretty maiden, is wasting its beauty there. Brooches, silver and gold, in appearance, at any rate, lie in various corners, unused for years.

Other Oddities

One of the latest additions to the rarities is a pack of playing cards, found in the once famous No. 24, Parnell street. A half dozen dice occupy the same pigeon hole in the desk against the wall, but no record is there showing under what circumstances they were admitted. An I.O.F. badge, cuff links, pass books, shaving cup, an attractive shell purse, and a string of pearl beads, with a heart attached, are also to be seen.

In one of the drawers of a desk are contained all sorts of knives, beginning with the pen knife, to the gigantic stabbers used by the sons of Sunny Italy. There are jackknives in abundance but the majority of them have seen better days. A pair of ouncels, or spring balance, as it is sometimes called, found some years ago, the end of a parasol which was broken by a drunken man, three or four of the small boys' air guns, a hat, odd boots and coats, form part of the collection.

A bicycle found over a month ago, awaits an owner in the rear corridor, and several empty whisky bottles, which had once cast somniferous influences over their weary owners, can be found beneath an old bench. Several coats, muffs, capelrines and ruffs, represent the dry-goods department, but most of these are now too ancient to be worn.

A horseshoe, probably for luck, is nailed up in the rear room, besides some half dozen hand satchels, a couple of buggy whips and an iron pulley.

It was only about a month ago a junk man sailed at the station and was loaded up with old iron and other unnecessaries, which greatly lessened the furniture to be guarded. He sold the junk, got drunk, and is now serving a term on the hill for his straying from the narrow path of righteousness.

Many other articles too numerous to mention, are also in one or another corner of that prominent yet often dreaded retreat, which has for almost a quarter of a century looked upon the rights and wrongs of hundreds of citizens.

May License Guides In Kawartha Lake Regions

Recommendation to This Effect Will be Made as a Means of Protecting the Fish — Americans Ship Them Out.

FISH INSPECTOR TO ACT

Capt. A. Hunter of Frontenac county, Inspector of Fish and Game in Eastern Ontario, has returned from a trip to Loon Lake, with Overseer Moore, of this place, and Overseer Lane of Apsley. Inspector Hunter was on a trip through the district, consulting and instructing the overseers on enforcing the new regulations of the Fish and Game Act. Captain Hunter will recommend to the department, that all guides who engage with parties in the sporting districts be licensed, and thus held responsible to the overseers for the enforcement of the act. At the present time parties of Americans come to this district, and with the assistance of guides, make some very large catches of fish, which is contrary to the game laws. These fish are also shipped out in boxes and it makes it very difficult for the overseers to catch the guilty parties. The inspector intends to recommend that the guides keep the fishermen within the limit, and any who permits a larger catch than the law allows, will lose his license. The effect of this should be very beneficial, and will protect the fish from the American slaughterers. — Lakefield News.

THE CHEESE MARKET IS DEPRESSED

Prices Have Gone Flat and Little Cheese is Being Delivered on Montreal Markets

Reports from Montreal indicate that the deliveries of cheese at that port are small, and that the market is in a depressed condition. In view of these facts, the price obtained at the last sale here was as high, is a matter for congratulation. Last night's reports from Montreal state that prices on the country boards have dropped. A despatch says:

depressed, and whatever bids are depressed and whatever bids are coming from the other side are low, so low that holders for the present, do not feel like accepting them. However it is very likely that these bids will have to be accepted next week.

The feeling is for lower prices, and with the light shipments this week there can not help but be a large quantity of cheese carried over to next week, which certainly will not help the market.

The country boards of yesterday showed a decline of 1-4 to 3-8 cents per pound, and prices on spot are quoted around the last quotations, though for the next week the possibilities are the prices will be much lower.

The quotations are: Quebecs, 10 5-8c to 10 3-4c; townships, 10 7 8 cents to 11 cents.; Ontarios, white, 11 1-4 cents, coloured, 11 5-8 cents.

The receipts to-day at Montreal were 13,379, against 17,610 for the same day last year.

Mr. May of Bancroft will remain in the city for a short time, however, and will conduct services in the Gospel Hall to-morrow at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

BEAUTY OF PARK IS THREATENED

If People are to be Allowed to Walk All Over the Lawns and Terraces

IN HURRY TO GET HOME

A Peterborough crowd always seems to be in a hurry to get home as soon as any entertainment is over, and has been unfavourably commented on at the opera house during the season. As soon as the curtain went down for the last time there was a rush for the door, as if a fire had broken out.

The same thing is true of the band concerts in the park. When the band rises to their feet to play the National Anthem, there is a rush made to get out of the park and as a result the beautiful lawns and terraces will soon be ruined. People rush down the terraces and across the lawns, flounder into flower beds, and generally play havoc with all that makes the park beautiful. If a couple of policemen were sent to the park and obtained the names of some of the offenders and made an example of them, a good many people who seem ignorant of the fact now would know that the signs "Keep off the Grass" are not merely ornaments but mean something.

Why there should be so much haste in getting away from the park is not apparent, but surely even in their haste, they should be able to find the walks and not destroy the pretty park by making a steple chase course of it with the flower beds as hurdles.

LATEST MOVEMENTS OF STEAMBOATS

A Busy Week for the Lock Master—Lake and River News

Navigation on the Little Lake and Otonabee River has been at its height the past week and many boats have passed between the city and Rice Lake points. Mr. Wm. Collins, the genial lock master at the locks bridge, has certainly been kept on the move and has opened the gates of passage a good many times.

The dredge, Emmerson, which has been operating in the vicinity of Dangerfield on the river was moved up to the canal on Thursday by the steamer Empire, to undergo repairs.

The Water Lily returned yesterday from Stony Lake with a scow load of steamboat wood from the Third Line Creek to the rear of Mr. A. L. Davis island. The Rainbow has arrived back from Buckhorn where she had taken a scow load of hogs. Mr. LaPlante's yacht, the Arthemeus, went down the river yesterday with a party.

In addition to these extras, the steamers of the local waters have been making their regular and excursion trips.

The Rice Lake summer resorts are in full swing and many tourists are being harboured at Jubilee Point, Gore's Landing and Idyl Wyld. The wharf at the latter spot is now nearing completion and has added greatly to the appearance of the surroundings. Gore's Landing and Jubilee Point are clothed in their summer garbs and never looked prettier to the eye of the camper.

THE TATE OPTICAL CO. PETERBORO.

Practically during my whole life (prior to June 1905) I was troubled with terrible pains in my head which I attributed to violent attacks of neuralgia. I tried innumerable headache and neuralgic preparations, but without obtaining the slightest relief. The suffering I endured for a year or more previous to the time I consulted you is indescribable. At times I became delirious through the intense pain, and was obliged to call in a local Physician. Many times morphine was administered to allay the terrible suffering I was undergoing, but this did not give me the slightest relief. A friend advised me to consult your Mr. Babcock, I did so and found out from you that I was suffering from muscular nervous asthenopia, caused by astigmatism. It was remarkable the relief I obtained after the treatment I received, and the wearing of the glasses you prescribed and made for me, since that time I have experienced no difficulty with my eyes, nor have I suffered the slightest return of the old trouble. I cannot help but attribute the ill-health and suffering I experienced as being due to the trouble in my eyes before consulting you. I feel very grateful indeed for the interest taken in my case, as I had almost despaired of even getting any relief. I might also say I consulted opticians in Lindsay and Toronto in reference to my trouble, but obtained no relief. I desire to again express my sincere gratitude to you for the trouble taken in my case, as well as the wonderful cure effected. Yours sincerely

WANT NEW SYSTEM AT STATION

To Designate Trains Leaving G.T.R. Station—Some Confusion Now Caused

Mayor McWilliams has written Mr Sandy, of the G. T. R., in an effort to have the conditions at the station in regard to outgoing trains, removed. There are several periods during the day when several trains are going out almost simultaneously, and there is nothing to indicate their destination, so that strangers are very often confused, and there have been instances in which travellers have got on the wrong train, and this case is not confined to strangers either, as local people have been caught in the same predicament.

The matter has been referred to several times in the Examiner, and has been frequently complained of by local people and visitors. For instance at around 8.30 o'clock in the morning there are trains leaving for Lakefield, Lindsay, Campbellford and Port Hope and other eastern points almost together, and as a result there is much confusion.

The Mayor thinks that the company should either have a bulletin board on which the destination of the train was marked, or else have an official at the station to call out the trains, so that people will have no trouble in getting on the right train.

A SPLENDID CONCERT BY THE BAND

One of the Most Enjoyable Programmes of Season Last Night

A splendid concert was given by the 57th Band in Victoria Park last night, under the direction of Mr. Rupert Gliddon, to an immense crowd of people, who thoroughly appreciated the grand programme given. The playing of the band was a treat to the lovers of music, and the organization, especially in the reed section, is stronger than it has been for some years.

The programme last night was what might be called a popular one, as nothing of a very heavy nature was rendered. One of the best numbers was Bucalossi's "Hunting Scene," a descriptive selection that was given with realism and effect. The beautiful hymn, "A Few More Years," was grandly rendered, the playing of the band in this selection resembling some big cathedral organ. A well-merited encore was given the selection. Bandsman Walter Hughes exhibited his complete mastery of the cornet in the solo, "Killarney," with a beautiful accompaniment by the band.

Other numbers which made up this most enjoyable concert were the ragtime novelty, "A Coon Band Contest," the magnificent "Soldiers' Chorus," from Faust; the medley overture, "Renwick's Hits" a the lively cakewalk, "Freaks of Blackville," and the Irish-lassie intermezzo success, "Armin-Waltna."

FEATURES AT POLICE STATION TO-DAY

Mill of Justice Stopped Running—No Grist to Grind

The special feature of the Police Court this morning was that there was none. The mill has been grinding out justice every day for several weeks without a break, and it was with a look of profound pleasure, although unexpressed, that the police officers could say to the reporters' ancient query to-day, that there was "nothing doing."

It is strange, too, how the news of "no court" spreads around. There were scarcely any of the old, accustomed faces haunting the door leading to the dusky court-room, that one usually sees when a case is on the docket. The police cells were empty all night, and the silence was somewhat oppressive. Police Magistrate Dumble is out of the city also.

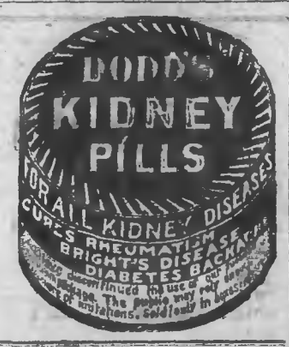
STEAMER CAUGHT ON ROCKS OF CLEAR LAKE

Water Lily Delayed Yesterday In Upper Lakes

The steamer Water Lily, while at Stony Lake yesterday for a scowload of wood, got stranded on some rocks about the head of clear lake. The distress whistle was blown, and, after a long wait, it was towed off by a steam tug.

Ill Temper From a Bad Liver

Calyle justly attributes the ill-temper which made him a monster in the eyes of the world, to a bad liver. Nothing makes one feel more miserable or gloomy and discouraged than liver complaint, and consequent biliousness and dyspepsia, and nothing so thoroughly and promptly sets the liver right and overcomes these ailments as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, the great family medicine.



VERY SMALL MARKET THIS MORNING

Two Aldermen Expressed Their Opinions on the Square

The market this morning was one of the poorest of the season. At 11 o'clock there were scarcely a dozen vehicles on the outside department, and few were disposing of goods in the market hall. The market was visited by a couple of the aldermen, who, in speaking of the matter, said that it was shameful that so many had been driven away through recent circumstances.

Butter sold at from 22 to 25 cents per lb. this morning, but there was not much offered. The price of eggs still remains firm, and to-day they were disposed of at 19 and 20 cents per dozen. Chickens sold at 75c and less per pair.

The feature of the outside market was the appearance of some half dozen reeks of new potatoes, which sold at 45 and 50 cents per peck. Old potatoes brought $125 per bag.

FINEST FLOUR IS AN ONTARIO BLEND

Ontario Wheat with Manitoba Mixture is Now Most Popular

A few years ago, before wheat-growing in the Great West had reached anything like its present proportions, Ontario farmers carted their own wheat to the nearest mill and during the grinding talked politics with their neighbors till the time to return contentedly with feed or flour for home use. It at that time some soothsayer had predicted that in some sections of the province wheat growing would be abandoned on account of Western competition, and that farmers would refuse to accept flour made from their own wheat when Manitoba flour was available, they would have smiled pityingly on the poor deluded pessimist.

But this decline in the market is exactly what has happened to the Ontario farmer. Millers are now able to run only eight or ten hours a day, with the result that feed rests nearly double what it did in the days before the Western competition had cut into the market. It is safe to assert that during the last twenty years farmers of Ontario have lost millions through the decline in the demand for Ontario flour in this province.

While here in Ontario, Western flour has gained an enviable ascendancy, enterprising Ontario millers have been able to compete successfully with Western flour in the Maritime Provinces, where Ontario blended flours have captured the market. Enough Western wheat is added to the finely flavoured, nourishing Ontario wheat to bring up the percentage of gluten to the proper strength, and now, even in Ontario the most popular loaf sold by the largest firm of bakers is made of Ontario blended flour, and the public have been quick to respond whenever the new bread is put on the market, as it is now shipped daily to to a number of towns throughout Ontario.

What has won the unprejudiced approval of the Eastern Provinces ought to be well worth the attention of the Ontario farmers, whose interests are best served by doing all in their power to encourage the sale of Ontario wheat. As the new flours find their way into general use throughout the homes of Ontario, the wheat market will improve, and stockmen may expect to secure bran and shorts at a more reasonable figure. Increased demand for Ontario blended flour will doubtless have a great deal to do in evening up the difference in prices between Ontario and Manitoba wheat.

NEW YORK MAN PRAISES LOCAL PHOTOGRAPHER

Platinum Work in Mr. Lenarum's Window Second to None, He Says

Mr. J. H. Still of New York, who is in the city to-day, paid a pretty compliment to the work of one of Peterborough's photographers, Mr. W. G. Lenarum. Mr. Still is an authority on photography, having acted on as a judge on many occasions in New York, and states that Arnold Sepia platinum work, which is on exhibition in Mr. Lenarum's window, is unsurpassed by any in the Yankee metropolis and second to none that he has ever seen. With the exception of one or two Mr. Still stated that the photos were all of the first grade variety, and he was surprised, he said, to see such excellent quality here.

YACHT IS BLOWN UP

Terrible Accident to Pleasure Boat On Toronto Bay.

GASOLINE TANK EXPLODED

Woman Burned Beyond Recognition—Another Seriously Injured—Victims Were Norwegians, Relatives of Sailors—Boat Goes to the Bottom—Boys Hurt by Flying Timber—Loss About $80,000.

Toronto, July 20.—Death and severe injury accompanied by a considerable property loss were caused by a gasoline explosion on Amelius Jarvis' big auxiliary yacht the Sitarah in the Yonge street slip yesterday at noon.

Mrs. Valberg Backenstein, was burned to death, and Mrs. Christina Johnston lies in St. Michael's Hospital in a critical condition, being frightfully burned; while Nels Olsen, engineer of the ill-fated boat; Alf. Johnson, 15 years, cabin boy, and Ernest Johnson, 7 years, sons of Mrs. Johnson, are in the hospital suffering from lesser injuries.

The women, whose husbands work upon other yachts of the R.C.Y.C. fleet of which the Sitarah, a barge ketch, was the queen, had asked and secured permission to cross to the island in the boat, and First Mate Jack Jorgenson had given the signal for the boat to start when a deafening explosion took place.

Terrific Force.

So great was the force of this that the cabin top was lifted from its fastenings and one of the tenders was blown from the davits to the deck. Immediately there was a rush for the dock as flames leaped from the lower portion of the vessel.

Jorgenson, who was at the wheel on deck, reached the shore in safety, and Nels Olsen, who was standing by the engines, made his way on deck with his collarbone broken and his clothing alight. Charles Backenstein, a deckhand, who was on the deck, also jumped ashore.

At this point one of the Johnson boys was discovered on deck, and Patrick Rawlings, a young bystander, leaped upon the burning craft and seizing the lad in his arms made his way to the dock in safety amid the cheers of the onlookers.

Dived For Boy.

Frederick L. Faulkner, saw the other lad in the water, and instantly dived. He brought him to the dock after a struggle.

Mrs. Johnson appeared in the companionway. Her clothing was ablaze. She gained the deck and ran screaming to the dock, where her clothing was extinguished.

Fall Into Flames.

When Mrs. Backenstein came from the cabin several stepped forward to help her, but just as the hands of the rescuers were upon her she threw up her hands and fell back into the flames.

Meanwhile the Bay street and Lombard street divisions of the fire department and the fire tug Nelly Bly appeared upon the scene. Stretching hose from the Esplanade the firemen soon had two lines playing on the blazing boat, while an equal number played upon her from the fire tug, which had steamed alongside.

The Bay street chemical engine was brought into play and seemed to be the only thing which had any effect upon the burning gasoline, which was now escaping in large quantities from the 55-gallon tank within the boat.

Feared Second Explosion.

This tank was the great fear in fighting the flames. It had not exploded, and no one could say at what moment it might ignite, causing a still more serious explosion than the first.

When word of this danger spread among the crowds upon the dock, the police had little trouble in keeping the idly curious at a safe distance.

Nevertheless, the firemen worked on determinedly, and at last the supply of the chemical engine was exhausted, and it was sent away to be recharged, which took half an hour.

Vessel Scuttled.

At last it became apparent that to extinguish the flames the vessel must be sunk, and at the word of Mr. Jarvis, large streams were turned into the boat and at 1 o'clock she grounded in the slip, where she now lies.

Meanwhile the injured had been removed to St. Michael's Hospital, where they were instantly attended.

Horribly Burned.

Mrs. Backenstein's body was horribly burned, and even the firemen were sickened. All the clothing except a garter, and a gold chain, and the ears, nose, fingers and toes were burned away.

When the yacht began to sink half a dozen of the firemen had to make a hurried scramble for the dock.

Mr. Jarvis valued the boat at $18,000. She was purchased at Detroit in 1905 from Russell Alger, Jr., since which time she has been fitted with her auxiliary engine. She was insured with the Federal Lloyds Company for $5,000, which will nearly cover the loss on her.

Emperor of Korea Resigns His Crown With a Sigh.

ELDERS UPHELD MINISTERS

Present Monarch Made Too Many Blunders—Requested by Council to Abdicate—His Majesty's Appeal Ends In Disappointment—Painful Scene at Palace—Police Have Trouble With Crowd.

Seoul, Korea, July 20.—It is reported that a most dramatic scene occurred at the palace Thursday night, when the ministers, headed by Premier Wang Yong, appeared before His Majesty and made the Cabinet's final representation in urging the Emperor's abdication.

His Majesty was in a high state of excitement, but the Premier, in the most humble but firm tone dwelt at length upon want of precaution and prudence of the Emperor's policies hitherto, especially in diplomatic affairs, whereby he was endangering the safety of the nation. The Premier enumerated the facts of His Majesty's duplicities, which culminated in the despatch of a deputation to The Hague peace conference, and forcibly reasoned the uselessness of the Emperor's disavowal of his relation with The Hague affair.

Unable to successfully combat the logic of the Premier's representation, the Emperor sought a last refuge in the council of older statesmen, doubtless anticipating their sympathies. The council immediately convened. Four elders quickly responded and appeared before His Majesty at one o'clock yesterday morning.

The Emperor's disappointment and surprise was boundless when they unanimously agreed with the Minister's advice. His Majesty's mind was finally made up, and he consented to the draft for an imperial rescript announcing his abdication, which was placed before him for his signature.

The Emperor's condition was indescribable. Greatly agitated and perturbed, he signed the document and the seal was affixed amid an impressive silence. A suppressed sigh from the Emperor was the only sound which broke the death-like stillness that reigned throughout the memorable scene.

Briefly, the Emperor, in the imperial rescript of abdication, expressed his regret that during the 44 years of his reign, national calamities have followed in rapid succession and the people's distress has become so aggravated that he esteemed it now time to transfer the crown to the heir-apparent in conformity with ancestral usages.

Last night serious disorders occurred. A crowd of 5,000 Koreans had been beaten back from the palace gates. During the audience with the Cabinet, when the Emperor acquiesced to the demand for abdication, a number of students attempted to present a petition to the Emperor, but the police prevented them from doing so, driving them back east of the palace, where they remained all night, making speeches. At midnight Chief of Police Maruyama distributed carbines to the police, the crowd continued to increase but remained orderly.

Some shops were closed because of the sympathy of their proprietors with the Emperor, and the streets around the palace were filled with people. The Japanese papers have published some sensational rumors, but there is little indication of a revolt.

Raleigh, N.C., July 20.—The Southern Railroad Co. was fined $20,000 yesterday, and Thomas J. Green, ticket agent of the company, was fined $5 in the State Court here for selling railroad tickets at a rate in excess of that provided by the recent state law for a uniform rate of 2 1-4 cents a mile in North Carolina.

The court required Green to promise not to sell tickets at the illegal rate. Green made the promise and paid the fine.

Bullet For Theft.

Kingston, July 20.—The paymaster at the Bedford-Feldspar mines shot a man in the leg at an early hour while trying to climb through a screened window, evidently with the intention of securing a pay packet containing $1,500.

The marauder was captured. When brought to Kingston, H. W. Richardson, owner of the mines, declined to prosecute.

LAURIER AT HOME

Sir Wilfrid Receives An Ovation At Quebec.

CANADA'S GREAT STATESMAN

Premier's Popularity Ever Increasing—Great Non-Political Demonstration—Escorted In Triumphal Procession Through Streets—City Profusely Decorated—Sir Wilfrid's Eloquent Reply.

Quebec, July 20.—The grand demonstration in honor of Sir Wilfrid's homecoming took place last evening at 8 o'clock.

Sir Wilfrid was escorted in triumphal procession from the Chateau Frontenac through the most important thoroughfares in the city to St. Peter's market place in St. Sauveur.

The procession left the Chateau Frontenac headed by a cavalry escort and the carriages containing members of the following Liberal clubs: Jacques Cartier, Laurier, and Quebec Centre and a band.

The Premier was accompanied by the Hon. Mr. Gouin, Provincial Premier; Dr. Cote, president of the reception committee, and His Worship Mayor J. G. Garneau.

The other members of the reception committee, the press and citizens followed in some sixty carriages.

Four bands were in the procession: Needless to say the streets through which the procession passed were crowded. The route of march was profusely and appropriately decorated, the display of bunting being very profuse and the electric light motives numerous and very gorgeous.

At St. Peter's market place, in St. Sauveur, an address of welcome was presented to Sir Wilfrid by Dr. Cote, M.P.P., general president of the reception committee. To this Sir Wilfrid replied in his usual very eloquent manner. Other speeches were made by Hon. Messrs. Paterson, Aylesworth, Lemieux, Bureau, Gouin and Turgeon.

The demonstration was not considered as political. It was considered as of a civic or national character.

Sir Wilfrid leaves to-morrow morning for Three Rivers, Sorel and Montreal on board the steamer Lady Grey.

RAISE PRICE OF THREAD.

Cost to Be Increased to Ten Cents a Spool.

New York, July 20.—Cotton thread, until a short time ago the most stable in price of all the staples, selling the country over for five cents a spool, is to be advanced again so that the retail price will be ten cents. On May 29 there was an advance which brought the retail price to 6 and 7 cents.

Increased cost of raw material and an advance in wages are the reasons given for the contemplated increase in price.

Independent manufacturers declare that neither of these reasons is a good one, for when cotton was selling much higher than it is now thread retailed for 5 cents.

A Message for Pile Sufferers

FROM TWO LADIES WHO HAVE BEEN CURED OF EXTREMELY TORTURING CASES OF PILES BY

Dr. Chase's Ointment

Mrs. Geo. H. Simser, Grant, Russell county, Ont., writes:—"Eleven years ago I began to suffer from piles, and as they caused keen distress, and became worse, I doctored for them, but with little or no avail. They were bleeding, itching and protruding, and oh! the torture suffered at times can never be described. It was with suffering that the bowels moved, and, as nothing brought relief, I could only endure the misery with an aching heart and without hope of cure.

"Finally a lady friend told me about Dr. Chase's Ointment curing piles, and to my surprise I felt relief at once on using this ointment; the little tumors soon disappeared, the ulcers healed, and the bowels became regular. This was five years ago, and I have never been troubled with this terrible ailment since, a thousand thanks to Dr. Chase's Ointment."

Mrs. Capt. Clinansmith, Salvation Army, Essex, Ont., writes: "It is with pleasure that I write to you in praise of Dr. Chase's Ointment. Two years ago I was taken with a severe attack of protruding piles, and became so bad that I had to keep my bed, and could lie in no position except on my Stomach. Doctors could give me no help, and the various oils and ointments used proved of no avail.

"One Saturday night, when I was suffering untold agony, my husband went to the drug store, for a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment, which I had heard of as a cure for piles. Although I had almost given up hope, to the wonder of those around me, I was able to be up and on my feet by Monday, and have had no difficulty from piles since. As a treatment for all kinds of sores and burns, Dr. Chase's Ointment works like magic."

To persons who have given up looking for a cure of piles or hemorrhoids, this letter should bring new hope. There is, we believe, no more effective treatment for piles than Dr. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. 3

Famous Lacrosse Player Visits His Old Home

Mr. Fred. Lynch, of New Westminster, is in the City---The Games of a Few Years Ago Are Recalled---He Has Played With the Western Champions.

OUT OF GAME THIS YEAR

Mr. Fred Lynch, an old Peterborough boy, who has been a resident of New Westminster, B. C., is spending a vacation with his mother, Mrs. Lynch, cornerr of Aylmer and London streets. Mr. Lynch, who is very well known in Peterborough, is being given a hearty welcome back to the home of his childhood.

Mr. Lynch is probably the best lacrosse player that Peterborough has ever turned out, and old-time enthusiasts, and even those who are not so old, will remember his exploits with the gutted sticks, and the battles which he waged on behalf of the Peterborough team, at that time in the height of its glory. The memorable game with Orillia, in which Fred had his eye almost taken out, by a blow from the stick of Micky Connors, and other members of the team were battered up, is still fresh in the memories of lacrosse lovers of this city, while the return game, the week after, at the P.A.A.A. grounds, is still a subject of conversation when the fans get together.

The game ended in a free-for-all fight, and Boulton Keene, the manager of the Orillia team, was chased by a crowd of men and boys, all the way from the grounds to a freight car at the corner of Charlotte and Bethune streets, where he gave the crowd the slip. These were stirring times in the lacrosse arena, and Mr. Lynch was one of the best players on the team, figuring at point, where he played grand lacrosse.

Mr. Lynch left Peterborough in 1898, for the West, taking up residence in New Westminster, where he now carries on a very successful wholesale cigar business. He speaks in terms of the highest praise of the West, and the prospects there for young men, who desire to get ahead.

In New Westminster his lacrosse career was continued, and he won fresh laurels with the western champions, playing on the home, where his speed and stick handling made him a most valuable man. He has been a member of the team every year since he took up residence in New Westminster, and accompanied the team on their trips to the East, when they met the Caps, Shamrocks and other crack eastern teams, and in these games, too, Mr. Lynch distinguished himself. This is the first season for twelve years he has not played lacrosse.

Mr. Lynch is accompanied by his wife, a western girl, whom he married since he left Peterborough.

Rich Iron Deposits In North Hastings Region

A Valuable Mineral Heritage, Developed by Mr. H. C. Farnum --Are Being Used in Canadian Smelters.

HAS A BRIGHT FUTURE

Public attention has been so largely directed of late to the rich mineral discoveries at Cobalt, that developments of still greater economic value in North Hastings have attracted little notice. Iron ore is abundant in Canada, but the quality in the accessible sources of supply leaves much to be desired. Sulphur, phosphorus, and other deleterious elements enter so largely into them as to make them unfit for the production of the better qualities of iron and steel. Smelters in Ontario and Nova Scotia have had to look abroad to the United States, Spain, Cuba and other sources, for the higher grade of ore to mix with their own to bring up its quality to meet standard requirements.

An abundant supply of pure high-grade Bessamer ore has been greatly desired and perseveringly sought for by our furnace men. This great desideratum has at length been secured. Canada is now independent of foreign iron ore. An immense deposit of magnetite—the lodestone about which so many legends of earlier days revolved—has been discovered in North Hastings, of such purity as to leave nothing to be desired, and in such quantities as to be practically inexhaustable. Development has so far advanced as to make the mines at Bessemer an available source of supply on a commercial basis. For a few months past the smelters at the Soo, Midland and Radnor have drawn a quota of high-grade ore from this source. The furnace at Deseronto now rekindled, and the steel works at Welland in course of erection, are looking to these mines as a source of supply.

The credit for the discovery and practical utilization of this vast deposit is due to Mr. H. C. Farnum, who is now beginning to reap the reward of the grit and tenacity of purpose with which he prosecuted the project through long years, in the face of innumerable difficulties and obstructions. With rare perseverance and pluck he has carried through the work of discovery, acquisition of land, testing and development of deposits, financing, organizing, housing of employees, railway building, and ing of employees, railway building and the planting of such an industry in the heart of a wilderness. Capital has been secured and poured in during the past seven or eight years, and only now are the returns of a large outlay beginning to come in. The project, however, has reached the stage of assured success, and development will go forward as rapidly as the difficulties created by labour and transportation are overcome.

The value of the property and the part these mines are likely to play in the future of our iron industry may be gauged by the fact that an offer running up into the millions was made for them by a foreign corporation before development had reached the commercial stage. It is the more to the credit of Mr. Farnum that he has carried through this project to a successful issue in the face of embarrassments growing out of the failure of his earlier mining ventures in Hastings, and that he has made the losers by these failures sharers in his great success. It was copper that he was in search of, first at Eldorado and later near Hermon. It was not until after the failure of "The Copper King" venture that he turned his attention to iron. In the spring of 1899 he secured an option on the Childs deposit (now No. 5) and completed the purchase about a year later. A conservative estimate of this mass of magnetite places its contents at 5,000,000 tons. It assays from 45 to 65 per cent. of iron, with a very low percentage of sulphur and phosphorus. It is a low-grade ore, highly desirable from the smelter's point of view. As it is farthest from the shipping outlet it has not yet been practically utilized.

A range of eruptive granite runs in a northeasterly direction through this part of Dungannon and Mayo. The Childs deposit lies on the south side and near the eastern end of the range. Proceeding on the assumption that this eruptive mass in forcing its way to the surface, had broken up and tilted the strata along its course to the high angle of sixty degrees, which the rock exposures exhibit, he proceeded carefully to prospect the southern side of the range for other outcroppings of iron. Several of these were discovered as the reward of two years of this work. Two of these have been developed and are now known as Mines No. 2 and 3, from which the shipment of ore are made. Land was acquired, mainly from the Government, as these discoveries were made, till he held some 3,000 acres in a solid block.

It required the labour of years and the expenditure of a large amount of money to test the quality and quantity of the ore in the two mines utilized, to construct roads, to bring in supplies and machinery, and to cart out sample shipments of ore. The ore deposit at Mine No. 3 is 800 feet in length by 300 in width, and has been tested by drill to the depth of 160 feet without reaching the foot wall. A very conservative estimate of this mass of ore places it at 3,000,000 tons. The ore body at No. 4 is 1,000 feet in length by 300 in widthh. Drilling operations were brought to a close there, when a depth of 140 feet had been reached, by the loss of the drill, without determining the depth of ore. There is at least as much ore at this mine as at No. 3. Pure magnetite contains 7 per cent. of iron. The purity and high-grade of the ore in these two veins may be judged by the following assays of 20-ton shipments made, respectively, by the Tonawanda Iron and Steel Company, and the Canada Iron Furnace Company, the one from No. 3 the other from No. 4—

Iron	63.80
Silica	5.15
Phosphorus	.024
Alumi	.35
Lime	2.70
Manganese	.033
Magnesia	1.24
Sulphur	.076

No. 4

Iron	64.23
Silica	5.79
Phosphorus	.013
Manganese	.13
Alumina	1.40
Lime	2.43
Magnesia	1.55
Sulphur	.007

The last shipment to the Soo in the course of current business, assayed there, carried 60 per cent. of iron and so small a percentage of phosphorus and sulphur as not to be worth noting by them. No difficulty is experienced in meeting Bessemer standard requirements. The ore "lead" at No. 4 runs down into a lake, and has been traced about three-quarters of a mile under the water till it crops up again at No. 3. The northern side of the granite range has not been fully prospected, but discoveries have been made sufficient to indicate that the same ore will be found there in large quantities on the company's property.

Having exhausted its own means in prospecting, testing his discoveries, purchasing land, etc., Mr. Farnum found it necessary to put the project on a wider basis. In 1902 he organized "The Mineral Range Iron Mining Co., Ltd.," with a capital of $500,000 in shares of $1. After the conveyance of the property, with the discoveries and improvements, 150,000 shares remained in the treasury. These were offered to the public at 100 cents per share, raised as the prospects of the venture brightened to 12 1-2, 25, 50 cents, and, finally, to $1, at which a large amount of it was taken by those already holding stock. There is some remaining for sale by the company, and though no dividend has yet been paid, it is closely held by the fortunate owners.

The first trial lots of ore had to be carted out to L'Amable station, after the completion of the C.O.R. to that point. The building of a five mile spur by the mining company, completed a few months ago, to the mines has made remunerative shipment on a large scale possible. The company has installed a power house and crusher capable of crushing 1,000 tons per day, and is equipped with a sawmill, store, boarding houses, houses for men with families, etc. From 175 to 200 men are on the pay roll. Unskilled labourers are paid $1.75 per day. Board and lodging cost 50 cents. Skilled labour is paid in proportion. Both classes of labour are in insufficient supply. The production of the mines is at present about 150 tons per day.

The company has been much hampered by the difficulty of securing cars to ship out its ore. Ten tons could be disposed of at remunerative figures for everyone they have sent out. The obstacles in the way of largely increased production are, however, giving way one by one. Houses for the accommodation of families are rapidly going up. The location is healthful. There has been, so far, remarkable immunity from sickness and accident. Religious services are conducted every Sunday afternoon by the Presbyterian minister resident at Bancroft. The opening of a school is in prospect, and many other projects for the accommodation of this growing community are only awaiting a better supply of labour and the solution of the transportation problem.

Ontario may well congratulate herself on what has already been accomplished in the interest of the iron industry and on what may reasonably be expected, in the near future, as the result of the discoveries and developments at Bessemer.

There's Danger in Every Cold
Once you come to realizing the danger of neglecting coughs and colds you will not run the risk of depending on any cough mixture the druggist may choose to hand you out and will insist on getting a medicine with a reputation such as Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. Croup, bronchitis, asthma and coughs and colds are promptly and thoroughly cured by this treatment.

GAVE EMPLOYEES AN OUTING ON RIVER

Mr. Jack Gemmell Was the Host of a Pleasant Party Yesterday.

Mr. Jack Gemmell Thursday treated the employees of his establishment, together with a few friends, to a very pleasant picnic down the river. The journey was made in a launch and a stop was made about ten miles down the river, where tea was partaken of and games indulged in. The affair was a great success, and the employees feel very grateful towards Mr. Gemmell for his kindness, which was thoroughly appreciated.

OTONABEE COUNCIL WILL ASK FOR REPAIRS

City Owns Road Beyond Locks Bridge Where Repairs are Needed

The Otonabee Council will probably in the near future make application to the city council to have the stretch of road between the Locks Bridge and Mr. Chas. Kitney's gate repaired. This piece of thoroughfare is within the city limits, although it on the other side of the bridge, and has not been repaired for many years. The road, especially in the spring of the year, is one of the worst in Otonabee and at that time is almost impassable. The Otonabee council during the past three years has constructed about a mile and a half of good road from Mr. Kitney's gate southward so that to complete it to the bridge it will be necessary for the city to build a couple of hundred yards.

The township council is considering the matter of requesting the city to do their share on this much travelled road.

Moonlight Excursion Was A Most Enjoyable Event

As a Result Funds of Two Worthy Charitable Institutions Will be Augmented by Satisfactory Sum.

A GOOD PROGRAMME

An event which may be made annual, and which, if it is always as thoroughly enjoyable as that of last night, will be looked forward to with pleasure, was the moonlight excursion given by a number of young ladies of the city in aid of the Children's Aid Society, and the Sick Children's Hospital.

The trip last night was a delightful one in many ways. The weather conditions were perfect, a circumstance which contributed not a little to the success and pleasure of the evening, and in addition to this feature the company was a congenial one. About 400 persons were on board the steamer Otonabee, when that craft left the street railway wharf, and the sail down the river, about seven miles, was one thoroughly enjoyed.

During the trip a programme, substantially as published yesterday. Rev. J. G. Potter acted as chairman, and in a short address congratulated the young ladies on the success of their undertaking, which he characterized as one worthy of public support and recognition. He felt sure that the causes for which the excursion funds were to be devoted would be grateful for the help derived from this commendable action. Following the programme under the leadership of Mr. Potter and Mr. D. Campbell, a number of choruses were sung. The steamer arrived back at the wharf in good time, and the excursionists were all up town at 11 o'clock.

VISITOR'S DAY AT Y. M. C. A. CAMP

Many Friends of the Boys Paid a Visit t the Camp

The Y.M.C.A. Boys' Camp was a busy spot yesterday. It was Visitors' Day, and a large number of persons from the city took advantage of the excursion running to the lake to pay a visit to the interesting spot on which the boys have been camping for the last ten days.

Those in charge of the camp had made ample preparations for the reception of their visitors and a delightful day was spent in the Camp. Everyone of the members of the young party is reported to be in good health and spirits and the camp is described as the most enjoyable and most successful in the history of that annual outing. The cook yesterday made special provision for the advent of visitors, and with what the visitors brought themselves the boys were treated to a royal feast.

GOOD PROSPECTS FOR FIREMEN'S TRIP

Joint Excursion Will Probably be Run to Midland

Last night a joint meeting of representatives of the Peterborough firemen and the 57th band was held, when the proposal to run an excursion to Midland on August 7th, in connection with the firemen's demonstration there, was discussed. It is considered probable that as a result of the meeting that the excursion committee was appointed to confer with the railway authorities in reference to it.

A Timely Rescue From Drowning At White Lake

Two Peterborough Boys Were Canoeing Over Rapids When Boat Struck a Rock---Narrow Escape for One.

RESCUER LOST HIS MONEY

Examiner Special.

Stony Lake, July 20. — Two young Peterborough gentlemen had a narrow escape the other day from drowning at the head of White Lake, where the small cataract is situated, by bumping their canoe against the big rock that lies in the centre of the channel. The boys were enjoying the ride down the rapids, when suddenly the boat struck with great force, and the two were precipitated into the water.

One of the young men who is a good swimmer, went to the bottom, where his clothes accidentally caught on a rock and held him fast for a few seconds. He however escaped from his perilous position with comparative ease. The other who has not yet learned the art of swimming, was not so fortunate. His friend could not possibly lend assistance and had it not been for the prompt action of two others in a preceding canoe and who had passed the rock in safety, there is but little doubt that he would have met a watery grave. One of the two hurriedly threw off his sweater, jumped into the water, and succeeded in the rescue, but in doing so lost $10 in bills. The money, it is believed worked its way out of his trousers pocket and floated away unnoticed. The youth spent the remainder of his holidays penniless, and had not even enough money to purchase a postage stamp. He returned to Peterborough this morning with nothing but the return section of his ticket.

tle from those ignorant of the ways and customs of their newly-chosen land.

Greeks Prosperous

A foreign element that has been involved in the population of Peterborough but a short time is composed of the natives of the land of the Marathon. There are exactly one dozen Greeks in Peterborough, and they are all in business and progressing. About two years ago the advance guard arrived, and they have made a transformation in the part of George street immediately north of Charlotte street. Their businesses places are among the most lavishly decorated and furnished in the city.

The Greeks now in business in Peterborough are as follows: Koster Jarvis, successor to Demetre Bros., confectioners at the corner of Charlotte and George street; M. Pappas, two cigar stores and pool rooms on George street; Yeotes Bros., proprietors of the shooting gallery and shoe shine parlours, on George street, and John Caradino, proprietor of the Olympic Restaurant on Charlotte street.

Chinese Monopoly

Of the Oriental races the Chinese have a monopoly in the city. There is not one Japanese residing here, although there was one in the city a short time ago in the capacity of a domestic servant. On the other hand there are about twenty-five gentleman from the land of the pig-tail, which article of adornment, it might be stated, has been dropped by some of the almond-eyed Celestials now living here.

The Chinese all seem to be prospering. At first the only industry that the Peterborough representatives of the race were interested in was the laundry business, but now in addition to this there are two Chinese restaurants. There are five Chinese laundries on this side of the river and one in Ashburnham.

The proprietors of the two restaurants are George Thomas, who came here from Ottawa, and C. Q. Woo.

Many Jews Here

The Jew race is well represented in Peterborough, the majority being new comers to the city, but all seem to be flourishing. The greater part are German Jews while some hail from Russia. Among the latter are the firm of Mendell Bros., who conduct a large junk business at the corner of Charlotte and Bethune streets. They have about fifteen of the Jewish race in their employ, who make Peterborough their home for at least part of the time, although some of them are away all week touring the country around Peterborough, and visiting the neighbouring towns in the interest of their business.

Another well known Jewish firm who come from Germany is composed of Abraham Low and Solomn Eisenberg, whose place of business is on Simcoe street, near the corner of Bethune street. They, too, are in the junk business.

Mr. Ben. Laster is another well known member of the Jewish race, who does business in this city, and who is respected by every one who has come into contact with him. He has conducted a clothing and dry goods business in several stands in Peterborough.

These four recog referred to practically make up the foreign population of Peterborough.

Other European people may be represented here but their number is not large enough to attract attention.

No Negroes

Peterborough seems to be deserted by the negro for some reason that cannot easily be found unless it is that water melons are a rather scarce commodity here. At one time there was a negro family by the name of Bell living here whom the older residents will no doubt remember, but they have shaken the dust of Peterborough from their shoes many years ago.

Peterborough is in a position to congratulate itself upon her foreign population which taken on the whole is a most desirable one which gives no trouble and is helping the city in advance.

Kidney Disease on the Increase

Recent reports from the New York Board of Health show that kidney disease is greatly on the increase. Bright's Disease as well as all the other dreadfully painful forms of kidney disease can always be prevented and usually cured by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills, which have a direct and combined influence on the liver and kidneys.

CHANGING LOCATION OF SUN SPOTS

Are Drifting Towards Western Limit and Are Smaller

The large sun spots which have been on the sun for some time, and are now on the second rotation of that body, have drifted, Rev. Dr. Marah reports, towards the western limb, and they are also somewhat reduced in size.

TORONTO ODDFELLOWS VISIT CITY

Special Train Carried Several Hundred Visitors To-day

This morning about 11 o'clock a special train, bearing a party of several hundred Oddfellows from Toronto, members of the different lodges there, arrived in Peterborough on the annual excursion run by the members of that Order in the Queen City, who always come to Peterborough one day in the year and enjoy themselves in this beautiful city.

This year there was the usual large crowd, and shortly after the arrival of the train, the majority of the visitors scattered to enjoy the hospitality of their friends in the city.

This afternoon a programme of sports has been arranged and will be run off at the Nicholls Oval, and a good time is in prospect.

The Oddfellows brought a good many Toronto visitors outside of the members of the Order, and advantage will be taken of the stop-over privileges to remain in the city with friends over Sunday.

MAROONED DOG'S RESCUE

Before skyscrapers had ever been thought of (always excepting, of course, the tower of Babel, which would seem to have been the pioneer in that style of architecture), before the aroma of the scorching auto had been smelt in the elemental slime, as it were, of history, our ancestors roamed the woods and waters of the old lands with clothing more scant than evening dress, armed, as the Roosevelt of cartoons, with big stick and swallowing to appease hunger, any sort of odds and ends they could rustle in the forest primeval. We cannot deny our ancestry. Here is proof of it. When summer days grow warm, leaves rustle, birds sing, and breezes blow cool, every naturally made man yawns over his books and papers, feels his high stool irksome and breaks away if he can to have a holiday in the woods along the rivers and among the lakes. There is a tendency in every man to get away for a week or two once in a while from the artificial life of to-day, and get back to the natural condition of his ancestors. The old giant of club and claw is scarcely dead yet in the tamest and most civilized of us.

In some, the tendency to break away from work is repressed, and in some tries to find satisfaction in dressed-up society holidays, almost as laborious as ordinary work. But the best and most refreshing type of holiday seems to be that which carries men back pretty nearly to a condition of savagery. What is your camper doing as he makes his plans, but arranging for a month or so to imitate the ways of a savage and live in the condition of a savage?

Live the Life of an Indian

He voluntarily quits his city corner and has his habitation under canvas, makes his bed of cedar boughs, as any Indian could do, becomes his own cook, butler and baker, earns his comes back brown and muscular, clear-eyed, clear-minded, refreshed and invigorated, ready for eleven months of struggle in the close atmosphere of modern life.

For the benefit of men—and women—who understand and appreciate this sort of holiday, to whom the voices of the forest speak wisdom, and hush, and rest, who discern music in the ripple of streams or in the thunder of waterfalls, to whom the treat of obtaining their breakfast by fishing for it, and tries to imagine he would get no breakfast if the fish did not rise to the lure of the breakfast he offers them, he plays at living by his wits, satisfies his wants direct from nature, drops social distinctions, and talks as a brother to his halfbreed guide, works with his hands, shops what is unnecessary in clothing or other equipment, in short, becomes as much as possible like the Indian, among whose haunts he has come for a time to live.

Such a holiday is the real thing of which the full dress parade of a popular resort is a shoddy imitation. From a week on a month of it a man comes back brown and muscular, clear-eyed, clear-minded, refreshed and invigorated, ready for eleven months of struggle in the close atmosphere of modern life.

For the benefit of men—and women—who understand and appreciate this sort of holiday, to whom the voices of the forest speak wisdom, and hush, and rest, who discern music in the ripple of streams or in the thunder of waterfalls, to whom the tired obtiter secrets of nature—for such natural-minded souls some description may be given of a holiday region without compare, easy of access from Winnipeg, and altogether satisfactory! — the Rainy Lake region.

At the Home of the Moose

The Rainy Lake is the centre of an international park extending city, but visited by so select a few that for days and days one can push a canoe from lake to river and from river to lake among its vast leagues without some hundreds of miles in either direction, and taking in an area which for the purposes of holiday making cannot possibly be equalled on the continent. It is a Muskoka more beautiful than the original, ten times as large and with one hundred times as many lakes and rivers. It is a Muskoka fresh and unexplored, unspoiled, uncivilized, into which summer hotels and city fashions have not yet invaded, the home of the moose, the haunt of the bear—brown and cinnamon. It is a Muskoka not yet rushed to by crowds and it is a rare ocasion to meet a human being or see a human habitation. It is a region of calm, rock-girt lakes and clear shadowy rivers, wild roaring cascades and generously sprinkled islands, cool, dark, forest glades and quiet creeks, where the moose arise among water lilies, wide stretches of water, where winds can play at will and cool, quiet channels winding in labyrinths among the countless islands, smooth rapids down which a canoe will glide like a barbed arrow shot by a strong arm and clashing water falls, in whose boiling eddies fish in plenty await the lure of the angler; it is a whole province of territory, fresh from the hands of the Maker, the dew yet but half brushed from it, as new to men almost as it was when Le Verandyre first pushed his canoe prow through its winding courses to discover the prairies of the West.

Ten thousand or more square miles of country are dotted and chequered with lakes, sprinkled with islands, twined with rivers, until one might well be confused, as to which the area was originally intended to be—land or water. While this territory has not been at all carefully explored it has been run over by prospectors and timber men and a few names have been sprinkled here and there over the map. For anyone ambitious of map-making and covetous of the privilege of perpetuating a name, there yet remain lakes, rivers, creeks and bays in scores and hundreds without a name or a place on the map.

Some of the names are not uninteresting. Here are a few lakes named presumably from the fish that are caught in them: Sucker, Pickerel, Trout, Sturgeon. It is a pity that the best fish of the region, the black bass, did not have a place in this scheme of names. Then there are descriptive names, and we have lakes of Long, Narrow, Crooked, Shallow, Stormy, Calm, and Big Clear Water. A Dickens enthusiast must have been among the early map-makers, for we have also Fairy Gamp, Pickwick and Sam Weller Lakes. More pretentious names are attached to Vista Lake, Manitou Lake, Sunshine and Moonshine Lakes and Bluebeard Lake. The original, smooth-flowing inoffensively Indian names have not been forgotten, and campers with a month or two at their disposal may begin to learn such lake names as Kahtimigamak, Kallopskikamak or Kahnipiminanikok.

Rainy Lake itself is in the form of an L, with the angle touching the railway and therefore a great amount of ordinary community life is found at Fort Frances. The lower branch of the L runs away, eastward and south for fifty miles or more, zig-zagging into countless bays and tributary lakes, into a waterway which connects with the Kaministiquia and Lake Superior. From the angle itself flows Rainy River down to the Lake of the Woods and through the Winnipeg River to Lake Winnipeg. The upper branch of the L, which is purely Canadian, not like the lower, shared with the United States, runs northward some thirty miles or so, and there receives from the Manitou River the overflow of a score of lakes further still to the northward, among them the Manitou lakes, upon which small steamers ran at the time of gold excitement a few years ago.

Connects With Lake Superior

So narrow is the lake at the angle, near Fort Francis, that a half dozen stretches of trestle work, bridging between islands, carry the Canadian Northern Railway across it. Here and there are fair expanses of water, but in all parts of the lake, islands are very plentiful. People of the region call this the lake of thirty thousand islands. Islands in plenty, large, small, near, remote, treed, bare, named, unnamed, mapped and unmarked on maps, await occupants.

There is an air of history about the Rainy Lake. It is associated with most of the great enterprises of the West. Across this expanse of water, weaving his way doubtfully and uncertainly among these islands, listening for the warning voice of Kaubeeching, "the beginning of the river," of which, in easily understood language, guides had told him that June or July day long ago, the bold La Verandrye "passed the canoe." Many canoes followed in his wake—intrepid explorers, devout priests, energetic traders, in prow and stern, until trade grew great and a North West Fur Company sent brigades of boats which rivalled the Hudson's Bay brigades from the north. By this route, more than once, Lord Selkirk passed to west or east when open war was waged between the companies. When peace had been made and the companies had united, the foot of the Kaubeeching fall was named in honour of the wife of the great chief of the Hudson's Bay Company, Lady Frances Simpson.

Through this lake, pausing to sketch here and there, and to note in his journal the fine agricultural land that lay around, Paul Kane, the wandering artist, passed in 1845. In 1870, Colonel Wolseley led picked men through the mazes of Rainy Lake on his way to quell riot and rebellion at Fort Garry. Three or four years later the Dominion Government undertook to construct a canal lock

The above prescription has been found invaluable in the treatment of kidney, bladder and urinary troubles, and diseases arising therefrom, such as rheumatism, sciatica, lame back and lumbago, and we feel that the public are entitled to particulars concerning it.

A prominent physician states that the excellent results that have been obtained from the use of the mixture are due to its direct action upon the kidneys, assisting them in their work of filtering all poisonous waste matter and acids from the blood and expelling same in the urine, and at the same time restoring the kidneys to a healthy condition.

He further states that anyone suffering from afflictions of this nature will find it to be very beneficial, and suggests that it be given a trial.

THE SECRET OF PERFECT HEALTH.

It used to be the general idea that there was some mystery about getting well and staying well. Sellers of quack nostrums took advantage of this fact and grew rich. We are growing wiser, however, and know that good food, fresh air and cleanliness are all that are required. Cleanliness, however, means that you must be clean inside as well as outside. If your kidneys, liver and bowels are not properly performing their functions, they are accumulating a mass of filth, as a result of your violation of some natural law, and you must assist nature in nature's way to cleanse the system. No necessity, however, to risk using some secret preparation. You can obtain a perfect compound of vegetable remedies, everyone of which is endorsed by your physician. The formula of King Palmetto Compound is printed plainly on the wrapper. No secret, no mystery, just plain common sense. King Palmetto Compound will regulate the liver, bowels and kidneys, tone the system and prevent serious results which might arise from neglect. Give it a trial. The Helmet of Navarre

A STORY OF LOVE AND ADVENTURE

BY BERTHA RUNKLE.

Copyright by The Century Co.

CHAPTER I.

At the stairfoot the landlord stopped me.

"Here, lad, take a candle. The stairs are dark, and, since I like your looks, I would not have you break your neck."

"And give the house a bad name," I said.

"No fear of that; my house has a good name. There is no fairer inn in all Paris. And your chamber is a good chamber, though you will have larger, doubtless, when you are Minister of Finance."

This raised another laugh among the tavern idlers, for I had been bragging a bit of my prospects. I retorted:

"When I am, Maitre Jacques, look out for a rise in your taxes."

The laugh was turned on mine host, and I retired with the honors of that encounter. And though the stairs were the steepest I had ever climbed I had the breath and the spirit to whistle all the way up. What mattered that already I ached in every bone, that the stair was long and my bed but a heap of straw in the garret of a mean inn in a poor quarter? I was in Paris, the city of my dreams!

I am a Broux of St. Quentin. The great world has never heard of the Broux? No matter; they have existed these hundreds of years, Masters of the Forest, and faithful servants of the Dukes of St. Quentin. The great world has heard of the St. Quentins? I warrant you! As loudly as it has of Sully and Villerol, Tremouille and Biron. That is enough for the Broux.

I was brought up to worship the saints and M. le Duc, and I loved and revered them alike by faith, for M. le Duc at court seemed as far away from us as the saints in heaven. But the year after King Henry III. was murdered monsieur came to live on his estate, to make high and low love him for himself.

In that bloody time, when the King of Navarre and the two Leagues were tearing our poor France asunder, M. le Duc found himself between the devil and the deep sea. He was no friend to the League; for years he had stood between the King, his master, and the machinations of the Guises. On the other hand he was no friend to the Huguenots. "To seat a heretic on the throne of France were to deny God," he said. Therefore he came home to St. Quentin, where he abode in quiet for some three years, to the great wonderment of all the world.

Had he been a cautious man, a man who looked a long way ahead, his compeers would have understood readily enough that he was waiting to see how the cat would jump, taking no part in the quarrel lest he should mix with the losing side. But this theory jibed so ill with monsieur's character that not even his worst detractor could accept it. For he was known to all as a hotspur—a man who acted quickly and seldom counted the cost. Therefore his present conduct was a riddle, nor could any of the emissaries from King or League, who came from time to time to enlist his aid and went away without it, read the answer. The puzzle was too deep for them. Yet it was only this: to monsieur honor was more than a pretty word. If he could not find his cause honest he would not draw his sword, though all the curs in the land called him coward.

Thus he stayed alone in the chateau for a long, irksome three years. Monsieur was not of a reflective mind, content to stand aside and watch while other men fought out great issues. It was a weary procession of days to him. His only son, a lad a few years older than I, shared none of his father's scruples and refused point-blank to follow him into exile. He remained in Paris, where they knew how to be gay in spite of sieges. Therefore I, the Forester's son, whom monsieur took for a page, had a chance to come closer to my lord and be more to him than a mere servant, and I loved him as the dogs did; aye, and admired him for a fortitude almost more than human, in that he could hold himself passive here in furthest Picardie, while in Normandie and Ile de France battles raged and towns fell and captains won glory.

At length, in the opening of the year 1593, M. le Duc began to have a frequent visitor, a gentleman in no wise remarkable save for that he was accorded long interviews with monsieur. After these visits my lord was always in great spirits, putting on frisky airs like a stallion when he is led out of the stable. I looked for something to happen, and it was no surprise to me when M. le Duc announced one day, quite without warning, that he was done with St. Quentin and would be off in the morning for Mantes. I was in the seventh heaven of joy when he added that he should take me with him. I knew the King of Navarre was at Mantes—at last we were going to make history! There was no bound to my golden dreams, no limit to my future.

But my house of cards suffered a rude tumble, and by no hand but my father's. He came to monsieur and, presuming on an old servitor's privileges, begged him to leave me at home.

"I have lost two sons in monsieur's service," he said; "Jean, hunting in this forest, and Blaise, in the fray at Blois. I have never grudged them to monsieur. But Felix is all I have left."

Thus it came about that I was left behind, hidden in the hay-loft, when my duke rode away. I could not watch his going.

Though the days passed drearily yet they passed. Time does pass at length, even when one is young. It was July. The King of Navarre had moved up to St. Denis, in his siege of Paris, but most folk thought he would never win the city, the hotbed of the League. Of M. le Duc we heard no word till late one night a chance traveler, putting up at the inn in the village, told a startling tale. The Duke of St. Quentin, though known to have been at Mantes and strongly suspected of espousing Navarre's cause, had ridden calmly into the dark wall of the house opposite. To me, fresh from the wide woods of St. Quentin, it seemed the desire of Paris folk to outhuddle in closeness the rabbits in a warren. So ingenious were they at contriving to waste no inch of open space that the houses, standing at the base but a scant street's width apart, even jutted out further at each story till they looked to be fairly toppling together. I could see into the windows up and down the way; could see the people move about within; hear opposite neighbors call to each other. But across from my aery were no lights and no people, for that house was shuttered tight from attic to cellar, its dark front as expressionless as a blind face. I marveled how it came to stand empty in that teeming quarter.

Too tired, however, to wonder long, I blew out the candle and was asleep before I could shut my eyes.

Crash! Crash! Crash!

I sprang out of bed in a panic, thinking Henry of Navarre was bombarding Paris. Then, being fully roused, I perceived that the noise was thunder.

From the window I peered into floods of rain. The peals died away. Suddenly came a terrific lightning flash and I cried out in astonishment. For the shutter opposite was open, and I had a vivid vision of three men in the window.

Then all was dark again and the thunder shook the roof.

I stood straining my eyes into the night, waiting for the next flash. When it came it showed me the window barred as before. Flash followed flash; I winked the rain from my eyes and peered in vain. The shutter remained closed as if it had never been opened. Sleep rolled over me in a great wave as I groped my way back to bed.

CHAPTER II.

When I awoke in the morning the sun was shining broadly into the room, glinting in the little pools of water on the floor. I stared at them, sleepy-eyed, till recollection came to me of the thunderstorm and the open shutter and the three men. I jumped up and ran to the window. The shutters opposite were closed; the house just as I had seen it first save for the long streaks of wet down the wall. The street below was one vast puddle. At all events, the storm was no dream, as I half believed the vision to be.

I dressed speedily and went downstairs. The inn-room was deserted save for Maitre Jacques, who with heat demanded of me whether I took myself for a prince, that I lay in bed till all decent folks had been hours about their business and then expected breakfast. However, he brought me a meal, and I made no complaint that it was a poor one.

"You have strange neighbors in the house opposite," said I.

He started, and the thin wine he was setting before me splashed over on the table.

"What neighbors?"

"Why, they who close their shutters when other folks would keep them open, and open them when others keep them shut," I said airily. "Last night I saw three men in the window opposite mine."

He laughed.

"Aha, my lad, your head is not used to our Paris wines. That is how you come to see visions."

"Nonsense," I cried, nettled. "Your wine is too well watered for that, let me tell you, Maitre Jacques."

"Then you dreamed it," he said huffily. "The proof is that no one has lived in that house these twenty years."

Now, I had plenty to trouble about without troubling my head over nighthawks, but I was vexed with him for putting me off. So, with a fine conceit of my own shrewdness, I said:

"If it was only a dream how came you to spill the wine?"

He gave me a keen glance, and then with a look round to see that no one was by leaned across the table up to me.

"You are sharp as a gimlet," said he. "I see I may as well tell you at last. Marry, and you will have it, the place is haunted."

"Holy Virgin!" I cried, crossing myself.

"Aye. Twenty years ago, in the great massacre—you know naught of that; you were not born, I take it, and, besides, are a country boy. But I was here and I know. A man dared not stir out of doors that dark day. The gutters ran blood."

"And that house—what happened in that house?"

"Why, it was the house of a Huguenot gentleman, M. de Bethune," he answered, bringing out the name hesitatingly in a low voice. "They were all put to the sword—the whole household. It was Guise's work. The Duc de Guise sat on his white horse in this very street here while it was going on. Parbleu! that was a day."

"Mon dieu! yes."

"Well, that is an old story now," he resumed in a different tone. "one-and-twenty years ago that was. Such things don't happen now. But the people they have not forgotten; they will not go near that house. No one will live there."

"And have others seen as well as I?"

"So they say. But I'll not let it be talked of on my premises. Folk might get to think them too near the haunted house. 'Tis another matter with you, though, since you have had the vision."

"There were three men," I said, "young men, in sombre dress"——

"M. de Bethune and his cousins. What further? Did you hear shrieks?"

"There was naught further," I said, shuddering. "I saw them for the space of a lightning flash, plain as I see you. The next minute the shutters were closed again."

"'Tis a marvel," he answered gravely. "But I know what has disturbed them in their graves, the heretics! It is that they have lost their leader."

I stared at him blankly, and he added:

"Their Henry of Navarre."

"But he is not lost. There has been no battle."

"Lost to them," said Maitre Jacques, "when he turns Catholic."

"Oh!" I cried.

"Oh!" he mocked. "You come from the country; you don't know these things."

"But the King of Navarre is too stiff-necked a heretic!"

"Bah! Time bends the stiffest neck. Tell me this; for what do the learned doctors sit in council at Mantes?"

"Oh," said I, bewildered, "you tell me news, Maitre Jacques."

"If Henry of Navarre be not a Catholic before the month is out spit me on my own jack," he answered, eyeing me rather keenly as he added:

"It should be welcome news to you."

"I am glad to hear of any heretic coming to the faith," I said.

"Pshaw!" he cried. "To the devil with pretenses! 'Tis an open secret that your patron has gone over to Navarre."

"I know naught of it."

"Well, pardieu! my Lord Mayenne does then. If when he came to Paris M. de St. Quentin counted that the League would not know his parleyings he was a fool."

"His parleyings?" I echoed feebly.

"Aye, the boy in the street knows he has been with Navarre. For, mark you, all France has been wondering these many months where St. Quentin was coming out. His movements do not go unnoted like a yokel's But, i' faith, he is not dull; he understands that well enough. Nay, 'tis my belief he came into the city in pure effrontery to show them how much he dared. He is a bold blade, your duke. And, mon dieu! it had its effect. For the Leaguers have been so agape with astonishment ever since that they have not raised a finger against him."

"Yet you do not think him safe?"

"Safe, say you? Safe! Pardieu! if you walked into a cage of lions and they did not in the first instant eat you would you therefore feel safe? He was stark mad to come to Paris. There is no man the League hates more, now they know they have lost him, and no man they can afford so ill to spare to King Henry. A great Catholic noble, he would be meat and drink to the Bearnais. He was mad to come here."

"And yet nothing has happened to him."

"Verily, fortune favors the brave. No, nothing has happened—yet. But I tell you true, Felix, I had rather be the poor innkeeper of the Amour de Dieu than stand in M. de St. Quentin's shoes."

"I was talking with the men here last night," I said. "There was not one but had a good word for monsieur."

"Aye, so they have. They like his pluck. And if the League kills him it is quite on the cards that the people will rise up and make the town lively. But that will not profit M. de St. Quentin if he is dead."

I would not be dampened, though, by an old croaker.

"Nay, maitre, if the people are with him the League will not dare"——

"There you fool yourself, my springald. If there is one thing which the nobles of the League neither know nor care about it is what the people think. They sit wrangling over their French League and their Spanish League, their kings and their princesses, and they give no heed at all to us—us, the people. But they will find out their mistake. Some day they will be taught that the nobles are not all of France. There will come a reckoning when more blood will flow in Paris than ever flowed on St. Bartholomew's day. They think we are chained down, do they? Pardieu! there will come a day!"

I scarcely knew the man; his face was flushed, his eyes sparkling as if they saw more than the common room and mean street. But as I stared the glow faded, and he said in a lower tone:

"At least it will happen unless Henry of Navarre comes to save us from it. He is a good fellow, this Navarre."

"They say he can never enter Paris."

"They say lies. Let him but leave his heresies behind him and he can enter Paris to-morrow."

"Mayenne does not think so."

"No; but Mayenne knows little of what goes on. He does not keep an inn in the Rue Coupejarrets."

He stated the fact so gravely that I had to laugh.

"Laugh if you like; but I tell you, Felix Broux, my lord's council chamber is not the only place where they make kings. We do it too, we of the Rue Coupejarrets."

"Well," said I, "I leave you, then, to make kings. I must be off to my duke. What's the soot, maitre?"

He dropped the politician and was all innkeeper in a second.

"A crown!" I cried in indignation. "Do you think I am made of crowns? Remember, I am not yet Minister of Finance."

"No, but soon will be," he grinned. "Besides, what I ask is little enough, God knows. Do you think food is cheap in a siege?"

"Then I pray Navarre may come soon and end it."

"Amen to that," said old Jacques quite gravely. "If he comes a Catholic it cannot be too soon."

I counted out my pennies with a last grumble.

"They ought to call this the Rue Coupebourses."

He laughed; he could afford to, with my silver jingling in his pouch. He embraced me tenderly at parting and hoped to see me again at his inn. I smiled to myself; I had not come to Paris—I—to stay in the Rue Coupejarrets!

They were fighting each other—Yeur-gris and Gervais.

CHAPTER III.

I stepped out briskly from the inn, pausing now and again to inquire my way to the Hotel St. Quentin, which stood, I knew, in the Quartier Marais, where all the grand folk lived. Once I had found the broad Rue St. Denis all I need do was to follow it over the hill down to the river bank; my eyes were free, therefore, to stare at all the strange sights of the great city—carkets and shops and churches and prisons. But most of all did I gape at the crowds in the streets. I had scare realized there were so many people in the world as passed me that summer morning in the town of Paris. Bewilderly busy and gay the place appeared to my country eyes, though in truth at that time Paris was at its very worst, the spirit being well nigh crushed out of it by the sieges and the iron rule of the Sixteen.

I knew little enough of politics, and yet I was not so dull as not to see that great events must happen soon. A crisis had come. I looked at the people I passed who were going about their business so tranquilly. Every one of them must be either Mayenne's man or Navarre's. Before a week was out these peaceable citizens might be using pikes for tools and exchanging bullets for good mornings. Whatever happened, here was I in Paris in the thick of it! My feet fairly danced under me. I could not reach the hotel soon enough. Half was I glad of monsieur's danger, for it gave me chance to show what stuff I was made of. Live for him, die for him—whatever fate could offer I was ready for.

The hotel, when at length I arrived before it, was no disappointment. Here one did not wait till midday to see the sun; the street was of decent width and the houses held themselves back with reserve, like the proud gentlemen who inhabited them. Nor did one here regret his possession of a nose, as he was forced to do in the Rue Coupejarrets.

NEW INDUSTRY FOR WARSAW

Capitalist Looking for Site for Saw Mill in That Village—Fishermen Get Mud Turtle

ARE PROSPECTING FOR IRON

Examiner Special.

Warsaw, July 17. — Mr. John R. Selkirk, of Blythswood, is here negotiating for a site on which to erect an up-to-date sawmill and planing mill. This industry is one much needed here and would be much appreciated by many who now have their timber sawn in Warsaw and have to take it to Peterborough or Lakefield, for planing. Mr. Selkirk who is the guest of his son-in-law, Dr. Donald Monroe, has for the past year been in the county north of Apsley prospecting for iron. He and Dr. Munroe have staked several claims on a lode extending some three miles in length, and containing magnetic iron ore which assays 67 per cent. ferric oxide. Senator Brown and Mr. F. G. Kay of the Colonial Steel Trust of Pittsburg, visited the mine a few weeks ago, and expressed themselves as much pleased with the quality of the ore, as well as with the quantity in sight. An option on the Selkirk claims and adjoining claims, controlled by Judge Clute of Toronto, has been given to the Colonial Steel Trust who will proceed at once to operate a diamond drill and other mining machinery.

A large number of the members of the L.O.L., No. 284, and their friends took in the twelfth celebration at Havelock. In addition to the regular fife and drum band, Warsaw L. O.L. was accompanied by piper W. Aiken, whose bagpipe playing proved to be one of the most popular attractions of the day, large crowds gathering whenever the piper gave a selection.

A jolly picnic party, consisting of Miss Dora Payne, Miss Ethel Murduff, Miss Florence Butcher, Mrs. Dr. Douglas, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Payne, Mr. W. A. Robertson, and Mr. H. B. Kidd drove up to McCracken's Landing on Saturday and spent the afternoon at Mr. Geo. Gillett's summer home, 'Westaway Lodge.

While fishing for bass in the Indian river a few days ago Mr. Jacob White hooked a large mud turtle. With some difficulty the turtle was released only to bite again a few minutes later. Mr. White says this turtle is as persistent a biter as some gold brick purchasers.

SUMMER AILMENTS

Can Best be Banished by Dr. Williams Pink Pills for Pale People

In summer your blood gets thin and watery. You feel simply wretched—tired, worn out, dull, your nerves are irritable, your whole system is out of gear. There is just one medicine can banish this summer feeling. Just one medicine that will give you strength and vim to endure the fag of even the hottest days —Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They have helped thousands. Perhaps your neighbour have already told you they have helped them. They're the medicine that makes that pure, rich, red blood that everyone needs for good health —they never fail to do that. Mrs. L. A. Carriere, the popular stewardess of the Jacques Cartier Club, Montreal, Que., says:—"For two years I was a constant sufferer from general debility. The least work fatigued me and sometimes I could not work at all. I could not raise my hand above my head without feeling pains in all my muscles. I was very weak and sometimes became so dizzy that I would fall unless I could lean against something for support. While in this condition I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I did so and by the time I had taken ten boxes I was in perfect health and am now able to look after all my duties without the least fatigue. When I began taking the Pills I was a great sufferer—to-day I feel as if I never was ill—thanks to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills strike right at the root of anaemia, debility, rheumatism, indigestion, the secret ills of women and growing girls, etc., when they make new blood—they do just that one thing, but they do it well—good blood always brings good health. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

Mount Pleasant, July 16. — Miss Eva Elliott of Toronto, formerly a resident of this village, was a visitor here for several days. She is now a deaconess of the Methodist Church. We hope that the work will prosper in new hands, and add greatly to her temporal prosperity, as the labourer is worthy of her hire.

The township council of Cavan is making progress in road-building, which was a necessity, and will be valued by its residents, who are not unwilling to pay for the work. Progress is the motto in all branches of business to-day. Under the leadership of Sir Wilfrid Laurier our great Dominion is on its onward march, and the forces of the old Family Compact cannot stop the machinery. There is no danger of any of our printing presses being thrown into Lake Ontario for pleasing for the rights of our citizens. There is no place in the world equal to Canada for the liberty of the citizen.

Mr. Grant Richardson, his wife and child, of Peterborough, were visiting at Mount Pleasant.

Crops are growing rapidly. Those who have planted largely of potatoes will possibly be well rewarded, for high prices will be the order of the day. It is reported that a less area of land has been planted with potatoes this for several years, on account of the rot and fighting the potato bug.

The Durham Old Boys' Excursion from Peterborough to Niagara Falls on July 25 will be the great excursion of the season. The Natural Food Company at the Falls has kindly extended an invitation to the party to visit their establishment, which will repay those who go on this excursion. SUNSHINE FURNACE is not appreciated by many furnace manufacturers or the general public as much as it should be.

Without the moisture evaporated from the water in the pan, the hot air distributed throughout the house is dry and dusty. Cracks and opens up the furniture—is not fit to breathe into the lungs.

Yet, mind you, some furnace makers place this important water-pan where there is often not enough heat to evaporate the water. Put it out of sight in an awkward position at the side or back, where it cannot readily be filled without being removed—and when filled it would take a juggler to replace it without spilling a big share over himself.

Note the convenient location of the large water-pan of the Sunshine—just above the fuel door. Takes but a moment or two to fill it.

THE EASY SUNSHINE METHOD

It is placed right in the path of the hot air as it circulates around the dome of the furnace. It is impossible for any heated air to pass out of the registers before extracting its due share of moisture from the water-pan. That means you breathe healthful, clarified air, free from dust and dryness.

For the sake of your furniture, your own health and peace of mind, you should decide on the Sunshine.

If your local dealer does not handle the Sunshine write direct to us for FREE BOOKLET.

ALL RUN DOWN

Weak---Nervous---Unstrung.

Thousands get run down and become invalids before they realize anything is wrong. By permitting low vitality to develop, the way is paved for fevers, pneumonia and diphtheria. To put off makes it all the harder to get well. The time to repair the system is right now, before the damage gets any worse. The remedy is Ferrozone; it revitalizes, renews, builds up vitality that outlasts old age.

FERROZONE is a genuine invigorator that banishes weakness, and instils surplus force and vigor into every organ of the body. Ferrozone sharpens the appetite, produces rich nutritious blood, and thereby contributes that sense of buoyancy that adds so enormously to one's pleasure and usefulness in life.

For all forms of debility, weakness, lack of blood or nerve tone, sleeplessness, tiredness and exhaustion, there is no medicine so vitalizing and potent as Ferrozone. Even one trial demonstrates its rapidly and certainty of action.

To restore the energy of youth, to get back your vital stamina and reserve force, there is positively no treatment so certain as Ferrozone. You have only to try Ferrozone to know the enormous benefit it invariably brings to all in poor health.

FERROZONE

Miss Dorothy E. Ladue of Chester gives the following convincing evidence of Ferrozone's power:—"My work compels me to rise early in the morning and work ten hours daily as a saleslady. Last Spring I was run down, lost my color, and fell off in weight. I seemed to lack ambition and the life was out of me. A friend recommended Ferrozone, and I took one tablet after meals with wonderful results. Ferrozone brought back my complexion, and has given me new strength and abundance of energy and spirits. I would advise all young ladies to use Ferrozone."

Mrs. H. G. Wilder of Dexter says:—"My daughter was not very well last Winter, and lost her strength completely when the Spring came. I gave her Ferrozone, and am glad to say it did wonders. After six boxes were used my daughter was strong, and looked the picture of health."

Gave New Strength

ENGLAND

A boy of 12, named Stanley Condor, whose penchant for inexpensive and oftentimes dangerous travel lately got him into trouble with the police, has made a third daring escape from captivity. Condor developed a passion for journeying through the country concealed in railway wagons, or beneath carriages. His father went to Canada to look for work and took the lad with him, but at Winnipeg he disappeared. Hiding in a train he managed to reach New York, whence he returned to Liverpool in the character of a stowaway. For this adventure he was committed to the reformatory ship Clio moored in the Menai Straits, but on two occasions he succeeded in making his escape. Some weeks ago he was recaptured for the second time at Seacombe, and was later taken to Bangor by an officer from the Clio on board the North Wales steamer from Liverpool. At Bangor the officer proceeded to signal with flags for a boat to be sent from the Clio, and while he was so engaged Condor mysteriously vanished. Diligent search failed to find him, and meanwhile the steamer proceeded to the Menai bridge. When she returned to Liverpool in the evening, however, Condor was one of the first to step ashore. He was speedily lost in the crowd and is still at liberty.

In a fog, the density of which is said to have been unequalled for many years, the Irish express steamer Anglia, with over 500 passengers on board, ran aground in the early hours of one morning recently, on a submerged rock near the North Stack, three miles from Holyhead. Before any one had properly realized what had happened, the mate appeared at the top of the staircase, and in a commanding voice, exclaimed: "To your posts, every man. Serve out the lifebelts. Be men. For God's sake, be men. Remember you are Britons." The effect of the exhortation on both passengers and crew was wonderful. All the passengers promptly secured lifebelts. It was generally recognized that the situation was grave but there was no panic or hysteria. Out of several hundred souls on board only one person fainted. On examination of the vessel it was found that although she had been severely damaged the bulkheads had not been injured, and the inrush of water therefore controlled. In twenty minutes after striking the vessel left the rock and proceeded to Holyhead and landed her passengers.

The story of a pathetic incident in a country churchyard comes from Montgomeryshire. The gravedigger was recently digging a grave for the reception of the remains of a man who was to be buried that day, when he came across a small coffin, containing the remains of a workingman's baby. The gravedigger received instructions to put the little coffin on one side until the funeral was over, and wrapping it in coarse sacking he deposited it in the recess called of the churches. But among the sympathetic spectators of the man's funeral there happened to be the mother of the little child whose coffin had been removed. She was horrified to find that the grave which only a few days ago she had planted with some shrubs had been disturbed, and she went in search of her husband, who was at work in a neighbouring quarry. The funeral of the man proceeded, and afterwards there was an angry altercation between the parish clerk and the indignant father, who declared that he would not leave the churchyard until his child had been reburied.

The extraordinary behaviour in court of Mr. J. Denney, an ex-schoolmaster and one of the new Radical magistrates appointed for Northamptonshire, led to a rebuke from the Duke of Grafton, chairman of the Towcester bench recently. Three young men were charged by the R.S.P.C.A. at Towcester with cruelty to a cat. It was shown that they chased the cat, stoned it, and beat it with sticks. When evidence to this effect had been given, Mr. Denney, who was sitting with the other magistrates, but not adjudicating, jumped up from his chair and clambered over the barrier into the witness-box, where he stated that the defendants came from his village and were old scholars of his. The case, he said, had been "bolstered up," and added: "Of course, if the boys saw a cat run up a tree they threw stones at it." At a subsequent meeting of magistrates the Duke of Grafton, with the unanimous support of the other magistrates present, expressed condemnation of this breach of judicial dignity.

A tragic scene was witnessed in Cardiff police court recently. The stipendiary was giving judgment in some protracted desertion proceedings, instituted by Mrs. Louisa Isdale, a stylishly dressed young woman, against her husband, master of the steamer Netherfield, when Mrs. Isdale suddenly stabbed herself. She was carried out of court unconscious and medical aid was quickly summoned. During the judgment she listened eagerly, with her hand to her ear, to catch every word uttered by the magistrate. As she heard words which seemed to indicate that the case was going against her she secretly took from her satchel a small Lang-handled pocketknife, which she wrapped in a white handkerchief. She pressed the handkerchief against her breast just above her heart, and then with a shriek fell back. When she recovered consciousness she cried, "Let me die! Let me die! I have lost my husband!"

By a marvellous piece of surgery, Miss Dot Stephens, a well known English music hall artiste, was enabled to appear recently at Her Majesty's Theatre, Wellsall the town she left one day last October to meet with a terrible accident on the railway. Miss Stephens, who was under a long engagement on the Moss-Stoll tours, was travelling in a corridor coach en route for Glasgow, when she fell through one of the doors and was hurled on the track. A passing train crushed both her feet. She was taken to the General Hospital at Wolverhampton, where the crushed portions of the feet were amputated. No one of her friends imagined that she would ever be able to "work" again; but at the Wolverhampton hospital she was fitted with artificial feet at a cost of $200. She is now able to walk even a couple of miles without aid and without the suspicion of a limp.

A party of Radnorshire sportsmen, on returning home from badger-hunting, recently, flushed a rabbit in a field which lay in their way. Three fox-terriers, which accompanied them, immediately gave chase and ran the rabbit into what appeared to be a large rabbit warren. One of the terriers could not be found, and on the theory that he might have followed the rabbit into the warren, digging operations were commenced, and soon his mutilated remains, consisting of his head and legs only, were discovered. It is conjectured that a badger was lying in the warren, and that a fight ensued between him and the dog, with fatal consequences to the latter.

SCOTLAND

An extraordinary incident of a highly exciting character occurred recently in connection with the manoeuvres which were being carried on between the A. Squadron of the 18th Hussars and the Ayrshire Imperial Yeomanry. The scene of the operations was Craig, an estate about four miles from Kilmarnock, and in the course of the afternoon, while the horses were grazing in a field, a stampede took place, with the result that some 25 or 30 of the horses bolted and getting on to the Dundonald Road, they made off in the direction of Kilmarnock. Eight or nine of the horses got past the railway level crossing at Gateshead, where a signalman closed the gates and barred the progress of the remainder, which were shortly afterwards captured. The other eight or nine, however, galloped at full speed into Kilmarnock, passing through Bank street and the Cross, where a constable endeavoured to stop them but was knocked down and slightly injured. Continuing their career the horses proceeded by way of Lakeside street and mounted the "Twelve Steps," which lead into Soulis street, and then ran off in the direction of Waterside, in the parish of Fenwick. Hussars on horseback and on cycles followed in pursuit of the riderless horses. On the road between Gateshead and Kilmarnock a young farmer was breaking in a three-year-old colt, which he was leading with a long rein, and, the runaway horses getting between him and it, he lost grip of the rein, and the colt wheeled and joined the runaways. No persons were injured except the constable who made a gallant attempt to bring them to a standstill. Late at night all the horses had been captured.

An exciting incident took place in the Clyde off Greenock about midnight on a recent Saturday. Three men—William Gibson, Greenock; John Blakely and William Rorison, Port Glasgow—had been fishing in the Garelock during the day and were returning home when, near the James Watt Dock, their small sailing boat capsized. Their cries of distress were heard from the shore, and on another boat putting off to their assistance they were found clinging to the upturned craft. The men were in an exhausted state, and when they were brought to the quay restoratives were applied and dry clothing provided. They said they were returning home with a fair catch about ten o'clock, and that there was a pretty stiff breeze from the west. All went well till they were off the East India harbour, where the boat struck some black object, which seemed to be animated. The object, whatever it was, came in contact with the bottom of the boat, and threw her on her side, pitching the occupants into the water. All three were good swimmers and managed to get a hold on the boat, on which they sat astride for over an hour till help came.

Old Ardtornish House, a stately and historic residence in North Argyll, has just been razed to the ground in conformity with an extensive scheme of estate improvement at present in course of execution. Picturesquely situated near the ruins of the ancient Castle of Ardtornish—formerly a stronghold of the Lords of the Isles—it commanded a charming and magnificent view of Appin, Mull and Lorn, and also of Loch Linnhe and the Sound of Mull. It was built about the middle of the eighteen century by the MacLeans, of Duart, and was owned successively by no fewer than seven proprietors. Quite recently it passed, along with the Ardtornish estate, into the possession of Mrs. Sellar, sister of the late laird, Mr. Thomas V. Smith. Mrs. Sellar and her husband, the late Mr. Alexander Craig Sellar, member of Parliament for Partick, occupied the old house during the first few years of their married life, and frequently numbered among their guests Herbert Spencer and Benjamin Jowett. The new mansion house, erected many years ago at the instance of Mr. Smith, is one of the finest and most commodious in Argyllshire.

It is claimed that Mrs. Annie Campbell, who resides with her granddaughter, Mrs. Thomas Hall, at 27 Queenshill street, Springburn, is the oldest woman in Glasgow, if not in Scotland. Her age has been certified as 109 years. She is a native of Port Weymss, Islay, and her memory carries her back to the days spent amongst whiskey smugglers. Her father was a weaver but carried on an extensive business in the smuggling of whiskey into Glasgow, where a good price was always obtainable for the real "mountain dew." Mrs. Campbell can tell many thrilling stories of encounters with the excise men in these adventurous journeys. Over 60 years ago Mrs. Campbell came to Glasgow to reside with her friends. She never learned much of the English language and now speaks only in Gaelic. She travelled in a railway train only once, has never worn spectacles and never tasted medicine in her life.

Gourley, an engine driver, who recently completed his term of three months' imprisonment in connection with the Arbroath Railway disaster, and whose case has aroused a great deal of public interest and sympathy, was liberated from Calton jail the other morning. The usual hour for liberating prisoners is eight, and at that time a crowd of about 2,000 people had assembled to welcome Gourley to freedom. When the prisoners were liberated, however, Gourley was not amongst them and it soon leaked out that he had been given his freedom at half-past five o'clock. The neighbourhood of Gourley's house at Royal Park Terrace was gaily decorated, a placard being also posted with the words, "A Right Hearty Welcome." Gourley was met at the prison door by his eldest son.

During a recent Sunday night and part of Monday there was a tremendous rainfall in Scotland. The downpour was of tropical violence and in certain districts resembled a cloud-burst. On some farms potatoes and turnip seeds have been washed out of the ground and the roads in many places are torn up with the floods which turned the highways for the time into rivers. In Berwickshire trees were uprooted by lightning; in Aberdeenshire the rush of water accumulated vast heaps of soil on the roads.

Six lives were lost in a boating disaster which occurred recently off Millport a holiday resort on an island in the Clyde. Mr. John Barclay, an elderly gentleman who had retired from business and lived in the west end of Glasgow had been spending a holiday at Millport. Hiring a boat he took with him his son, his son's sweetheart, Miss Jenny Blair, a pretty Ayrshire girl; his married daughter, Mrs. Waterson, of Glasgow, and the latter's two children, aged four and two. As the weather was fairly calm the party proceeded to the open channel. Then the breeze freshened and the boat was struck by a sudden squall and capsized. All the party were drowned.

IRELAND

Ashill, a town in one of the wildest parts of County Mayo, was the scene of a double domestic tragedy early on a recent Saturday morning. Awakened by terrible screams about one o'clock the father of Mr. Owen Lavelle, a well known merchant, rushed out of his room and in the hall met his son, with his hands and shirt covered with blood. The old man succeeded in getting him into a room occupied by some shop assistants, and going to his son's bedroom found Mrs. Lavelle lying in a pool of blood with her head nearly severed from her body. In an adjoining room the body of her seven-year-old daughter was found in a similar condition. Mr. Owen Lavelle, who is a member of the Mayo County Council, was at once placed under arrest. At the inquest a servant, who slept with the young girl Lavelle, said she was awakened by the striking of a match, and called out, "Who's there?" Lavelle answered and said he only wanted to light a candle. He then put out the light and went over to the bed and stretched across the witness towards where the child was. He remained in that position for about six minutes, when the child uttered an awful scream and Lavelle rushed from the room. The witness got a light and found that the child had been murdered.

A very sad drowning accident was reported to the Constabulary at Castleock, near Coleraine, recently, the victim being a little fellow named Willie Dugan, aged 7 years, son of Mr. Matthew Dugan, a farmer residing at Ballywoollen, Ramnouth, Castlerock. It appears that three of Mr. Dugan's children, with others, were at play in one of the meadows alongside which flows the "Pottagh Burn," on its way to the Bann. The stream was swollen by recent rains. Approaching too close to the bank, the boy fell into the water, and was being swept away when his sister, who is only a year or so older, tried to get him out, and in the effort fell into the water, from which she was dragged by another sister, who had great difficulty in effecting her rescue. Meanwhile the little boy was swept down the stream and drowned.

During the early hours on Monday morning Bailiff Brady, who is caretaking an evicted farm at Ballinagiers, County Leitrim, set off for the village of Dromahair, with the object of buying the necessities of life, which he is denied in the neighbouring towns of Dowra, Drumshambo, and Carrick-on-Shannon. The town of Dromahair is about 16 miles from where he lives, and on his journey there he was waylaid by a mob, who warned the countryside by the blowing of horns that Brady was on the road. In response to the call hundreds left their beds about 4 a.m. and swooped down upon their unfortunate victim and took forcible possession of his little donkey and cart, and despite the efforts of the police that were guarding him the crowd carried all away.

A shocking discovery was made recently by a labourer engaged in the demolition of a wooden hut within the premises of the Dufferin Stone Company, Belfast. On removing the floor he came upon the skeleton of a human being, evidently that of a young woman. The skull and smaller bones were either missing or had crumbled into dust, but the bones of the spinal column and those of the arms and legs were quite intact, while a coil of long brown hair was found at the spot where the skull would have been situated. From the appearance of the remains it is surmised that the body must have lain in the hut for several years, while the fact that the skull was missing strengthens the assumption that there may have been foul play.

An exciting incident took place on the Shannon recently. The steamship Gipsy, with a cargo of sugar, was going up to port on the ebb tide when, off Croonagh Point, about a mile seawards from Limerick, she came into collision with the river passenger steamer Shannon, bound for Kilrush. The Shannon's paddle-box was smashed and both steamers were damaged by the impact. The passengers were greatly alarmed, but sustained no injuries and were taken off in rowing boats.

At a recent meeting of the Carrickon-Shannon No. 2 Rural District Council (Co. Roscommon), Mr. G. G. Doyle, D.C., who is at present incarcerated in Sligo prison on a charge of unlawful assembly and intimidation, was elected Chairman of the Council, and he is now entitled to act as a magistrate by virtue of his office. In recognition of Mr. Doyle's political services, the Council have honoured him by electing him to the highest position in their gift.

A Dublin woman, named Esther Brown, was charged in the police court recently with having drowned her three-months-old child in a crock of water. The father of the child had given the woman very little money, as he said his wife was constantly drunk. The woman Brown was heard to say when the child was dead: "Thanks be to God! All I can get is six or twelve months, and I can have my fling then as well as my husband.

A valuable and remarkable souvenir of Napoleon I has been discovered in the town of Omagh, Co. Tyrone. A gentleman in that town has a watch bearing the monogram of "The Emperor." He obtained it through one of his ancestors who did duty as a sergeant in St. Helena during Napoleon's captivity there. Prior to his death the Emperor made the watch a present to the sergeant as a token of friendship.

Information has been received of a horrible outrage at Fairy Hill, a large farm near Cloughjordan, in the occupation of Mr. Harry B. Kenny, Clyduff House, Roscrea, a gentleman farmer and well known breeder of horses. Some miscreant securely tied the tails of two cattle together, with the result that the entire tail of one was pulled off by the stronger animal.

YORK GINGER ALE.
YORK SARSAPARILLA.

YORK APERIENTIS (the perfect laxative).

York Springs Dry Ginger Ale is perfection as a Summer-day beverage, because it does more than merely allay thirst for the time being. It quenches thirst; and it braces and stimulates the whole body, with no consequent reaction. York Springs Dry Ginger Ale gets its keen pungency and sparkling crispness of flavor from pure, selected Jamaica ginger-root, combined with other pure vegetable aromatics, and ideally pure York Springs Water, lightly charged with purified carbonic acid gas. There is only a trace of sweetness about this delightful beverage,—it has the "sec" of fine champagne, and is almost as invigorating, although there is no alcohol in it. Chilled slightly, sipped slowly, a glassful of York Springs Dry Ginger Ale instantly refreshes parched throats, lessens the heat of the blood, cools the brain and body, and withal puts tone and vim into the system,—the effect of the ginger it contains. Not even the finest imported ginger ales, though these cost much more, excel York Springs Dry Ginger Ale in absolute purity and actual quality. Not one of them vies with it in the delicious piquancy and snap of its inimitable flavor.

Fishermen's Paradise In Peterborough County

Something About the Haunts of the Fish in Round Lake and Belmont Lake in East Peterborough

HOW TO REACH THE LAKES

Special Correspondence

Havelock, July 19.—Round Lake, the haunt of the prize black bass and lunge and the summer home of campers in quest of game, comfort and enjoyment combined, situated in Peterborough County, seven miles north of Havelock, is one of the most pretty and charming lakes in Central Ontario.

Round Lake, called so on account of its shape is the nearest to being round, that any natural body of water could be, but is slightly longer east and west, where it tapers eastward to form North River.

On its banks, which are high and dry, can be found the most ideal spots for camping as a tent can be erected in a nice shady place with water near by, and supplies of milk, butter, potatoes, etc., can be had from the farmers near at hand, who are very obliging in that way.

One of the beauties of the lake in the eyes of a great many is the fact that it has sandy beaches, which run out into the water several hundred yards, thus affording a most excellent place for bathing.

The lake is prettily dotted by several islands, which present a beautiful scene with their large load of foliage, jutting upon the cool dark waters of the lake, but they are so small that they are hardly ever used for camping purposes, as plenty of spots with the most picturesque and delightful scenery can be found on the shores of the lake.

Round Lake discharges its water into North River, which is navigable either by canoe or rowboat as far down as Burnt Dam, where a portage of several hundred yards must be made before you can continue on the way to Belmont Lake. North River is a lovely stream for sailing, for pleasure and comfort, as the banks are so close together that the river is completely shaded by the trees ranging on either side, thus keeping the water cool.

At Burnt Dam, where the Havelock Electric Light Powerhouse is situated, there is a fall in the river of about thirty feet, where the water drops over the ledge singing the song of nature and then flowing swiftly on again.

Round Lake can be best reached from Havelock by a drive of about forty-five minutes and there boats can be hired at very reasonable rates. If you cannot trust yourself to picking out the good fishing places, guides can be secured. But guides are no needed to show most of the campers where the fish can be found, for during the open season fishing is good in mostly all parts of the lake. Trawling for lunge will give good results at most any time, for they are numerous, while heavy black bass will help along the catch.

The large fat dew worms and live minnows are the most effectual bait for Round Lake, and both can be easily purchased.

The water is middling cool, even in the middle of summer, and thus the fish are of a fine, firm quality.

In Round Lake special enjoyment is found in fishing for catfish, which species of fish are very numerous and bite freely when the sun is sinking in the evening. These fish, although extremely horrid, as the ladies would say, to look at, have a nice sweet taste, rivalling brook trout.

Round River, which discharges its water into Round Lake, is navigable up to the "narrows," where a portage must be made and then continuing you come to Bass Bay, where fishing for small-mouthed black bass is good during all the summer.

Those seeking either a quiet, enjoyable or profitable holiday will find Round Lake one of the best of places for a few weeks' outing at minimum expense and trouble.

Round Lake, although it has just come into prominence among campers and tourists, is bound to become in a few years the summer home of those wishing for sport and enjoyment, as its pretty surroundings and its abundance of fish is attracting a good many.

Belmont Lake

A drive of five miles from Havelock over a good road brings you to Belmont Lake, called after the township in which it is situated. It is more widely known among campers than Round Lake and rivals it in good fishing.

It is very much larger than Round Lake, being twice as long as it is wide, running north and south. It has several islands in it, but like those of Round Lake, are not fit for camping purposes.

Accommodation can be had at several large boarding houses, situated on its shore, or a fine place may be had for pitching a tent on its high shores, where Nature is seen in all its beauty. Supplies can be got at reasonable prices from the surrounding farmers. Boats and rowers can also be had at mostly any part of the lake.

The best way to reach Belmont Lake is to hire a livery rig, but you may go out by the Cordova stage, which goes within a mile of the lake, and which will convey you to any part at a reasonable rate.

North River, which runs into Belmont Lake, is navigable up as far as Burnt Dame, and fishing for small fish is good along its whole length.

Belmont Lake empties its water into Crow River, which is navigable in nearly all parts and accommodation can be had at boarding houses near its shore.

Fishing is about the same in Belmont Lake as in Round, only that the bass seem to bite better at frogs than at live minnows. Trawling for lunge is also splendid, especially where Belmont Lake runs into Crow River, and fishing for catfish is even better than in Round Lake. The beautiful and picturesque surroundings of Belmont Lake could not be better.

Belmont Lake is thought by many campers to be better than Round Lake as better accommodation can be had at Belmont, and the full amount of fish allowed by law can be taken each day and that is all any person could wish for.

Justice in Montreal

Hamilton Times.

Two arrests were made in Montreal inside of half an hour last Wednesday for cruelty to horses; first the driver and then the owner was arrested. Although it was shown that the animals had been unmercifully beaten by both men, Recorder Dupuis discharged them on the ground that when a man is sentenced to be flogged, the stipulation is "until the blood is drawn," and that similarly when it is necessary to flog horses, the operation could be continued until blood is drawn.

MAKE UP FOR LOST BACKBONE

Alexander Adrehi, Will be Short on Vertebrae Through Life, But Won't Miss Them

INTERESTING OPERATION

New York, July 13.—When Alexander Adrehi, a patient in the City Hospital on Blackwell's Island, is discharged in a few weeks, one of the most remarkable cases in surgery will have been completed.

For four years he lay almost constantly on a waterbed in the hospital, with part of his backbone shot away. For the first few weeks after he was injured the lower part of his body was completely paralyzed. He has now so far recovered as to walk and go up and down stairs.

In May, 1903, Adrehi was shot in in the back in a street fight in Brooklyn. The bullet hit the spinal column, shattering the teeth and eleventh vertebrae, and almost severing the spinal chord. He was taken to Brooklyn Hospital, and at first it was believed his death was but a matter of a short time, as it was deemed impossible to overcome the injury to the spinal chord.

Dr. Fowler's Skill

The late Dr. George Ryerson Fowler, who died a year ago, had charge of the case, and he decided to operate.

An incision six inches long was made directly over the eleventh vertebrae. The tenth and eleventh vertebrae had been completely shattered. With a chisel the laminae of the tenth, eleventh and twelfth vertebrae were cut away, exposing the severed chord. A narrow, ragged and contused strip of membrane, about an eighth of an inch wide, remained. The bullet was removed, the ends of the spinal chord were then sutured, the membrane being included in the sutures. A drain, consisting of half a dozen strips of oiled silk, was introduced and the wound sewed up.

This operation was performed on May 9, 1903. A month later the man was able to move his toes. In November following he could sit up in bed. Every day he received massage treatment to restore and stimulate the circulation. Electricity was used for the same purpose.

He Was Uncomplaining

Adrehi was cheerful, willing to undergo anything his attendants suggested for him. His patience was remarkable. Dr. Fowler took great personal interest in the case and visited him almost daily. When the operation had proved a success and it was seen that the man's recovery was only a question of time, Dr. Fowler wrote and exhaustive review of the case, which was published in The Annals of Surgery.

When Dr. Fowler died, Adrehi was removed to the City Hospital on Blackwell's Island, and placed him care of Dr. Louis Casamajor, who contrived a walking-machine for him.

Walked in a Harness

It consists of a harness which fits under his arms and supports his weight. This is suspended in a frame which moved about on ball-bearing casters. Adrehi propelled it with his feet, his weight supported by the harness. In a short time he was able to travel all about the corridor in the hospital.

Now he can walk without the use of crutches or a brace, and goes up and down stairs by holding to the banisters. He exercises abundantly, and the massage treatment is administered only occasionally. He moves his legs and feet freely, and the sense of feeling in them is fully restored. The circulation seems to have been perfectly established, and he is believed to be permanently cured.

He is short the tenth, eleventh and twelfth vertebrae, but Dr. Casamajor says that nature will in time make compensation with a growth of tendon which will fully supply the deficiency.

The cost to the city in the care of this patient has been great. At the usual rate for pay patients of $1 a day it would figure more than $1,200. But for weeks and months, when physicians and nurses were battling with death to win him back to life, he required constant attention. It is doubtful if $5,000 would cover the cost.

A Magnificent and Sovereign Remedy.

Having Tried Many Remedies and Failed to Find a Cure,

After Twenty Years Bondage to Catarrh
He Is Relieved By Pe-ru-na.

A public speaker cannot afford to have catarrh. Even a slight catarrhal hoarseness of the throat becomes intolerable.

This is especially true of the minister who is called upon to preside at religious functions of all sorts.

The Bishop's Strong Tribute to Pe-ru-na.

L. H. Holsey, Bishop C. M. E. Church, Atlanta, Ga., writes:

"I have found Peruna to be a great remedy for catarrh. I have suffered with this terrible disease for more than twenty years, until since I have been using Peruna, which has relieved me of the trouble.

"I have tried many remedies and spent a great deal of hard-earned money for them, but I found nothing so effectual in the cure of catarrh as the great remedy Peruna.

"I feel sure that Peruna is not only a triumph of medical science, but it is also a blessing to suffering humanity.

FRIBBLES OF FASHION.

Pongees Adorned With Black Embroidery—Hosiery Hints.

Natural colored pongee frocks adorned with black embroidery when made in the combination princess-empire fashion are very smart. The yoke and sleeves are of lace, and the neck and cuff bands are piped with black and rose or pale blue and green silk.

White stockings are worn with black and colored shoes this summer during the day as well as in the evening. The imported hosiery of this kind has elaborate clock designs and lace insertions, and in some stockings the entire front is of chantilly net.

intervals with knots of ribbon to correspond with the flowers in the silk are among the attractive things for the wardrobe.

For a dressy gown to be worn for light mourning striped grenadine is very handsome. As the stripe is lustrous, this material is not suitable for the very first trappings of woe.

Polka dotted silks, lawns and marquisettes with deep border effects in much larger dots are effective. The border forms the cross over portion of the surplice waist and the deep hem as well as the panels of the skirt.

Many of the linen coat and skirt suits are embroidered with large French dots, and the coats are scalloped and buttonholed instead of hemmed. The gown illustrated is made of white dotted swiss muslin with trimmings of valenciennes lace. It is a charmingly simple yet dressy little frock.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Seaweed For Hats.

Everything upon land that could possibly be utilized has been put upon the season's millinery, and now, earthly suggestions having been exhausted, the sea has been levied upon and with great success.

Seaweed as trimming has proved its efficacy, and many of the imported creations show the clever treatment of those plants of the ocean.

The most satisfactory seaweed for millinery purposes is that found near the mouth of the Thames on the English coast, and the season for procuring it lasts from October until April, the harvest occupying the time of the poorer population of the Isle of Graine.

After a high northern wind one gatherer has been known to pick up as much as a hundredweight in one day. Again, with adverse tides and gales, there is no harvest for days at a time. Seaweed, of course, is very light in weight, and when dried and cleaned one pound represents a considerable bundle.

It is used for other purposes besides hats, as it is used in large quantities for table and room decorations, although its highly inflammable qualities make it wise to keep it away from lights.

The "Invalid Crawl."

Alas! Somebody in England with nothing better to do has invented a new walk, and it is being taken up here, says the Philadelphia Telegraph. At the start of practice a girl must tie weights to the bottom of her skirt. In walking she must appear to be so weary that she scarcely can drag one foot after another. Her step must be long and creepy, without the slightest hint of energy. Thus walks Queen Alexandra, who adds a slight limp, as she has been lame since infancy. It is hinted the languid movements were designed to hide that defect. Gowns must be of stuff that gives a clinging effect; then the slow, long step, with a bending of the neck at every stride, will be the most effective.

"Setting" a Sleeve.

To set the sleeve in the body pin the outer seam to the curved side of the back about two inches below the shoulder seam. Slip on the waist lining and make any adjustments that are necessary. Gather the top part of the sleeve, being careful to distribute the gathers evenly. When basting and sewing the sleeve in be sure to hold it toward you. One will be well repaid for time spent on this part of the work, as an imperfectly setting sleeve will spoil the effect of a waist.

square crown and a mushroom brim pinched down at each side and raised at the back. A fold of white glace ribbon round the crown is carried over the brim at the sides and tied at the back, and a wreath of small roses and buds across the crown hangs down on the hair at the right side. A small cluster of roses is placed on the bandeau at the back.

Exaggerated bandeau and fantastically bent brims are passe. In their stead we have the drooping though rarely floppy brim. The prevalence of the mushroom hat is surprising, for after its introduction two years ago its presence was less noticeable in the succeeding season. But it now emerges triumphant.

Soutache braiding in an elaborate vermicelli pattern on a waist of plain net makes a smart bodice of materials in themselves inexpensive.

A favorite design on dresses of linen takes the form of trailing sprays of grapevines. The leaves in the narrow linen soutache are set on edgewise, and the grapes are built of big French dots done in heavy thread.

Trimmings of silk bands are one of the fashionable effects of the season. The gown in the cut is adorned in this fashion. The fabric is marquisette of a lovely shade of nut brown.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Two Iced Drinks.

Tea Nectar.—Make one and a half pints of tea and when it has drawn for three minutes pour it off into the bowl in which it is to be served. Sweeten to taste with white sugar, add the juice of a lemon and a wineglassful of brandy. Ice for an hour, decorate with thin slices of lemon cut into quarters and serve in small glasses.

Coffee Nectar.—Sweeten some strong coffee to taste and to each pint add the juice of half a lemon and a wineglassful of brandy. Stand on ice for an hour and then serve in small glasses with a teaspoonful of whipped cream on each.

Eggshell Flowerpots.

Eggshells may be used to advantage in rearing delicate plants for transplanting. The shells, cut in halves, are filled with earth and set in a box also containing dampened earth. A hole is made in the end of the shell to allow drainage. A single seed is then planted in each shell, which is easily broken when transplanting is done, without the slightest disturbance of roots.

This use of eggshells is the discovery of a gardener who claims that they are vastly superior to the little pots generally used for the purpose.

WHAT TO WEAR.

New Dress Shield—Silk Coat and Sash Worn With Muslins.

A new dress shield for wearing with thin dresses and shirt waists is trimmed with valenciennes lace. It greatly improves their appearance.

Navy blue is more in favor than it was at the beginning of the season, especially mixed with crude green and mandarin. And as a relief from the ubiquitous brown there is a medium tint of rather yellowish green known as "tilleul," which is seen in many of the summer silks.

One can buy stamped little bows of white material that are so much the fashion now at very inexpensive prices.

Pompadour silks make charming evening gowns under transparent overskirts of point d'esprit, net or spangled tulle.

The silk coat and matching sash promise to be a feature of the late summer modes. The idea is very pretty and lends itself to many attractive variations. One or two sets of the sort will, if one's wardrobe is well selected, go with almost any gown, and they will lend an air of style and up to dateness to the simplest and least pretentious frock.

For indoor gowns or elaborate tea gowns the broken or primitive Greek key pattern is much used as a trimming.

The simple linen dress seen in the picture is a most desirable frock for a little girl. The trimming is of embroidery, with frills of linen lawn. The shield is of fancy ticking.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Easily Made Novelties.

Pretty and inexpensive furnishings for the summer home, such as sofa pillows, laundry bags, table covers, round or oblong, may be made of ordinary white crash and odd bits of cretonne that are left from furniture coverings.

The edge of the crash is cut into big scallops, which are tinted halfway up in soft shades of pink, blue, green and orange and bound in bias bands of black linen or sateen.

Over the surface of the crash are round medallions of flowered cretonne edged with the black bands and connected by large scrolls outlined in heavy black twisted floss. The bands may be stitched on by machine or can be held with featherstitching in the predominating tint of the cretonne.

Sash Modish.

The sash is literally a binding necessity this year. It is a sash season, and the sash is as likely to be tied to the front or side as at the back, for it is to be put where the design of the gown calls for it.

It is now a new fad to make this accessory of silk instead of ribbon, although this is not saying that the lovely sash ribbons brought in for such purposes in a great range of styles and colors will not be used. Jaunty little silk boleros to match the sashes will be largely worn with lingerie gowns.

Patti's Recipe For Good Health.

Up to forty I stinted myself in nothing and ate and lived as I chose. After forty, however, I took to a comparatively strict way of living. Since then I have eaten no red meat and have drunk only white wine and soda. When I feel weak a glass of champagne picks me up. I never touch spirits or liquors. I always sleep with the window wide open in summer and partly open in winter.

It is not only deliciously delightful to eat, but

GLIMPSES OF FASHION.

Extremes in Headgear—Gold and Silver on Black Lace.

There is no doubt that headgear is getting bigger. In fact, it is assuming bewildering proportions in some instances. Big white and black lace hats are very becoming, especially when trimmed with a single feather.

Little velvet bows are playing a most important part in the dressing up of the new gowns.

OF RING DOTTED FOULARD—5684, 5436.

Black lace with gold thread or silver lines is handsome. A black lace waist with a bit of gold thread introduced on the cuffs or sleeve finishings and at the throat bears the mark of an artist's design.

Among the colored veils worn are chenille spotted nets with lace borders. Coarse straw hats are charmingly softened by a veil held by two abnormally large hatpins.

For shopping a brown tussore tailored skirt and coat are the accepted costume. The skirt is severely plain. The coat may be stitched with bands of the same material, and lace collars and cuffs complete it. A fancy coat is trimmed with strips of lace insertion or bands. A heavy rajah or tussore silk skirt is wearable on the golf or tennis field. The heavy pongees tub well and are much more serviceable than the linens.

Ring dotted foulards are very stylish this season, and the dress seen in the cut is of foulard with a white ground and dots of a lovely shade of blue. The trimming is of plain blue silk embroidered in white dots bordered with narrow black velvet.

SUMMER RESORTS IN RAINY RIVER

here, to settle, in part, at least, the transportation problem between east and west. How absurdly little the canal, even if finished, would have done to settle the problem! This was a part of the famous "Dawson Route," along which settlers came who are the backbone of the prairie provinces.

Fort Frances is old enough to have its legends, and legends usually have some connection with the habits and practices of the people. It is said that in some mythical Indian aprising of the very early days, one hundred barrels of good Hudson's Bay rum were buried for safety, and so safely buried as never yet to have been found again. Over the fires in winter, when spirits run low in the cup and high in the brain, men plan to plow up the whole face of the country to find those century-ripened barrels of rum.

Paddling Along Silent Reaches.

The trips a holiday-maker may plan with Fort Frances as a starting point are practically numberless and very varied. By steamer one may go down the lake to any distance, to Mine Centre, a busy town in its day; Rice Bay—where wild rice mentioned by Kane as one of the staple foods of the district, once came from; to Swell Bay, Grassy Lake, Brule Narrows, Kettle Falls, Black Bay or Rainy Lake City. At any point, almost, down the lake, one may step contentedly, and from almost any bay or canoe trip by lake or river may be begun. It would scarcely be an exaggeration to say that hundreds of such side trips by canoe could be mapped out, endless in variety and endless in charm.

Railway That Crosses Lake

The best trip out from Fort Frances — at any rate in reminiscences three years old it seems so—is that which leads up the north arm of the lake, up the Manitou river, across dozens of lakes up to Wahagoon. This makes a cross-country paddle from the C. N. R. to C. P. R.

The start was made from Fort Frances just above the International Fall now being harnessed to turn factory wheels on both sides of the river. When a rapid almost impossible to a canoe had been negotiated, and Pitcher's Point, the residence of the Indian agent, and the most charming camping ground imaginable, passes, a short run reached the narrows where the Canadian Northern stepping like a giant from island to island, crosses the lake.

Straight away among islands the route leads past the mouths of bays past the Indian reserve, out beyond houses or farms, or canoes, out where only gulls or eagles perched on rocky islands rise to the sound of a rifle. Getting bearings at Standing Stone Point, identifying from the chart Hostess Island, Cherry Island and Rebecca Island, another small island is reached, where an axe trimmed pine, a "lob stick," shows the way through devious passages, past Woodchurch Island, bearing away from the hogs back, through another archipelago, past Alexandra Bay and the mouth of Canoe river, past Ash Bay, where moose are seen—and later tasted—up into Manitou sound, along into the narrows, alive with pickerel, the expedition passes up to the foot of the foaming Devil's Cascade, where the Manitou, full of delight at the beauties it has passed through, dances gaily down terrace after terrace fifty feet or more, into Rainy Lake.

Here, at the first portage, there is a pause, the spirit of the woods and the wilds descends upon even the most prosaic. "I was just hungry for these woods and lakes," remarks one who returns year after year, "the only place I know that I want to come back to." "Yes," chimed in the guide; "this is the place for me. I get all the prairie I want on the map."

Rescue of a Marooned Dog

At this fall a few years ago, a dog, marooned unintentionally by a picnic party, lived as a Crusoe for a month until a party came all the way up the lake, thirty miles or so, to rescue him.

From Devil's Cascade the route is so varied and so beautiful that every bend of the stream; almost every stroke of the paddle, brings new delight. Portages long and short, steep and easy, well cleared and rough, river, narrow channel, lake, rapid that may, with strenuous strokes, be climbed, rapid between impassible banks, up which canoes must be dragged. Then there are rapids that can be passed only by portage, lake on sinuous that the chart must always be in use, lake so open and broad that sails can be improvised and labour lessened. One passes banks treed and bare, high and swampy, the quiet stream flowing beneath over-hanging trees, the wierd cry of the loon, the quack of the wild duck, the splash of the moose, and the fox slinking by, watching wonderingly. The hush is broken abruptly by the gaudies, the roar of falling water, deafening, drowning all other sound, all the varied beauties of water and woods, all the charms of the wild places, following one another in endless variety.

The objective point of that particular expedition was a lake filled with every charm into which sun and sky and answering water, islands, trees, bluffs, banks, can be arranged by artist nature in her happiest mood, and filled, too, with that delight of all true lovers of the rod gamy black bass.

There is but one way of having a real, whole holiday, and that way leads back through camp, canoe, river, lake, back to the woods and primitive, almost savage, simplicity. Nowhere for the Winnipeg worker does this way lead more delightfully than through the mazes of Rainy Lake or its hundred tributaries.

New Phase Reported Now In The Case Of "Col" Shultz

A Havelock Despatch Alleges That He Was Intoxicated When the Train Left That Town on Thursday Night.

SOME ACCIDENTS RECORDED

Examiner Special.

Havelock, July 19.—A high class restaurant has been opened in the Jeff's Block, George street, opposite W. A. MacMaster's store, by Mrs. J. H. Wood of Peterborough, who will serve hot and cold meals at all hours. This is what is wanted in this railway town, where men are coming in from work at all hours of the day and night, who will warmly welcome a place where they can get a warm meal as soon as they come in.

Mr. John Watson, accompanied by his daughter, Bella, has left for Montreal, where he will take passage for his old home in Scotland. Mr. Watson came out to Canada in 1889, and has not since visited the Old Country. His home is in Stirling. His many friends will join in wishing him a pleasant time during his visit, and a safe return home.

"Col." Schultz, of the Hargraves circus, who met death by falling or being thrown from the train at Cavanville last Friday, while on the way to Lindsay from Havelock, pleased the audience here very much with his trained dog act, and the report of his death caused some sensation in town, although it is reported that he was intoxicated when he left Havelock on Thursday night.

Owing to the high prices of flour, sugar, meat and other provisions, the price of bread in town has advanced considerably within the past few weeks.

A large number from town left this morning for Niagara on the Foresters' excursion.

Master Robert Delong, a boy of 11 years, had his head severely cut on Tuesday by being hit on the head by a large rock, though unintentionally, by a boy whom he was with.

Rev. Mr. McNab of Owen Sound will conduct the services in the Presbyterian Church next Sunday.

Mr. Frank MacMaster of town, last night, launched his beautiful new gasoline yacht on the Trent river. In its fancy coat of paint, its striped covering, and the beautiful flags with which it was adorned, it presented a beautiful sight as it was launched, flashing back the last rays of the sinking evening sun upon the fast-flowing, glittering water.

On Friday evening last, the newly-elected officers of Havelock Lodge, I. O. O. F., were duly installed by Bro Wm Iliff, D.D.G.M., of Peterborough, assisted by Brd R J Matchett and Bro. A. A. Fowler of Peterborough.

Miss Barrett of Toronto is the guest of her brother, Mr. A. E. Barrett of town.

Mrs. Burns returned to her home in Toronto after a few weeks' visit with her sister, Mrs. Alex. Rose of town.

Miss Bessie Rose was in Campbellford on Monday.

Mr. David Williams of Duluth is the guest of his brother, Mr. Ed. Williams of town.

Miss Overend of the staff of the High School, Orillia, is in town the guest of her brother, Mr. John Overend.

Miss Clara Major of Philadelphia is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Thos. Lloyd.

Mrs. A. Brenit and Mrs. F. Pearce of Norwood, and Misses Maude Brennan, Lawa and Goodfellow of Brooklyn, N. Y., spent the Twelfth in town the guests of Mrs. George, Buchanan.

Master Earle Barrie, who has been the guest of his aunt, Mrs. Jas. E. Fowler, returned to his home in Peterborough on Wednesday.

Mr. Benons of Campbellford is in town this week on business.

Miss Mirude Wagar left on Thursday for a short holiday trip with friends down east.

Mr. and Mrs. Clem. Timmerman have taken up house in their new residence on George street.

Miss Marguerite Foster visited Bertha Bryans for a couple of days last week.

Little Eva Vansickle, aged three years, youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Vansickle of town, passed to her long rest at 3.30 o'clock on Thursday afternoon. The child had been ill only three days, suffering from the black measles. Inflammation setting in, the little one soon breathed its last. Although young, it seemed to be a great favourite among both the young and old folk. The sad news will prove a great shock to the citizens, and, above all, the parents, whose hearts will ache with grief. The sympathy of all go out to the family in their sad bereavement. The funeral as yet has not been decided on, but will probably take place Saturday.

NO "SWEATING" WAS ADMINISTERED

The Lindsay Prisoners Were Not Subjected to This Means to Obtain Their Stories

Lindsay, July 22. — The seven men now under arrest on the charge of issuing or making bogus money will all be up before the Magistrate this afternoon at 2 o'clock. It is hardly likely however that the preliminary trial will be gone on with this afternoon as the chances are that neither the Crown nor the defence will be ready.

Mr. Bayley, of the Attorney-General's Department will be here to conduct the trial for the Crown, with the assistance of the County Crown Attorney.

Mr. Thomas Stewart has been retained by Charles Burke, Mr. R. J. McLaughlin, K. C., by Logie; Mr. L. V. O'Connor, by Boyeau; Mr. I. E. Weldin, by Gostlin; and Mr. G. H. Hopkins, by Geo. Millar.

Rumour Still Busy

It is now supposed that the police know all they are after, and it is generally thought that no further arrests are contemplated. Rumour, however, is as busy and as evil as ever, and the result is the injury of apparently innocent persons. To the most of these rumours there seems to be no foundation. As a sample of these things may be cited one slander suit arising from such ill natured rumours. And there are others—one at the least—expected this week.

Their Was No "Sweating"

Among the rumours that were flying here this week is one to the effect that the accused men were receiving a certain amount of sweating, for the purpose of securing confessions or evidence from them. The Chief of Police here has denied the truth of this. Chief Vincent says that nothing approaching sweating would be tolerated at the jail. The prisoners do not have to talk to the detectives unless they wish to, and no pressure has been put on the accused in any way. Chief Vincent further states that both he and Special Constable Thornbury were present when the detectives interviewed the accused men at the jail. They were properly warned as usual, and then simply asked if they would like to say anything, or if they desired to talk to any of the other prisoners who were alleged to have made incriminating confessions.

The Maximum Sentence

Separate and distinct informations have been prepared against each of te men charging them with having counterfeity money in their possession. The maximum sentence for having bad bank bills is the same as for the actual making of the notes, fourteen years in Kingston penitentiary.

OVER 700,000 NOW FOR MISS THOMPSON

A Big Jump Made by Peterborough's Representative in the World's Trip to London Contest

When the Toronto World was published this morning, Miss Birdie Thompson, the representative from Peterborough, in the Trip to London Contest, stood fifth, with 392,734 votes. Since this morning, however, Miss Thompson has taken a remarkable advance and the one that gets first place ahead of her will pretty nearly have to reach the three quarters of a million mark. This morning 316,800 votes were forwarded, and by a later mail 28,000 additional votes were sent, bringing her total up to 737,534. It is possible too that outside votes will bring her total beyond that since during the last few days several thousand votes have been sent in to the World's office in Miss Thompson's name from other places.

The vote closes to-night at midnight and unless some of the other candidates develop unexpected strength, Miss Thompson should finish well in the lead.

Woman's Body Found In Canal Below The Locks Bridge

Identified Later to be Mrs. F. Clarke---Disappeared From Her Home on Bolivar Street This Morning.

AN INQUEST THIS EVENING

Floating in the canal, between the Locks bridge and the lock, a short distance below, the body of a drowned woman was discovered about 11 o'clock this morning. Although several saw it removed from the water, it was not identified until about 12.30 o'clock to be that of Mrs. Frank Clarke, wife of Mr. Clarke, the jeweller, at the corner of George and Brock streets.

The body was accidentally discovered by Augustus Rose, son of Mr. Abraham Rose, Langdowne street, who happened to be strolling south from the bridge. It was floating, face downward, close to the long concrete pier, about half way between the lock and the bridge. All the clothes were on the body, including a pretty brown straw hat with roses and other trimmings, a rubber raincoat, boots and rubbers. She had a gold wedding ring on her finger, and a gold brooch on her breast. The face looked worn and haggard, and it was supposed by those who saw the body removed that she had committed suicide.

Young Rose communicated his discovery to Lock-master Wm. Collins, who immediately notified the police station. P. C. Newhall quickly left for the scene, and at the C.P.R. station notified Coroner Gray, who was leaving to hold an inquest at Havelock, and the latter decided to hold an inquest this evening on his return.

The body of the woman was removed from the water as soon as the undertaker's conveyance arrived. It was then noticed that it had not lain long in the water, and it was conveyed to Bellegham's undertaking rooms.

P. C. Newhall believed the body to be that of Mrs. Clarke, and at once inquired from her husband if she had been missing. When told that she had been home at 7 o'clock this morning, but not at 11, the officer broke the sad news that she had been drowned. Mr. Clarke, on going to Bellegham's undertaking rooms, identified the body.

The deceased had not been in extra good health for some time, and it is supposed that she committed suicide through melancholia. It is believed that she jumped into the water about the C.P.R. railway bridge, as a gentleman in the vicinity of Cemetery Point saw something like a bundle of clothes and hat floating by. The current is very rapid through the lake, which would tend to carry the body along at a rapid rate. Mr. Wm. Trompman, who operates the swing bridge, thought he saw a body pass underneath several minutes before the find was reported.

The inquest will be held at the undertaking establishment this evening at 7 o'clock.

The deceased was 44 years of age, and besides her husband, leaves one son, Mr. Harry Clarke, to mourn her loss.

The funeral will be held on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock to the Little Lake Cemetery.

New Box Manufactory in Quaker Oats Company Mills

The Quaker Oats Company has recently commenced the manufacture of packing cases. In the past, the boxes, in which the cases goods have been shipped, have been manufactured in Toronto and shipped here, but in future this work will all be done in the mills here. Recently, new milling machines were installed, and a staff of men is now at work turning out the boxes at the rate of 4,000 a day. This new departure will effect a great saving in freight charges, since the material from which the boxes are made is shipped to the mills here, ready to be put together

Little Rain Fell But The Lightning Was Severe

A Short, Sharp Storm Reported in the City and Vicinity on Saturday Afternoon.

SOME NARROW ESCAPES

Less than half an inch of rain fell on Saturday afternoon in one of the most severe storms of the season. It was of short duration, but was severe while it lasted. To be exact, .44 of an inch of water was recorded as having fallen during the afternoon. The lightning was more than usually sharp, and a number of narrow escapes were recorded. The guests at the Munro House, taking dinner, were given a fright when the electric fluid entered the room, coming down the electric fan, and the ball exploding below it with a report resembling the discharge of a gun. Mr. W. J. Kirn, who was sitting at one of the tables, was given a slight shock.

Mrs. Reilly, 262 King street, also had a narrow escape, the electricity coming down the chimney and through the stove, smashing the back of the latter. Mrs. Reilly had a metal kettle in her hand at the time, but fortunately it had a wooden handle, and, while she received a slight shock, it was not sufficient to render her unconscious, and beyond the fright she was uninjured.

Mr. Louis Legrandeur, a motorman, in the employ of the Peterborough Light and Power Company, was also affected. He was on his car at the time, and the lightning came in through the rheostat, stunning him for a short time.

Reports from other places in the vicinity of Peterborough indicate that the storm was more severe in them, and that several buildings have been burned and stock killed.

LAND ENOUGH IN ENGLAND

Leader of Independent Party is in Canada on a Visit and Says Englishmen Should Not Have to Leave Home

HARDIE IS A SOCIALIST

Examiner Special.

Ottawa, July 22. — Kier Hardie, the famous leader of the Independent Labour Party in the British House of Commons, is in Canada to watch labour conditions. He was interviewed here previous to going to Toronto, where he addresses the Canadian Club, and then goes on to the Coast.

He says that more immigrants are coming to Canada than ever before, but is of the opinion that there is land enough in England for them if the British big landowners would but sell, but that they will no do.

He denies the rumour that he is to resign the leadership of the Independents. Hardie is a Socialist, and claims that Socialism is having a greater influence on English politics now than ever before. He is interested in the cry in this country for British preferential tariff relations, but does not seem to think that such a step would be in the best interests of the British workingman.

Mr. Hardie will visit Winnipeg and Vancouver, and goes to India, Japan and South Africa to take careful notes of industrial conditions. It is twelve years since he last visited Canada.

Young Man Almost Drowned Beneath A Small Boat

Was Getting Off Steamer Water Lily Near Street Railway Wharf ---Accompanied by His Father When Boat Upset.

LIFE BUOY WENT TOO FAR

An upset, through the carelessness of some person or persons, almost resulted in a drowning accident Saturday evening on the Otonabee River opposite the street railway wharf. Two men, Mr. G. A. J. Goulet, and son, Rubidge street, had been down the river, and were returning on the steamer Water Lily. The boat arrived near the wharf about 9 o'clock, but, instead of landing the two passengers, let them off in the channel in a boat.

Before they got clear of the steamer, the latter moved away, upsetting the men into the river. One of them called for a life buoy, but it was thrown too far distant to be of any use. The younger man, unfortunately, fell under the small boat, and it was feared that he had sunk.

A canoe from Mr. Ryer's boat house, and also another from the wharf were quickly manned, and brought the two men back to land in safety, but not before a hard struggle for life. They could swim, but it is doubtful if they could have reached the shore by doing so.

The steamer is blamed by those who witnessed the accident for not landing the men at the wharf.

HOLIDAYS

Last night, at St. John's, the sermon was on the subject of work and play—appropriate to the season, when the idea of recreation and holidays, is uppermost. The subject of the sermon was founded on a passage in Zechariah, referring to "the children playing in the streets." It was pointed out as obvious that the divine regard favours a reasonable and proper enjoyment of pleasure and recreation. If it is taken in the right spirit, it becomes, as does work faithfully done, an act of worship. Work is described as human activity directed to an end, and play human activity as an end. If recreation is taken in the proper spirit it must be done generously and unselfishly without infringement upon the rights or the claims of others. No right or pleasure of another should be sacrificed. Yet we often see persons enjoying themselves—it is possible that such souls can enjoy themselves under such conditions — without a thought of the claims and rights of others. In an office or establishment, where holidays of employees are taken in relays, the selfish employee, to suit his own convenience, overstays his time, thus depriving a fellow employee of the recreation that is his right, and at the same time forcing him to do the share of work that should fall to the selfish employee, if he thought of others besides himself. There is many a man who takes his holidays and his enjoyment, without a thought of other members of his family—of his wife, whose exacting household and family duties keep her nose, so to speak, to the grindstone perpetually. That such a man could enjoy his holidays, is easily possible. A man that can ignore such palpable claims, can have no thought for others, is a 'twretch concentrated all in self"—whose only thought is enjoyment on his own account, quite independently of the rights or claims of those who should be thought of before himself. There is no humanity, not to speak of Christianity, in a heart like that, which is mentioned as a type of selfishness prevailing in many lives, and operating balefully and cruelly in other spheres and directions. Another typical example occurred in a certain city recently. There is maintained a fresh air fund, whose splendid beneficence takes the form of sending poor women and children on Mondays, for a week's holiday in the country. A widowed washerwoman, with two children, was given the necessary tickets. This woman was engaged to do the washing regularly every Tuesday in a lordly mansion, toiling there from eight in the morning till six at night. When the chance of a holiday came, the poor woman went to her employer in the lordly mansion and, stating the circumstance, asked to be relieved from the work. The mistress said, "Well, you may go, of course, but if you do you needn't come back here again." The washerwoman could not afford to lose a regular customer, and was, therefore, compelled to remain at home, and forego the enjoyment and recuperation a week's rest would represent to her and her children, sweltering in a stuffy city tenement. This is an example of grinding heartlessness, which is only too common in women of good position. Whatever seeds of kindness may have been implanted in their hearts are blighted by the canker of riches, pride and selfishness. In the taking of holidays we should not forget the claims of others less fortunately circumstanced, and in greater need of a holiday than ourselves. This suggests the fact that in thousands of instances, and with thousands of persons, taking a holiday is only a change in the form of social dissipation and selfish idleness. The frivolity, and rush and ferment of social city life are transferred from the drawing room to the summer cottage. Thousands of people to whom wholesome work would be a wholesome thing take their holidays without a single thought of the happiness they might bring to others, and, incidentally, to themselves, by giving others, otherwise excluded, a chance for recreation and rest.

SIR WILFREDS' HOME-COMING

If Sir Wilfrid Laurier could be spoiled by kindness, could be puffed up with foolish pride, he has been subjected to most persistent and forcible temptations. In the Old Country, at the Colonial Conference, and in public and social circles, he was the head and front of the colonial representatives, primus inter pares, and, not only that, but he commanded conspicuous respect, as a man and a statesman, in all spheres and in all relations, both in the Motherland and on the Continent of Europe. His home-coming and the outburst of welcome, unique in its cordiality and inclusive of all classes and both political creeds, indicate that Sir Wilfrid Laurier is the first Canadian of his day. Canada has good reason to be glad over the safe home-coming of its Premier, who is Premier not only in the official sense, but in the best elements of citizenship and manhood. Since Sir Wilfrid Laurier became the real ruler of Canada, Canada has found herself, and the world has discovered Canada. We have emerged from the condition of a struggling coterie of provinces to the essential status of robust nationhood. No one man in the history of the country has done so much for the country, has represented it so splendidly, or made Canada so proud of its representative at home or abroad, as Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

TRIAL NEARS ITS CLOSE.

Counsel Concludes Arraignment in the Haywood Case.

Boise, Idaho, July 23.—James Hawley, leading counsel for the State of Idaho, presenting the first argument to the jury in the case against William D. Haywood, charged with the murder of former Governor Steunenberg, spoke for nearly eight hours, distributed over three sessions of the court. Even when the session Saturday had extended beyond the customary limit every seat in the court room was occupied and remained so till the last word was spoken.

None listened more attentively to the argument than Haywood, From time to time he took copious notes in a small book and frequently made suggestions to one or the other of his lawyers, seven of whom were in court. Throughout the day Mr. Hawley assumed an almost conversational tone.

The analysis of testimony in contradiction of Orchard's story concluded frequently with the denunciation of witness after witness as a wilful perjuror or intentional falsifier.

Mr. Hawley, in speaking of Orchard's alleged dealings with the mine operators' detectives, said:

"Orchard undoubtedly was trying to secure money from all the sources he could, and I am not going to defend him for his double dealing in taking money from both the Western Federation of Miners and the railroad company. I am not here to paint Harry Orchard in anything but his true colors. There is but one claim we make for him, and that is that he has told you the truth."

When he had spoken nearly six hours, Mr. Hawley reached Caldwell, where, in December, 1905, the preparations for the assassination of Steunenberg with a bomb were afoot. His voice now found a sympathetic note, and as he told of the last moments of the former governor, the crowd leaned forward to catch the speaker's every word.

Mr. Hawley's peroration was impressive. There was no attempt at oratory, but only a strong note of deep sincerity and great earnestness when he pleaded for an honest judgment.

Mr. Hawley did not charge that a majority, or even that many of the members of the Western Federation of Miners were criminals, but that the evil deeds of the officers and of the scum of the organization had brought discredit on the rank and file. The time had come when decent men should rise and make war on the evil influences that were the curse of all labor organizations.

On the adjournment of court until this morning, Mr. Hawley was showered with congratulations.

THE HAGUE CONFERENCE.

Petitions Presented Show Confidence Has Been Inspired.

The Hague, July 22.—At the third plenary sitting of the peace conference on Saturday M. DeBeaufort read a long list of the associations which had sent in addresses and mentioned an offer of a portrait of Emperor Nicholas of Russia to be placed in the hall of knights as the founder of the conference. This was greeted with applause.

President Nelidorff then mentioned by name individuals received by him personally for the presentation of petitions. He added that such manifestations show the confidence the peace conference is inspiring throughout the world, and he expressed the hope that some other generous donator, imitating Andrew Carnegie, would give the means to found an institute of international law.

Louis Renault (France) then read a report on the adoption of the red cross regulations to naval warfare, which was unanimously approved.

"All-Red" Will Go Through.

London, Eng., July 23.—The usually reliable Weekly Sun prognosticates that the all-red route will go through. It points out the papers publishing rumors to the contrary are bitter opponents of the Government.

Bad Men In Toils.

Belleville, July 23.—Two men wanted as members of the gang who committed burglaries and "shot up" Bancroft last spring, have been arrested at Depot Harbor.

GIRLS HAVE FIERCE BATTLE.

English and Canadian Factory Operatives Fight In Earnest.

Kingston, July 22.—The branch of the Dominion Cotton Mills here has been receiving accessories to its working force from the English immigrants arriving at intervals this season. The newcomers were engaged at lower wages than those given the natives, and this fact has had a tendency toward crowding the latter out.

Ill-feeling was engendered, and this culminated in a pitched battle between the English and Canadian girls.

The fight was earnest, and soon got beyond the ability of the management to stop it. The police were brought on the scene, and order was finally restored.

CRUSHED BETWEEN CARS.

Young Englishman Killed on Railway at North Bay.

North Bay, July 22.—Albert Brockway, a young Englishman, was almost instantly killed in the C.P.R. yards here Saturday night. Brockway was boss car cleaner, and at the time of the accident was assisting a switchman coupling cars. He was caught and crushed between two cars.

Brockway recently brought his mother from the old country to keep house for him and was a quiet, hard-working chap.

Japs to Be Tried.

Washington, July 23.—The Department of Justice has directed that the sixty-five Japanese arrested recently at Ounalaska on the charge of illegal killing of seals in Behring Sea, be taken to Valdez, Alaska, to be tried.

KING'S PRIZE WINNER.

Chief Trophy at Bisley Is Captured by Australian.

Bisley, Eng., July 22.—The King's Prize, the most coveted shooting trophy in the United Kingdom, has been won by Lieut. Addison of Australia with a score of 318. Armourer Sergt. Padgett of the Volunteers' Battalion of the East Yorkshire Regiment, scored 319, but was disqualified.

Fall Six Storeys.

Troy, N.Y., July 22.—Two men were killed Saturday afternoon when the flooring of a temporary elevator in the Caldwell, a new apartment house in progress of erection, gave way and precipitated the building material that was being carried to the roof, and the men to the cellar, a distance of six storeys.

Guthrie, Okla., July 23.—Deputy Marshall Morris and Special Officer J. P. Dickson were killed while trying to arrest two negroes, charged with robbing a bank at Sasakwa, I.T.

The Largest Jack Manufacturer in the World Writes about Zutoo

Regarding your Zutoo Tablets I beg to say: I have been a sufferer from headache since childhood and have used all, or nearly all, of the so-called "cures" on the market, till warped by my physician to discontinue their use on account of their bad effects on the heart. Some months since my attention was called to your Zutoo Tablets and I have been using them ever since with the most gratifying results. I find they cure a "sick" or "nervous" headache in a few minutes and leave no bad effect. My family use them whenever needed with equally good results. I have frequently given them to friends who were suffering from headache and they never fail to give quick relief. I find them a good remedy for "sour" stomach as well as headache. I always carry them in my grip on the road and would not be without them at any cost.

Lightning Paralyzed Man's Leg; A Narrow Escape

Warren Taylor, a Burnt River Man, Struck in the Foot by Ball of Fire.

WAS BADLY BURNED

Mr. Warren Taylor, son of Mr. F. Taylor, of Burnt River, had a very narrow escape from being killed by lightning a short time ago.

Mr. F E Taylor and his son and Mr. Thomas Hunter were sitting in house waiting for the storm to pass over, when the lightning struck the roof at the top of the chimney and passed down between the sheeting of the side of the house and entered the room where they were sitting exploding in their midst. Part of the ball struck Warren on the foot splitting the toes and burning the the foot to above the ankled and paralyzing the leg to the knee. The rest of the occupants escaped unhurt and no further damage was done more than to the chimney and the side of the house.

ALBERTA'S CROPS ARE GOOD

Mr. J. McCaig, Formerly of This City, Tells Guelph Mercury of Conditions in Western Provinces

FAILURE IS IMPOSSIBLE

To the many friends of Mr. J. McCaig, in Peterborough, the following report of an interview with him in the Guelph Mercury, will be of interest:

: Mr. J. McCaig, superintendent of city schools in Edmonton, is in the city visiting friends. To the Mercury Mr. McCaig said that the reports giving the west light crops are wrong. Southern Manitoba is not up to the average, but there is an average crop in the north. In both Saskatcewan and Alberta all kinds of crops are good. They are a little later than usual but the growth is phenomenal, and there will be about as large a yield per acre with a rather larger area.

In Alberta the winter wheat is magnificent and the acreage almost double that of last year. Cutting will begin almost immediately. The sugar beet area is also double that of last year.

Mr. McCaig says a crop failure in the west is almost impossible owing to te diversity of climate and resources. Manitoba does not represent the whole of the grain interests and differs from Alberta considerably in crop possibilities and climate.

Speaking of Edmonton itself Mr. McCaig tells of uninterrupted progress. The city has this season 3000 people living in tents owing to the scarcity of houses for new citizens. The building permits for this year are already past the two million mark. He looks for 50,000 people in Edmonton and Strathcona in five years.

"Is it not the case that real estate is high in Edmonton?" he was asked. "Not yet," he said; "the city has everything good ahead of it. Three transcontinental roads are in sight, besides roads to Hudson Bay, and the north country, the deepest and best soil in the world, the Government buildings, the university and affiliated colleges, the high level bridge and all sorts of municipal undertakings, to give employment to labour. Manufactures are not important yet, and there has not been up to the present any chance for large distribution owing to there being no railways going past Edmonton. Wholesale houses are established rapidly now, and the lumbering, milking and pork packing interests are already large. Edmonton is one of the places in Canada that cannot be discounted and furnishes the best of opportunities for the conservative investment of money."

"How about the cattle losses last winter?"

"They were fully as large as was expected among the range stock, but the pure ranch interests are becoming of smaller relative importance year after year. To ranch country is being covered with fall wheat, sugar beets, alfalfa, timothy and other crops and a heavy loss among the ranching remnant does not mean the same thing to the country as it would have meant fifteen years ago."

Mr. McCaig is on his way to Collingwood to visit his old home. Upon his return he will attend lectures in the College of Education, accompanied by Inspector John Ross of Strathcona. Mr. Ross is a brother of Rev. R. W. Ross, of this city.

Nerves Gave Out, Almost In Despair

TWO SEVERE CASES OF NERVOUS PROSTRATION WITH WHICH DOCTORS COULD DO NOTHING CURED BY

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

Mr. Wm. Graham, Atwood, Ont., writes: "My wife had been ill for some time with nervous prostration, and we had two of the best doctors we could get, but neither of them did her any good. She gradually became worse and worse, could not sleep, and lost energy and interest in life. She was almost giving up in despair, when a friend advised a trial of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

"From the first box of this preparation my wife used we noticed an improvement, and after using six boxes she is completely cured, and as well as ever she was—eats well and sleeps well, and feels fully restored. I cannot say too much in praise of this valuable medicine, and am satisfied that my wife owes her life to the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food." This cure is certified to by Mr. C. H. McFarlane, druggist, Atwood, Ont.

Mrs. Abl. Stevens, Burgessville, Oxford County, writes: "Two years ago last November I was run down, and did not know what was wrong. I could not sleep nor eat, and at last my nervous system gave way entirely, and I had to go to bed. The doctor told me I had nervous prostration, and, though he doctored me for some weeks, I did not get any better.

"I then began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and by the time I had used six boxes I was entirely cured. People remarked how well I looked, and I said, 'Yes, and I feel well, that is the best of it, and Dr. Chase's Nerve Food did it.'"

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cures diseases of the nerves in the only natural and effective way—by enriching the blood and creating new nerve force; 50c a box, six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

DAIRY INDUSTRY'S IMPORTANCE

Its Effect Upon the Counties of Peterborough and Hastings—Farmers Are Reaping Rich Rewards

RAPID DEVELOPMENT

Some interesting information of a general character in reference to the dairy industry in the neighbouring county of Hastings and in Peterborough, where similar conditions prevail, is given in an article in the Toronto Globe, from the pen of the special commissioner who is investigating crop and industrial conditions throughout Ontario. He says, in part:—

Belleville, July 19. — Last year somewhat over $1,250,000 in hard cash was distributed by cheese buyers among about 3,000 farmers in the neighbourhood of this city. While the men intimately acquainted with the cheese-making industry see nothing abnormal about the figures, it would seem that the statement is a great tribute to the prowess of the dairy cow as a money-maker. In the meantime, the cows feed in the green meadows of Hastings, Lennox and Addington, Northumberland and Peterborough, the cheese factories are working regularly, the British demand for cheese is good, and this season promises to result in profits fully as large as in 1906. To sum up a story of prosperity, it need only be added that hog-raising in the natural complement of the dairy, and hogs command good prices. It is difficult to estimate the total amount of money made out of hogs, even within a limited area, but a dairy farmer may easily arrange two or three shipments of hogs annually. Though the agriculturists are grumbling, to a certain extent, as a matter of habit, there appears little to trouble them, and the outlook is particularly bright in this district.

Figuring it Out.

It may be of interest to tell of the cheese sold on the Belleville Board, and show how the foregoing figures are arrived at. The product of 53 cheese factories is disposed of in this city, and last year the total amount made by these factories was over 110,000 boxes. The boxes averaged 90 pounds of cheese each, making the total weight 10,440,000 pounds. The average price was 12 cents, bringing the value to $1,252,800. Probably the number of farmers who sent milk to the factories was under 3,000. In this connection it must be remembered that there are in all 90 cheese factories in Hastings county, besides many others in the adjoining counties. Accordingly, it will be safe to state that dairying made millions last year for farmers within a 70-mile radius of Belleville, and when the present season is ended, millions more will have been gathered in. Such statements may sound exaggerated, but the facts can be substantiated by cheese men in Belleville.

The success or failure of dairying depends largely upon the state of pastures. This year these grazing lands along the lake-front are hardly as productive of grass as in some other years, but still there is no marked scarcity of pasture, and a few good showers may yet work wonders with the grass. Back from the lake a few miles, pasture conditions could hardly be improved upon.

Labour Does Not Interfere

As in other places throughout the Province, there is a complaint about the scarcity of labour. From $1 to $1.25 a day, with board, is being paid for farm help.

"Does this labour problem affect the output of the cheese factories?" was asked to-day.

"No; farmers have learned to do without the help," came back the answer. "They have struggled along somehow. There is too much money in cows to allow the labour problem to interfere."

It was stated by an authority that most of the work in connection with the milking of cows was now being done by the men. The woman, upon whom the burden of such work formerly fell, were gradually getting away from it. Such was particularly true of the farms for 35 miles back from the lake. Several milking machines have been tried, but in no instance is their work characterized as successful.

Along the front the number of cows kept on 100-acre farms averages about fourteen, though in the less prosperous districts the number is fewer. So far this years farmers have obtained $1.00 for 100 pounds of milk placed on the stands beside their farms.

About the Dairying Industry

One of the cheese buyers of Belleville, Mr. J. A. Kerr, gave The Globe the benefit of a number of opinions, founded upon many years' experience with the cheese industry.

"Dairying as a specialty for the farmer," commented Mr. Kerr, "seems to be improving all the time. The demand for Canadian cheese is increasing simply because English people are finding it good food."

"Is there any hope for a market in Western Canada?" was asked.

"There is no western cheese market yet. It is hardly worth bothering about so far."

Mr. Kerr said the neighbouring counties, such as Lennox and Addington, were comparing favourably as dairy centres with Hastings. This year he did not think Prince Edward county would attain its usual mark in the cheese line. The farmers of Victoria, in his opinion, were going out of dairying to a great extent. The product of Victoria was not half what it was some years ago. In Victoria more fat cattle were being raised.

"I think," said Mr. Kerr, "this section around Belleville has done all it can for the cheese market. I doubt if the output could be increased noticeably. I do not know of any place where the farmers are more prosperous than right here in the dairy community."

Blake to Resign.

Dublin, July 22.—Edward Blake, member of Parliament for the south division of Longford, is about to resign his seat, owing to ill-health.

Hon. S. H. Blake, who was asked concerning his brother's condition, said he was slowly improving, and his physicians have consented to his sailing for Canada on Aug. 10.

As to the member for South Longford resigning his seat in the British Parliament, Hon. S. H. Blake would say nothing.

Killed on Railway.

London, Ont., July 22.—The body of an unknown man was found on the P. M. tracks yesterday by farmers.

He was evidently a tramp.

The initials "E.H." were tattooed on his arm.

Y.M.C.A. CAMP BOYS ON THEIR TRIP

A Journey Around Stoney Lake Was a Pleasant Feature of Last Week—Interesting Doings Recorded

A SCRIBE'S LETTER

Y.M.C.A. Camp, July 20.—Thursday was an ideal day. In the morning we all boarded the Stoney Lake for our annual lake trip. Needless to say the boys left no one whom they came across at the different stops in doubt as to who they were. Whenever they were not eating Tom's peanuts and candies, they were yelling or singing. It was decided to land for dinner at Julian and there to wait the boat's return the boys climbed to the top of the observation tower on the mountain and ejoyed the beautiful panoramic view obtainable from that point. On the return trip four hats were lost, among them Sleepy's and Soaps'. The favourite song sung during the day was that old classic, "We're here because we're here, because we're here," etc., etc., ad infinitum. It made a great hit. The tune is "Auld Lang Syne."

Yesterday was visitor's day and although there were only about twenty came out to see us, we enjoyed their visit thoroughly. Immediately after dinner one of the young ladies entertained us all with numerous well rendered selections on the organ. Her playing was exceptionally brilliant and enjoyable. Then Tom's gramaphone took the stand and entertained the crowd after which the event of the day took place. The Chippewas, leaders of the baseball league, challenged an All Star team picked from the Tens and Caps. Soap and Goldtooth put up a watermelon for the winners. The game throughout was spendid ball. Buck Dean pitched for the All Stars, and Morgan was again in the box for the Chips. Several brilliant double plays won loud applause from the grandstand, where a good crowd of neighbouring cottagers had joined our visitors. Fortye figured conspicuously both at the bat and on the field. The score in the last innings, as the All Stars went to bat, was 12—5 in favour of the Chips. Then the All Stars went in to win and by exceptional stick handling they pulled out a victory in a most exciting finish. Score 12—11. Both teams played the game of their lives.

After the game the boys with one consent seized upon Soap to put him in the drink. No formal charge was laid against him, but it transpired later that the plain clothes officers of the camp had caught Soap during the game allowing his attention to be too much abstracted from the business in hand, by the ladies' gallery. After his arrest, however, he was allowed to go on suspended sentence on representing that he had on his best trousers.

About 4.30 the boat returned and carried back our visitors amid a chorus of farewells, songs and camp yells. But they came with full baskets and left with them empty and to say that we had a "feed" last night does not adequately express the amount of jam, fruit, cake, nuts, candies, plum, etc., that our smoking lanterns saw disappear. Nor is it all gone yet. Tom complained this morning of the amount of porridge he had to throw away. What did we want with breakfast? We're all alive yet too.

"SCRIBBLER."

P.S.—Seven dandy lemon pies found their way from "down the line" to our grub tent while we were away on our lake trip. They went the way of the fruit cake, and no less speedily. When you want to "hand a lemon" that is the way to do it. S.

First Visit To The Lakes Of Northern Yankee Tourists

Converse About Their Journey to the Haunts of the Fish ---Light House Erected at Clear Lake---Scene From the New Look-out Tower---The Sunday Services ---Many Visitors Over Sunday

Special Staff Correspondent.

Stony Lake, July 22.—Coming up to Stony Lake on the Grand Trunk and steamer Empress on Saturday evening, the conversation between two tourists from the Yankee part of the continent, somewhat amused a quiet listener as the latter sat vigourously puffing the smoke from a quaint corn cob pipe. The tourists, who from their appearances and speech were evidently not from any of the cities along the borderland of the States, but must have hailed for the first time in their lives from the northern portion of that country. The train had scarcely left the station when the attention of the quiet listener was directed to the two. On the Brookside Bowling green a number of Peterborough gentleman had assembled and were enjoying a pleasant game with the bowls.

"What's that game they're playin' on the pasture field?" said one who had his head and shoulders outside the window, intent upon seeing the sights while going through the city, which included the back doors and wood sheds of some few hundred houses. The other who apparently was the encyclopedia for the couple, seemed in no hurry to answer the difficult question.

Finally after the train had wound around several curves and he had been making a desperate attempt to remember, he informed his companion that it was the game called "ping pong," which was played a great deal in Canada and added that he hoped they would introduce it "in our country."

After commenting seriously upon the various sights to be seen between the Bowling Green and Auburn, they espied the Golf Links with with the beautiful little club house on the brow of the hill. The illiterate one admired much the unique costumes of the "farmers" and their sons and daughters, and wondered what they could "be cuttin with scythes on that hill." The other accepted his version and admired the cottage they all lived in.

The curiosity of the two reached its height upon arriving at the lock at Young's Point and it was an unfathomable mystery to them why the "fences" were built and how they would be of any use in keeping back the water. They continued their interesting scrutiny of the objects along the shores of Clear Lake until they arrived at the buoy painted in rings of red and white alternately just below Big Island. Upon inquiry why such distinction was given to that particular water mark, they were told by the man with the corn cob pipe that it was a harbor shop sign.

Night began to fall soon after and during the remainder of their voyage tehy were content to recall reminiscences of the last time they went a fishing on the creek running through the old farm.

Population Increasing

During the past few days the influx of visitors to the lake has been increasing in leaps and bounds. On Saturday afternoon and evening the steamers, Majestic and Empress, were well laden with human freight, who were distributed to all quarters of Stony Lake. Baggage and provisions done up in all sorts and sizes of bundles, packages and soap boxes formed the cargo and those on board adapted themselves to the circumstances. In the evening the temperature lowered considerably and a fresh gale blew from the west. To meet the sudden change in the elements, various means were resorted to. Ladies huddled close to their escorts and both as close as possible to the smoke stack of the steamboat. One gentleman to preserve his new straw hat from the threatening breeze fastened it to his coat with a piece of binding cord used by the farmers for binding sheaves. It was another illustration of the oft repeated proverb, "Necessity knows no law," and no one wondered.

Where Danger Lies

The passengers on the up boats on Saturday were surprised to see a light house, the first to appear on the Kawartha Lakes, erected on the western shore of Clear Lake, and a short distance above Young's Point. The light house has been placed there by the Government in order to protect steamboats coming down the lake on dark nights as it is sometimes very difficult to locate the channel turning towards the Point. The tower was brought here from the Cornwall Canal and is one of three or four that the Government will erect on the route of the Trent Canal. One will also be put up at the head of Clear Lake.

Another recent addition to the artificial beautifying of the lakes is a large Lookout Tower erected on the highest point of Mount Julian. It is stoutly built of lumber with spiral steps up through the interior, well protected with railings. From the summit which is some 30 feet above teh rock the best view of the lake may be obtained. Burleigh Falls on teh west can be seen in the distance; the whole of Clear Lake is also admitted to the eye on the south; McCracken's Landing is visible over the top of Eagle Mount and the upper portions of Stony Lake are also open to view.

The Lookout Tower has already proved popular and from the initials and names inscribed on the lumber composing the stairway a good many have enjoyed the scenery.

Dancing in Vogue

The Juniper Island pavilion has been the most popular spot on the lake during the past week and on Saturday evening in particular a large and jolly crowd assembled to enjoy the dance which was the best of the season. The music was provided by Miss Mollie Meldrum, Miss Julia Choate and Mr. Kenneth Shook. The pavilion at Viamede is also used almost every evening for cards or dancing.

Mr. T W Robinson, proprietor of the Juniper Island store will probably purchase the yacht "Avoca" from Mr. Jas. Acton to use it as a supply boat the remainder of the season.

The friends of Mr. "Bob" McCracken, the veteran caterer at the lake, might be interested to know that he is using a canoe this year which has sailed the lakes regularly every season for the past quarter of a century.

Sunday Observed

Large attendances marked the several services held about the lake yesterday. At 11 o'clock Mr. R J Colville of the West End, Y.M.C.A., Toronto, opened service in the pavilion. During the offertory pleasing vocal solos were rendered by Miss Price, of Kingston, and Miss Schapley, of Toronto. Morning service was held at Burleigh Falls and evening service at Viamede at 3.30 p.m., and St. George's church, McCracken's Landing at 7.30 p.m. According to schedule Song Service was held at Mr. F. Addison's Island in the evening. Next Sunday evening the song service will be held at "Inglestane," Mr. Sutherland's cottage.

A Bevy of Brides

The 55 guests who have located at Viamede, are keeping things moving at that attractive spot, with boating, fishing, bathing and other outside sports during the day, and music, dancing and card parties in the evenings. There is not a dull moment there. On Wednesday evening a progressive euchre party was held which proved to be an enjoyable event, and especially so to those who distinguished themselves by winning the prizes. The three trophies were carried away by Mrs. J. E. Smaltz, of Philadelphia, Pa. Mrs. E. V. Dwyer, St. Catharines, and George Wickett of Port Hope. Although the contest was not an international one, yet the results are indicative of the superior quality of the game as played in Canada.

Time was when Niagara Falls proved a great attraction to the newly married couples, and the wedding notices in the society columns always ended, "The happy couple left for the Falls and points east," but now that Niagara is to be turned into a side hill farm, there is a tendency to plan to spend the honeymoon at the Kawartha Lakes. This is borne out by the fact that no less than eight newly married couples have already visited Viamede, there being four there at one time.

Messrs. Emery of Rochester, and Gibson of Toronto, went the limit with the rod and reel on Saturday, and Mrs. Smaltz of Philadelphia, Pa., captured a four pounder in the morning.

Delightful dances were held in the pavilion on several evenings of last week, at which there were large attendances, and excellent music, furnished by Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Murton of Toronto.

OBITUARY.

MRS. RICHARD THORNTON

After an illness, extending over a period of some months, Mary G. Larke, widow of the late Richard Thornton, passed away this morning at the family residence, 600 George street. The late Mrs. Thornton had been living in Peterborough for the last 13 years, and was one of the city's most highly respected residents. She had been ailing for some time, following a general breaking up of her system, and her death was as a consequence, not wholly unexpected. The deceased was 73 years of age, and was born in Cornwall, England, coming to Canada with her parents when she was eight years of age. They settled in the township of Reach and lived there for a number of years. Fifty-two years ago the subject of this sketch was married to her late husband, and they lived in Orono until about 35 years ago, when they removed to Hope township, and 20 years later came to Peterborough, where their home had been ever since. Her husband predeceased her about a year and a half ago. She leaves to mourn her loss three sons and three daughters, the sons being J. F. of Peterborough, Wesley of Orono, and Chas. B. of Peterborough. The daughters are Mrs. A. W. Callender, Mrs. John Little and Miss Kate, all of whom live in this city. Mr. J. S. Larke, Commissioner for the Dominion of Canada in Australia, is a cousin of the deceased, as is also Mr. Chas. Larke of Cobourg.

The funeral will take place Wednesday at 10 o'clock, when service will be held at the house, following which the remains will be taken to the G.T.R. station and conveyed to Orono, where interment will take place. The funeral services will be conducted by Rev. E. A. Pattison, pastor of the George Street Methodist Church, of which denomination the deceased was a life-long and consistant member.

Two Ancient Landmarks Were Consumed By Fire

Rough Cast Houses at Corner of London and Bethune Streets Burned Last Night—Built in the Fifties.

At midnight blaze last night destroyed two of the oldest of the city's landmarks. They were the two roughcast houses at the corner of London and Bethune streets, which have stood there for over half a century. The fire is supposed to have originated from an ash pile in the woodshed, and before the fire brigade arrived the flames had had a good start, rapidly eating their way through the dry timbers. A frame shed to the rear of one was also consumed, the total loss amounting to about $700. There was $375 insurance on them in the Royal Insurance Company.

It was stated that some neighbours smelt wood burning about 10 o'clock, and if so the flames must have had an advanced start. The firemen soon had two streams of water playing on them, but as the wood was so dry it was with difficulty that they were quenched.

In the house facing on London street there were three families residing. One lived in the front and two in the rear, the latter being English immigrants, who have just recently arrived. Most of the furniture was saved, but a considerable quantity of clothing was consumed. One lady was forced to borrow baby's clothing from a neighbour.

The two houses were purchased some two years ago by Mr. Wm. Langford, Jr. They were among the first erected in Peterborough by an army veteran, and, according to records, were built about 1850. The front part of the London street building was for many years a shoe shop, operated by "Father" Stocker.

The Bethune street dwelling was used once as a polling place, and many a hard contest was fought there in election times. The northern portion of the house was once a match factory, owned by Edmund Allen. The corner building was once a store, and for some 20 years Mr. Mark Wainwright made his home there.

ARE BOGUS $20 BILLS CIRCULATING?

A Local Shoe Dealer's Experience, Which Leads One to the Belief That They Are

WAS TENDERED ONE

A couple of days ago an incident which the gentleman who told it, looks upon as somewhat suspicious, occurred in a local shoes-tore. A man who was a stranger to the proprietor came in and bought a pair of shoes, and tendered a twenty-dollar bill in payment. The bill looked to the shoe-man as if it might not have been genuine, and he was a little suspicious. He informed the purchaser that he could not change the bill, but that he would just slip into the bank and get the change. The other objected to this however, and, taking the bill again said that he would get the change, and left the store for that purpose, apparently, but the strange part of it is that he never came back, and now the storekeeper is wondering whether he missed the sale of a pair of shoes or escaped being roped in with a bogus bill. The latter, in view of the fact that the man did not return when he promised to seems to be the most reasonable solution.

BARNARDO HOME GIRLS HERE

A Party of Eighty-four Came to "Hazel Brae" From England Yesterday—To Be Sent Out This Week

Yesterday morning a party of eighty-four girls arrived in the city for the Barnardo Home. The girls are between six and sixteen years of age, and came from Belleville on a special train, made up for the purpose. The whole party, which included, as well, about 100 boys, arrived in Quebec on Saturday by the steamer Kensington, and was in cahrge of Mr. Owen. They were all brought together on a special train to Belleville, the boys continuing on to Toronto, and the girls branching off to Peterborough.

The passage was fair, though somewhat cold and the girls all arrived in good condition. They will be sent out on Thursday and Friday, to places awaiting them throughout the province. It is anticipated that one further party will be brought to Canada probably during September. There is a good demand for girls and this party will all be placed in a short time.

THE DIVINE ORIGIN OF HOLIDAYS

Justification in the Scriptures for Recreation and Holiday-Taking—Sermon in St. John's

The services at St. John's yesterday were well attended, especially in view of the warm weather and the holiday-theming of the city's population. At the evening service, the sermon was suitable to the season, the subject being work and play, or, rather, recreation and rest. The text was the fifth verse of the eighth chapter of Zechariah—"And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls, playing in the streets thereof." Recreation, the pursuit of pleasure and enjoyment of rest, were shown to be, according to the divine plan and divinely approved, if the conditions were rightly observed. Recreation and enjoyment, taken with a proper spirit—in a generous and unselfish spirit—were commendable and necessary, and could be made a form of worship. But no duties or rights of others should be sacrificed.

The singing was an especial feature of the evening service. At the offertory, Mr. Chandler sang "Be Thou Faithful Unto Death," from Mendelssonn's St. Paul. This beautifully devotional and tuneful composition was sung with splendid devotional spirit, as well as with artistic musical finish and appreciation of its meaning. Mr. Chandler has an exceptionally fine and fluent tenor voice, which last night was in fine fettle and employed with musicianly skill.

REV. CANON DAVIDSON'S ANNUAL HOLIDAYS

Rev. Canon Davidson of St. John's announced to his congregation last night that he would leave the city on Tuesday on a holiday of a month. In his absence, the services on Sundays would be taken by different clergymen, those of Sunday next by Rev. F. J. Sawers of Christ Church Cathedral, Montreal. During the week the offices of a clergyman required by the congregation would be performed by Rev. Dr. Langfeldt of St. Luke's.

BIG STEEL RANGE FOR COBALT MINING CO.

One of the Largest Ever Shipped From the Adam Hall Steel Range Works, Bethune Street

Considerable interest was taken to-day in the shipment of one of Adam Hall's mammoth steel ranges, which has been under construction for some time for a Cobalt mining company. The shipping weight of this steel range is 2,525 pounds. It has twenty pot holes, four ovens and two fire boxes, and special grates. It is intended to be set on a brick on concrete foundation, and has a capacity to cook for a whole army of miners or workmen. The body of this steel range is made of extra heavy, cold, rolled, English steel. The tops are extra heavy cast iron. The linings are heavy, fine brick, and built for long service and durability. The size of the ovens is 24x28x16, and are most perfect bakers. The design and trimmings make it a very handsome as well as effective range.

Dysentry, diarrhoea, cholera infantum and stomach troubles are alarmingly frequent at this time and too often a precious little life is lost after only a few hours' illness. The mother who keeps Baby's Own Tablets prevents stomach and bowel troubles, or if the trouble comes on unawares, the Tablets will bring the little one on safely. Mrs. George Robb, Aubrey, Que., says: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for stomach and bowel troubles with the best results. I feel quite safe when I have the Tablets in the house." A HOT FIGHT OVER THE CHERRIES

Park Street Ladies Used Novel But Effective Means of Defending Their Fruit

The efforts of five boys from 12 to 15 years of age, to secure some very tempting cherries in an orchard on Park street yesterday afternoon, provided considerable amusement for some spectators and anxiety for the owners of the cherries, who for about an hour put up a strenuous fight to protect the fruit from the marauding youngsters. The boys had no sooner commenced to pick the ripe cherries than an old lady and her daughter descended upon the intruders and opened fire upon them with a squirt gun of the kind used for spraying trees. This was effectual and the boys were driven off in disorder but they rallied for a second assault, but were met with a similar reception, with the addition that the daughter augmented the defending forces and, armed with a broom, did good service. The ladies were successful in the end, and the boys had to finally retire, without accomplishing their object.

PETERBORO.

Practically during my whole life (prior to June 1905) I was troubled with terrible pains in my head which I attributed to violent attacks of neuralgia. I tried innumerable headache and neuralgic preparations, but without obtaining the slightest relief. The suffering I endured for a year or more previous to the time I consulted you is indescribable. At times I became delirious through the intense pain, and was obliged to call in a local Physician. Many times morphine was administered to allay the terrible suffering I was undergoing, but this did not give me the slightest relief. A friend advised me to consult your Mr. Babcock, I did so and found out from you that I was suffering from muscular nervous asthenopia, caused by astigmatism. It was remarkable the relief I obtained after the treatment I received, and the wearing of the glasses you prescribed and made for me, since that time I have experienced no difficulty with my eyes, nor have I suffered the slightest return of the old trouble. I cannot help but attribute the ill-health and suffering I experienced as being due to the trouble in my eyes before consulting you. I feel very grateful indeed for the interest taken in my case, as I had almost despaired of even getting any relief. I might also say I consulted opticians in Lindsay and Toronto in reference to my trouble, but obtained no relief. I desire to again express my sincere gratitude to you for the trouble taken in my case, as well as the wonderful cure effected. Yours sincerely

THE STREET CAR MEN IN AMBUSH

Motormen Attacked With Revolvers and Seriously Wounded.

RIOT IN 'FRISCO STREETS

Released Brake of Car and Started It Downhill — Store Was Wrecked—Four Hurt by Falling Timbers—Police Charge the Crowd—Blows Freely Exchanged—Twenty Arrests Made.

San Francisco, Cal., July 22.—A car of the United Railroads in charge of J. Talskeng and Motorman Fellal at Twenty-Ninth and Noe streets yesterday was ready to start on a trip when three men standing in the darkness fifteen yards away opened fire on it with revolvers.

Talskeng had just raised his arm to signal the motorman to go ahead when a bullet smashed his elbow. Almost at the same moment Fellal dropped with a bullet in his thigh.

Another car drew up at the time. The crew left it and took the car with the wounded men to the car barns at 29th and Mission streets. As they turned the corner at that point they saw their car coming down the hill at high speed.

At the turn the runaway car jumped the track and plunged into a haberdashers store, wrecking the building. Sophie Bernstein, daughter of the proprietor of the store, and Ralph D. Hoff, and his wife and child, customers, were painfully cut and bruised by breaking glass and falling timbers.

An immense crowd immediately gathered, and fire and riot calls were turned in. The police reserves charged the crowd and used clubs freely. Twenty arrests were made for rioting. Police Sergeant Lane was hit on the head with a stone and seriously hurt. He fired three shots at the man who threw the missile.

It is supposed that the men who attacked the crew released the brake on the other car and started it down the hill.

YET ANOTHER STRIKE.

Paper Mills at Sturgeon Falls Are Closed Down.

North Bay, July 22.—The Imperial Paper Mills at Sturgeon Falls are closed on account of labor troubles which have been brewing for some time.

The paper-makers were discharged some time ago for refusing to do Sunday work unless paid time and one-half, which they claim was part of the Paper-makers' Union agreement with the mill.

The mill management sent Superintendent Bellinger to the United States to engage non-union paper-makers, and were successful in securing enough to start up one machine.

The introduction of non-union labor in the paper mill caused the union pulp workers to walk out and the entire plant is shut down.

The mill management have made no statement of their position, beyond saying in the local paper, owned by officials of the paper company, that the men do not know what they are striking for. Virtually the paper makers are locked out, and the pulp workers walked out.

President Carey of the Paper-makers' Union is on his way to Sturgeon Falls, and it is hoped for the good of the town that the trouble will be adjusted.

The strike or lockout is a very peaceable one, with no disturbance whatever.

Rumor That They Have Been Pawned—Scandal May Result.

Dublin, July 22.—Sensational rumors are current here in regard to the theft from Dublin Castle a few weeks ago of a portion of the state regalia, valued at $250,000.

Hints are now being thrown out that the gems may soon be "discovered" without any explanation as to where they have been or who returned them.

It is said they have been deposited as security for a loan, and the name of the alleged depositor is freely mentioned in private with hints of a tragic social and semi-political scandal.

Sir A. Conan Doyle, author of the "Sherlock Holmes" stories, is trying to carry out in this case his theories on the detection of crimes by deduction.

THIRTY ONE KILLED IN A COLLISION

Terrible Head-On Collision Between Excursion and Freight.

INJURED NUMBER SCORES

Crowded Cars Smashed to Atoms—Were Completely Telescoped—Passengers In Panic—Harrowing Account by Eye-Witnesses — The Freight Crew Are Blamed for Disobeying Orders.

Detroit, July 22.—Thirty-one killed and half a hundred seriously, some probably fatally, injured, is the result of a head-on collision Saturday morning, near Salem, Mich., 31 miles west of this city. Those killed and hurt were some of the 800 passengers on the annual excursion of the Pere Marquette Railway employes from Iona to Detroit, leaving that town at 6 p.m.

The freight train running behind its orders was the cause of the wreck.

Westward from Plymouth, in a serpentine, gradually sloping path, runs the track along which the heavy freight thundered to meet the ill-fated excursion train. Rounding one of these sudden turns, and leaving the level, one plunges into a deep, chasm-like cut, with sheer walls of earth some 15 feet high on either side. It was here that the two trains came together without warning until both had rounded the curves to be seen too late for any earthly power to prevent a collision.

The passenger train of eleven cars, carrying employes of the Pere Marquette shops at Iona and their families to the Michigan metropolis for their annual excursion, was running probably fifty miles down a steep grade.

It struck the lighter locomotive of the freight train with such terrific force as to turn the freight engine completely around.

Both locomotives were wrecked, but only a few of the freight cars were smashed.

Six cars of the passenger train were piled up in a mass.

Four of the coaches remained on the track undamaged, and were used to convey the dead and injured to Iona.

One coach was entirely undamaged, with only its forward trucks off the rails.

Two coaches were thrown crosswise on the track and lay from bank to bank, five feet above the rails.

Of the baggage car, not enough remained to show where it had been tossed. Portions of baggage-car and freight cars were mere debris.

Freight Crew Blamed.

Responsibility for the wreck is placed upon the crew of the freight train by officials of the road. Officers who arrived at the scene soon after it happened, obtained from the crew of the freight the orders under which it was running, which clearly show that the freight encroached upon the other train's running time.

The excursion left Iona crowded with men, women and children at 7 o'clock Saturday morning. Every family had its lunch basket, and many of the excursionists were eating when the trains collided.

The impact was so great that a number of passengers sitting near the windows of the rear coach were thrown out of the windows to the ground.

There was a panic among the passengers in the undamaged coaches for a few moments.

Then, when the uninjured realized that they had not been hurt they rushed from the cars to the rescue of their friends and relatives, who were pinioned in the wreckage.

Families were scattered among different cars, and there was frenzied searching for missing relatives.

The sight was sickening. People were running around as though mad. For a few minutes it seemed as though they had all gone crazy. Then they began digging the bodies out. Perhaps it was an arm or a leg that was found. One man in his excitement grabbed an arm that protruded from the mass, gave a slight pull, only to find that it was free at the other end.

A young man about 18 years of age was found with both of his legs nearly off and his right arm hanging by the skin. The man begged his rescuers to kill him, and said: "For God's sake, shoot me. I can't stand this." Two men worked for an hour before the unfortunate man was gotten out, and he died five minutes later.

Rescuers took out a woman of middle age terribly mangled, with the left leg completely severed above the knee. As she lay on the blood-soaked grass faintly breathing her last, a little boy of a dozen years sank beside her, crying: "Mother, mother," but she died without recognizing him.

After the wreck one woman with her arm nearly severed from her body and the clothes nearly stripped from her body was moaning for her child. "If my baby is killed then let me die, too," she kept repeating, "for my little girl is all that I have left in the world."

Soon after the wreck farmers gathered from all over the surrounding country, bringing food, water and liquor with them, and soon there was a crowd of over 1,000 people on hand. Everyone was busy, either attending to the wants of the injured or assisting in getting injured or dead from the demolished cars. Cushions were strewn along the banks alongside the track and the dead and injured were placed on them.

Steam Yacht Wrecked.

Cornwall, July 22.—The big steam yacht "Say When" of Cleveland, Ohio, owned by J. A. Jacobs of Montreal, the Cobalt millionaire, is high and dry on her beam ends on Baker's shoal, opposite Aultsville, where she was driven during the big storm on Saturday.

The "Say When" was bound for Detroit, with Mr. and Mrs. Jacobs and a party of friends, who, along with the crew of 12 men, were rescued by a tug. The Donnelly Wrecking Co. of Kingston have been asked to pull off the wrecked yacht.

RIOTING REPORTED FROM SEOUL

Attempt to Burn Railway Station and Police Building.

JAPANESE TROOPS ON GUARD

Machine Guns In the Streets—May Explode Powder Magazines — New Emperor Shows Little Strength—Rioters Shooting From Windows—Business Entirely Suspended—Talk of Annexation.

Seoul, July 22.—A proclamation was published at 5 o'clock Saturday evening warning the people to remain in their houses. At dusk machine guns were entrenched behind breastworks built in the streets approaching the palace, in anticipation of a night attack, which did not, however, materialize.

There was some outward improvement in the situatioin yesterday and Gen. Hazegawa, commander of the Japanese troops in Korea, withdrew one of the machine guns from the palace square. He regards the situation now as being well in hand.

The two Government arsenals are guarded by Japanese soldiers, although the number is not large, and they are under orders to explode the magazines if they find themselves unable to defend them.

The Korean troops are frequently harangued by civilian agitators at the entrances to the barracks. The Koreans possess 90,000 rounds of ammunition, of which Gen. Hazegawa, who has only 2,300 troops in Seoul, has been unable to demand the surrender.

The Japanese commander is not yet able to assure safety in the streets, but he is making the best use possible of his men, while awaiting reinforcements, which are now on their way from Shimonoseki.

Marquis Ito, the resident general at Seoul, will not consent to the enforcement of martial law, but he is regarrisoning the country so far as possible as a precaution.

The new Emperor's first edict orders the punishment of the Korean deputation to The Hague.

The new Emperor is performing his duties in a purely perfunctory manner. He is said to show little strength of character, and the outlook for his administration of public affairs is not promising.

Reign of Terror.

Tokio, July 22.—Late advices from Seoul say that the rioting is growing in magnitude. Attempts to burn the railway station and the police building were frustrated by prompt action by the Japanese police and gendarmes.

Rioters are shooting widely out of windows, and two Japanese are reported to have been killed.

Murderous assaults are frequent and the city is verging almost on a reign of terror. Business is completely suspended.

The feeling is growing that the time has come to put a finishing touch to Japanese superiority over Korea.

Flaherty In Great Form; Oshawa Easy For Locals

Defeated Team From Carriage Factory Town 16 Runs to 2---Visitors Two Scores Were Donations---Homesters Did Some Great Stick Work.

What Manager Johnston's aggregation of swatsmiths did to Oshawa's collection of ball-tossers in Saturday's melee at the Riverside ball yards was a shame. Open work bell by a patch work team is, perhaps, the most concise characterization of Oshawa's part in the week-end matinee, the locals lassooing the decision—16 runs to 2.

The visitors were lucky indeed to get away without being blanked, as the two counters they did acquire were the result of direct donations. Outside of Smith, who got three of the six hits credited to the invaders, the timber swinging of the lads from the carriage factory town wouldn't have dented a feather bed, and they had the original hitless wonders wilted. In the field they played a weird game, obese errors and egregious sins of omission formed a screen around the occasioned bits of real work, making the affair tedious. In addition to the muffs there were several bad cases of throwing the ball about, which, while not costly in the way of errors, marred the work.

The attendance at Saturday's game was good, considering the fact that many thought the contest would have been postponed on account of the heavy deluge, which fell early in the afternoon. But despite the heavy rain the grounds were in good condition, with the exception of one or two places.

Smith started out to do the mound duty for the visitors, but he only lasted four innings, when he was sent to the stable and replaced by "Cy" Powers. During his tenancy on the hill he was rounded up for six safeties, and his proneness to handing out passes proved very costly, as four of his six gifts eventually were turned into runs. "Cy" Powers, his successor, who is a wrong-side heaver, was also prodded freely, and his control of the saliva-soaked spheroid was little better than Smith, for he issued three complimentaries, two of which developed in runs, and allowed seven hits, two of which were good for extra cushions.

"Yebbie" Flaherty was sent in by Manager Johnston, and certainly pitched splendid ball. He was the stumbling block in the path of the visitors, they being helpless before his curves and shoots. He had everything and broke the pail over the plate at will. He had a little trouble in finding the plate in the early part of the contest, but no to any great extent; only three men walking. Only six hits were corralled off his delivery, three of which went to Smith.

The fielding features of the contest were three fast double plays by the locals, and one by the visitors, and the work of Connors, Burns and Haliburton.

Comey Burns carried off the batting honours with four hits out of six times up, while Smith had three out of four and Connors, Graham and Burridge two each.

"Wallie" Parnell handled the indicator and his work was very satisfactory.

The locals tagged and fyled the game in the first session. Burns, the first man up, singled to right and went to second on a passed ball. Cheatham was given free transportation to first. Burridge hit safe, scoring Burns. Connors drew four wide ones and pilfered second. Haliburton got life at first, when Bowden dropped Cawker's throw. Both Burridge and Connors crossed the recording station on the play. Haliburton was thrown out trying to steal second. Callaghan fanned. Graham singled and got second when Garrow dropped Andrew's throw. Quinlan ended the innings by striking out. Four runs.

There was nothing doing in the second, but with one down in third Callaghan was given a pass to first. He stole second and negotiated third on a passed ball. Graham's sacrifice sent in the runner. Quinlan fanned. One run.

Flaherty opened the fourth session by walking. Burns singled to left, advancing the runner. Cheatham sked o Andrews. Burridge dropped a Texas leaguer to centre, sending in Flaherty. Connors hit safe and both runners tallied. Haliburton strolled. Connors was thrown out trying to pilfer third. Callaghan got first on a fielder's choice. Graham concluded the innings by going out via Andrews to Bowden route. Three runs.

Quinlan was the first man up in the fifth and fanned. Flaherty got life on Bowden's misplay. Burns singled advancing the runner third. Cheatham rolled one toward "Cy" Powers and Flaherty scooted across the pentagon. Andrews threw to catch Burns napping at third, but Cawker let the throw get away from him and "Corney" tallied. Burridge ended the innings by flying out to Hamly. Two runs.

Connors opened the local's portion of the sixth with a pretty hit to left, which by good running he stretched into a double. Haliburton drew four and walked. Callaghan filed out to Cawker. Graham doubled to left, Rolph losing the ball in the sun, both runners tallying. Quinlan fanned. Flaherty singled, scoring Graham. Burns flew out to Bowden. Three runs.

The locals were blanked in the seventh, a fast double play by Bowden and Smith spoiling their chances.

In the eighth Callaghan beat out a slow one to Cawker. Graham walked. Quinlan fanned and Flaherty lifted one to Cawker. Burns singled to right, sending in both runners. Burns took second on the throw in, and scored when Andrews threw wide to Cawker to catch him stealing. Cheatham struck out. Three runs.

Oshawa looked dangerous in the first when Burns dropped Bowden's fly and Flaherty passed Garrow and Andrews with no one gone, but a fast double play by Burridge and Haliburton pulled the locals out of a bad hole. Cheatham retired the side by throwing Hamly out at the plate.

In Oshawa's half of the second session Cawker hit to Cheatham, who fumbled the sphere and the runner was safe. Rolph fanned. Cawker took second on a wild pitch and scored on Smith's double to left. Sweet was passed to first. Bowden flew out Haliburton and Hamly's spiral was gathered in by Burns.

Oshawa went out in one, two, three order in the third, but in the fourth with one down, Connors allowed Rolph's fly to get away from him, and he tallied on singles by Smith, Sweet and Bowden. Things again assumed a serious aspect, but everything passed off nicely, for Hamly flew out to Haliburton and Garrow fanned, ending the session.

For the next five innings Manager Galbraith's outfit were retired in one, two, three order.

THE TORONTO TEAM AGAIN LEADS

At the Head of the Eastern League—Buffalo Had Three Defeats in a Row

The Baltimores by administering defeat to Buffalo on Saturday, and the Newark Sailors, by trimming the Herd again yesterday, placed Toronto in the first place in the Eastern League, with a lead of 14 points over Buffalo. That lead should be increased during the next few days. Buffalo is due for a couple of defeats from the Newark team, while Toronto should take a majority from the Jersey City Skeeters.

SOME SURPRISES IN LACROSSE

Shamrocks Trimmed Tecumsehs and "Caps" Went Down to Defeat in Toronto—Cornwall Won

Some surprises were furnished in the N. L. U., on Saturday, when the Tecumsehs went down to defeat before the Shamrocks, in Montreal, by a score of 8—5. In Toronto the Capitals lost by 8-7, and the Cornwall team trimmed the Nationals by a score of 5—2.

NEW HANDMADE LACE.

Princess Applique as a Trimming For Summer Gowns.

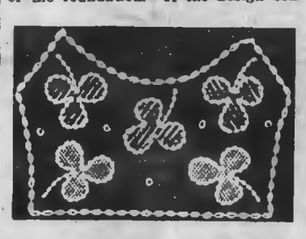
Never before has there been such a demand for handmade lace as an accessory to the toilet, but it is very expensive and out of the reach of most of us. In the easily made princess applique the woman of limited means has an opportunity of providing herself with everything requisite or in adding to a slender income by making it for others.

It is absolutely necessary that the net and materials used be of the very best, and even then they will cost very little.

There are two kinds of net sold for the purpose—fine for personal use and coarser for household articles.

The braids are made in various widths and degrees of fineness to suit individual taste. Of course for delicate designs very fine braid will be used, while for the bolder designs a coarser and wider one will be employed. The lace thread matches the braid in fineness, while all can be obtained in either white or cream color.

When tacking the net over the pattern be careful to have it perfectly smooth and flat and without creases. Tack all around the edges and here and there throughout, so that the net will be kept in place over the pattern, and keep the long stitches at the back of the foundation. If the design contains flower sprays the stems may be worked in darning, commencing well up to the flower pattern, so that the ends will be concealed beneath the braid, and working downward to the end of the stem and then up again to the beginning.



SIMPLE PATTERN FOR PRINCESS LACE.

Care must be taken to have the stems gracefully curved. The braid can be cut where necessary for the neatness of the work and the ends turned in and sewed down in place.

The illustration shows a very simple design for the beginner, worked on the new shape cuff, and the materials used. The design is so simple that the merest tyro will find no difficulty in drawing it with pen and ink on a piece of white, somewhat tough, but pliable paper cut to the shape.

Tack the net carefully over the lines as illustrated. Then remove the net and darn in the centers with embroidery cotton.

The little rings can be bought or made by winding cotton round a small mesh and then working over this ring a close row of ordinary buttonhole stitch and then sewed into place. Be careful to sew the braid on the outside of the curves first. When the sewing is completed press the work on the reverse side with a hot iron.

Indians Are Pagans Still.

Rev. J. Samans, Indian agent, has just completed his annual trip among the Indians on the Lake of the Woods and the Lake Winnipeg districts, and he states, in an interview at Winnipeg, that the Indians both in Western Ontario and Manitoba as far as he has visited them were in the best condition, having plenty of money, an abundance of food and being in an excellent state of health. The Indians in the Lake of the Woods, he says, are still pagan, and the attitude of these natives to religion is quite decided. They refuse absolutely to allow their children to attend any school where religion is taught in any form to any extent. They have no objection to their children learning to write, read and cipher, but they are most determinedly opposed to the teaching of religion. The best means of dealing with the children of the Indians are in the boarding schools. There are schools at Norway House, Kenora, Shoal Lake, Fort Frances and at Port Alexander. In the Lake of the Woods district there is much more evidence of the influence of liquor, and its harmful effects of the natives of the country.

A BUSY SEASON IS IN PROSPECT

Quaker Oats Company's Orders Are Coming in Early and Steady Work is Assured

In another column in the Examiner to-day, an advertisement, calling for additional girls at the mills of the Quaker Oats Company appears. In inquiring as to the reason for the necessity for additional help at this time of the year, the Examiner learned from the manager that the orders were coming in this year much earlier than usual, and in view of this fact it is anticipated that the work will be continuous. That so many orders are being received at the present time is a guarantee, practically, of a more than usually busy autumn and winter. Girls looking for employment will doubtless appreciate this fact.

DROWNING FATALITY.

Man Swims Behind Boat With Rope Round His Neck.

St. Johns, Que., July 22.—Two men named Gamache and Dextras started to row to Isle Aux Noix, 12 miles south of here. When about a mile and a half out Gamache suggested to his comrade that he would swim behind the boat. He then tied a small rope around his neck and got into the water, the rope tied to the boat. Gamache was swimming behind the boat when the rope broke and Gamache sank to the bottom, strangled, and drowned.

Man Shoots His Wife.

Sunderland, July 22.—Adam Lodwick of Vallentyne's Corners, about 4 1-2 miles west of this place, shot and killed his wife on Saturday. Lodwick has been in a low state of health during the last few months.

While his wife was in bed with a four weeks old infant in her arms, he procured a shotgun and placed the muzzle close to his wife's face and literally blew off the top of her head. The baby was not injured. Lodwick was found in an unconscious condition, seated in an arm chair.

Dr. Blanchard was sent for, and after a few hours Lodwick recovered sufficiently from a bottle which the doctor found to be a preparation he had left for Lodwick to take for his nerves.

He was lodged in jail here in the evening and will be brought before Magistrate Glendinning to-day at 4 o'clock.

Found Body With Revolver.

Hamilton, July 22.—Yesterday afternoon two small boys found the body of a respectably-dressed man on the mountain, not far from the head of Sherman avenue. The body had been lying there for several weeks, and was badly decomposed. A revolver had been thrust under one of his legs. There were three discharged cartridges and one undischarged in the revolver. The body was in such a state that it could not be recognised, and the clothes could not be searched. It was apparently that of a man between 50 and 60 years of age, and was dressed in a grey suit. Coroner White will hold an inquest. The clothes will be searched to-day. No one could be found who would tackle the job yesterday.

Completes His Destruction.

Kenora, July 22.—Hugh McArthur, the Paisley, Ont., man who became suddenly demented on Thursday last, seriously stabbing himself with a large jack-knife in four places, threw himself out of the upper storey of the hospital Saturday night and was instantly killed.

FARMER'S AWFUL DEED.

Kills His Family With an Axe and Is Himself Shot.

Muncie, Mich., July 22.—Henry Scutcheon, a farmer about 50 years of age, living near this village, ran amuck with an axe yesterday, killing his invalid son, his wife and her foster father.

Scutcheon was afterwards shot by Henry McClellan, a neighbor, whom the crazed murderer also attacked.

The dead are: Henry Scutcheon, Polly Scutcheon, his wife, and the 10-year-old son. George Anning, Mrs. Scutcheon's foster-father.

The Scutcheon family had always been a happy one, except for the cloud which the son's invalidism cast over the family.

Yesterday, with no warning, as far as known, Scutcheon murderously attacked his son with an axe. He crushed the boy's head frightfully. When his wife interfered he turned on her and pursued the screaming woman from their house to the road, where he knocked her dead with the implement. He then rushed back to the house and murdered Anning.

Next he tried to destroy himself. He gashed his throat and wrists with a razor and took paris green. His wounds did not weaken him and the poison did not take immediate effect. Axe in hand he returned to the road where he had felled his wife a few moments before. The first blow did not kill her, and she had been carried into the house of Henry McClellan nearby. McClellan rushed to another neighbor's for help.

When Scutcheon found that his wife was in the McClellan home alive he smashed in a window with the axe, jumped through it and again attacked her. This time he crushed her skull. He left the McClellan home and returned to his own home, but when McClellan returned from his search for help, the crazed man came out and started toward him, saying: "I want you, too."

"I will shoot you if you come across the road," replied McClellan, who had armed himself with a shotgun.

Despite the warning Scutcheon came across with murder in his glance. Thereupon McClellan shot him dead.

SKYSCRAPER SUICIDE.

Man Plunges to Death From Twelfth Storey in Chicago.

Chicago, July 22.—Henry C. Berg, 3,016 Groveland avenue, plunged to his death from the twelfth floor of the Chamber of Commerce building on Saturday.

The suicide occurred while an inquest was being held over the remains of Miss Anna Normoyle, who leaped to death from the fourteenth floor.

The latest victim of "sky-scraper suicide mania" was a retired grocer, 50 years old, who courted death because of business worry. He leaped from almost the same spot where F. M. Mitmann, a dancing teacher, stood ten years ago, when after putting a bullet through his brain, he toppled off the railing to death below.

Ingersoll, July 22.—The Thames street crossing of the Grand Trunk was the scene of a fatal accident Saturday night, the victim being William McIntyre, about 30 years of age, a recent arrival from the old country. He was struck by an east-bound freight train.

Some Men Get Up Six Times

during the night because their bladder is so inflamed that it will not retain more than a tablespoonful of urine. Some old men, especially, urinate twenty-five times a day. These are the men who need Bu-Ju—the Gentle Kidney Pill. The first few pills gave relief. Acid urine is neutralized—the delicate membrane, lining the bladder, is soothed—and the kidneys are strengthened and healed. Spontaneous Welcome For The Premier At Ottawa

Thousands of Citizens of the Dominion Capital Gathered to Show Their Pleasure at Laurier's Return Home

THE GREATEST ENTHUSIASM WAS MANIFESTED

Examiner Special.

Ottawa, July 22.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier was welcomed home last night by thousands of citizens. The streets between 7 o'clock, the hour of his arrival, and the time he was escorted to his home on Laurier avenue, were almost impassable.

The Central Station was specially decorated by the G. T. R. authorities and when the Premier reached there from Montreal there was tremendous cheering for a time.

He was met at the station by Mayor Scott and others and a procession formed, going along Rideau, Wellington, Bank Sparks and Elgin street, to the city hall, where the civic address of welcome was read.

Music for the occasion was furnished by a trained choir of three hundred voices and by the band of the Governor General's Footguards.

Everyone commented on the spontaneous warmth of the welcome, all, irrespective of politics, being glad to see Canada's first citizen back in his home once more.

Police Called To Stop A Scrap Between Preachers

Trouble in B. M. E. Church in Windsor — Deposed Preacher Refused to Allow Successer to Take Charge.

AN INTERESTING CASE

Windsor, Ont., July 22.—The presence of the police was all that prevented trouble yesterday morning and last night at the services of the B. M. E. Church between Rev. Mr. McGowan and Rev. Mr. Davis, the latter recently appointed to succeed Mr. McGowan, and the representative adherents of the two pastors. Rev. Davis secured possession of the pulpit in the morning. When Rev. McGowan came in and started toward the pulpit, pandemonium ensued. The police interfered and finally quieted the large congregation. Last night Rev. Mr. McGowan was on hand early and held the fort. The police prevented any trouble. The dispute will have to be settled by the courts. The case is one of the most interesting which has arisen in the history of the B. M. E. conference. Mr. McGowan, it is alleged, is guilty of insubordination. He was expelled by the conference which met in Brantford last month, but refused to give up his church. Then the case was taken to the courts, but no decision could be secured. Finally trial by Church Committee was resorted to. Three charges were laid by Bishop Washington, and in each the committee brought in a verdict of guilty. They held that McGowan was guilty of maladministration, insubordination and falsehood. In the first, it is alleged that he forbade the raising of collections to meet annual conference claims; in the second, that he refused to attend conference after notice; and in the third, that he misrepresented himself as the pastor of the church after his appointment had been annulled. The new pastor is now in charge, but the question is, can he hold the fort?

Commence Work On The New Street Railway Wharf

Department of Public Works to Build Landing Place at Once — New Wharf Will be 40 Feet Long

A GREAT CONVENIENCE

Work will be commenced at once upon the erection of the new wharf at the foot of the street railway line. Mr. John Robson has been appointed foreman in charge of the work, which will be carried on under the direction of Mr. J. G. Sing, chief engineer for this district for the Department of Public Works of the Dominion. The new wharf will extend about forty feet below the present wharf, and it will give ample accommodation for the present traffic. It will be constructed, too, in such a way that an extension can easily be made.

The wharf at this point is being used more frequently all the time, and the erection of the new landing place will be a great accommodation. There is a good depth of water at the present wharf, but it is not easy of access, and is too small. Mr. R. R. Hall, M.P., recognizing the necessity for a more commodious landing place, took the matter up with the Department of Public Works, and pointed out that the growing importance of the river traffic demanded a better wharf, and his representations had the desired effect. The engineer was sent to investigate the conditions, which were found to be as described, and the decision to build the wharf followed.

Work will be prosecuted as rapidly as possible, and it is expected that in a short time the new landing place will be ready for use.

A PALATIAL YACHT WRECKED

In Bad Storm She Struck Reef—Passengers and Crew Had a Narrow Escape

WAS A PRIVATE YACHT

Examiner Special.

Ottawa, July 22.—Word has just reached here that the palatial $30,000 steam yacht, "Say When," of Cleveland, O., on her way from New York to Cleveland, with a party of 21, including the crew, aboard, is ashore 20 miles east of Cornwall. In a bad hail and wind storm, she struck on either a rock or reef some 200 yards from the shore. Her port-holes were open, but as the water was not over four or five feet deep, there is not likely to be very serious damage, the likely to be very serious damage. The passengers and crew, using small boats, all got to shore safely. The accident happened near Aultsville, where there was a bad storm and where two or three barns were destroyed by lightning. It is understood that the Donnelly Wrecking firm of Kingston is now on its way to pull the vessel off the rock. It is thought that, unless a hole has been stove in the bow, the damage is not very great. Part of the gunwale is under water. The yacht is finished in mahogany, and in equipment is a very fine one.

Warsaw Dairymen Not Getting The Best Results

Cow Testing Returns Show That Not as Much Milk Per Cow is Being Received as in Some Other Places.

THE REMEDY SUGGESTED

Examiner Special.

Ottawa, July 23.—Two comparisons of milk and fat yield in the Cow Testing Associations organized by the branch of the Dairy and Cold Storage Commissionar are of peculiar interest.

In the Coaticook, Que., association June test, 128 cows gave a total yield of 3,412 lbs. of butter fat, but in the St. Prosper Association during the same period 124 cows gave a total yield of 4,002 lbs. of fat, or 500 pounds more. The average yield per cow at Coaticook was 26.6 lbs. fat, and at St. Prosper, Que., 32.3 lbs of fat per cow in 30 days.

Did you catch that point? In one association a lot of 124 cows yielded an additional 500 pounds of butter fat over the total product of another lot of 128 cows in another association. This is equivalent to at least one hundred and forty dollars, representing the amount of hard cash that the 128 cows might easily have returned to their owners more than they did—and that just in 30 days. A simple word of advice that means thousands of dollars extra into the pockets of our farmers is just this: Get rid of the poor cows, and feed the pretty good cows more liberally.

At Warsaw, Ont., 199 cows gave a total yield during the June test, of 152,850 lbs. milk, but at North Oxford Ont., the same weight of milk within 45 pounds was produced by 147 cows; in other words, 52 cows fewer need have been milked and cared for in the Warsaw Association to bring as much return. What a distinct saving of energy this hot weather there might be if the general average production were better. The average yield increases quickly when the poor cows are disposed of. The poor cows can quickest be detected just as soon as a record is kept of the production of each cow in the herd. Cow Testing Associations are of immense benefit in this regard.

Lindsay Has Another Startling Sensation Now

Big Case of Fur Smuggling is Reported From That Town—Some Arrests Are Expected Hourly.

SHIPPED FURS AS WOOL

Lindsay, July 22. — The town is stirred with another sensation, that promises to rival the thrilling incidents of the counterfeiting cases.

Only a few days have passed, since Lindsay was heralded as the centre of the operations of a gang of bogus money makers and passers, and some well known citizens were arrested and cast behind iron bars.

Right on the heels of these sleuths who ran these men to earth, have come others. They are working on another get-rich-quick scheme, this time from furs, which has been developing for several months into extensive proportions.

Lindsay is looked upon as a centre which game wardens of the province have been working to change the fur-bearing animals of the Algonquin Park into cold cash.

Certain Grand Trunk officials may also be asked for explanations.

Followed the Scent

The scent is being followed hotly, and detectives are at work trying to trace a connection between the Government preserves in the north, Lindsay as a stopping off place for the furs, and Toronto as the end, where the pelts illegally obtained, were sold at figures that meant a fair profit to the original game men, the middlemen and the fur dealers.

The trail has become so hot that a resident of the district is said to have disappeared. He is wanted very badly, and when he shows up, will be asked to explain his frequent trips north to secure "wool," and his equally frequent trips to Toronto to dispose of that "wool."

A Constable's Nose

It was the nose of Chief Constable Jones that supplied the clue—from a bundle of this "wool" from the north country.

The chief constable hasn't travelled in these back districts for nothing. He knew the scent of a fresh pelt from the scent of the shearings of sheep.

Railway officials can't fool him either, and that is why they may be brought into play a part on the centre of the stage before long.

The clue was obtained in an interesting way on a train running into Lindsay.

An arrest took place at Fenelon Falls a short time ago, and the prisoner was tried and sentenced to spend a term in the Central Prison, Toronto.

Chief Constable Jones, as was his duty, took charge of the prisoner to convey him to the Provincial capital, and in the same train rode Police Magistrate Dixon and another man, the man who lives near Lindsay and goes wool-gathering. The latter was carrying a bundle of "wool."

Detected the Odor

To those who know, a bundle of fresh pelts has an odor in no wise like that. Constable took another sniff and edged a little nearer.

"Wool, eh! Not much," said Mr. Jones to himself, and took another whiff.

That bundle of "wool" was salted pelts!

There are times when it is quite proper to carrry valuable furs like these to Lindsay or any other place. For instance a bear or a mink or a marten skin from the wild forest is not limited to the "close season." A beaver or otter, however, must be left to itself until 1910, while a muskrat has a free life until the first of December.

There was something else suspicious about it all. Chief Constable Jones had an idea that some of the furs were not only out of season, but dwelt originally in Algonquin Park, where every animal is held as sacred as the cat of Egypt.

The Chief Constable gathered in that woolly parcel and kept it near him until the train stoped at Lindsay. The owner of that parcel made him more suspicious, for when the town was reached, he was nowhere to be seen, nor has he yet appeared.

The Parcel Was Missing

The package it was thought best to leave for safe keeping at the railway station and both the constable and Magistrate, who was informed of his suspicions, instructed the railway officials to keep it safely guarded, and not let it out of their possession on any account.

The constable then journeyed to Toronto and had a conference with the superintendent, Mr. Tinsley, at the Parliament Buildings.

When he called for the parcel on his return to Lindsay he found that it had been opened and the pelts extracted. There was some wool in the parcel. The original holder was still nowhere to be seen.

Government is Investigating

Then the Provincial Government started an investigation. They are after the hides that are lost, and the railway men who allowed them to be tampered with, for the missing "wool" gatherer, and other intermediaries; and for the Government game wardens in the far north who are suspected of destroying the very animals they were appointed to protect and carrying on a profitable deal by forwarding them to agents in Toronto. The latter it is understood, are also under surveillance, and the whole case will be sifted to the bottom.

The town will not be surprised if several arrests are made.

The Provincial Superintendent of Game and Fisheries, Mr. Edwin Tinsley, when seen this morning admitted that the Government was investigating charges against several parties for killing animals in the Algonquin Park and shipping the furs to Toronto by way of Lindsay. Pending developments which are hourly expected he declined to discuss the case.

MR. JUDD'S ROLE

Mayor Judd, of London, has been termed by that Conservative paper the Toronto Telegram, the "lord high executioner." Perhaps it would be more correct to say, suggests the London Advertiser, that Mr. Judd is merely the official who keeps the axe sharpened for the executioner, prepares the victims for the guillotine, and makes the ante-mortem arrangements for the funeral. The executioner is none other than Premier Whitney himself.

Mr. Judd has been kept pretty busy since his party got into office at Toronto. Three officials, each doomed by the Government before trial, have passed through his hands. He has not been guilty of a single blunder. First there was Mr. Bastedo. That gentleman held a position in the Government building at Toronto too good for a Liberal, and Mr. Judd was instructed to prepare him for execution. He was promptly prepared. Mr. Vanzant stood in the way of a certain reverend gentleman getting the governorship of the Toronto jail. The axe sharpening process was resumed and off went Vanzant's head, and into the jail went the reverend gentleman. So well had Mr. Judd performed what was required of him in these two cases that when it was decided to get rid of Thomas Macdonald as registrar of Dundas County, no one but Mr. Judd was thought of for the rite of preparation. Now, Dundas has a new registrar.

It would be unfair, however, to place the responsibility upon Mr. Judd. The spoilmen of the party demanded the heads of these officials, and the Government passed the sentence. Mr. Judd was chosen to give semblance of formality to the Government's decrees. He had no hand in shaping them. The spoilmen were the accusers; the administration was the judge, jury and executioner. Mr. Judd merely attended to the preliminaries of the scaffold, but his work, such as it was, he performed with entire satisfaction to his employers. He has naturally the right to the feeling of pride which glows in every man who contemplates a neat job of his own, but it is the Whitney Government that should get the most of the credit.

Hon. Edward Blake, M. P., the great Canadian jurist, and man of brains, has, it is said, resigned his seat in the British House of Commons, and been invalided home. He loves Ireland well, but when he becomes too ill to fight for her rights, it is natural that he should come to Canada to spend his last days in his native land. He is four years beyond the three score years and ten, yet his intellectual "eye is not dim, nor his natural force abated," and he remains one of the greatest jurists this continent has produced, still he is enfeebled in body and greatly in need of rest. While, under these circumstances, he is glad, no doubt, to come to rest in his home land, he is doubtless grieved and pained that he is compelled to forego his large share in the fight for Irish Home Rule, which he has been helping wage for the past fifteen years, before the victory is won.

ONTARIO'S MINING DEVELOPMENT

The last report in reference to the mining industry of Ontario shows that it is very sensibly developing. The production of nickel from the deposits of the Sudbury region reached the large aggregate of 10,932 tons, valued in the matte at $3,836,419, while of copper the output was 5,940 tons, worth $998,548. The steady growth of this branch of the industry has placed Ontario indisputably at the head of the nickel-producing countries of the world. The development of the silver-cobalt area discovered on the line of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway in 1903 has gone on with great rapidity. The yield of silver which in 1904 was 206,875 ounces, increased in 1905 to 2,451,356 ounces, and in 1906 to about 5,400,000 ounces. The total value of the silver produced from the Cobalt mines up to the end of 1906 was upwards of $5,000,000. Late in the season new discoveries of silver-cobalt ore were reported from points on the Montreal river 30 or 40 miles northwest of Cobalt, and if, as seems probable, these reports should be verified, the silver-bearing area will be materially enlarged. The chief source of iron ore continues to be the Helen mine in the Michipicoten region, but at Bessemer, in the county of Hastings, and at Radnor mine, in the county of Renfrew, important deposits of magnetite are being opened up. Shipments from the former are being made to blast furnaces at Midland and Sault Ste. Marie. The magnetic ore bodies at Moose Mountain, in the township of Hutton, are also under development, the branch line of the Canadian Northern to the mines being nearly finished. The other substances, both metallic and non-metallic, in the long and varied list of mineral products of Ontario, have been produced in about the usual quantities, except petroleum, which has decreased, and natural gas, which has largely increased.

EDITORIAL NOTES

It is to be hoped that Mr. Borden will tell us what his idea of "adequate protection" really is.

Mayor Judd of London, must have been selected as axe-sharpener-in-chief to the Whitney Government, on account of his name — it gives a sort of Juddicial tone to the proceedings.

The Mail and Empire describes Sir Wilfrid Laurier's speeches as "silly and vainglorious." Why show spleen so plainly? Why remind us of the fox who disparaged the quality of inaccessible grapes?

Mr. Commissioner Snow, who was employed to decapitate Principal Gardiner, of the Brantford Institute for the Blind, after a long delay, has made his finding, that the charges were not proven. Was it a case of conscience or disobedience of orders?

The Toronto Star pays the following neat tribute to the Premier:

Sir Wilfrid Laurier fills the eye, warms the heart, and satisfies the understanding. Canada has good reason to be proud of him. Sixty-six years of age, he is young enough to have years of service ahead of him, old enough to have that store of experience which aids judgment and makes wisdom. Imagination finds room in his mind—as it does with most orators. Imagination is an excellent gift in a commercial age. It sees far into the future. The daring enterprise treads on the heels of the bold thought. It is the sort of genius which, properly weighed, accomplishes great things.

Mr. R. L. Borden, Conservative Opposition leader, will begin his political coast to coast missionary tour of the Dominion, about August 20th. He is at present in Maine, loading himself up with Yankee wind to work off upon the honest Canadian electorate. Public men should set a better example of patriotism than practically declaring that Yankee health and rest resorts are better than those of Canada, especially, as everybody knows that they are not. Mr. Borden finishes his Ontario tour on September 17th, the twenty-ninth anniversary of the victory of the "National Policy," but he will have to use something better than "hot air," developed from Maine wind, to repeat the victory of that significant date.

DOCTOR BRIGHAM SAYS

MANY PHYSICIANS PRESCRIBE

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The wonderful power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over the diseases of womankind is not because it is a stimulant, not because it is a palliative, but simply because it is the most wonderful tonic and reconstructor ever discovered to act directly upon the generative organs, positively curing disease and restoring health and vigor.

Marvelous cures are reported from all parts of the country by women who have been cured, trained nurses who have witnessed cures and physicians who have recognized the virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and are fair enough to give credit where it is due.

If physicians dared to be frank and open, hundreds of them would acknowledge that they constantly prescribe Lydia E. Pinkham Vegetable Compound in severe cases of female ills, as they know by experience it can be relied upon to effect a cure. The following letter proves it.

Dr. S. C. Brigham, of 4 Brigham Park, Fitchburg, Mass., writes:

"It gives me great pleasure to say that I have found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound very efficacious, and often prescribe it in my practice for female difficulties.

"My eldest daughter found it very beneficial for female trouble some time ago, and my youngest daughter is now taking it for a female weakness, and is surely gaining in health and strength.

"I freely advocate it as a most reliable specific in all diseases to which women are subject, and give it honest endorsement."

Women who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, bloating (or flatulence,) weakness of organs, displacements, inflammation or ulceration can be restored to perfect health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If advice is needed, write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. She is daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years has been advising sick women free of charge. No other living person has had the benefit of a wider experience in treating female ills. She has guided thousands to health. Every suffering woman should ask for and follow her advice if she wants to be strong and well.

LINDSAY CHEESEMEN JEALOUS

Think That Peterborough Factories Are Paid a Higher Price for Cheese Than That Prevailing on Victoria Board

THE SALE ON MONDAY

The fact that higher prices are being paid for cheese at the Peterborough Cheese Board than at Lindsay is causing some consternation among the salesmen on the latter board, and yesterday, when lower prices were prevailing at Lindsay, some refused to accept the offers. That the salesmen on the Peterborough Board were extremely fortunate in getting the price paid at the last board, is apparent, judging by the actions of the cheese market since that time. It has been dull and prices have been depressed considerably. Referring to the incidents at the sitting of the board in Lindsay, in which a local buyer figured prominently, the Post says:—

At this morning's sale of Victoria county cheese, Buyers Flavelle and Brown of town, and Gillespie of Peterborough, gazed on some glum-looking countenances among the salesmen for the different factories when it became known that the price they were prepared to offer was well beneath the ruling figure of 11 1-4c paid at last week's Peterborough sale. For a time it looked as if an adjournment would be in order, but finally a better feeling prevailed and the board was cleared.

The Bidding

When the president called on the buyers to make an offer, Mr. Gillespie called 10 1-4, and the salesmen emitted audible gasps of astonishment, some of them having expected that the initial bid would be 11c. at least. Mr. Brown called the half, and Mr. Flavelle made it 10 5-8c. Mr. Gillespie then raised to 10 3-4c; Mr. Flavelle, 10 13-16c, and Mr. Gillespie, 10 7-8c.

President Robertson— "Gentlemen, you are evidently forgetting that the price paid at the last two Peterborough sales was 11 1-4c and 11 5-8c."

Mr. Flavelle—"I'll venture to say that when the settlements are made for the last Peterborough sale, the price received will be a quarter lowt than was quoted."

President Robertson — "They must be mean buyers, then. It looks terrible bad to see Peterborough so far ahead of us every time."

Mr. Gillespie—"I've seen the time when Lindsay Board got better prices than Peterborough."

President Robertson—"Yes, we did for one season."

Mr. Gillespie—"The price in Peterborough last week should not have gone over 11 1-4c."

President Robertson—"But it did, which shows the advantage of having enterprising buyers."

Mr. Gillespie then called at 10 7-8c. Maple Leaf, North Ops, Omemee, Mariposa and Star. All refused.

Mr. Flavelle—"I'm prepared to offer 10 15-16 c for Bobcaygeon only." Refused.

President Robertson—"It's enough to get a salesman crazy to see the way prices jump in Peterborough and tumble here."

Several salesmen proposed an adjournment for one week, whereupon Mr. Gillespie remarked, "I'm prepared to offer 11c, but not a farthing more. That's my limit."

President Robertson — "You're so used to getting our cheese cheap that your firm won't allow you a reasonable limit."

Uric Acid Stones in the Kidneys

CAUSED EXCRUCIATING PAIN— CURE EFFECTED SIX YEARS AGO BY

The passing of stones or gravel, as the uric acid formation is called, from the kidneys through the ureters to the bladder probably produces the most terrible pain that human being was ever called upon to bear.

Mrs. Walter Hornbrook, Coddy's, Queen's county, N.B., writes:—

"I was a great sufferer from kidney disease, which the doctor described as the uric acid stones passing from the kidneys to the bladder, I heard of similar cases being cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and sent for some. Altogether I used seven boxes and was completely cured. That was six years ago, and I have never had a pain in my kidneys since. We are never without Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in the house."

Mr. Daniel Brown, English River, Ont., writes:—"For three years I suffered with urinary troubles, partaking of the nature of stones in the bladder or gravel, and the pain which I endured can scarcely be described. I was unable to do any work, and frequently discharged blood. Though I spent hundreds of dollars in doctors' bills I received no relief, and at last decided that I would never be able to work again.

"While in this condition I was advised to try Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and though I had no faith in them or or in anything else, I decided to give them a fair trial. After using one box I felt a decided change for the better, and after taking five boxes I feel like a new man. I am entirely out of pain, and have no more discharge of blood. I can honestly recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to any fellow-sufferer, and will cheerfully verify this statement to anyone writing me."

There could scarcely be a more severe test of any treatment for the Kidneys and when Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills prove successful in such cases as this they can surely be depended upon in less severe kidney ailments. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

THE ASSAULT CASE WAS DISMISSED

No Evidence to Prove the Accused Guilty —City Clerk Acting Magistrate

"Campbell Hodgins, you are charged with committing an assault upon Samuel Anglesey last night. Are you guilty or not guilty?" These were the opening words of Acting Police Magistrate S. R. Armstrong, in the only case that has been on the docket for three days — a very rare circumstance in these troublesome times.

"Not guilty, sir," said Hodgins, and George Vanmere, the owner of the residence where the alleged assault was committed, was put in the box. He testified that yesterday evening, when he was going home, he heard persons quarrelling in the house. The noise and uproar could be heard all over the neighbourhood, he said, and when he entered the house he noticed that both Hodgins and Anglesey were acting as if they were drunk. He told them to cease their quarrel, and that he would not allow such a commotion in his dwelling house. He had ordered Hodgins to leave the premises on several occasions, but he still came back. The witness, however, did not see the accused strike Anglesey, and, as the latter did not appear to substantiate the charge, Hodgins was dismissed with a warning that he be careful in future how he conducted himself.

P. C. Adams is acting Chief of Police in the absence of Chief Roszel, who is at Montreal attending the Chief Constables' Convention.

NO INQUEST WILL BE HELD

On the Death of Mrs. Clarke—Coroner So Decides After Learning Circumstances of the Case

No inquest will be held on the death of tuhe late Mrs. Frank Clarke. Yesterday morning prior to leaving for Havelock to conduct an inquest there, Coroner Grey was advised of the discovery of Mrs. Clarke's body, and since the circumstances were then unknown it was thought advisable to hold an inquest, and in consequence a jury was called, and seven o'clock last night was the time appointed. On his return in the afternoon, however, the Coroner decided that an inquest was unnecessary, and the jury was discharged, and the body of the deceased lady removed to her late home, from which the funeral will take place.

A RECORD WALK FROM CHEMONG

Two Young Peterborough Athletes Did the 6 1-2 Miles in One Hour and Nineteen Minutes

A walking record was pretty nearly established this morning, when E. M. and Ray Rest walked from Chemong to Peterborough, a distance of six and a half miles in one hour and nineteen minutes. They left Chemong at seventeen minutes to eight, and reached the post office at two minutes after nine. Jimmy Reynolds, the Port Hope walker would have to extend himself to beat this record, and as for Bonhag and Lenden, they're simply not in it.

HOUSE-MOVER M'CARTHY'S BIG OWEN SOUND CONTRACT

Leaves To-morrow to Enter Upon Contract of Clearing C. P. R. Right of Way

Mr. Allen McCarthy, Peterborough's popular house-mover, leaves to-morrow, with his staff, for Parry Sound. There he will enter upon the execution of his contract, secured by him under keen competition, for the removal of several houses on the right-of-way of the C. P. R. Toronto and North Bay line, now under construction. The first part of the contract includes the removal of four large houses, one of them of solid brick, long distances, and under most unfavourable conditions, owing to the rocky nature of the soil — if solid granite can be called soil. One of the houses will have to be carried over a rocky ledge, 25 feet in height. Mr. McCarthy thinks it will take him about two months to complete the first part of his contract. If the other part, consisting of the removal of several additional buildings, takes the same length of time, the whole of the open season will be occupied.

Mr. McCarthy recently returned from Parry Sound, which he reports to be in a very lively and flourishing condition, thanks to the railway boom, which will make it the convergin gpoint of four great railway lines —the Grand Trunk, the Canadian Pacific, the Canadian Northern and the Toronto and James Bay Railways. Already, building lots are commanding gilt-edged prices, and are hard to obtain at that.

FOUND BODY OF LATE MRS. MAY

No Doubt Now That She and Her Husband Met Death in the Arcadia Disaster

All doubt, if there ever was any, of the fate of Captain May and his wife, has been removed by the discovery of a body which has been identified as that of Mrs. May. This lady, it will be remembered, was a daughter of Mr. John Middleton of Warsaw. Yesterday, Mr. Harry Castle, East City, received a letter from a firm of solicitors in Buffalo, enclosing a clipping from the Buffalo Courier, which seems to fully substantiate the fact that the captain and his wife met the fate which it was feared they had. The despatch is as follows:

Ludington, Mich., July 18. — A third body from the crew of the steamer Arcadia, which was wrecked in the storm of April 12, was found on the beach, five miles north of Big Point Sauble, to-day. The body was that of a woman, and bore a life-preserver marked "Arcadia." It is undoubtedly that of the wife of Captain May, who commanded the ill-fated craft. The body was badly decomposed. Of the entire crew of 12 who went down with the Arcadia, this is the third body to be found.

A NAVIGATOR'S STORY OF KETCHEWANOOKA

Joke That the Crew of the Water Lily Played on the Foreign Craft

The crew of the steamer Water Lily had a little experience last week, over which they have had several hearty laughs since. Between Lakefield and Young's Point, the steamboat channel at several points is very narrow, and the man at the wheel, thinking he was getting into trouble, jumped the boom. When informed that he was out of his course he could naturally do but one thing —jump the boom again. On the repetition of the jump act, the Lily was met by the Idler, of Orillia. The man at the wheel, asking if they had to do the same jumping-jack "stunt," the answer came back quickly that they had to, with the result that the Idler landed on top of the boomm and it was some little time before they could extricate themselves from their delicate position. This is only one instance of the many troubles experienced by amateur navigators on our inland waters.

Belmont Farmer Met Death By Committing Suicide

So Reads the Verdict of the Coroner's Jury - Inquest at Havelock Yesterday, With Coroner Gray Presiding.

ENOUGH POISON FOR 50 MEN

The verdict of the coroner's jury, inquiring into the cause of the death of George Armstrong, the Belmont man found dead in the log cabin one week ago, was that the deceased met death from poisons which were self-administered. The inquest was held in the town hall at Havelock yesterday afternoon, with Coroner Gray of this city presiding. The verdict verdict that death was due to suicide, was directly due to the evidence of Drs. Crawford and Kindred, who performed the post-mortem examination on Wednesday last.

The contents of the stomach showed that the man had eaten enough paris green to kill fifty men. He had also swallowed an ounce of tincture of aconite, which is enough to end the lives of ten men, were it distributed. There were no outward indications that he had swallowed the poison, as the interior of the mouth was clean.

The reason that Armstrong died so peacefully was because the aconite poison has a tendency to relieve pain when inwardly taken. This is probably why he was found with his arms folded and feet crossed, as if he had passed peacefully away.

After the evidence of the doctors was given the jury brought in the Rev. Johnathan Bastow Has Resigned Pastorate

Former Pastor of the Murray Street Baptist Church to Leave Renfrew Church Next Month — Surprises Congregation.

A SUCCESSFUL PASTOR

It will be a surprise to many of his former friends in Peterborough, to learn that Rev. Jonathan Bastow, who until about three years ago was the respected pastor of the Murray street Baptist church, but who, since that time has been labouring with much success in Renfrew, has resigned from the pastorate of the church there. The last issue of the Renfrew Mercury has the following reference to the circumstance:

Rev. Jonathan Bastow gave his congregation here a painful surprise on Sunday last, when he announced his intention to resign his charge in the following letter:

Renfrew, Ont., July 14, 1907.

To the Renfrew Baptist church,

My Dear Brethren, — At the end of this month it will be three years since I began my work as pastor of this church. It now seems to me that the time has come to surrender that responsibility. While I have been with you I have sought to the best of my ability to promote the welfare of the church. With what wisdom and success you must be the judges. I have been profoundly thankful for the hearty, substantial and effective co-operation of many of the members of the church and congregation. We have worked together with a warm, affectionate, family feeling, with the holiest motives, and for the noblest ends, the glory of God, the edification of His people, and the salvation of the unsaved. Such work cannot be in vain. We have prayed and sung and studied the Bible together. Our hearts have inevitably been brought into close touch with each other, and I trust that the friendships thus formed will never be broken.

The great kindness you have shown to me and my wife, we shall always most gratefully remember.

I am desirous, if it will be convenient for you, to close my pastoral relation at the end of August. I shall always be deeply interested in you as individuals and as a church, and shall pray that the richest of our Heavenly Father's blessings may rest upon you.

Your brother in Christ,
JONATHAN BASTOW.

The deacons were at once appointed a committee to endeavour to induce Rev. Mr. Bastow to reconsider his decision. Observant outsiders can well understand the reluctance with which the congregation heard the letter. To the citizens outside the congregation, Mr. Bastow has been known as a preacher of great clearness of thought and expression and command of fine language. To the congregation it has been known that he is well possessed of equal powers of methodical organization. During his pastorate the church's activities have been well organized, the roll revised, all indebtedness removed, the prayer meetings have been well attended, the Sunday school exceedingly prosperous; there has been great increase in the gifts for missions; an excellent start made towards the building of a parsonage—which will likely be built next summer—and even the grounds surrounding the church have shared in the improvement. If Rev. Mr. Bastow adheres to his determination to resign, he can surely take with him the satisfaction that his service in Renfrew has been fruitful; none the less so because Mrs. Bastow is also of fine parts and has wound herself into the hearts of the congregation.

There is no information available as to the future intentions of Mr. Bastow.

You cannot afford to grow old.

In these days of strenuous competition it is necessary to maintain, as long as possible, one's youthful appearance.

It is impossible to do this without retaining a luxurious growth of hair.

The presence of dandruff indicates the presence of a burrowing germ which lives and thrives on the roots of the hair until it causes total baldness.

Newbro's Herpicide is the only known destroyer of this pest, and it is as effective as it is delightful to use.

Herpicide makes an elegant hair dressing as well as dandruff cure.

Annual Pilgrimage To Ste. Anne de Beaupre

More Than 100 Persons Left Peterborough To-day to Take a Delightful Trip to This Shrine.

A PLEASANT OUTING

The annual pilgrimage to the Shrine of Ste. Ann de Beaupre, which left here to-day was the largest in the history of that annual event. The special C.P.R. train, which carried the excursionists and which started at Myrtle had a large number of passengers when it reached here shortly after noon, and more than 100 were added here, this number being the largest to leave this city on a trip of this kind. The pilgrimage is becoming increasingly popular and many who do not visit the historic Shrine take advantage of the cheap trip to pay a visit to Quebec and Montreal. The transportation arrangements for the trip were very complete, and everything possible has been done to make the journey pleasant. At different stations along the line other passengers were taken on, and a despatch from Tweed received this afternoon states that the train was filled. The annual pilgrimage is under the auspices of His Grace Archbishop Gauthier, of Kingston.

This afternoon the 2 o'clock G.T.R. train carried a number of passengers for this trip, too. They took passage here and at Belleville connected with a special train running on the main line of the Grand Trunk.

In this connection, the following reference to the beautiful Shrine, written for the Woodstock Sentinel Review will be read with interest:—

A score of miles from the city of Quebec, and connected with it by a trolley line is a mere country village of a few hundred inhabitants, which is, in one sense, a still more remarkable place than the ancient capital itself.

Every year there flock to this village thousands, to whom Quebec, with all its wealth of historic associations, is but of passing interest, who come from widely distant points animated by a wonderful faith, and who are seeking, through that faith, the boon of health which all humanity craves. This place is Canada's famous Shrine of Ste. Anne de Beaupre.

The name and fame of this little village and its wonders have gone abroad over the face of the earth. It is known on both sides of the ocean. It is the objective point of pilgrims from all quarters of the globe. As many as 130,000 have visited it during the course of a year.

To the matter of fact person of the world to-day, the existence of the Shrine of Ste. Anne and its miracles may appear an anachronism in the 20th century. The age of miracles is past, says the doubter. In reply, Ste. Anne de Beaupre points to its thousands of crutches and other tokens of the lame, the halt and even the blind, who have come to the shrine and have walked away cured. Whatever be the creed of the visitor, however, she may strive to account for what takes place, the substantial evidence that it does take place is before her. The marvels which are chronicled are not of to-day alone, but date back for more than two hundred years. They have been testified to by the people of each generation for centuries back, and the present century finds increasing multitudes seeking this shrine.

Ste. Anne de Beupre is situated close to the water of the north shore of the St. Lawrence, about 21 miles below Quebec, and may be reached either by rail or steamer. On the way you will pass farms whose width is disproportionately narrow for their length.

The explanation of the peculiar form is that originally these farms were of fair width, but have, from time to time, been divided among heirs by running lines from front to rear, so as to give each a share of frontage on the highway. Farms no wider than nine feet are passed. On the route to Ste. Anne, a little more than six miles from Quebec, are to be seen the Montgomery Falls, with a height of 250 feet, or nearly a hundred feet more than Niagara.

The church is in charge of the Redemptorist Fathers. It is a large and handsome edifice, and the front is surmounted by a colossal statue of Ste. Anne, richly gilted. The interior is beautiful. The high altar and baldachin are of carved white marble. Behind this is a painting by the famous Le Brun, donated by the Marquis de Tracey, viceroy of Canada in 1666. In the treasury are gifts of solid gold and silver, many of great value, and here also is the costly vestment, given by Queen Anne of Austria, mother of Louis XIV. of France, and worked by her own hands. There are many things to be seen, indeed, but it is within the church proper that the interest must centre. Here are the relics of Ste. Anne, of which the church has four, portions of bone from her body, and each day a relic is exposed for veneration. In the main aisle is a pillar upon which is a crowned statue of Ste. Anne with the Blessed Virgin in her arms, and on feast days the crowns they wear are of solid gold. In the railed enclosure around this pillar are some of the canes and crutches left by those who have gone away healed. These memorials are but few, however, compared with the great collection of them to be seen in the form of high pyramids near the entrance doors and on the stairway leading to the choir. There are crutches, canes, shoes with all kinds of thick soles, shoes with supporting irons, surgical appliances, bottles half filled with discarded medicines, bandages, pads —in short, an army of all kinds of the belongings of disease and deformity. Each has been left by its owner as a token of the benefits derived from a visit to the shrine. Hung upon the wall is a frame in which are arranged scores of spectacles left by those whose sight has been restored. Of touching interest are several other frames containing a curious assortment of all kinds of jewellery and trinkets. There are watches, chains, rings, and many trifles of little intrinsic value, but once prized by their owners. These are gifts of gratitude to La Bonne Ste. Anne. In the vicinity of the church are a number of objects of interest. There is the fountain, to the waters of which marvellous virtues are ascribed, and there is the grotto by the roadside. In the old chapel are many things which were in the church of 1666, on the site, and there are curious paintings, each of which has its history. The Scala Santa, on another part of the hill, is a copy of the stairs on which the Saviour walked on the way to and from judgment. These stairs are intended to be ascended kneeling with a prayer at each of the 28 steps, and strangers who wish to reach the upper floor will find ordinary stairways by going around to the rear of the first floor. Then there is the convent of the Francison Nuns, where meals are to be had, and to many visitors a very curious place is the burial ground with its peculiar monuments. On the hill above this is the Calvary, with the open-air stations of the Cross, each cross having in it a piece of stone from the Holy Land.

WOMEN PAY MORE

Why Insurance Companies Discriminate Against the Gentle Sex

If one is to believe the medical examiners the reason a woman pays more for the privilege of life insurance is that she is much more commonly a victim of indigestion and stomach troubles, and the fatal ailments that spring from these causes.

It is not the acute attacks of disease that influence the insurance examiners alone, but the constant feelings of weakness, headache, indigestion and stomach troubles. These things, physicians say, kill more people than many of the serious diseases.

For curative power in all stomach troubles nothing else is as safe yet effective, nothing else can be so thoroughly relied upon to relieve all troubles of indigestion, as Mi-o-na. It is unlike any remedy heretofore known; it is not a mere digestive tablet; it strengthens and restores to natural action of the stomach and bowels, and makes a complete cure in even the worst forms of stomach troubles.

Mr. Madill sells Mi-o-na in 50-cent boxes under a guarantee to refund the money unless it does all that is claimed for it.

SOME IMPROVEMENTS AT THE G. T. R. STATION SUGGESTED

Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir, — I am constrained again to call attention to the gross neglect by the Grand Trunk authorities in the matter of labelling trains. In the busy summer season, outside of the 7.20 flier, there are no fewer than seven trains arriving at, and departing from, the Grand Trunk station, between 8 o'clock and 6.30, several of them within five or ten minutes. Not a single train is labelled, and travellers, except a few of the initiated, have great difficulty in identifying the train for which they have purchased tickets. Instances are not infrequent of travellers boarding the wrong train, been carried away, and subjected to great annoyance, inconvenience, and, in some cases, positive loss for interrupted business engagements. Certainly the Grand Trunk owes it to itself, to its good name and business reputation, to protect those who have made contracts with it, by the purchase of tickets, for a specific service. By failure to plainly designate the destination of trains, this contract is broken, or, at least, the traveller is subjected to the discomfort of doubt, as to which train to take, with the danger, not always averted, of taking the wrong train, and being carried far out of his way.

This condition of affairs is exasperating, and without excuse, for the whole trouble would be removed by plainly placarding the trains, as is done in the union station, Toronto, or in any other place where the railway officials do their duty. The attention of the authorities has been repeatedly directed to the flagrant disregard of the convenience, and, in fact, rights of the travelling public. And yet no improvement is made. If the matter of expense is in the way a few signs printed on cardboard and provided with a loop of packing thread to suspend them by, would, in default of something more permanent, serve the purpose.

In addition to the fault of no placards for trains, being provided, the conductors show a plentiful lack of solicitude for the convenience and information of travellers, by calling out the trains in a slurred indistinct tone, their "All aboard for ——."

sounding more like a sotto voce imprecation, than a clarion call, as it should be. This morning the conductor's invitation to board the Lakefield train, as it was ready to pull out, was barely audible as he was passing me, at a distance of half a dozen feet. He spoke as if he were under dire compulsion, revealing a state secret.

I hope the great Grand Trunk, which carries thousands of tourists and travellers to the Kawartha Lakes in the season, will earn their gratitude by supplying the simple, inexpensive, and, in view of the convenience of the travelling public, indispensable, expedient of plainly placarding outgoing trains at the Peterborough station.

Yours truly,
CARRIED AWAY.

THE TATE OPTICAL CO.
PETERBORO.
Practically during my whole life (prior to June 1905) I was troubled with terrible pains in my head which I attributed to violent attacks of neuralgia. I tried innumerable headache and neuralgic preparations, but without obtaining the slightest relief. The suffering I endured for a year or more previous to the time I consulted you is indescribable. At times I became delirious through the intense pain, and was obliged to call in a local Physician. Many times morphine was administered to allay the terrible suffering I was undergoing, but this did not give me the slightest relief. A friend advised me to consult your Mr. Babcock, I did so and found out from you that I was suffering from muscular nervous asthenopia, caused by astigmatism. It was remarkable the relief I obtained after the treatment I received, and the wearing of the glasses you prescribed and made for me, since that time I have experienced no difficulty with my eyes, nor have I suffered the slightest return of the old trouble I cannot help but attribute the ill-health and suffering I experienced as being due to the trouble in my eyes before consulting you. I feel very grateful indeed for the interest taken in my case, as I had almost despaired of even getting any relief. I might also say I consulted opticians in Lindsay and Toronto in reference to my trouble, but obtained no relief. I desire to again express my sincere gratitude to you for the trouble taken in my case, as well as the wonderful cure effected. Yours sincerely

Prediction That if Wise Policy is Pursued Peterborough Will Have 40,000 Population in Few Years

Few of the numerous excursionists, who are daily enjoying a sail down the river, are aware of the fact that the Locks dam was, prior to 1840, a boiling, bubbling rapid, known as Whitla's Rapids. It took its name, probably, from Whitla's creek, that joins the river just below the old race course. When the dam and lock were built to enable "The Woodman," and other boats to get up to the then village of Peterborough, (it was twenty years before the building of the railways), a great step was taken in the direction of completing the immortal Trent Valley Canal. It furnished a mill site also, which at one time was owned by the late Mr. Sperry. The unconstant flow of the river and the poor quality of the dam, left the water power irregular and, therefore, practically useless. The same misfortune threatened the very existence a few years ago of the Cereal Company's splendid new dam, but the Dominion Government came to the rescue and saved the surplus of the spring flood for the dry months of summer. The Locks concrete dam, like the company's, has enabled its power owners to take full advantage of the new regulations. When further reservoirs are added in the northern districts, our water powers will be increased probably ten per cent. Electric power was unknown when the lock spoken of was built, and everyone remembers Mr. Irwin's strenuous fight with the Water Works Company, in which his foremost argument was electric power, practically unknown even at that late date. With the spread of the desire for municipal ownership, the question of power privileges constantly arises, and unless indications are misleading, a wise policy, well carried out here will make Peterborough a city of 40,000 people at no distant day.

TRAMPS REPORTED HERE IN NUMBERS

Residents Inform Police That Many Are Hovering Around

City residents are warned to keep their doors and windows tightly locked or barred these nights as a protection against "tramps," many of which are now reported to be invading the city. Last night the police station received many calls from various parties stating that suspicious looking cahracters were hanging about. The police made diligent efforts to get their optics on them but when the officers put in an appearance, the supposed weary Willies disappeared.

However it might be well it householders were to securely lock their doors as a protection against these guaranders of the night, who refuse to do any manual labour for a livelihood.

GAVE LIBERALLY TO WYCLIFFE COLLEGE

Rev. Principal O'Meara Raised $25,000 on His Recent Trip to England for This Purpose

Rev. Dr. O'Meara, Principal of Wycliffe College, Toronto, has just returned from his annual trip to England, which he takes upon invitation from the friends of Wycliffe College in England, in its interests. The usual donations to the funds of the College have amounted to about $10,000.00. This year, however, they were so much pleased with his work of the College that they gave $25,000.00.

The attendance of students at Wycliffe College is so large that an addition to the building has to be built at an expense of $30,000.00. Last year 76 Divinity students were in residence.

COMPLAINANT FORGOT ABOUT HIS COMPLAINT

Norwood Man Walked Into Magistrate' Office and Out Again

There seems to be but little wrongdoing in the county outside of the city, as it has been some days since the County Police Court has been held. Yesterday, however, Magistrate Edmison came nearly having a case to dispose of.

An old man from Norwood, walked into his office and commenced telling him of some alleged wrong, when he suddenly remembered something had forgotten to do and hurriedly left the office. The magistrate has not since seen him.

WAS PRUNING TREES AND FELL ON THE PAVEMENT

Accident to Mr. Scott, of East City—Not Seriously Hurt

Mr. Wm. Scott, of Scott & Hogg, East City, had a narrow escape from serious injury on Saturday evening, and it seems a miracle that he fared so well. He was pruning trees in front of his dwelling on Hunter street, when, accidentally, the ladder slipped, and he fell twelve feet to the pavement, alighting on his head.

Mr. Scott only sustained some slight injuries, and was able to get up and walk into the house.

SMITH COW LEADS IN TWO PROVINCES

Produced More Milk in June Than Any Single Cow in Ontario and Quebec —Owned by Gordon Mann

A cow that will give 1930 pounds of milk in one month, and that leads the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec in this respect, must necessarily be a good one. Yet this is the unique record of a cow owned by Mr. Gordon Mann, who resides in the township of Smith, near Bridgenorth.

Last month, one of the cows of his herd produced 1930 pounds of the milk, making an average of 60 pounds per day. The various tests throughout the two provinces, which have been handed in to Government headquarters, showed that Mr. Mann's cow was the best in milk production of 4000.

This is a record for which Mr. Mann deserves credit, and also the congratulations of the people of the county for owning such a valuable animal.

The test was made by Mr. T. H. Binnie, who has been undertaking the work of testing in this district for some months.

HOME-MADE MEDICINE

Said to Relieve Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism

One ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion;
One ounce Compound Salatone;
Four ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla;

Mixed and taken in teaspoonful doses in the morning and at bedtime, is stated by a prominent physician to give most excellent results in kidney or urinary afflictions, and also in rheumatism and sciatica. The mixture opens the clogged pores of the kidneys, thus assisting them in their work of filtering all waste and poisonous matter from the blood, and expels these in the urine. To allow this poisonous matter to remain means that it will settle in the muscular tissues or joints, and cause the untold misery known as rheumatism.

The mixture is composed of harmless vegetable ingredients which can be purchased at any good drug store, and mixed at home.

Anyone suffering from any of these afflictions will no doubt be pleased to learn of so simple and highly recommended remedy.

ADMIT THEY MADE BOGUS BILLS

Five Lindsay Counterfeiters Entered a Plea of Guilty.

MASTER MIND MANIPULATING

Sensational Story of the Confessions—Boyeau and Logie Tell the Tale of the "Green"—Men to Be Sentenced on Friday—Miller and Goslin Will Be Called To-day—They Were Anxious to Tell.

Lindsay, July 23.—Charles Burke, Robert Logie, Richard Wynn, Archie Boyeau and John Eveleigh appeared before Police Magistrates Moore and Jackson in the Court House here yesterday afternoon, confessed through Provincial Inspector Rogers their counterfeiting campaign, pleaded guilty to the charge of having bogus notes in their possession, and were remanded until Friday for sentence.

Robert Miller and John Goslin, who, by the confessions of Burke and Logie, are implicated in the game, did not appear. They will be called to-day on the arrival of the Toronto train, and through their counsel will plead not guilty.

The report that the story of the crime would prove sensational drew a large crowd, which completely filled the court room and corridors, and the interest was intense.

Burke's statement was not given out, nor will it be until the trial of Miller and Goslin. Counsel for Burke, the prisoner himself and the crown, will be present when the magistrate will hear Burke's story.

The confession of Logie clearly shows that there was a master mind above the whole scheme. Orillia, Burke told Logie, was where the plate were manufactured; Toronto he told Wynn and Boyeau. The plates were placed in Logie's barn loft by Burke and printed there on a letter press by Burke, Eveleigh and Logie.

Ed. Bayly, solicitor to the Attorney-General's Department, conducted the cases, assisted by Crown Attorney Devlin.

"Archie" Boyeau and "Dick" Wynn were placed in the prisoner's box sharp at two o'clock. Wynn was very nervous and clutched at the railing. Boyeau looked eminently respectable and was cool.

The former was called first and after Magistrate Jackson had read the charge he elected to be tried summarily. A moment lated, in a low voice, he pleaded "guilty."

The magistrate then asked for some evidence to guide him in passing sentence. In the meantime Boyeau was removed to jail until Friday morning at ten o'clock, when he will appear for sentence.

Mr. Bayly called Inspector Jos. E. Rogers. After being sworn the officer gave Boyeau's confession to him on the C.P.R. train between the Soo and Sudbury, when he was being brought back to Lindsay.

"After cautioning Boyeau and Wynn," said the detective, "he told me that his first connection with the matter was when Wynn told him that Charlie Burke wished to see him. Boyeau saw Burke, who told him that he had counterfeit money and wanted him to go out with Wynn and pass it off. Burke wanted Boyeau to put up $100, but Boyeau could not do that. Then Burke gave the two of them $1,000 in $5 Traders' Bank bills, and told him to go with Wynn to the Michigan Soo and pass them. They were not to pass any of the notes until they reached North Bay. One or the other was to carry the notes—the bundle—and give one or two at the most to the other, who was to go out and pass them.

"They were not to travel together on the street, so that in case the person passing the note was arrested, there would be no connection.

"Burke was then to get to the Soo, to do business on the 4th of July. Burke told him the notes were made in Toronto. They got to North Bay, where Boyeau passed three notes. Then they went to Sudbury, where Boyeau passed two notes. Then to the American Soo, where they passed three notes each and were arrested. They redeemed the notes passed in the Soo and in a valise which they jointly owned and which Wynn had left with his nephew, a saloonkeeper, 180 odd notes were found. They came across to the Canadian side voluntarily. They had some genuine money, that they handed to the jailer."

Cross-examined by Mr. O'Conner the detective stated that the statement was made to the police magistrate at the Soo.

"Did you have any trouble getting this confession?"

"No. They both wanted to tell. They passed eleven bills, six of which they redeemed."

Burke and Eveleigh were then brought into the court. Burke stood up and sat down several times apparently very nervous. When asked how he wished to be tried, he pointed to his counsel with the word "Him."

Mr. Bayly told their worships that for reasons, the crown wished at the present time Burke's statement would not be made public.

Robert Logie, who was most intimately connected with Burke, in the manufacture of the "green," looked ten years older than when he was arrested in Toronto a week or so ago. R. J. McLaughlin appeared for him, and in the same way Logie admitted his guilt.

Logie's statement as given to Inspector Rogers, was as follows:

"Logie was arrested in Toronto. I saw him at police headquarters. Inspectors Duncan and Parkinson, and Detectives Wallace and Tipton were present. Logie was warned and made a statement that he and John Eveleigh had received from Burke $800 of Trader's Bank notes; that he knew the notes were bad and that Burke told him they were made in Orillia. He saw by the papers that Eveleigh had been arrested. He took the notes in his possession to the City Hall, tore then up in small pieces and put them in a closet. He bought another ticket for Buffalo, and was arrested at the depot.

"On the way between Toronto and Lindsay he intimated that he wished to tell the whole story in connection with the counterfeiting. He told us that the notes he had were finished in his stable, in the loft; that he and Burke were present; that Burke rubbed each note with parafin candle; that he put glycerine on the rollers of a wringer and the notes were put through this wringer; that he saw the plates of Trader's Bank bills, with metal fronts and wooden backs. Burke had got them. Two or three years before Burke also had a plate of two bills, one Bank of Montreal $5 and a Dominion five. And they made notes from these plates, using a letter press to do the printing. Burke supplied the press. George Miller did the printing of Montreal $5 notes and Dominion $5 note at that time. Miller and John Goslin had gone with those notes to pass them. They went to Peterboro.

Logie said he had never passed any bad money himself.

IN BLAZING GASOLINE.

Auto Was Struck by Train and Dr. Gallagher Burned to Death.

New York, July 23.—Dr. Edward J. Gallagher was burned to death in an automobile accident on Long Island Sunday night, while his fiance was fatally injured. Dr. Gallagher, accompanied by Miss Helen Madigan, was driving his machine over the railway crossing, when the car was struck a glancing blow by a fast passenger train.

The machine was thrown a considerable distance and turned over upon its occupants. The gasoline tank exploded and shot burning oil over the half-stunned autoists.

Over Embankment.

Pittsburg, July 23.—John J. Wallace, a well-known business man of this city, is dead with a broken neck, his wife is dying at her home, and J. S. Honner and wife, friends, are in a serious condition, as a result of an accident to their motor car, which plunged over a 150 foot embankment on the road to Butler Sunday night.

TO SAVE HIS COUNTRY.

Armenian Assassin's Excuse for Madison Square Murder.

New York, July 23.—While walking in Madison square yesterday, H. S. Tavshanjian, a rug importer, who is said to have been a commissioner for Persia to the World's Fair at Chicago, was shot and instantly killed.

The assassin, who approached him from the rear and shot him without warning, was pursued by bystanders for several blocks and turned and wounded one of them with a shot from his revolver. He was overtaken and arrested.

One of Tavshanjian's employes said the assassin had been trying to extort money from the merchant, to be used to finance an Armenian revolution.

The man arrested and accused of killing the merchant told the police his name was Beros Hanpasonmian of Chicago. The police say he declared that he killed the man to save his country.

Palermo, July 23.—Hundreds of persons were wounded Sunday in a clash between the police and crowds that were demonstrating in behalf of Nunzio Nasi, the former Minister of Public Instruction, now under arrest for embezzlement.

Elaborate measures have been taken to secure order, which include the mounting of artillery in the streets and the concentration of battleships in the roadstead.

DECIDE TO FIGHT IN IRELAND

Sinn Fein Movement to Oppose Irish Nationalists.

WILL CONTEST BLAKE'S SEAT

Miniature General Election In Ireland—Four Seats Vacant and Another Likely to Follow — Sir Thomas Gratton Esmonde Endorses the New Policy—North Wexford Only Likely Seat.

Dublin, July 23.—The Sinn Fein Society evidently is preparing for a trial of strength against the Irish Nationalist party in the pending miniature Irish general elections. The resignation of Edward Blake, Irish Nationalist, for the south division of Longford, makes the fourth vacancy, and if the Nationalists challenge Sir Thomas Henry Grattan Esmonde's contest in North Wexford, five seats will be vacated.

Sir Thomas has declared himself flatly as a Sinn Feiner. At a big Sinn Fein demonstration held by his constituency at Enniscorthy yesterday, a letter from him was read denouncing parliamentary agitation as worthless, "since England would never give Home Rule or any other concession for the asking."

"Ireland," the letter continued, "is no colony, she is a sovereign nation, and should give up begging with bated breath and whimpering humbleness in a foreign Legislature for the restoration of her stolen liberties."

A meeting was arranged to be held in Phoenix Park, here, Sunday, to support the Sinn Fein policy. It was attended by only five hundred persons, although the park was crowded with Sunday visitors.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Irish League, at Manor Hamilton, the centre of Charles J. Dolan's constituency, Mr. Dolan's action in joining the Sinn Fein Society was condemned, and resolutions were adopted calling upon him to resign his seat in Parliament. The present prospects of the Sinn Feiners carrying any constituency except North Wexford are remote.

Editor Will Break Combine.

Calgary, July 23.—The editor of The Weekly Chinook, published in Calgary, publishes an open letter to the members of the lumber combine, giving them until Aug. 31 to reduce the price of lumber, and says if same is not done at that time he will enter court and bring action against them as members of a combine to restrain competition.

Fell From Scaffold And Fractured Four Ribs

Jas. Goodwin, Sherbrooke Street Contractor, Met With Serious Accident --- Three Other Men Escape Injuries.

LAYING BRICK ON WELLER ST

Jas. Goodwin, of the firm of McFadden & Goodwin, brick masons, fell off a scaffold this afternoon at 1.30, and had four or five ribs broken. He in company with three other men were working on a scaffold, at the house being erected on Weller street, by Mr. Clarence Fitzgerald, when one of the putlocks, which extended from the brick wall to the scaffold, broke.

The four men fell a distance of 16 feet, but Mr. Goodwin was the only one that fared badly in the fall. One of the other men was a brick mason and the remaining two were labourers. They escaped with only a few slight bruises.

Dr. McCullough was called, and the injured man was found to be suffering from fractures in at least four ribs. He was removed in the Dan Spence ambulance to his home on Sherbrooke street, where his injuries were attended to.

Alleged Son Of Zulu Chief Is Being Searched For

Said to Have Stolen a Nugget in Peterborough --- Freemasons at Longford Mills Were Taken In by Him.

A WARNING TO THE PUBLIC

There are a few smart Zulus on earth if the robbery of a Masonic Order, by getting into its good graces by false pretences, can be considered such, and the public is hereby warned against a certain member of that African tribe, who sojourned in Peterborough about three weeks ago, and who was supposed to have disappeared in possession of a gold nugget he did not rightfully obtain.

From a letter received by the Chief of Police, it appears that he has been acting his tricks in other places, and a report coming from Longford Mills, by way of the Lindsay police, states that he vacated that northern burg with forty dollars belonging to Masons, and leaving several debts behind.

When in Peterborough he purported himself to be Cetewayo, the son of the great African Zulu chief, and by means of his high standing among that dusy tribe, got admitted, it is asserted, into higher society than his vocation would naturally allow.

The following letter from the Chief of Police at Lindsay, explains a few of his supposedly unlawful acts:

Geo. I. Roszel, Esq!,

Chief Constable,

Peterborough, Ont.,

Dear Sir, — Some time since you mentioned you wanted a Zulu called Cetewayo for stealing a nugget. I find that before he came to your place he was at Longford Mills, and he seems to have got into the good graces of the Freemasons there, and finally cleared out leaving several debts behind and I am told he took $40.00 of the funds of the Longford Mills Lodge, and also an outfit of drills, hammers, etc.

Did you ever get him? Perhaps it would be just as well to get the daily press to give warning about this man. What do you think?

Your obedient servant,

RALPH C. VINCENT.

DO NOT BE HUMBUGGED.

More than ever, dishonorable and disreputable pharmaceutical concerns are flooding the market with cheap and worthless preparations designed to be imitations of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry.

Some of these are even labelled "Extract of Wild Strawberry," "Wild Strawberry Compound," etc., in the hope that the public may be deceived and led to purchase them, thinking they are getting the genuine Dr. Fowler's.

Are you willing to risk your health—perhaps your life, to these no name, no reputation, likely dangerous, so called Strawberry Extracts.

For sixty-two years Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has been used in thousands of families for Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Colic, Cramps, Summer Complaint, Cholera Morbus, Cholera Infantum and all Bowel Complaints.

A BIG GATHERING OF INSURANCE MEN

A Convention of Life Insurance Men to be Held in Toronto in August

A gathering of considerable importance to life insurance men will be held in Toronto from August 19 to 23, when the convention of the Life Underwriters' Association will be held in that city. It will probably be the greatest gathering of men engaged in the insurance business ever held in Canada, and will be attended by the brightest men in that branch of business in America.

In sending out a circular letter in reference to the convention, Mr. G. H. Allan, president of the association, says:—

We have every reason to believe that these meetings will be the largest gathering of life insurance fieldmen ever held in this or any other country, and that the strongest, brainiest men in the profession will be present. No efforts have been spared to secure the deepest thinkers, the ablest speakers and the readiest debaters, and our efforts so far have met with remarkable success.

The convention sessions will be equal to a "post-graduate" course in life insurance work and principles, and we wish to particularly emphasize the necessity of our association members making a special effort to increase the membership in view of these conventions.

The fact that the "Commited on Arrangement" is composed if wide-awake Toronto men, with Mr. Herbert C. Cox as chairman, jealous for the honour of their city, is a sufficient guarantee that the welfare of every visitor will be provided for and that the trip will prove a great source of pleasure, as well as of profit.

It is expected that a number of the life insurance men from Peterborough will be present at and participate actively in the sessions of this convention.

COVETOUSNESS IS MOST PREVALENT

Rev. C. H. Coon Says Tenth Commandment is One Most Frequently Violated

A uniform standard of morality for men and women was contended for by Rev. C. H. Coon, pastor of Mark Street Methodist Church, last night at the meeting of the Epworth League, when he took the topic on "Present Day Applications of the Ten Commandments." He stated his belief that the Tenth Commandment was the most frequently violated of all, and that the sin of covetousness was one of the most prevalent. Miss Maud Dormer led the meeting, and an interesting musical number was a duet by Messrs. Miller and Pratt.

Indecent Assault

At a special meeting of the Police Court this afternoon a young man was charged with indecent assault. His case was enlarged until Monday after the necessary bonds were advanced.

Woman's Health

Every woman may be attractive. Bright eyes, pink cheeks and red lips are her nature-given right. A sallow skin, lack of animation, low spirits and weak nerves may be avoided by the use of Beecham's Pills, a remedy that well deserves the confidence of every woman. Again and again they have proved to be invaluable at those recurring times when so many women feel debilitated and suffer from nervousness, headache and depression. It is wonderful the way these pills assist Nature and relieve the suffering.

Every woman who values health and good looks should become a user of

AN EASILY REGULATED FURNACE

It's a real pleasure to own a Sunshine. It's so easily regulated. Drafts work perfectly—do just what you expect them to.

The fire is always under control. You can have as hot a fire as you like on zero days. And one just warm enough to keep the chilly feeling absent when a thaw comes.

Fortunate is the man who owns a Sunshine.

PULL UP THIS CHAIN

from the floor above, if you feel a trifle chilly, and a strong draft through the ash-pit door is opened.

Fire immediately burns up briskly. In a few minutes you will be warm and comfortable. Then drop the chain again.

You see, it's not necessary to go down to the basement and turn on the drafts when you want a warmer fire in the Sunshine.

Sunshine is a labor-saver as well as a comfort-producer.

If your local dealer does not handle the Sunshine, write direct to us for FREE BOOKLET.

That we are in the midst of the silly season, is shown by other things than the partial depopulation of the season in favour of the summer resorts. The travel is confined to tourists almost exclusively, and there is a very great falling off in commercial travel. As an indication, it may be mentioned that to-day the Oriental Hotel had only one guest on its register—John Guest, of Toronto.

LOCAL MAN HURT IN OTTAWA

An Employee of J. J. Turner and Sons Touched a Live Wire and Fell From Flagpole

HE IS SERIOUSLY INJURED

Examiner Special.

Ottawa, July 23.—Earle Taylor, an employee of J. J. Turner and Sons, the firm which has the contract for decorating the city for the Summer Carnival, was seriously injured this morning. He was on a pole over a building on Bank street, and while adjusting some decorating material, touched a live wire, and the shock precipitated him to the roof, thirty feet below. He was taken to the hospital, and is reported to be in a serious condition.

Inquiry of the office of the above-named firm this afternoon gave the information that the man named went with members of the firm to Ottawa a few days ago to assist in the decorating operations. He was taken to Ottawa for this job, and had not been in their employ previously. His home is at Young's Point. The injured man is about 20 years of age.

Invitations have been sent to twenty-three guests. Everything in connection with the party will carry out the "23" idea; the number of candles, the musicians in the orchestra, the decoration, the number of couples and the number of dances on the programme.

A COUNCIL MEETING NEXT MONDAY NIGHT

May Be Two Committee Meetings This Week

There is little stir in municipal circles this week, and it is probable that two committee meetings will be the extent. The Board of Works will likely hold a meeting to-morrow night, and Ald. Johnston may call the members of the Fire, Water and Light Committee together some evening during the week.

There will be a council meeting on Monday next, July 29th, but it is not probable that any will be held in August as most of the important business has been attended to.

During the week beginning Aug. 12th, His Worship the Mayor will be in Fort William and Port Arthur attending the Canadian Municipal Union's annual convention. He will leave the city on the Saturday preceding, and will travel north from Toronto in company with a number of others who will attend. It is aestimated that 200 representatives will be at the convention.

THE STEAMER OTONABEE CUTS WEEDS

This Boat Spends the Afternoon Clearing the Channel in Canal Between Lift Lock and Nassau

The steamer Otonabee this afternoon is engaged in cutting the weeds out of the channel in the canal above the Lift Lock to Nassau. This steamer with her double screws will spend the whole afternoon on this reach, and it is believed that her work will result in the channel being pretty well cleared of the troublesome weeds.

Smaller craft navigating the canal, at this point, experience some difficulty, and it has become necessary to take some steps to effect an improvement..

FORMER AUDITOR IS FAILING

J. Lorne McDougall is Said to be in Poor Health, and Failing Quite Rapidly

IS LOSING HIS SIGHT

Examiner Special.

Ottawa, July 26. — It is said J. Lorne McDougall, the former Auditor-General, is failing quite rapidly. He can hardly walk without assistance and his sight is imperfect. Mr. McDougall began to show some signs of failing health about two years ago.

PRICE OF HORSES TO REMAIN UP

Are Now 150 Per Cent. Higher Than a Few Years Ago and Will Probably Stay There For Some Time

THE WEST HELPS SOME

Examiner Special.

Ottawa, July 24. — It is stated in Ottawa and vicinity that the prices of horses, which are now about 150 per cent higher than they were ten years ago, are not likely to go down for a very long time to come. The great demand for horses during the Boer war, and the growing needs of the West, were the cause of the rise in values. The continued demand for the Northwest has reduced the number of animals for breeding purposes and this has stimulated prices.

A SERIOUS ACCIDENT AT PORT HOPE

Goodwin MacMillan Struck by a Train While Alighting From Another

Port Hope, July 23. — Goodwin McMillan, son of Mr. Duncan McMillan, Smith street, had a miraculous escape from a fatal accident this afternoon. McMillan rode from the Midland platform on the 12.45 and when near the station left the train and attempted to cross the track to the platform. The 1.05 train from the east was coming at the time and it struck him, throwing him with great force between the two trains. Both trains were running at a fair rate, and it is a miracle that the young fellow was not thrown under. His left ankle was broken, his head and legs badly bruised, and he received a general shaking up.

SUNDAY BASEBALL AND THE CHURCHES

An American Preacher Warns Those of His Flock Who Go to Ball Games on Sunday

Jasper, Ind., July 23.—The Rev. Garrett Morgan, of Otwell, in a sermon at the Methodist Church in Ireland, Sunday, condemned Sunday baseball and declared that those of his flock who joined his church on probation almost six months ago, and who have been playing Sunday baseball since then, could not be advanced to full membership in the Methodist church, as such conduct is not in keeping with the doctrines and teachings of that church.

Preveneau Iron Mines To Be Bought And Operated

Statement From Havelock That the Famous Seabrook Mines Are to be Again Placed in Operation.

LOCATED NEAR HAVELOCK

Special Correspondence

Havelock, July 24.—A genuine revival in the iron mining industry of East Peterborough seems to be imminent. Following hard upon the announcement, that the Blairton mines were likely to be sold and operated extensively, comes that to the effect that the same capitalists who are negotiating for that property are also looking over the Seabrook mines at Preveneau, with a view of buying and operating them in conjunction with those at Blairton. These mines are situated about three miles east of here on the Marmora road, and at one time, when the mines were in operation, the village was, like Blairton, a place of considerable activity, but at the present time the population has dwindled down to very small proportions, and the buildings representing the village number a store, postoffice, church and a few dwellings. When the mines were in operation there was a large hotel conducted by a Mr. Garrison, a crowded church, and a school unable to accommodate the number of children wishing to attend.

The news that the mines are about to be re-opened and operated on a large scale once more will be welcome intelligence indeed to the residents of this part of the country.

Peterborough Lady To Take "World's" Trip To London

Miss Birdie Thompson Finished Second in District No. 3, With 826,000 Votes

MADE A GOOD RECORD

The welcome news was conveyed last night by a despatch from Toronto that Miss Birdie Thompson, the representative from Peterborough in the World's Trip to London Contest had finished second in District No. 3, and that she was one of the lucky four from this district to take the trip. Miss Thompson made a very creditable run, finishing only 12,000 behind Miss Allin, who started to work five weeks earlier than the Peterborough lady, and who lead the district practically ever since the contest opened. Miss Thompson had over 826,000 votes, which represents plenty of hard work on her behalf.

A pleasing feature of her victory is the fact that there was a concentration of effort on the part of her friends to place her on top, and among the fortunate four. She secured a large number of votes from persons from whom she did not expect them, many sending them direct to the Toronto office, and they appeared in her total as a surprise to her.

Peterborough's interest in this trip, however, is not represented entirely by the win of Miss Thompson, since the lady who won in Kingston, Miss Flanagan, is a sister of Mrs. (Dr.) Sullivan, of this city.

The party of eleven young ladies will leave Toronto one week from to-morrow, August 1st, on the C.P.R. train at nine o'clock, and will pass through this city on the regular train at 11.16. They will arrive in Montreal at 6 p.m.

A drive around that city will dispose of the time before going on board the Allan liner, Virginian, in which the trip across the briny will be made. The railway run from Liverpool to London will give the tourists some splendid English scenery.

In London, the party will stay at the Hotel Cecil, and will be given an opportunity to visit many of the famous spots in and around that wonderful city. A side trip to Paris is also on the programme.

The return trip will be made so as to bring the ladies home 22 days after having left Toronto.

A special despatch from Peterborough to the World last night, referring to Miss Thompson's win, says:

As the contest drew to a close the interest throughout the city became general, and during the last two days it has grown intense. The chances of success of Miss Thompson became a topic of conversation on the street, and the enquiries were numerous. When it was bulletined from the newspaper offices this evening that the local candidate, who was the last to enter the fray, being five weeks behind all other competitors in starting, had captured second place, the fortunate winner was showered with congratulations. During the last few weeks nearly everybody was cutting out coupons, and talking of the great World trip while subscriptions poured in at the local bookstores.

Miss Thompson is a native of this city and has a very wide circle of friends and acquaintances. For some years she has been one of the most popular and obliging salesladies in the stationery stores of the town, and for two years has been engaged with R. J. Soden. She comes of an old and respected family, her father being the late Elias Thompson, lumberman, one of Peterborough's honored citizens.

"Well, I am very pleased indeed," she remarked; "it is certainly a great source of satisfaction to have won out. I was the last to enter the contest—five weeks later than the others—but you see I have made up for lost time. My friends and one and all stood loyally by me; I cannot thank them too deeply. I attribute my victory to the large number of subscriptions received for the World. The coupons of course helped, but I could not have won out if it had not been for the large number of subscriptions gathered in by myself and others who were working on my behalf. I find that the World has hundreds of warm friends in Peterborough, and the interest in it was greatly deepened when this contest began. Of course my friends and I worked hard, and even during the closing evening I received over 30,000 votes which were totally unexpected. Many of the neighbouring postmasters were also very thoughtful and turned several thousand votes my way.

To the Examiner to-day Miss Thompson expressed her gratitude to her friends for the very generous manner in which they rallied to her support in the contest, and she wished to state her deep appreciation of their work in her behalf.

MOSQUITOES BIGGER AND MORE FEROCIOUS THAN EVER BEFORE

Examiner Special.

Keene, July 24:—Those persons who predicted early in the season that on account of the cold spring, the mosquito crop this year would be small, have another guess coming, for the universal opinion expressed here is that there has never been a season when there were as many mosquitoes as there are this year. Not only are they plentiful, but they are of a size and ferocity never before seen here. No cause for the great increase in the number of these insects can be assigned. The fact remains however, that they are here this year in greater numbers and with greater stings than ever before.

Note.—The mosquito is said to be also unusually abundant and big at Chemong and in some parts of the city the penetrative prevalence of their proboscis is painfully perceptible.

AWFUL ACCIDENT TO ENGINEER CHAMBERS; CAUGHT IN FLY WHEEL

Tweed, July 23.—A fatal accident occurred at the sulphite mines near here last evening. The victim was Joseph Chambers, engineer. The unfortunate man had just finished his day's work and had shut off steam. Chambers put his head and shoulders between the spokes of the flywheel in order to reach a bolt which needed tightening. The weight of his body on the spoke of the flywheel was sufficient to turn the wheel slightly, and, there being some steam still in the cylinder, the flywheel made a quick revolution and caught him between the flywheel and the crank shaft. He was so badly injured that he died in a few minutes. He leaves a widow and eight children.

Not as Bad as Belleville

The Belleville Intelligencer has the following jibe at Peterborough: The Peterborough Examiner deplores the apparent fact that Peterborough is growing wickeder every day. Our contemporary says that, judging by present appearances, there will be over 300 more police court cases there this year than there were last. It must be said to live in such a wicked place as Peterborough.

WILLOUGHBY'S BODY RECOVERED

Young Man Who Was Drowned in Lake Erie Short Time Ago

The story of Martin Willoughby, the young man whose drowning was recorded in the Examiner a few days ago, has been found in Lake Erie. A letter was received yesterday evening by a friend of the deceased, giving further particulars of the case, and stating that the body was recovered last Wednesday and buried on Friday at the cemetery in Watford, Ont., where the young man's family resides.

It is believed that young Willoughby got a cramp while in the canoe and that he fell overboard, upsetting the boat, George Buell of Cleveland, who was with him, clung to the canoe and was saved. He stated that the unfortunate young man never rose to the surface after he sank for the first time.

A SERIOUS PROBLEM.

The press of the country and of Montreal, and especially La Presse, are discussing the terrible and phenomenal infant mortality in Montreal, the latter curtly describing it as "de mal en pis." The statistics of the week just expired are still worse than those of preceding weeks. Last week there were recorded 132 births and 185 deaths of children under the age of five years, the mortality, therefore, being 135 per cent. of the births, rather a gruesome and depopulating record.

The milk supplied the children is held accountable, in part, but lack of sanitary home conditions and surroundings has its share. But perhaps the most evil agency is lack of proper care, due, in chief, to the ignorance of mothers. Upon this point La Presse remarks: "What these poor, sick babies are made to absorb is not imaginable. As soon as a child offers any disquieting symptoms, the good women of the neighbourhood each brings her favourite remedy, transmitted from mother to daughter for generations; and it is a miracle if the baby is able to resist the effects of all that is poured into it and applied outside. A child must be of unusually robust constitution to resist the thousand and one irrational popular remedies of which it is the victim.

The question involved is one of national, as well as domestic, magnitude. Not only is the home saddened and robbed of its treasures, but the country is threatened, if not with depopulation, with a very sensible decrease of population. If, as occurred last week in Montreal, the deaths of children exceed the births by more than fifty, a continuation and general extension of like, or similar, conditions would spell progress of population backward, with capital letters. No energy of the state can be more wisely and beneficently directed than to the ascertainment of the cause, and removal, of the conditions at fault. If, as is probable, impure and unwholesome milk is a contributory cause, little trouble is involved. A sharp supervision of the production and care of milk, from the animal to the infant user, is indicated. If insanitary conditions, as is probable, are also a contributing cause, the remedy is comparatively simple. The health authorities have only to do their duty. If, as is probable and certain, the ignorance of mothers—ignorant of the elementary principles of giving proper care to the infants—is the main cause, then the responsible authorities have their work cut out for them.

We have varied organized activities at work aiming to impart information of value in the promotion of mere material interests. We have associations whose object is to promote the interests of the breeding, feeding and care of live stock, pigs, poultry, and even cats and dogs; but there is a very plentiful lack of definite and intelligent information regarding the breeding of men. In this matter everything is left to chance and the ignorance of mothers. This aspect of the subject is made the object of a good deal of jest and small wit, but it infinitely transcends in importance all the other interests mentioned. No farmer, in his senses, would trust the management of his stock-breeding operations to a raw boy without experience or without the possession of a single qualification for the work. Yet throughout this country, thousands of girls, ignorant to density of all that concerns the proper and intelligent discharge of the duties of motherhood, assume the possibility of its responsibilities. Children come, or should come, and are handicapped from their first cry. Live stock is attended with the utmost skilled care, enlightened by scientifically perfect, state-aided information, and risk of failure to breed, grow, and mature perfect animals is reduced to a minimum. In the matter of a child, however, everything is left to chance. It is born and thrown into the lap of ignorance to take its decidedly off chance in the struggle for existence, whose success involves the survival of the fittest, with every condition present, domestic and maternal, to produce a surplus of the un-fittest. Girls are given in marriage, well educated and trained in every other way—in music, art, domestic science—except in regard to the most important essential. They, as well as others less favoured, are supremely ignorant of everything pertaining to the duties of motherhood, and the results are seen in the terrible records of infant mortality of the city of Montreal, and elsewhere throughout the country.

The Examiner some time ago called attention to the fact of a systematic effort, made in a certain English city, to instruct mothers in the care of infants, resulting in a splendid decrease of infant mortality in the district embraced in the experiment. We are spending, and wisely, too, thousands in the promotion of immigration with a view of peopling our unoccupied areas. But are we not sitting with folded hands, and watching, with practical indifference, the slaughter of the innocents? No fear of ridicule, no false shame, no false modesty, should deter us from removing or improving a condition which is sapping the very foundations of nationhood. If we let our children die faster than they are born, the sturdy Canadian race will become extinct and be replaced by foreigners, with certain prospects of vicious impairment of national characteristics and character.

LAURIER'S LOYALTY

In a speech of fine grace and dignity, which Sir Wilfrid Laurier delivered at a university dinner in Toronto, a few years ago, he declared his devotion to Great Britain in the simple and touching words which Ruth addressed to Naomi: "Intreat me not to leave thee or to return from following after thee, for whither thou goest I will go, and where thou lodgest I will lodge; thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God. Where thou diest I will die, and there will I be buried; the Lord do so to me and more also if aught but death part thee and me." There is infinite beauty in the language, and as an expression of ideal relations between the Old Country and the outlying British dominions, it is singularly expressive and powerful. Few men are more happy in quotations than the Prime Minister, and few have gone so deeply into the well of English undefiled. He has just come home to receive the heartfelt welcome of cheering thousands of his fellow countrymen of Quebec, and far beyond the bounds of the cheering, in all the provinces, and among all classes, he commands the sympathy, the respect, and even the affection of the mass of the Canadian people. — Toronto News, (Conservative.)

EDITORIAL NOTES

The proper spelling of the name of this city is Peterboro-u-g-h, not the decadate form, Peterboro, used by outside journals. No doubt they drop the "ugh!" to avoid anything like contempt of the smartest city in the Dominion.

The enterprise of the Ross Government in building the Temiscamingue and Northern Railway, is very fully justified. The road has already paid for itself. The yield of the Cobalt silver mines, discovered through the building of the line, has amounted in three short years, to five million dollars—more than a million and a half a year—enough to pay the interest at five per cent. of the estimated cost of the Georgian Bay Canal — one hundred millions.

Even steamers contribute to promoting the achievement of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's "all-red" line scheme—round the world under the British flag. He crossed the ocean from Britain to Canada on the C. P. R. steamer Empress of Britain, which cut six hours off the record, even under the handicap of a heavy fog. This encourages the contention, that with twenty-five knot steamers, the passage from land to land can be made in three days. Business, passenger and freight traffic, will pour into upon a steamship line that can bridge the Atlantic in seventy-two hours. Add to this, the facilities for crossing Canada by the three great transcontinental railway lines, the Canadian Pacific, the Grand Trunk Pacific, and the Canadian Northern, and we have a route unsurpassed, and unsurpassable. So great a scheme cannot be accomplished in a day, but Canada, which for a country of its population, has brought to a successful conclusion some of the most stupendous schemes of transportation facilities of any country in the world, will, under Sir Wilfrid's intelligent and well-balanced optimism, and tireless endeavour, certainly do her share in contributing to the achievement of the "All-Red Line."

FROM CHEMONG TO CITY IN ONE HOUR

Can It be Done Walking? A Citizen Says Yes

The walking record established between Chemong and Peterborough yesterday by the Best brothers, is arousing a great deal of interest and it is probable that it may be beaten. The young men think they can do the six miles in one hour and ten minutes, that is nine minutes less than yesterday morning's time, but others are willing to wager that it cannot be done.

Sergt.-Major Brittain, who is probably one of the city's fastest pedestrains, says he can span the six miles in one hour. It is possible therefore that more will soon be heard from local walkers who may outshine the famous Jimmy Reynolds or even Bunker.

SOUTH MONAGHAN TEACHER

Miss Taylor Presented With Chain and Locket on Eve of Departure From Her School in That Township

A VERY POPULAR TEACHER

On the eve of her departrue from S. S. No. 5, South Monaghan, a number of friends assembled at the school to bid their teacher, Miss Taylor, farewell, and to show their appreciation of her services by presenting her with a gold locket, chain, and opal pin, accompanied by the following address:

Dear Teacher,—

It is with deep regret we have learned that you are about to leave us.

This school section, we feel, has enjoyed a signal advantage in having you as our teacher during the past three years, and fully appreciates the kindly interest you have shown during your stay amongst us.

You have thrown yourself with untiring zeal into every department of the work, and you have been eminently successful.

The young people of this community owe a debt of gratitude to you, and feel that in your removal they have lost a friend.

For your many sterling qualities we have learned not only to admire, but to love you. It is, therefore, with feelings of sincere regret that we are assembled here this evening to bid you farewell. It is part of our pleasure on this occasion to ask your acceptance of this gift in token of the esteem in which you are held here.

In parting, we express the wish that the Divine favour may follow you in your preparation for further service in the good work in which you are engaged.

THE RIGHT MEDICINE FOR PELVIC TROUBLES FOUND IN PE-RU-NA.

MRS. CAROLINE KRAMER, Fort Collins, Col., writes:

"The majority of women who are suffering from disordered periods and other pelvic troubles, have such strong faith in doctors that they allow them to experiment on them for kidney, liver or stomach troubles until they become completely discouraged and their money is gone.

"This was my unfortunate experience for nearly two years when my attention was called to Peruna.

"I hardly dared believe that at last I had found the right medicine, but as I kept on using it and was finally cured, I could only thank God and take courage.

"I have had most satisfying results from the use of your medicine and have advised dozens of women who were suffering with woman's ills to use Peruna and let the doctors alone.

"Those who followed my advice are better today and many have returned to health."

Mrs. Wilda Mor[illegible], No. 1, Lents, Ore., writes

"For the past four years I was a wretched woman, suffering with severe backaches and other pains, leaving me so weak and weary that it was only with difficulty that I was able to attend to my household duties.

"I used different remedies, but found no relief until I had tried Peruna.

"Within two weeks there was a change for the better and in less than three months I was a well and happy woman.

"All the praise is due to Peruna."

Peterborough Interested In Lindsay Counterfeit Case

George Miller, the Printer Now on Trial, is Said to Have Tried to Pass Bad Bills Here.

INTERESTING EVIDENCE

Considerable local interest attaches itself to the trial of George Miller, one of the alleged counterfeiters in Lindsay, because of the fact that it is stated that he attempted to pass some of the bogus money in this city. A special despatch from Lindsay gives the following story of his trial yesterday.

Lindsay, July 23. — John Goetlin and George Miller, the two men accused of handling the counterfeit bills, who are making a fight for their innocence and liberty, were arraigned before Magistrates Moore and Jackson this morning. Miller is a very popular young man around town and the hearing of his case attracted a large crowd.

The townspeople are speculating on the length of sentence which will be imposed on the five men who yesterday afternoon pleaded guilty to the charges of having the bogus money in their possession. Recalling the Murphy counterfeiting cases here some years ago, it is remembered that each of the defendants at that time got from two to fourteen years imprisonment. The general feeling about town is that the present case does not call for such drastic punishment.

Some consideration will probably be taken by the Magistrates of the fact that the five prisoners pleaded guilty and saved the town and country from the expense of a long drawn out trial.

Trial by Magistrate

The proceedings this morning commenced with an argument between the counsel as to the course to be taken. Mr. Hopkins, defendant Miller's counsel, feared for a while for first place. He wanted to know if there were any witnesses from out of town, or any corroborative evidence. If so, he desired trial by jury.

At length the lawyer was assured by Mr. Bayley, for the Attorney-General, that the only witnesses were Sergt. Parkinson, of the Dominion police, Chief Vincent, of the Lindsay police, and Logie and Burke, who are in jail. Mr. Hopkins consented to trail by the Magistrates.

Prisoner is Privileged

When brought into the court room, Miller, the prisoner, took a seat beside his counsel at the lawyer's table.

Said Crown Attorney Devlin, "The other prisoners took seats in the dock, your Worship; why should this prisoner be privileged? I do not wish to be taken as being unkind to the prisoner," he added.

The Magistrate consented, however, to allowing Miller to keep his seat beside his lawyer. The charge read was to the effect that about two years ago, about June, 1905, the prisoner had in his possession certain forged notes of the Dominion, and the Bank of Montreal variety. A plea of not guilty was entered.

Parkinson, the Dominion detective, was the first witness. He told of a conversation with Logie, when the latter implicated Miller with the printing of counterfeit bills in Logie's statements of Burke and Logie. He denied having had anything to do with the counterfeiting operations in 1905.

Circulation in Belleville

Logie told the detectives that Miller also assisted in the circulation of the bills.

Hopkins, counsel for Miller, objected to Mr. Bayley questioning the witness about the circulation of bills in Belleville. "It is irrelevant to this case," said Mr. Hpkins.

"Oh, I think it is evidence in this case," said the Magistrate.

Parkinson said Chief Vincent found a tin box containing Traders Bank bills in Logie's house.

Cross examined by Mr. Hopkins, the witness said that it was at Detective Roger's suggestion that Logie and Burke were taken to the jail to confront Miller with their story. Rogers suggested it, and Miller said, "I should very much like to see them, and hear what they have to say."

This was when Miller denied the story of Logie, and the detectives wanted corroboration from Miller himself. When they all went in the jailer's office, Logie did not make his accusation direct. Rogers repeated Logie's story as told to him and Loggie nodded his head in acquiescence.

"Why you don't mean to say that all that's true?" said Miller referring to Logie's story as repeated by Rogers.

The Detective's Note Book

"Yes, George, it is true," said Logie.

Mr. Hopkins, the prisoner's counsel, insisted on seeing the detective's notebook, despite that officer's protestations.

The Magistrates permitted the lawyer to have a peep, however, in order to assure himself that he had noted the conversation as repeated this morning. Regarding previous investigations of 1905, Parkinson said he suspected Miller at that time.

"Anybody else?" queried the lawyer.

"Yes."

"Who?"

The witness declined to say, and the magistrate supported him.

"If there are others implicated," said Mr. Moore, "we cannot have their names mentioned."

An Old Suspicion

Mr. Parkinson produced a specimen of a bogus bank of Montreal note, that was in circulation at that time. It was a good imitation, but he did not know whether they were photographed or engraved.

"You had a photograph of Miller some years ago?"

"Yes."

"And you showed it to some parties who had received bogus bills?"

"Yes."

"And they did not recognize him as the man who passed the bills on them?"

"No."

This concluded the evidence for the morning and court adjourned for lunch. On resuming at two o'clock, Burke and Logie will be called to the witness box in the Miller case. The case of John Goetlin will be heard later in the day.

Mr. T E Weldon, Goetlin's counsel, says that the evidence against Goetlin is practically the same as that of the Miller case. He wanted the two men tried toget'er but Mr. Bayley would not consent.

Says Miller Helped

Robt. Logie, who yesterday pleaded guilty to having counterfeit money in his possession, was called this afternoon as a witness in the case against George Miller.

"Do you know the accused?" asked Mr. Bayley.

Witness said he did.

He stated he had seen Miller out at his (Logie's) farm on several occasions. He recalled one time in particular, about two or three years ago.

"What were you three doing at the time?"

"Doing something in connection with these notes." Witness spoke very low and had to be cautioned by the magistrate to speak up.

"What do you mean by connection with these notes?"

"We were making five dollar Dominion Bank and Bank of Montreal notes."

"In what way did you make these notes?"

"Burke fetched the press; I don't know who ran the press."

"What did you do in the manufacture of these notes?"

Witness was loth to say. He admitted that the materials were at his barn. Burke, Miller and himself all had a hand in the manufacture, he declared.

"When you constructed these notes who did they belong to?"

"They were supposed to belong to the three of us."

Miller and I Went.

"Then what was done with these notes?"

"Miller and I went out with them. I took them in the grip."

One of the Bank of Montreal five dollar notes was here produced. Logie identified it as resembling the notes made in his stable. He also thought he knew a Dominion counterfeit five dollar note.

Mr. Bayley asked Logie as to who owned the notes after they were made.

"The three of us I suppose. There was nothing very definite about it."

Mr. Hopkins, counsel for Miller, protested frequently that the witness did not speak loud enough.

"He can speak loud enough if he tries," said the lawyer. "I've heard him speak at times."

Continuing his examination, Mr. Bayley asked the witness if Miller had any object in his visitations except the making of the counterfeit bills. Logie said they had been friends for some time.

"Where did you go, accompanied by Miller, with the bills in circulation?"

In Peterborough and Brockville

"To Peterborough and Brockville. Mr. Hopkins gave Logie a scorching cross-examination.

"How long have you known Mr. Miller?" queried Mr. Hopkins.

"Five or six years."

"Other people besides Mr. Miller used to come up there, didn't they?"

"Oh, yes."

"Who were there?"

Mr. Bayley objected to respectable people's names being dragged into the trial. Mr. Hopkins did not press for an answer to his query.

"Did Mr. Miller bring any ink or paper to your place to help make these bills?"

"Not that I remember."

Logie said that there were not many of the bogus bills made in his barn at night.

"Were there any of those bills made at night?" demanded Mr. Hopkins.

"Yes, some of them by lantern light."

Logie said Burke and Miller were present when the bills were made at night.

Chas. Burke, in the witness box this afternoon in the case against Geo. Miller, said that Miller, Logie and himself had been frequently in Logie's barn together making counterfeit money.

Eczema's Itch Is Never Ending

EXCEPT BY ACTIVE AND PERSISTENT TREATMENT WITH THE GREAT ECZEMA CURE.

When left to itself, eczema runs on indefinitely, causing keen distress from itching and covering the body with sores that refuse to heal.

Even with careful treatment, eczema is obstinate in yielding to curative measures, but the regular and persistant use of Dr. Chase's Ointment is the most certain means known of overcoming this torturing disease.

Internal treatments for eczema have long since been discarded, except the use of medicin s to regulate the bowels and enrich the blood, while local applications are used to relieve the itching and heal the sores.

It is the remarkable success of Dr. Chase's Ointment in the cure of eczema which has given it world-wide recognition as the standard ointment for itching skin diseases.

Mrs. Robert Clendenning, Welland Station, Ont., writes:—

"For three years my daughter, Fanny, was afflicted with eczema in an intense and persistent form, and for nine days she was totally blind. The burning, itching and disfigurement were horrible, her entire face being completely raw for months, and the distress so great that she could not sleep.

"The best efforts of two eminent physicians failed to even mitigate her awful suffering. One day when I was low-spirited over my daughter's condition Dr. Chase's Ointment was recommended to me and to our surprise Fanny was helped with the first box and she has since been entirely cured by this treatment.

"Her face is now as smooth as a baby's and she is in splendid health. The credit for this cure is entirely due to Dr. Chase's Ointment, and I cheerfully give you permission to state my daughter's case, hoping that it will lead many others to secure the same good results."

There are a score of ways in which Dr. Chase's Ointment, with its extraordinary soothing, healing properties, is useful in every home; 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

EMIGRANTS ARE GOOD CITIZENS

But Some of Them May Have Told Fibs and Cheated Some, According to General Booth

London, July 22.—General Booth, speaking at Hull, said that Lord Rosebery had asked him if the Salvation Army emigrants were of good character.

The general replied that the Army didn't guarantee that the people sent out had never told a fib, had never done a bit of cheating, and never preferred laziness to industry. That class of people had found places in the Houses of Lords.

Lord Rosebery replied that they were all represented there.

HARGREAVE'S CIRCUS IN TROUBLE AGAIN

Lord's Day Act Prevented Them Getting Into Woodstock on Sunday

(Woodstock, July 23. — Hargreave's Railway Circus and Menagerie arrived in the city early yesterday morning from Ingersoll. The circus was scheduled to arrive in the city on Sunday morning, and the merchants holding orders to supply the organization with provisions had made all arrangements, when they received word that owing to the new Lord's Day Act their arrival would have to be postponed until Monday. The act provides that trains cannot be operated on Sunday unless they are in motion before midnight Saturday night; and of course this was impossible in the case of the circus, which was forced to stay in the pork packing town until after midnight on Sunday.

Drowning Or Exposure Was Cause Of Death

Coroner's Inquest Held in Connection With Death of Mrs. (Capt.) May, at Ludington.

WAS A BRAVE WOMAN

A recent issue of the Ludington Daily News has some further information concerning the discovery of the late Mrs. Captain May, whose death by drowning has already been recorded in these columns. The circumstances surrounding the death of this lady, who was born in this county and who had many friends and relatives here, were particularly sad. The News says:—

Coroner Carroll and undertaker John Magmar left yesterday afternoon for Point Sauble to take charge of the body of the woman washed ashore near there the night before.

A jury was impanelled from among the residents of the vicinity and after deliberating briefly rendered the following verdict:—"We find the body to be that of Mrs. May, wife of Captain May and that she came to her death from drowning or exposure in the wreck of the steamer Arcadia."

The body was brought to the city last evening and immediately taken to Magmer's morgue, where it was prepared for burial.

Efforts were made at once to get into communication with the relatives of Mrs. May at Cleveland but they are out of the city and as yet have not located.

The body will be preserved in a hermetically sealed casket and will probably be shipped to Cleveland as soon as relatives have been communicated with.

Arcadia Cask Found

Thursday's issue of the Manistee Daily News says:—

"When the fishing boat Cape Pigeon entered port this morning lifting nets south of the harbour she brought with her a large cask which bore the name "Arcadia." It was picked up off Cooper's Creek, a little stream which enters Lake Michigan about 14 miles south of here.

The cask evidently broke away from the wreck quite recently. Such is the opinion of Frank Johnson, the fisherman who found it and such its appearance indicates.

It is plain that the cask has not been on the beach and if it had been long afloat it would have seaweed attached, which it has not, and it would not be found so comparatively near the place where the steamer foundered if it had been drifting long. It would either have drifted far away or reached the beach.

Brave to the Last

The fact that both women were provided with life preservers, which were securely strapped on proves that the men of the Arcadia knew of the fate in store for them and acted like brave men to the last. Captain Harry May's note consigned to a bottle and picked up on the beach three miles south of this harbour has already been fully reported by the News. This note stated that the steamer was disabled through derangement of the steering gear, and that she was at the point of sinking.

WILL INSPECT THE INSPECTORS

R. H. Cowley, Inspector of Continuation Classes, May be Given a New Position in Near Future

The Toronto News understands that with the opening of the schools in September, Mr. R. H. Cowley, M.A., Provincial Inspector of Continuation Classes, will in all probability become Government Inspector of Public School Inspectors.

As intimated in these columns some time ago, the educational programme the Government had undertaken includes the better supervision and higher qualifications for inspectors. In future these officers will be required to satisfactorily pass a prescribed test, and their work will be more uniform and possibly exacting.

There have been complaints—not a few—to the Department concerning inspectors, and the whole question of their appointment, qualification and duties is under consideration.

THEY WILL VISIT IN OTTAWA

Ottawa Old Boys' Association May be Formed Here to Attend the Re-union

It is understood that a number of Ottawa old boys and former residents of the capital, in Peterborough, will pay a visit to that city during the re-union which will be held there during the early part of August. It is also stated that steps are under way to institute an Old Boys' Association in Peterborough, composed of former residents of Ottawa, and an effort will be made to take a large party from here to the re-union.

PETERBORO' CHIEF OF POLICE PICTURED IN LA PRESSE

La Presse, Montreal, has a front page group photogravure, of the Chiefs of Police in attendance at the convention in that city. On the extreme right of the picture, on the top shelf, of course, appears the picture of Chief of Police Rozek. La Presse being printed in French, the picture is a little obscure to the average reader. This obscurity is assisted by the fact that the letters press gives his name as "Razzell," possibly a clerical error, but more probably a delicate hint of the "razzle dazzle," the Chief, in the practice of his duties, is accustomed to give to law-breakers.

WILLIAM HICKEY

At the early age of twenty years, William Hickey, son of Edward Hickey of Emily, passed away yesterday afternoon, at 12.30 o'clock. The deceased was the eldest of six children and had only been ill for about six weeks. His death was due to a disease contracted from the measles. His parents, three brothers and two sisters, are the chief mourners of the deceased young man. The funeral will leave the family residence, lot 8, concession 22, Emily, on Thursday morning, and will proceed to St. Martin's church, Ennismore, and from there to the Ennismore cemetery.

Fifteen Thousand Dollars In Taxes Are Already Paid

But Over 80,000 is Yet to Come In During the Next Six Days—Early Payment Suggested.

$130,000 TOTAL TAXES

About fifteen thousand dollars in taxes have already been paid into the office of the City Tax Collector, and that official states that the money during the past few days has been coming in pretty rapidly. He advises, however, those who have not yet presented themselves with their bills and the necessary cash, to do so at as early a date as possible, and avoid the rush which is sure to come at the last few days.

On taxes paid on or before August 1st, a discount of two per cent. will be allowed, and in this year, as in the past, it is anticipated that the greater portion of the taxes will be paid in time to take advantage of this discount. Mr. Green expects that between ninety and one hundred thousand of the one hundred and thirty thousand dollars in taxes, will be paid between this date and the first of the month.

Extra office help has been secured during the next two weeks, and while the taxpayers will be accommodated as rapidly as possible, it will be wise to go early, and in the morning, if possible.

John Allen Succumbed To His Many Injuries

Teamster Who was Hurt Yesterday in Runaway, Died Two Hours Later—Father of Ten Children

HAD SEVERAL RIBS BROKEN

After lingering in extreme pain for two hours, John Allen, of Nassau, who was hurt in a runaway accident on Concession street yesterday afternoon about 3.30 o'clock, passed away at the St. Joseph's Hospital. The unfortunate accident was referrred to in yesterday's issue, but at that time it was not deemed serious. But on closer examination it was found that the man had been injured internally and without ever losing consciousness he died about 5.30 o'clock in the evening.

Mr. Allen had been working for the city corporation as a teamster and when injured was unloading gravel at the corner of Douro and Concession streets, East City. His team suddenly frightened and in attempting to get away the teamster fell between the horses and the whiffletree. His injuries were considered serious so he was removed to St. Joseph's Hospital in the ambulance. He was there attended by Dr. McNulty, but before medical aid could be successfully given he passed away conscious to the last. Four or five ribs on the right side were broken and besides there were a number of internal injuries.

The deceased man was 52 years of age and the son of the late Edward Allen of Douro who was one of the first settlers of that township. He lived in Douro until eight years ago when he moved to Nassau with his family. Besides tilling a small farm of ten acres there, he did some teaming for the city.

He leaves to mourn his loss, a wife and ten children the youngest of whom is only about five years of age. The sons and daughters still living are Garret, Patrick, Robert, Mrs. Garvey, Peterborough; and Misses Katie, Margaret, Laura, Elisabeth, Teresa and Lena.

There are six brothers living, the names being Edward, of Douro; Patrick, Robert, and Michael, of Lakefield; James of Peterborough, and William. The sisters are Mrs. Scully, of Peterborough and Mrs. Kennedy, of Douro.

The funeral will be held to-morrow afternoon at 2.30 o'clock to St. Joseph's Church, Douro, and thence to Douro Cemetery.

RAPID PROGRESS OF SHOVEL CO.

Has More Orders on Hand Now Than Can Be Manufactured in Four Months —A Prosperous Concern

ADDITIONAL CAPITAL

A meeting of the directors of the the Peterborough Shovel and Tool Company, was held this morning. The paid-up capital stock of this company is now $52,500, represented largely by machinery, buildings, patterns, etc. etc.

The company finds it necessary to carry from $50,000 to $75,000 worth of raw material and manufactured goods in stock in order to handle the business, and in view of this fact it was decided that additional money should be provided in order to carry the business along. This morning, therefore, the directors and the shareholders present provided $10,000, and it is the intention of the company to place, as required, the balance of the $75,000 as authorized by the shareholders.

The resignation of Mr. Wm. Irwin, as a director was accepted and Mr. James Davidson, one of the largest shareholders in the company was elected to succeed him.

The company is now in a flourishing condition and has more orders on hand at the present time than can be manufactured in four months, and the rapid development of the business has necessitated this increased capital.

TAYLOR'S INJURIES ARE SERIOUS

Young Peterborough Man Hurt at Ottawa in Bad Shape—Was at Top of 35 Foot Pole on High Building

TOUCHED A LIVE WIRE

The Ottawa Journal of yesterday tells the following additional facts concerning the serious accident to Mr. Earl Taylor, reference to which was made in yesterday's issue of the Examiner:

A shock from an electric wire, was the cause of Earl Taylor, of Peterborough, falling from the top of a telephone pole to the pavement at the corner of Bank street and Laurier avenue west at 8.30 this morning. Taylor now lies in a dangerous condition in the Protestant Hospital, suffering from internal injuries.

J. J. Turner & Sons of Peterborough, who have charge of decorating the city for the Old Boys' Reunion, put a number of men at work this morning on Bank street, and it was while erecting these decorations at the streets mentioned that the unfortunate man met with the accident. Flags had been arranged diagonally across the street, and the men were putting up a couple of banners. In order to secure these, Taylor went up to the top of the south west pole. He had been in his lofty position but a few minutes when, in changing his position, it appears that he came in contact with a live wire, the shock, although not serious, causing him to start. He immediately lost hold of the cross-bars on which he was, and fell crashing to the pavement 35 feet below, landing squarely on his back.

Assistance came swiftly, and in a moment both Doctors Baptie and Watson were summoned. The unconscious man was then taken into the drug store across the street, and quickly examined. It was at once seen that he was in a serious condition, and he was conveyed with all speed to the Protestant hospital, where it was ascertained that he was suffering from internal injuries.

Taylor is a young man of but 19 years and a resident of Peterborough. Whether his injuries will prove fatal or not cannot be determined for several days yet, but it is thought that he will be able to pull through.

A letter received this morning by Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons, from Ottawa, states that the injuries to Mr. Taylor were not as serious as was at first feared. He was taken to the hospital, where it was found that the injury was largely resulting from the electric shock, and it is expected that he will be able to be out again in a short time.

POLICE ON THE LOOKOUT FOR VAGRANTS

Suspicious Looking Characters Arrested —Actions Have Been Peculiar

James Hardy, an unique specimen of manhood, was the only prisoner who occupied the well-worn seat at the Police Court this morning. His unkempt beard, which almost enclosed his whole visage, gave him the appearance of a man whose social connections were severely neglected. His clothes were worn threadbare, his boots were of the variety that would stand a good deal of pressure against the earth, and his old lined, brown hat would suggest the appearance of the ideal tramp.

He pleaded not guilty to the charge of vagrancy and having no visible means of existence nor no place to rest his head. P. C. Adams testified that he had been hovering around the city for some few days, and that he had been out all Monday night wandering about the corner of Park and Charlotte streets. He, in company with other weary suspects, were chased by the police the other day, but he then disappeared in a field in the western section of the city. He was also seen, P. C. Adams stated, in Kay's City. Yesterday afternoon he was nabbed, however, and spent the night in stall No. 1 at the police station.

Acting Magistrate Armstrong remanded the prisoner until Monday morning in order to obtain witnesses to his peculiar actions.

CHEESE PRICES ARE STILL DOWN

Stocks Are Piling Up in Montreal and Demand From England is Weak

Good interest among dairymen will be taken in the following despatch from Montreal on the cheese situation there:—The cheese market, in sympathy with the country markets, is easier, and prices are a quarter of a cent lower than last week. The demand over the cable so far for prompt shipment is very slow, and it is doubtful whether this last decline will be sufficient to bring on any inquiries. There is no question but that the stocks in Montreal are increasing rapidly, and from last week to week a large quantity has been carried over.

The present week will see the balance of the July cheese shipped. These have been sold, and after they are out of the way a more legitimate trade will be done, and prices will likely be easier. The quotations today are, Quebecs, 10 5-8c; Townships, 10 3-4 to 10 7-8c; Ontario, white, 11c, coloured, 11 3-8c.

The local receipts to-day were 10,079 boxes.

Receipts at Montreal since May 1, 806,482 boxes, as compared with 872,380 boxes for the corresponding period of last year.

PROMINENT BUFFALO MEN HERE

Mining Men Who Are Interested in the Big Dipper Company

Mr. John G. Herb, 519 Riley street, Buffalo, N.Y., general agent of the Big Dipper Mining and Milling Co., and Mr. R. F. Penton, a Buffalo lawyer, arrived in the city yesterday evening and to-day left on the 11.16 C. P. R. train for the Big Dipper and Silver King Mines in which they are interested.

The above gentlemen were accompanied by Mr. A. F. Penton, a brother of the latter, and a member of the staff of the Buffalo Enquirer, an evening newspaper of that city.

The three gentlemen visited the Lift Lock this morning, and were amazed at its magnitude and the simplicity of its operation.

Mrs. and Miss Montizambert are holidaying in Toronto. Mr. Montizambert will join them to-night, and they will return to the city on Saturday.

Mr. Norman Geale, who is holidaying at the Sanarest, Clear Lake, Kawartha Park, is exploiting Stony Lake every day in his dinghy.

Mr. R. B. Rogers went to Bobeaygeon on Saturday to bring back his steam yacht Victoria, which had in tow the house boat, Lotus.

SANDY BOTTOM OF CREEK CAUSED TROUBLE

Delay in Beginning Abutements of the Charlotte Street Bridge

Some trouble was experienced this morning by the workmen on the construction of the new Charlotte street bridge which will delay the work for some little time. The water managed to percolate one of the dams thrown up to allow the men to construct the cement work on the abutments and this morning there was too much of the fluid to begin laying the concrete.

The sandy bottom of the creek below, the bridge was the cause of the trouble and before the cement work can be done this dam will have to be repaired. Street Commissioner Ewing intended beginning that work this morning but owing to the above reasons was unable to do so.

Mr. R. Wright of Toronto, traveller for the Steele-Briggs Seed Co., had the misfortune this morning to lose one of his horses which he uses in canvasing throughout the country.

It became sick yesterday morning on the street and although it was attended by a veterinary surgeon yesterday and this morning, it died about ten o'clock.

One case in that of a sixteen months old child who was cured of a scald head and another that of a woman cured of eczema on the face, after her doctor had given her up.

THE POWER COMMITTEE VISITED LOCKS

Took Soundings this Morning Below and Above the Dam

At the last meeting of the City Council a communication was read from Mr. J. H. Burnham on behalf of the J. M. Irwin estate, which includes the water-power at the Locks dam, offering to dispose of it to the city for $25,000. The communication was then referred to the special Power Committee, consisting of the Mayor, Ald. Stevenson and Bradburn, and who, this morning, in company with Mr. Burnham, visited the Locks dams. They examined the flow of the water and took its height below and above the dam for the purpose of supplying information to the Provincial Hydro-Electric Commission and for preparing their report for the Council. The city has already made application to the Commission to examine all the water-powers in the locality, and this, of course, will be done without cost to the city.

THE TATE OPTICAL CO.
PETERBORO.

Practically during my whole life (prior to June 1905) I was troubled with terrible pains in my head which I attributed to violent attacks of neuralgia. I tried innumerable headache and neuralgic preparations, but without obtaining the slightest relief. The suffering I endured for a year or more previous to the time I consulted you is indescribable. At times I became delirious through the intense pain, and was obliged to call in a local Physician. Many times morphine was administered to allay the terrible suffering I was undergoing, but this did not give me the slightest relief. A friend advised me to consult your Mr. Babcock, I did so and found out from you that I was suffering from muscular nervous asthenopia, caused by astigmatism. It was remarkable the relief I obtained after the treatment I received, and the wearing of the glasses you prescribed and made for me, since that time I have experienced no difficulty with my eyes, nor have I suffered the slightest return of the old trouble. I cannot help but attribute the ill-health and suffering I experienced as being due to the trouble in my eyes before consulting you. I feel very grateful indeed for the interest taken in my case, as I had almost despaired of ever getting any relief. I might also say I consulted opticians in Lindsay and Toronto in reference to my trouble, but obtained no relief. I desire to again express my sincere gratitude to you for the trouble taken in my case, as well as the wonderful cure effected. Yours sincerely

American "Old Glory" Was Removed From Ottawa Streets

Peterborough Firm Doing Decorating Hung American Flag in Front of City Hall, but it was Taken Down

EARLE TAYLOR IMPROVED

Examiner Special.

Ottawa, July 24.—The Peterborough firm that is doing the decorating here for the Old Boys' celebration put a huge American flag in front of the City Hall. It swung there from a street intersection, but this morning it was removed, and a Union Jack has replaced it. It is felt that when Americans do not place the Union Jack up any too prominently in American streets, Ottawa could hardly be expected to have one that would cover the front of a two-storey building, flying right in front of the municipal buildings. So it was thought wise to make the change. Now the British "Old Glory" is doing duty. In other parts of the city, however, amongst the really magnificent decorations, the Stars and Stripes can be seen occasionally flying with the British and Canadian emblems. No one objects to this, and in fact inaugurs a great welcome for the Americans that are coming back to the city of their birth.

There was no trouble nor really formal protesting, but it was thought wiser to make the change. Possibly this same flag may be used elsewhere in connection with the decorating.

Earle Taylor of Peterborough, who fell to the ground while on a telegraph pole doing some decorating, is getting along well at the Protestant Hospital. At noon a nurse said, "He passed a comfortable night, and seems to be out of danger."

Two Thousand Horse Power Available At The Locks Dam

A Head of 8 Feet 6 Inches Could be Maintained, it is Estimated —A Reliable Flow

A COMMITTEE TO REPORT

The proposal to purchase the water-power property at the locks, below the city, is attracting considerable attention among the business men of the city, and interest will be taken in the report which will be presented to the Council at its next meeting concerning it. The present head of water at the dam is seven feet six inches, and it can be increased, without doing any injury to anyone, to eight feet six inches. This level, it is anticipated, may be maintained, except for a short time in the spring, when the back water from the dam at Hastings may decrease the head to some extent. It is believed, however, that this may be overcome by using the extra sluiceway at Hastings.

The appearance of the locks is good and the flow regular. The estimate is that up to, say, 2,000 horsepower could be developed at the dam, and this quantity of power would be a welcome addition to the power already developed and transmitted to the city.

GOOD CROPS IN WEST ASSURED

Mr. W. C. Austin Says Things Are Looking Fine Now

Mr. Wm. Ayres has received from Mr. W. C. Austin of Peterborough, who is at present in the West, a letter from Battleford, Sask., on date July 20, in which he says:

"Rains have been coming down gently for two or three days, and there has been an enormous growth. Everything looks fine, and an excellent crop is almost assured for Alberta, Saskatchewan and Northern Manitoba."

"Southern Manitoba is dried up, I am told, and the crop will be very light."

"Tramping Lake has an abundance of rain, and Mr. Tate, who came up from there yesterday, reports that all crops west of Tramping Lake are very fine, and lots of rain. Had dinner with Mr. B. F. Ackerman here to-day."

A BIG FIRE REPORTED IN VICTORIA

British Columbia Metropolis is In Flames.

WATER SUPPLY INADEQUATE

Western Residential Portion of the City Wiped Out For a Mile—Loss Over a Quarter of a Million Dollars—Many Houses, a Church and School Burned — One of Most Disastrous Fire In B.C.

Victoria, B.C., July 24.—The western portion of Victoria is in flames. There is no adequate supply of water.

Victoria is a city of 35,000, and extends east and west along James Bay, an inlet from the ocean running into the lower extremity of Vancouver Island.

The western portion of the town is residential. In the centre stands the Government buildings and the new C.P.R. hotel.

One of the most disastrous fires in the history of Victoria is taking place and a strip of the city almost a mile in length has been wiped out by fire. The conflagration broke out in the middle of the afternoon in a blacksmith shop on Store street, on the waterfront, and the strong wind from the southwest carried the fire across the city. Two whole blocks bounded by Store, Herald, Douglas and Chatham streets were wiped out. Most of the buildings burned in this area were not of much value, but leaping a block, the fire swept up the southern side of Herald street between Douglas and Blanchard, burning all the residences on that side, and destroying the Calvary Baptist Church and a number of dwellings opposite. The fire then continued along Green and several adjoining streets, until stopped by the open spaces and by the volunteer brigades, which tore down the buildings to stop the flames. Last night the fire was practically checked, but the loss will be a quarter of a million dollars. The water pressure was lamentably low, and the strong wind and dryness of materials, together with inflammable character of most of the buildings, completed a set of conditions which helped to fan the flames.

A witness who was asked what his position was in a certain firm, during a case at the Marylebone county court, said that he was a kind of sleeping partner. "And he did sleep," said the other partner.

IS IT DESS DE BAR?

Detroit "Flying Rollers" Say Notorious Woman Is Arrested.

Detroit, July 24.—It has just been discovered that Dess de Bar, who posed in Detroit and Windsor as Mother Elinor, head of the Flying Rollers, had plans laid to swindle Col. Lewis F. Newman, a mining stock broker, with offices in Toronto, out of $50,000 worth of Cobalt mining stock, by representing herself as a sister of J. Pierpont Morgan.

She would have succeeded, members of the Flying Rollers say, had they not refused to go into the game.

Trustee Preston of the Flying Rollers says that Miss Josephine Leslie, arrested in Newmarket, England, for using the name of J. Pierpont Morgan to defraud prominent people out of large sums of fictitious stock deals, is no other than Dess de Bar, and will sail for England at once to identify her.

Two Toronto Suicides.

Toronto, July 25.—Peter Foley, 70 years of age, for 16 years shoemaker at the House of Industry, committed suicide by jumping into the bay at the foot of Frederick street at five o'clock yesterday afternoon. The act was apparently the result of despondency, caused by excessive drinking, he having been detained at No. 1 police station Monday night for drunkenness.

Frank Stephen, 29 Cowan avenue, Parkdale, committed suicide last evening about 7.30 by taking cyanid of potassium, a deadly poison. Mr. Stephens had been despondent, and was thought to be brooding over financial affairs, as all was harmony in his domestic life.

French Officers Resign.

Paris, July 24.—It is reported that Gen. L. F. H. Metzinger and Gen. N. C. C. L. Michal, members of the general staff, will follow the example of Gen. Hagron, who last week resigned as commander-in-chief of the French army, because he disapproved in the proposed reduction of the strength of the army.

Ottawa, July 24.—Freres Deroulin, an employe of the E. B. Eddy Co., for unknown reasons attacked his wife and daughter with a knife, but they escaped him by flight. He then shot himself near the heart.

The Ideal Laxative for Children

Mothers cannot be too careful in what they give children to move the bowels. Calomel, cascara, senna, salts, cathartic pills, castor oil, and purging mineral waters irritate the bowels—upset the stomach—and eventually lead up to chronic non-action of the bowels—Constipation.

Fruit-a-tives

are the finest medicine in the world for children.

It is just like giving the little ones apples, oranges, figs and prunes—because "Fruit-a-tives" ARE the juices of these fruits—but so combined that the medicinal action is increased many times.

Fruit-a-tives are perfectly safe for the children. Keep a box always in the house.

SHOULD PLAY HEYGALE ON THE INTERNATIONAL CRICKET TEAM

Mr. H. Cyril Hall, who has been chosen as the representative of the Peterborough Club, on the International Cricket Team, suggests one improvement at least in the personnel of the team. He is of the opinion that Mr. Heygate of Montreal, a former Sussex county man, should be a member of the team, although he did not pretend to say whom he should displace.

The men chosen on the team, as published yesterday, Mr. Hill says, are all excellent players, and if they have had sufficient practice should give a good account of themselves in the International match.

PETERBOROUGH TIED FOR 2ND PLACE

Oshawa Drops Out of Midland League and the Locals Play Cobourg Here on Saturday

At the meeting of the executive of the Midland Baseball League last night, it was decided to allow Oshawa to withdraw from the league, and the game won by that team from Peterborough in Oshawa goes as a win to Peterborough, this team now standing tied with Cobourg for second place, and Port Hope as the league leaders.

Peterborough and Cobourg each have five wins and three losses, and these two teams have three games to play with each other yet. The first of this series of three will be played here on Saturday, and the local team is determined to win it, at least. With this game won the home team will then be tied with Port Hope for the leadership, and there are those who profess belief in the locals' ability to trim the leaders in a series of games.

The game on Saturday should be one of the best of the series. By their defeat of Port Hope on Saturday last the Cobourg team demonstrated their ability to play good ball and the contest will be hot from start to finish.

UMPIRE DISPLEASES PORT HOPERS

The League Leaders Lost a Game and Blame It on the Official—Now They Know How It Feels

The Port Hope baseball team now has a kick to raise against the work of an umpire. The Guide of yesterday gave vent to the following howl concerning the game in Cobourg, which the visiting team lost:—The local club journeyed to Cobourg on Saturday afternoon to play a league game, and, as expected, the match was not completed. President Jex was unable to secure an umpire, and it was felt that with a green man on the job for such an important game there would be trouble. And there certainly was. The locals were quite justified in their protests, for the ump's decisions were the worst that could be handed out. This official of whom we are speaking was O. A. Gumbay of Orono, who just happened to be in Cobourg, and he was requested by both clubs to officiate. There was a time when Gumbay was a good man with the indicator, but he has been out of the game for about ten years and it has grown too fast for him. He may have endeavoured to be quite impartial, but his two decisions at the plate in the eighth innings were certainly the limit. A man that has any knowledge at all about baseball knows that a runner is entitled to a base on a block ball, and again it was quite plain that Brown was safe at the plate on Surphlis' hit to second. However, teams must look for this now, and again, and Port Hope certainly received a good plaster on Saturday. It is all over now; Cobourg is all tickled with the victory, while we take consolation that we can trim the same bunch any place in Ontario with an impartial official, just six times in a week. Now that is no bluff at all. The fact of the matter is that Cobourg is not in the same class as Port Hope, and they are welcome to all the so-called victories, such as Saturday's, as they can grab.

GOOD NEWS FOR THE MEMBERS

Important Letter Read at Meeting of Ancient Order of Foresters' Court

The regular meeting of Court Stanley was held last night in S.O.E. Hall. A fairly good attendance turned out. Bro. F. Kendry, C.R., was in the chair and two candidates were initiated and one proposition was received for membership. The Court is still going ahead, adding new members at every meeting. Bro. Sec. R. J. McWilliams had a pleasing letter to read to policy holders in the insurance branch of the Order in reference to cash surrenders or bonuses added to the policy, the present time being end of period of five years when the profits of the policyholders are divided, this being the first time in fraternal insurance that such a thing has occurred, it being extremely gratifying to members of A.O.F. that this is the only society doing business on the straight life plan and sahring its profits with its members in Canada.

One member, who has just returned from Montreal and other points, Bro. F. Noakes, said the fact of the Order being world-wide, was vividly exemplified to him by the fact that both here and abroad he had no difficulty in obtaining admission into other and foreign courts and was treated everywhere as well as at home and was feted everywhere, and he being just a young member.

Several others gave addresses and Chief Ranger Bro. F. Hendry gave the newly elected members some very encouraging remarks.

GREAT BASE BALL GAME NOW

Defi of the Review Team Accepted, and Teams of the Two Papers Clash at The Printers' Picnic

The sporting writers—or rather alleged sporting writers—on the Review never could do anything on the square, anyhow, and yesterday further evidence of this fact was given, when, taking a mean advantage of the condition in which the Examiner staff was placed, they challenged the baseball team, representing this office to a game, to be played at the Printers' picnic. The disadvantageous condition referred to may be stated as follows: — The sporting writer on this sheet has gone to Stony Lake on a holiday, and to prepare his supply of fish stories for the next years consumption, and the fighting editor is sick—a result of too much fighting—the consequence being that there is no one except the society editor left to reply to the nasty, mean things on the Review who wrote such an insulting article last night.

In spite of the many social engagements of the members of the Examiner baseball seven—or is it eleven?—the kind invitation of the Review is accepted, and the mail players of this paper will be very happy to accommodate those of the opposing team with a game on the occasion of the annual gathering in the nature of a delightful social function at that popular summer resort, Idyl Wild. There is, however, one condition to the acceptance of the challenge, namely, that the new clothes which have been ordered for the occasion are available for use that day.

This is absolutely the only condition. The mail players from this staff will not try to make capital by making excuses and begging the issue, as the writers on the other sheets have been wont to do in the past, when challenges have emanated from this office. Because they have a battery imported from Toronto for the occasion, they are feeling sure of a victory, but in spite of this seeming handicap the Examiner team is willing to go into the fray prepared to die for the cause.

A game they profess to want—a game they shall have.

TENNIS

About twenty members of the Nicholls oval tennis club, went down the river yesterday evening in skiffs and canoes, and besides enjoying the sail, partook of tea on the bank of the river at Clifford's Point.

Last night the Nicholls Oval Tennis Club decided to hold a tournament, the games to begin next week. Ladies' and gentlemen's singles and mixed doubles will probably be the extent of the contests. The executive will meet this evening to complete arrangements.

CRICKET

The Toronto Star, in sizing up the players chosen for the International cricket team, thus refers to the Peterborough representative: H. C. Hill of Peterborough is a first-class all-around man. He is good with the ball, the willow, and out in the field. He came into fame with McGill. He has played for Canada several times, and in almost every instance did something.

BASEBALL

Buffalo and Toronto both won their games in the Eastern League yesterday, and as a result the Canadian team leads the league by one point.

FOOT BRIDGE QUESTION TO BE DISCUSSED

Board of Works and Fire Water and Light Committees this Evening

Two committees of the City Council will meet this evening, and both are called for 8 o'clock. They are the Board of Works and the Fire, Water and Light, and it is expected that one or two important questions will arise.

The Board of Works has received and answer from the C.P.R. to their communication regarding the footbridge over the Otonabee River, and this will be taken up to-night.

It is possible, too, that the Fire, Water and Light Committee will recommend an engineer for the fire-hall this evening, as the applications received some time ago were referred to that body.

HUSBAND OF MRS. DALEY WANTS TO APPEAL

Some Statements About the Furniture of the Parnell Street House

Mr. Davy, husband of the late proprietor of No. 24 Parnell street, arrived in the city this morning and inquired at the police station the circumstances under which his wife was arrested and sentenced to a term in prison. He spoke as if he did not believe her to be guilty, and said that he intended to have the case appealed, if it were at all possible. He left the station to search for a counsel in the matter, but the fruits of his efforts are not yet known.

Upon investigation it has been found that the house on Parnell street contained excellent furniture, and plenty of it. There were two pianos, a handsome stove, clock, tables, etc., and it is learned that the first payments have been made on almost every piece of furniture. It is also stated that Mr. Davy has paid $400 on the house, on which a mortgage is held.

Wm. Jas. Goslin, of Port Hope, father of John Goslin, was in the city to-day on his way home from Lindsay, where he was one of the interested spectators in the court room yesterday when his son came up for trial before Magistrate Moore. Mr. Goslin was seen by an Examiner reporter and conversed freely upon the Lindsay counterfeit case for which his son was arrested.

"They could not prove anything against him," said the old man, with a happy look on his face.

"My son may have been seen in the company of the men at one time, but he had nothing to do with the bad money," he added.

Mr. Goslin, Sr., has been up at Lindsay since Saturday and knows what's going on in connection with the case. He believed that young Maher, the pressman, would go free on Friday.

DAVIS-ALLEN

A quiet wedding took place at 503 Aylmer street this afternoon when Miss Jessie I. Allan, daughter of Mrs. Alexander Allan, was united in marriage to Mr. Anderson Davis, son of Mr. William Davis, of Young's Point. The ceremony took place at 3 o'clock, and was performed by Rev. J. P. Potter in the presence of a few intimate friends and relatives of the contracting parties.

The bridal pair were unattended, and the ceremony, though unmarked by display, was very pretty. The bride was attired in a handsome costume of navy blue taffeta silk.

After the ceremony a dainty wedding dinner was partaken of, and hearty congratulations were tendered the happy bride and groom.

They left on the 4.40 C. P. R. train for Regina, where they will reside. The bride received a large number of handsome presents, an evidence of her popularity.

WOMEN PAY MORE

Why Insurance Companies Discriminate Against the Gentle Sex

If one is to believe the medical examiners the reason a woman pays more for the privilege of life insurance is that she is much more commonly a victim of indigestion and stomach troubles, and the fatal ailments that spring from these causes.

It is not the acute attacks of disease that influence the insurance examiners alone, but the constant feelings of weakness, headache, indigestion and stomach troubles. These things, physicians say, kill more people than many of the serious diseases.

For curative power in all stomach troubles nothing else is as safe yet effective, nothing else can be so thoroughly relied upon to relieve all troubles of indigestion, as Mi-o-na. It is unlike any remedy heretofore known; it is not a mere digestive tablet; it strengthens and restores to natural action of the stomach and bowels, and makes a complete cure in even the worst forms of stomach troubles.

Mr. Madill sells Mi-o-na in 50-cent boxes under a guarantee to refund the money unless it does all that is claimed for it.

STRATFORD SUFFERING FROM DROUGHT

No Rain There For Several Weeks Says Mr Whitham

"There has been no rain in Stratford and vicinity for several weeks," said Mr. S. F. Whitham, Normal School contractor, to the Examiner to-day. He further stated that the crops there were not looking extra well on that account, and considered that the farmers here were very fortunate in getting an occasional shower. The growth has been very poor near Stratford in almost all the crops. The hay is thick on the ground, but very short, and Mr. Whitham considered that there would be a great scarcity in that locality.

Mr. Whitham is here on one of his regular tours of inspection of the work on the new school, and is pleased with the progress. The stone work of the foundation has been completed, and the workmen are prepared to begin the first storey.

HALF A MILLION GOES UP IN SMOKE; OTTAWA AGAIN HAS A BAD FIRE

Edwards' Mills Suffer From a Serious Conflagration — One Man Reported to be Missing.

100 MEN OUT OF WORK

Origin of Fire Believed to Have Been Electric Storm—Other Concerns Were Heavy Losers.

Examiner Special.

Ottawa, July 25.—A disastrous fire struck Ottawa at 5 o'clock this morning, and, though under control at 10 o'clock, is still burning. It did at least $500,000 damage, and, though there are no fatalities, there is an unconfirmed rumour that a man is missing.

The fire was at the W. E. Edwards' big lumber concern in New Edinburgh, and it burned to the ground. The planing mill, factory and some office buildings, the Canadian Lumbery Bureau Building, and several million feet of lumber were destroyed. The loss at the Edwards Company's branch will run to $300,000, but there is thought to be insurance for at least $200,000. Crossing the road, the flames soon attacked another office building of the Edwards Co., burned Foley's Hotel, C. J. Neate's grocery store, and No. 6 Fire Station, one of the most modern and best equipped of the nine in the city. It also destroyed a couple of residences.

The mica factory, owned by Russell Blackburn of this city, was also burned down, and it is said that $50,000 worth of mica that was stored there went up in smoke. The dry lumber burned with great fierceness, and although the firemen from all nine stations were out for a time, they were powerless to control the flames, though they had hundreds of feet of hose out and over a dozen streams on the flames.

Attacking the big lumber piles, the flames soared fifty feet into the air. To the fact that there was very little wind is it largely due that the fire did not create more havoc. The fire is supposed to be the outcome of a bad electric storm during the night, but flames were not noticed until 5 o'clock this morning. It is thought that most of the other people concerned are insured, and it is a case of where the insurance companies are once again badly hit by an Ottawa conflagration. Probably seven or eight of this firm's buildings were destroyed, and much valuable machinery, but the main mill was saved. The fire will throw several hundred men out of work.

Excellent Appointment For Mr. D. Walker, B. A.

Public School Inspector Given Post as Assistant Principal of Normal Schools—Has Not Accepted Yet.

A VERY GOOD POSITION

Mr. D. Walker, B.A., Peterborough's Public School Inspector, has been named for an important position in the educational affairs of the Province. The announcement is made from Toronto to-day that he will be offered a post as assistant principal of one of the Normal Schools in Ontario, at present, in London, Toronto and Ottawa. The new Normal Schools will not be ready until September, 1908, but in the meantime the three existing schools will be reorganized on the new basis, and six new assistants are being appointed two to each school. Mr. Walker is named as one of these assistants.

While it is not known definitely, it is expected that the principals of the new schools will be selected from among the six men named now as assistants, and it is considered probable that Mr. Walker will be given the principalship of one of the Normal Schools, a position, which of course, would be very desirable.

To-day Mr. Walker stated to the Examiner that he had not as yet been given his appointment, and had heard nothing official, so that he was not at liberty to discuss the matter. He could not say whether he would accept the position, or not; that would depend largely on what it involved.

To say that the members of the Board of Education were given an unpleasant surprise when they learned of the appointment of Mr. Walker is putting it mildly. They expressed regret at the prospect of losing the most efficient inspector they have ever had, and are hoping that he may decide to remain in his present position.

Derangement Of Store Does Not Affect Business

In Spite of Fact That Store is Full of Carpenters and Masons, Cressman's Business Continues to be Good.

DIFFICULTIES OVERCOME

The Cressman store is at the present time in a state of disruption. So far as the staff is concerned, or the management of the store there is no disorganization. On the contrary, it would appear that they must be thoroughly well organized in order to be able to do business at all under the conditions existing. The whole interior of the store is torn in pieces and the re-arrangement and enlargement of the store premises is now in progress. A staff of from 15 to 25 men has been at work in the store for the last two months, and will be busy until September 1st, when the proprietor expects to be able to welcome his friends into his new building. At the present time business is certainly being carried on under disadvantages—but it is being carried on—and the surprising part of it is that the volume of sales during the period of transition is one-third greater than it was during the same period last year.

The Bargain Annex on the fourth floor is visited by crowds on Wednesdays, in spite of the fact that it is necessary to climb the stairs to reach it, the elevator being temporarily out of commission because of the fact that it is being removed. It is expected, though, that it will be ready for operation in a few days now.

While, of course, it is impossible to form an accurate idea of the appearance the store will present when completed, it can be readily seen that a much greater floor space will be afforded, and it can be imagined that the arrangement will be in keeping with the usual well-thought out plans which characterize this store.

In the meantime business is being carried on under difficulties, but the business is coming in spite of these conditions.

LUMBERMEN HAD A GOOD SEASON

Charlton Lumber Company Output Was 300,000 Logs and 12,000,000 Feet of Lumber

Mr. Isaac Dormer, who has been working for the last few months for the Charlton Lumber Company, in the Sturgeon waters north of Sudbury, has returned to his home here, after completing his spring's work. This company cut and drove to the mills this season more than 300,000 logs, amounting to about 12,000,000 feet of lumber. The winter season was good for cutting the timber, and the drives were gotten out in good shape. Mr. C. E. Fitzgerald was the woods superintendent for this company.

Local Photographer Was Easy For Slick Amateur

At the Convention He Told of Being "Touched" For a Suit of Clothes and $12 in Money.

THE ANNUAL GATHERING

Three Peterborough photographers are in Toronto attending the annual convention of the Photographers' Association of Canada, concerning the opening of which the News of last night says:

The convention of the Photographers' Association of Canada opened this morning in Victoria Hall with a large attendance. The convention was an hour or two behind schedule time in starting, but this is not surprising when the president, A. M. Cunningham, of Hamilton, stated that this was their first "annual" gathering for eleven years. For this reason, Secretary E. Poole, St. Catharines, was released from reading the last minutes, the members having little relish for ancient history.

A Bureau of Labour will be formed to prevent amateurs from imposing on the members of the craft. A Peterborough photographer told of being "roped" in by a smooth stranger last week to the extent of twelve dollars and a suit of clothes.

"Why," exclaimed the president, "that's the same man who held me up in Hamilton yesterday for a dollar."

"I met this gentleman, too," exclaimed a third, "but escaped him by being very busy."

Band to-night at Jackson Park.

The Sugar Co. Creditors Are Being Paid Claims

Liquidator is Sending Out Cheques to Those Who Held Claims Against This Company.

TWO CLASSES PAID

After some years of waiting, the liquidation of the Peterborough Sugar Company is practically completed. The result is that the creditors of the defunct company are now receiving cheques from the official liquidator, Mr. Frank Adams, for the full amount of their claims, with interest added from January 1, 1904.

The number of creditors to benefit by the liquidation is 33, and the total amount of their claims is $10,118.08, of which $1,114.08 is interest, accrued since January 1, 1904.

The creditors above referred to do not embrace, by any means, the large number of original creditors. Some time ago, during the progress of the winding-up proceedings, the original promoters of the company purchased the claims of a large majority of the creditors, paying therefor the amount of forty cents on the dollar. They have now, as they have the right to do, set off the remaining moiety, the against liability of the directors on the stock subscribed.

The number of creditors whose claims were extinguished by the sacrifice of 60 per cent. of their face value is 127, and the total amount of such claims was $16,134.30, which, at 60 per cent. discount, realizes the sum of $6,453.72.

Thus, a matter which has been productive of a great deal of anxiety and harrassment to a great many persons, has been finally disposed of, satisfactorily to, at least, a part of the persons concerned.

Band to-night at Jackson Park.

P. S. INSPECTOR WALKER

It is announced in the press that the Government has selected Mr. Duncan Walker, B.A., Public School Inspector, of Peterborough, to fill one of the six vacancies in the staffs of the Toronto, Ottawa and London Normal Schools. The people of Peterborough, and especially the Board of Education and the teaching staff of the Public Schools, are fully appreciate the compliment implied in the selection, for, in point of fitness for the official discharge of the duties of the post mentioned, no better choice than that of Mr. Walker could be made. It would be a matter of deep regret to Peterborough, to educational, to military, society and other interests, if Mr. Walkers' acceptance of the position should should take him from the city. For many years he has most efficiently discharged the duties of inspector, in every respect. He is, as we have abundant proof, well fitted for the duties of inspector, by virtue of, a scholarly equipment and a large experience in the art of pedagogy. He has a peculiar talent for organization and system, two of the best elements of success. He possesses a quiet, persistent energy, which, co-operating with good system, avoids a waste of effort, every action being made to tell. He possesses tact, courtesy and industry, and, in fine, is especially well qualified for the position he now holds. His discharge of the duties of his present office has exhibited the efficient exercise of all the qualities ascribed to him above. He possesses the respect of the teaching staff, a circumstance involving ideal relations contributing to teaching success and harmony of object and action. He very fully possesses the confidence of the Board of Education, and enjoys its appreciation of the value of his work, as shown by special arrangements in regard to emolument, applicable only to his case. And with good reason. Apart from his services in his official services, he has been of great use to the Board in an advisory capacity. Especially in the selection of efficient teachers, his judgment, advice and experience have been of great value. In a word, under his inspectorate, the Public Schools of Peterborough have been brought to a highly organized state of efficiency. He has conspicuously made good as inspector, and if, unfortunately for us, he should decide to exchange a position of responsibility and largely independent liberty of initiative and action for a comparatively subordinate position in one of the Normal Schools, his place here will, with difficulty, be so satisfactorily filled. Mr. Walker would be greatly missed in other relations in which he has taken a prominent place. He has recently been appointed District Deputy Grand Master of the Masonic Order for the Central Ontario district, and for a long time he has been associated with the 57th Battalion, occupying the position of adjutant. In his private relations his irreproachable demeanour and clean life are an influence upon, and an example to, both youth and age. In every respect he has been, and is, an exemplary citizen, whose departure would be a distinct loss to both the educational and numerous other interests of Peterborough.

FOLLOWED HER MOTHER'S EXAMPLE.

AND KEPT DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY IN THE HOUSE.

Mrs. W. J. Wilson, Tessier, Sask. tells of her experience in the following words: "I wish to tell you of the good I have found in DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY. Last summer my little girl, aged two years, was taken ill with Summer Complaint, and as my mother always kept DR. FOWLER'S in the house, when I was a child, I seemed to follow her example, as I always have it also. I at once gave it to my baby as directed and she was at once relieved, and after a couple of doses were taken was completely cured."

DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY imparts a healthy tone to all mucous surfaces, corrects and heals all forms of canker and counteracts all tendency to pain and inflammation, while it gives tone to the debilitated system when weakened by exhaustive discharges and fluxes of whatever nature, thus making it the best and safest remedy for Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Colic, Cramps, Pain in the Stomach, Sea Sickness, Cholera Infantum, Cholera Morbus and all Summer Complaints.

ISOLATION HOSPITAL.

Peterborough aldermen can't consistently jibe at Belleville for being slow and sleepy. The City Council of the bayside settlement has decidided to build a $10,350 isolation hospital, and the contract has been awarded. It is believed that, with its furnishings, the building will cost $15,000. Peterborough aldermen have been talking for years, more or less, about building an isolation hospital, and, some time ago, screwed up their courage to the point of contemplating, tentatively, the building of a $7,000 isolation hospital. But the project has never got beyond the stage of furnishing material for pavement for the infernal regions. A prominent member of the local Board of Health regards the isolation hospital project as defunct, and thinks the city aldermen will only be spurred to action by the outbreak of a sweeping epidemic. A civic body, with such practical indifference to the finger of scorn pointed at us by outside places over the wretchedly villainous condition in which our streets are allowed to permanently remain, will not be moved by considerations of the disgrace to the city, injury to the public health, and loss of life to citizens that may come from the lack of an isolation hospital. Common prudence suggests the advisability of being prepared for any emergency that may crop up in the ordinary and minor affairs of business and private life. Much more is suggested, the wisdom of being in readiness for an epidemic of contagious disease that may strike the city at any time. The neglect of the City Council in the matter of an isolation hospital is comparable to the action of a surgeon, who, performing a capital operation, leaves his ligatures at home and only sends for them in a hurry when he has slashed through an artery and his patient is in danger of bleeding to death.

AS OTHERS SEE HIM

The Mail and Empire seems the only journal in Canada, to show a petty spirit of spite and envy over the enthusiastic welcome extended to Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Nearly the whole Conservative press of the country has united in courteous recognition of Sir Wilfrid's claim to such a reception, based upon his eminence as a statesman and his high qualities as a man. The Ottawa Citizen says:—

His party friends have good reason to admire the brilliant Liberal leader, and should there be an exuberance in their welcome to-night that may perchance be missing in the case of the Conservatives, the latter will none the less sincerely rejoice in the safe return to the city of a man whose courtly presence on the streets fixes attention, whose sunny smile almost persuades his political opponents, and whose homely virtues and personal worth are at once worthy of emulation by and the glory of his fellow-citizens.

And the Toronto World in a column of double columns kindly and fair comment upon the various circumstances of the Premier's reception, remarks:—

But, after all is said and done, there was everywhere manifested an unmistakable pride in and affection for Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Discount and disguise it as we may, the Canadian people look upon Sir Wilfrid Laurier differently than upon any other man in Canada.

Here is one test: Suppose the Empress had gone down and the premier had been lost, would there not have been universal grief, a feeling of personal affliction in every home in Canada? We were, all of us, proud to have our country represented by him when the Nations of the Empire assembled in London. We, all of us, had a comfortable feeling, 'way down in our hearts, that Canada led . . . To sum up, Sir Wilfrid Laurier has returned with new strength and vigor. It is no secret that he intends to reorganize his cabinet, and then to bend his energies to bringing about the "all red line" and the building of the Georgian Bay Canal. His friends think it is not impossible that, like Sir John A. Macdonald, he will die Premier of Canada. And after him, the deluge!

EDITORIAL NOTES

When the city fathers tax both our patience and our pockets on war tax lines its a little too much to bear without grumbling.

Citizens don't know how dear their homes are to them till they get their tax bills.

We shall never complain of bureaucratic government so long as it takes no other form than the magnificant Montreal welcome extended to Sir Wilfrid Laurier and arranged by Hon Jacques Bureau.

M'KEOWN WINS IN DUFFERIN.

Conservative Candidate For Legislature Defeats the Independent.

Orangeville, July 25.—Mayor C. R. McKeown (Conservative) was yesterday elected to the Legislature for the County of Dufferin, by a majority of 100 over J. R. Woods (Independent). Three of the polling places gave the latter the significant majority of 23. The majority of the late Dr. Lewis was 222.

The result was in doubt until the last returns were received, and as a consequence the excitement ran high.

The mayor addressed the electors from the balcony of the Queen's Hotel when his election was assured. He promised impartial representation.

The prohibition end of the fight was lost sight of in the campaign, which was "the lawyer against the farmer," and the cry became a serious one in the county.

NORMAL TEACHERS CHOSEN.

They Will Act as Assistants Until New Schools Open.

Toronto, July 25.—Pending the opening of the three new provincial normal schools next September, the present ones are being reorganized on the new basis and in accordance therewith the following appointments have been made as assistants to each school:

F. J. Radcliffe, B.A., principal of London Collegiate Institute; S. A. Morgan, B.A., D. Paed., English master at Hamilton, C.I.; D. D. Moshier, B.A., B. Paed., public school inspector, West Lambton; D. Walker, B.A., inspector public school, Peterboro; S. Silcox, B.A., D. Paed., inspector public schools, St. Thomas; J. F. Power, M.A., inspector separate schools, London.

A THREE-FOURTHS CROP.

At Present Values Manitoba Farmers Will Make Good Cash Returns.

Ottawa, July 25.—Dr. Wm. Saunders, director of experimental farms, has returned from his tour of inspection of Manitoba and the west.

He says the area in which partial failure is expected, owing to drought, is a restricted one, and on the whole, after a careful review of the situation, he believes that there will be a three-fourths crop.

With wheat at its present price this will mean a larger cash return to the farmer than he received for the crop of last year.

Even should some of the late sown grain become frosted it will fetch a price almost as high as was obtained for good wheat last season.

Miserly Recluse Murdered.

Amsterdam, N.Y., July 25.—Wm. E. McLachlan, a recluse living on a small farm in Crane's Hollow, a few miles from this city, was found dead on the floor of his home by a neighbor with eight stab wounds in his body.

McLachlan, who was estimated to be worth $75,000, lived alone in a miserly way and made something of an income from repairing clocks and guns.

Redmond Will Oppose.

London, July 25.—In the House of Commons yesterday Premier Campbell-Bannerman presented a royal message proposing a special grant of $250,000 to Lord Cromer, who recently resigned the post of British agent and Consul-General in Egypt, in recognition of his services to that country.

William Redmond, Nationalist, announced the intention of opposing the voting of this sum.

There is no dust nuisance in connection with the Sunshine.

Because the Sunshine is fitted with a dust flue (see illustration.)

When you rock down the ashes (no back-breaking shaking with the Sunshine) what dust arises is drawn from the ash-pan up the dust-flue, then across the fire-pot to the smoke-pipe, as shown in illustration, where it immediately ascends to the outer air.

Only two things to remember in connection with this operation:—open both the dust and direct draft dampers.

PLAIN TALK FROM THE DOCTOR

A prominent physician, famous for his success in the treatment of kidney and bladder troubles, stated that to the following prescription is due a great deal of his success:

One ounce fluid extract dandelion;
One ounce compound salatone;
Four ounces compound syrup sarsaparilla.

Mix and take a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime, drinking plenty of water.

This mixture will, he says, positively cure any diseases arising from weak, clogged or inactive kidneys, and will assist these organs to cleanse the blood of the poisonous waste matter and acids, which if allowed to remain, cause lumbago, lame back, rheumatism and sciatica, and at the same time will restore the kidneys to healthy normal action. The ingredients, which are purely vegetable and entirely harmless, can be procured from any good druggist and mixed at home at very little cost.

This advice will undoubtedly be much appreciated by many readers.

ELEGANCE AT MODERATE COST

Some men prefer the square-cornered Coat but do not like the superfluous goods that must be in the double-breasted coat. For these we advise the straight front coat. It is natty and fills the above requirements.

The Trousers for Sack Suits are cut moderately full at the knee, tapering to the bottom and with a permanent turn-up on those of the Outing Suit.

N. B.—Few men realize the amount of good that is derived from having their clothes properly pressed and we advise that this be done at regular intervals.

C. P. R. Replies About Otonabee Foot Bridge

Are Preparing Plans and Estimates Already—Medical Expenses to be Borne By City—Relief of Water Holes.

DREDGING REMOVED SLOWLY

Following the meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee last night the Board of Works held away for a couple of hours. In connection with the proposed footbridge alongside the C.P.R. track, Mr. Osborne wrote the committee, stating that plans were being prepared and that estimates would soon be made of the cost.

The members of the Board present were Chairman Duncan, Ald. McIntyre, Johnston, and Mayor McWilliams.

Mr. J. J. Sing, of the Department of Public Works, complained to the Council that Mr. Mahoney was not removing the dredgings from the Trent fast enough, and advised the city to make better arrangements.

Since the complaint, however, the chairman stated that Mr. Mahoney was looking after the work better, and it was on account of having to replace rails that he got behind in the work. The matter was dropped upon this explanation.

Messrs. Thos. R. Weir of Stratford and J. J. Turner and F. Cook of Peterborough wrote, asking when tenders would be called for the street sprinkling. These were received, as the question has not yet been fully discussed.

Otonabee Footbridge

Some time ago the Board wrote the C.P.R. in connection with a footbridge across the Otonabee, from the C.P.R. station to East City, for the purpose of giving pedestrians the privilege of crossing the river there. Last night at the meeting as letter, in answer, was read by the chairman from Mr. Jas. Osborne, superintendent of bridges for the C.P.R., stating that the C.P.R. was now preparing plans and that the company will, as soon as these are completed, furnish an estimate of the cost to the city. The Board received the letter and will await further developments.

Mr. Haywood wrote the Board, asking that Dr. Amys be paid $2.50 as medical expenses for attending Mr. Tivey, who was hurt by a cave-in in East City, when a sewer was being constructed there some time ago. The account, on motion of Ald Dunn and McIntyre, was authorized to be paid.

Moved by Ald. Johnston and the Mayor, that the City Engineer be authorized to open up the water hole at the corner of George and Brock streets, where water gathers in large quantities whenever it rains.

The City Engineer reported that boys usually filled up the pipe with stones there, which is supposed to carry the water off. The motion was carried.

Moved by Ald. McIntyre and Johnston, that the Engineer be also authorized to examine the condition of the water hole at the corner of London and Bethune streets, and to repair if necessary.—Carried.

Put New Blood Into the Arteries

AND THE FEELING OF WEAKNESS AND FATIGUE WILL GIVE WAY TO HEALTH AND VIGOR

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

At this time of year nothing is of such great value to the human system as new rich red blood. Feelings of languor and depression, headaches, sleeplessness, irritability, impaired digestion, nervousness — these all tell of thin, watery blood and a run down system.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is above all else a blood building restorative which puts new blood into the arteries and by so doing lays the foundation for health and vigour.

It sharpens up the appetite, and strengthens the nerves, which control the flow of digestive fluids, forms new firm flesh and tissues, and gives vigour to thee vital organs of the body.

Mr. Fred H. Gould, Purdy, Hastings Co., Ont., writes: "I was troubled with nervous headaches, which at times were very painful and caused much suffering. It has been thoroughly cured by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I can recommend this treatment most highly and believe that as a general system builder it has no equal.

Mrs. W. Chappel, Barrie, Ont., writes, "I have used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as a means of building up the nervous system and of improving the health generally and I have also found it a good remedy for female troubles.

"We have used Dr. Chase's Ointment as a household remedy for all kinds of sores and cuts and think it is a splendid ointment."

You can be sure that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is doing you good because each dose goes to the formation of a certain amount of pure, rich, red, blood. It cures by the building up process, and its cures are, therefore, thorough and lasting; 50 cents a box; 6 for $2.50, at all dealers; or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

A PETERBOROUGH GIRL BOOMS RED DEER

Miss Berry, a Graduate of Nicholls Hospital Tells of its Prosperity

The following interesting extract is from a letter written by Miss M. Eva Berry to Mrs. J. T. C. Laing, city, exploiting the glories of Red Deer, Alberta. Miss Berry who is a graduate nurse of Nicholls Hospital, and also assistant superintendent of the Memorial Hospital at Red Deer, in her letter expressed herself as being highly delighted with Red Deer and its people. In referring to a drive up the river she makes particular mention of the profusion, in both kind and quantity, of wild flowers along the highway. The extract referred to reads as follows:—

Red Deer, one of the most prosperous and leading towns of Alberta, is situated on the C.P.R. midway between Calgary and Edmonton. The town which has a population of about 3,000, is built in a beautiful valley surrounded by thickly wooded hills through which the Red Deer River flows. This river is a great asset to the town as water power may be secured from it at a low cost.

The town is fast becoming an industrial and commercial centre of Alberta. Among the industries which are at present in operation are the following:—One large saw mill, 2 brick plants, each of which has a capacity of 80,000 bricks daily; sash and door factory, 2 elevators and a modern flour mill. Red Deer also has besides the many fine business and residential buildings, a Memorial Hospital, large public school, Dominion Court House, five churches and four chartered banks. There are also in course of erection a $30,000 Methodist church, $35,000 brick school and a number of fine business blocks.

The town can boast of a perfect water and sewer system, two telephone systems, and one of the best electric light plants in Western Canada. The future of Red Deer is assured as back of the town we have one of the finest grain and stock raising districts in Alberta, and the grain yields of this district have been the largest in Alberta.

Y.M.C.A. BOYS' CAMP ENDS TO-DAY

Boys Will Return to City This Afternoon —Events of Last Days of Camp Described

THE ANNUAL SERENADE

Y.M.C.A. Camp, July 24.—Yesterday was a great day for the boys. Word had been brought that a Sunday School excursion was coming up to Sandy Point from Bakefield, and we issued a challenge to a game of baseball, having no idea, of course, what kind of a team they would bring. Well, when they came and we heard that Bravender, the fast Peterborough City League twirler, was pitching for them, we saw that it was "up to us" if we wished to win. So we chose our "All Star" team with the greatest care, importing a catcher from Toronto for the occasion and he proved to be a great find. The game was easily the best that has ever been seen on our camp diamond. The Bravender Bros., were the Lakefield battery and did most effective work on the whole, shutting out the All Stars completely in the 4th, 6th and 7th innings. But the pitcher at times had poor control and the curves were always puzzlers, yet in the 2nd, 3rd and 8th, particularly, he let a good many around on balls, and several runs were the result. Hilliard on second did star work, showing himself an old hand at the game, and Dela-Fosse's base running was a feature. They were all heavy hitters and when they found Minnow's curves generally made something of them. But our star pitcher was in such splendid form that it was only in the 3rd and 5th that they could do anything. In those two innings, however, they got 8 runs and at the end of the 5th things looked serious. But after that Minnow settled down again and shut them out completely.

The final score was 9—8. Needless to say the game afforded infinite excitement for the large crowd of spectators, and when at one time the score stood 8—7 for the Lakefields, the fans could scarcely contain themselves. A watermelon comes to the All Stars as winners, put up by Mr. Dela-Fosse.

In the evening the annual serenade took place. Word had been sent to the neighbouring cottagers that we would be down with our fife and drum band and a full chorus of thirty voices to give them a good old time serenade. About dusk there fore, we started out in our boats, Soap leading the procession with his clarinet, and the others following behind. Dutchy had his bugle and there were at least a half dozen expert drummers scattered through the different boats. Add to these the thirty vocal organs which completed the equipment, and the result can be better imagined than described. It was at "Upside Down" cottage we found all the neighbours gathered, and there we so delighted the hearts of all, that, to our great surprise (?) they invited us to light refreshments. Lemonade and cake in abundance were served up, after which followed three cheers for each and all who had contributed to our entertainment given as heartily as only boys can. Then came a regular programme of solos, duets, quartetts and choruses, and after more camp yells and selections by the band everybody embarked for home.

An extra hot time is expected tonight, the last in camp. All the bedding is already packed up for no one expects to take a wink. Section three has two melons, and oranges and bananas galore, for their last midnight feed.

Two lunge were caught by Fido last evening. So far the boys have not been as successful as last year.

Appointment Of Engineer Wainwright Recommended

Providing He Accept Position at His Past Salary---Request of Water Commissioners Refused---A New Light For Hunter Street Bridge

The most important question before the Fire, Water and Light Committee last night was the recommendation of the appointment of an engineer for the fire hall which question has caused so much trouble during the past few weeks. After much discussion it was decided to recommend the appointment of Samuel Wainwright providing he accept the same salary as he had been getting before his resignation.

Among other matters was a request from the Water Commissioners for a hydrant, which was refused.

The members of the committee present were Chairman Johnston, Ald. Duncan, Bradburn Morgan, and His Worship the Mayor.

A communication was received from Arthur Wringer, the fireman hurt at the time of the Peter Hamilton fire, asking for payment of $5.00 medical expenses.

On motion of Ald. Duncan it was decided to have the account paid.

No Hydrant Granted

The Water Commissioners wrote, asking for a hydrant on the north-western corner of Bethune and King streets. The committee found that on King street there was a hydrant at Aylmer street and one at Stewart street and considered that there was not sufficient necessity for placing one there.

Moved by the Mayor and Ald. Duncan that the hydrant be not granted on account of nearness of others.—Carried.

The policemen wrote the committee stating that several lamps were out on various corners. The Electric Light Company is usually charged up when they neglect to keep the lights burning.

Some time ago the committee was authorized to write and find out the cost of a water tower and last night an answer was received.

A 60 foot tower will cost from $5,300 to $5,800 and a 65 foot tower about $7,500. The committee decided to leave the matter stand in abeyance.

Light For the Bridges

Ald. Morgan reported that the light on Hunter street at the cornerr of Queen street was of little use for lighting purposes on account of its situation among the trees. The bridge, he said, on Hunter street was also badly lighted and advocated an incandescent lamp in the centre. Moved by Ald. Morgan and the Mayor that an incandescent light be placed on the bridge as soon as possible.—Carried.

The committee considered that the lights were not up to the standard in quality and it was moved by Ald. Morgan and the Mayor that Foreman Packnham of the fire hall be asked to report as to whether the lights of the Peterborough Light and Power Company are according to contract or not.—Carried.

At the corner of Simcoe and Stewart street, where the Board of Works is constructing a crossing, there is an electric light pole on the spot where the crossing is to be built. It was moved by Ald. Duncan and Bradburn that the Light and Power Company be authorized to remove the pole to a place satisfactory to the City Engineer.—Carried.

Moved by the Mayor and Ald. Duncan that a contract with the Bell Telephone to furnish a telephone in the new fire hall, be authorized and that the cost for the same be charged to the city.—Carried.

Some discussion arose over the request of Foreman Pakenham for a telephone in his residence and also for one in the house of Chief Rutherford. No action was taken in the case.

Engineer Recommended

The applications for engineer at the fire hall was next taken up and in addition to those published on the last occasion they come before the council, there was one extra. After discussing the advisability of separating the work of running the road roller from that of operating the fire engine, finally it was moved by Ald. Bradburn and Duncan, that the chairman be authorized to interview Samuel Wainwright to find whether he will accept the position again at $600 and if so that the committee recommend his appointment.—Carried.

Peterborough Lady Was Upset In Chemong Lake

Fortunately Canoe Was Not Far Distant From Shore—Rescued by a Friend—Dancing Each Evening at the Summer Hotel.

MANY VISITORS THERE

Examiner Special.

Chemong, July 25.—An upset accident occurred on the lake here yesterday which might have resulted disastrously had the canoe and its occupant been farther from the shore. A young Peterborough who is summering at the park, attempted going out in her brother's canoe, but she had scarcely seated herself on the thwart, when the boat turned over and she found herself in Chemong Lake. Fortunately, a lady friend from Peterborough was on the bank, and, forgetting her own danger, ran into the water and assisted to the shore her unlucky friend.

Fishing at Chemong is only fair. A number of catches have been made, but many come home empty-handed. The largest lunge reported up to the present was captured by Mr. Fred. Galvin on Tuesday, weighing 16 lbs.

Misses Irene Munro, Annie Brooks of Peterborough and Madeline Hamburger of New York City, who are summering here, went down to Peterborough this morning.

Dancing is in vogue at the Park Hotel every evening, and the close of the day is therefore looked forward to with the greatest of interest by the younger population. Mrs. Alguire of Toronto usually presides at the piano and furnishes excellent music for the light fantastic.

Mrs. Grace Cnsor Mcneljohn Duffield of Toronto is a guest at the Chemong Hotel.

Messrs. J. Hagerman and James Conroy of Peterborough are frequent visitors at the park.

Mr. and Mrs. Troll of Rochester, are at the hotel.

The big auto 'bus had the misfortune to break some part of its mechanism this morning before leaving the park, so that the Ennismore stage was obliged to carry 13 passengers. A couple hung on behind.

An amusing story is told of a young man who is visiting here, in connection with a recent visit he made to one of the cottages where a fair maiden dwells. In his zeal to reach the home he ran into a brush pile, and was only extricated by the assistance of a lantern and willing hands.

Some exclusive London clubs purvey ginger ale that vies in delicate crispness with York Springs Dry Ginger Ale, but does not equal it in purity nor excel it in flavor, pungency and aroma. Try it with Rye or Scotch, or straight, or with a dash of lemon juice—simply fine! Your club, favorite bar or merchant can procure it for you. Demand it by name.

York Springs Dry Ginger Ale, is better—yet costs no more.

A BALD NEWSPAPER MAN

Getting a New Crop of Hair, and has No More Dandruff

Everybody in the Northwest knows Col. Daniel Searles, the veteran journalist and publicist of Butte. January 10, 1900, the colonel writes:—"I used a couple of bottles of Newbro's Herpicide with marvellous results. The dandruff disappeared; a new crop of hair has taken root, and the bald spot is rapidly being covered." Herpicide is the only hair preparation that kills the dandruff germ that digs up the scalp in scales as it burrows its way to the root of the hair, where it destroys the vitality of the hair, causing the hair to fall out. Kill the dandruff germ with Herpicide. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Two sizes—50 cents and $1. McDermid & Jury, Special Agents.

HOME-SEEKER DIDN'T KNOW WHERE HE LIVED

Policeman Had to Direct Him to Where He Belonged

(Wine certainly exerted its somniferous influence last night over a weary wayfarer on Charlotte street, who really didn't know who he was. In attempting to get to his home he called at the wrong house. The occupants, who, of course, knew that all the household were resting on their beds of ease, suspected a burglary and called up the police station.

P. C. McDonald quickly appeared on the scene and after finding the difficulty in the way of the weary one, set him on the right track for his own home where possibly he may have gotten a "warm" reception.

A VERY SUCCESSFUL TEACHER

Miss MacNaughton, a Norwood Lady, Has Remarkably Good Record in Stayner School

Friends in this city and county of Miss J. MacNaughton will be interested in the following reference to her good work in the Stayner Public Schools, taken from the Stayner Sun, which publishes a letter from the inspector, a copy of which follows:—

Kindly congratulate the pupils of the entrance class and their teacher Miss J. MacNaughton on the way they were prepared and the way they acquitted themselves at their late examination.

There has not been a better prepared class in Stayner Public School since I have anything to do with the same. It was a real pleasure to read their papers.

Yours sincerely,
THOMAS McKEE, P. S. I.

The above mentioned class has done their teacher, Miss J. MacNaughton, great credit in that there were 15 successful pupils at the entrance examination out of a class of 17, and of the 15 successful pupils 9 took honours.

Miss MacNaughton, of Norwood, taught in S. S. No. 2, Smith, for a year and a half, but has had charge of the entrance class in Staynor since Jan., 1907.

BROTHERHOOD AT THE COTTAGE MEETING

Interesting Service Was Held in Otonabee on Wednesday Night

Several members of St. Luke's Brotherhood of St. Andrew, accompanied Dr. Langfeldt last night and assisted him in the cottage meeting service, which was held at the residence of Mr. Albert Carpenter, Otonabee. Mr. Arthur McCollum, vice-president of the Brotherhood, had lent a team and carriage, which conveyed the party to its destination. Mr. Kingdon took charge of the devotional exercises, Mr. McCollum read the Scripture lesson and Dr. Langfeldt preached from the Epistle for the Ninth Sunday after Trinity—1 Cor. x; 1-13. The singing was very hearty and everyone pronounced it the best meeting ever held.

Confirmation will be held at St. Luke's this year, probably in November. The Archbishop or his assistant is expected to appoint a Sunday in November for the administration of this holy rite. Dr. Langfeldt intends to begin the Confirmation classes for instruction in September.

POST CARD CORRESPONDENCE.

In this column will be published communications upon post cards only. It will remain open for the use of readers, who are invited to contribute suggestions, inquiries o replies. Anything of a scurrilous personal nature will be prohibited.

Editor Post Card Column:

Dear Sir,—If the City Council should, for a wonder, decide to adopt street placarding and house numbering as a "runner-up" to free postal delivery, let them, for goodness sake, appoint somebody to oversee the spelling and punctuation. The City Clerk, as an old newspaper man, would be qualified for the position. This precaution is needed for I notice wrong spelling in the granolithic imperishability of some of the street names placed "wrong end to," in our pavements.

"ORTHO GRAPHY."

July 25th, 1907.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

I can stand almost anything but I can't stand standing on a steamer from Peterborough to Stony Lake as I had to do on board the steamer "Otonabee," which ran an excursion to Burleigh Falls yesterday. I consider it an imposition for any navigation company to advertise an excursion when they haven't got seats enough to provide accomodation for the passengers who have got to pay for their passage. But yesterday I was one of dozens who had to stand all the way to Stony Lake and home again. There wasn't even a couch or rocking chair on board. I arrived home more tired than when I left and with a sore back, too, and it will be a good many days before I repeat the trip under like conditions.

Yours, etc.,
CITIZEN.

South End Residents Complain Of High Taxes

Resident of Romaine Street Says His Property is Assessed for Over Double What It Cost Him a Short Time Ago.

SOME REFUSE TO PAY

In these days when the tax bills are coming in and the payments are almost due, there are many complaints about the size of the accounts. This morning some ten or a dozen citizens were located on the platform of the market clerk's office and each was discoursing on the size of his tax bill. They told of how the assessment had been raised so many hundreds and thousands of dollars from last year when there were no improvements made to their properties. One of the dozen emphatically declared he would not pay what he considered to be an enormous tax against his property, and told of several others who would fight the battle out in the law courts before they would pay up.

Mr. Robert Howden, of Romaine street, claimed that he was assessed for twice as much as his property was worth. A short time ago he purchased a piece of land, without buildings, on Romaine street, with a frontage of 66 feet. This year he was billed for $17.00 taxes and he only paid about $400 for the land in the first place. His taxes, however, were being paid on almost $1,000 assessment.

Mr. Howden further stated that there wasn't a hydrant on the street and that the residents there were inflicted with a "false-alarm" sewer, which has been under construction for almost a year and not yet finished.

Beautiful Eclipse Of Moon Was Seen Last Night

Many Astronomy Students Saw Two-thirds Eclipse of That Body Dr. Marsh Made Photographs.

TRANSIT OF MERCURY

Last night an excellent opportunity was afforded for a view of the two-thirds eclipse of the moon. The sky was practically cloudless, and during the progress of the eclipse many local students of astronomy saw it through their telescopes. The moon entered the penumbra at 8.58.07, and the shadow at 10,03.07. At 11.22.04 it had reached the middle, and left the shadow at 12.41.01, and the penumbra at 13.46.02.

The cause of the eclipse was the earth coming between the sun and moon. Rev. Dr. Marsh, of Springville took six excellent photographs of the moon, during the progress of the eclipse. The times of the six exposures, with the length of each are as follows:—

At 10.09.40, 12 seconds' exposure; 10.25.56, 15 seconds; 10.46.40, 17 seconds; 11.22.40, 40 seconds; 11.53.57, 17 seconds, and at 12.23.20, 17 seconds.

These exposures were made on a Seed Isochromatic plate.

It may be of interest to know that there will be a transit of Mercury in November. On that date the sun will rise with that planet on its disk.

SWIMMING PRACTICED WITHOUT SUITS

Police Are on the Track of Offenders —A Citizen Complains

A citizen this morning informed an Examiner representative that, in spite of the law against bathing without swimming suits, there were some dozen or more youths breaking that law in Little Lake yesterday evening in view of the excursionists who were returning home from Stony Lake on the steamer Otonabee. The boys had assembled on the point of the Peterborough Lumber Company, and, with the exception of two or three, none of them wore the bathing suits required.

This is an immoral act which should be stopped, and, as the police have been notified, there may be "something doing" to prevent its further practice.

PROTESTS AGAINST THE TAXATION

Writer to the Press Thinks That Assessment is Being Raised Too High in South Side of City

Editor Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Permit me to endorse the communication which appeared in your issue of the 17th inst., dealing with the manner in which the taxes of the residents of the south part of the city are being increased by the assessor at present operating there. The actions of the said official are altogether unjustifiable, and no language can be found too strong in condemning them. I am told that he desires to be appointed permanent assessment commissioner when the office is created, hence his desire to ingratiate himself with a certain class, by almost doubling the taxes of workingmen. It is to be wondered that so few people of the artisan class desire to make Peterborough their place of residence!

I have, personally, heard from several people, within the last few days, expressions of their determination to sell their effects and go elsewhere, as it was almost impossible for them to live here, owing to the abnormal taxation and the enormous cost of the necessities of life. It is a matter of regret to all those who have the interests of our city at heart that the prosperity and progress which we have recently been experiencing should be thus arrested, while other cities and towns throughout the Province are prospering as they never prospered before? The present method of raising taxes is a crying grievance, as it puts a check on thrift and a premium on indolence and laziness. I am aware, of course, that it is not within the jurisdiction of the municipalities to change the laws relating to taxation, but it is their duty to see that it is administered impartially, and that a public servant or official does not arrogate to himself the authority of an autocrat and imagine that he is the master instead of the servant of the people.

Thanking you in advance for your valuable space, I remain,

PRO BON PUBLICO.

Peterborough, July 24, 1907.

NOTE. — Our correspondent, possibly, bears too hardly upon the assessor, who is probably only carrying out the instructions and policy of the City Council

STOP DESTRUCTION OF FLOWERS

Superintendent of City's Parks Complains of Work of Boys Who Frequent Them at Night

Messrs. Jordan Bros., who have the care of the city's parks, complain that the flower beds, to prepare which so much work has been expended, are being destroyed by boys who frequent the parks at night in search for dew worms for fish bait.

It appears that almost every night fresh depredations are committed, and the patience of those who have charge of the parks is reaching a low ebb. It is stated that unless the destruction of the flowers is stopped the names of the guilty persons will be given to the police.

THE DURHAM OLD BOYS' EXCURSION TO THE FALLS

About Sixty Left Peterborough This Morning on the Special Train

A special train left the city this morning under the auspices of the Durham Old Boys' Association, for Niagara Falls and Buffalo. The train was composed of 14 coaches and left the city at 5 o'clock. There were about 60 Peterborough residents who took advantage of the excursion and left with the special. The greater number of the passengers will, of course, go from Cobourg and Port Hope. The tickets are good until Saturday.

BRONCHIAL TROUBLES

Readily Yield to Soothing, Healing Treatment of Hyomei

Bronchial troubles are purely local. They cannot be helped by stomach dosing. They are caused by irritation in the air passages, and can be relieved and cured by medicated air alone. In this lies the secret of the great success of Hy-o-mei in the treatment of bronchial troubles.

The first breath of Hy-o-mei's medicated air soothes the inflammation, stops the cough, and relief soon becomes permanent, and a cure results.

Hy-o-mei has made many remarkable cures in the worst and most chronic forms of bronchial troubles, and is sold by Wm. Madill with the same guarantee as he gives when Hy-o-mei is purchased for catarrh, that is to refund the money in case the remedy does not give satisfaction. The complete outfit costs but $1.00.

THE TATE OPTICAL CO.
PETERBORO.

Practically during my whole life (prior to June 1905) I was troubled with terrible pains in my head which I attributed to violent attacks of neuralgia. I tried innumerable headache and neuralgic preparations, but without obtaining the slightest relief. The suffering I endured for a year or more previous to the time I consulted you is indescribable. At times I became delirious through the intense pain, and was obliged to call in a local Physician. Many times morphine was administered to allay the terrible suffering I was undergoing, but this did not give me the slightest relief. A friend advised me to consult your Mr. Babcock, I did so and found out from you that I was suffering from muscular nervous asthenopia, caused by astigmatism. It was remarkable the relief I obtained after the treatment I received, and the wearing of the glasses you prescribed and made for me, since that time I have experienced no difficulty with my eyes, nor have I suffered the slightest return of the old trouble I cannot help but attribute the ill-health and suffering I experienced as being due to the trouble in my eyes before consulting you. I feel very grateful indeed for the interest taken in my case, as I had almost despaired of ever getting any relief. I might also say I consulted opticians in Lindsay and Toronto in reference to my trouble, but obtained no relief. I desire to again express my sincere gratitude to you for the trouble taken in my case, as well as the wonderful cure effected. Yours sincerely

GREAT LOSS BY STORM IS REPORTED

Many Lives Were Imperilled Throughout Western Ontario.

SEVERAL BARNS DESTROYED

Two London Boys Terribly Burned—Trees Uprooted and Property Damaged In Cleveland, Ohio—Fires in Elgin, Beamsville, Pickering and Brantford — Toronto Car Service Crippled for a Time.

Toronto, July 25.—A severe electrical storm visited the Niagara Peninsula, Western Ontario and the south shore of Lake Erie last evening. It had its effect in Toronto, when the car service was crippled between 6 and 6.30, owing to the absence of Niagara power, which was affected by the storm.

Two Boys Shocked.

At London the storm caused considerable damage, and almost resulted in the death of two days. Walter Chaplrt of Park avenue and John Matthews of Empress avenue were in Victoria Park when the storm broke and sought shelter under a tree. A lightning ball struck the tree and both boys were knocked to the ground unconscious and their clothes were set on fire. Their moans were heard, and people running in their direction found them lying on the ground with their apparel on fire. The flames were smothered and the lads were carried to the home of Senator Coffey, where Dr. Ecckles found that they had been terribly burned. Both will recover. Two Springbank cars collided in a rear, and smash at the pump house during the storm. The crews and several passengers had narrow escapes. The cars were badly smashed.

Barns Burned.

Electrical storms played over the County of Elgin during the afternoon and did much damage. A barn at Hillcrest, Port Stanley, was destroyed, the damage amounting to $1,500, and another barn in East Elgin was reported in ruins.

At Beamsville, Price Conkle's fine barn, filled with new hay, was struck by lightning and burned.

At Brantford lightning was blamed for a fire in R. Robson's store on Water street. The loss was small.

At Pickering a terrific thunderstorm leveled trees and telegraph poles. The village school was struck by lightning and a hole two feet square burned in the roof. The fire was distinguished by the villagers. The wire connection and electric lighting was cut off for several hours.

Damage at Cleveland.

People at a summer resort on the lake just east of Cleveland, Ohio, reported that they saw two small sailing vessels founder during the height of the storm. As soon as possible launches were sent out to the scene of the supposed wrecks, about three miles off shore. The launches searched in vain for wreckage. The lifesavers expressed the belief that the people on shore saw the two vessels disappear in the mist during the storm, and erroneously supposed they had foundered.

Many lives were, however, imperilled and thousands of dollars of damage was done in Cleveland itself by the storm. While the city was enveloped in almost total darkness for fifteen minutes, trees were uprooted, small buildings blown down, and all the loose and lighter structures along the lake front and at the amusement parks were blown from their places and smashed to pieces. Lightning struck numerous buildings.

At Middlemarch, near St. Thomas, there was almost a hurricane. A big barn owned by Barnes Bros., proprietors of the Iroquois Hotel, St. Thomas, was blown over and 35 loads of hay lost; loss $2,000. The gable of the Methodist Church was blown off and the driving sheds damaged. George Stratton's barn was damaged, and tree and fences blown over.

Rome, N.Y., July 25.—Ernest Arnold, 28 years old, is dead from injuries sustained in a gasoline explosion in his clothes cleaning establishment Tuesday evening.

MANY ARE MISSING FROM STEAMER

Ninety-Three of the Columbia's List Are Unaccounted For.

THE SURVIVORS WELCOMED

Eager Throng Waited All Night For the Arrival of Loved Ones—Many Pathetic Scenes — The Steamship Elder Lands Seventy People at Astoria, Oregon—Did Not See Rafts or Boats on Her Trip.

Astoria, Ore., July 25.—The steamer George W. Elder arrived here yesterday morning, having on board 67 survivors of the wrecked steamer Columbia. The George W. Elder did not sight any of the missing rafts or boats of the Columbia, and picked up none of the victims after leaving Eureka.

All night long an eager throng waited on the docks for the steamer. Hundreds of friend and relatives of the survivors came from Portland and various towns on Oregon and Washington to greet their loved ones.

Shouts of greeting went back and forth as the Elder came to her dock, and cries of "How are you?" and "Are you all right?" and punctuated now and then with the cry of a mother or father appealing for news.

There were pitiful scenes when it was learned that the Elder had picked up none of the Columbia's life boats or rafts. All hope had departed for some, and they slipped away from the merrymakers to hide their sorrow best they might. It was a curious crowd that thronged down the gangplank, attired in all sorts of misfit garments.

On the dock every possible demonstation of joy continued for many hours. Some were overcome by the excitement of the meeting, and a number of women fainted. The people of Astoria distributed flowers, hot coffee and other good things plentifully to the survivors.

A revised list of the passengers shows 108 saved and 77 missing. Of the officers and crew forty were saved and 16 are missing. This makes a total of 93 unaccounted for.

MILL EMPLOYE'S DEATH.

Mystery Is Solved by Gruesome Find In Pulp Digester.

Brockville, July 25.—Speculation regarding the recent mysterious disappearance of Sylvester Makuski, aged 25 years, employed in the sulphite mill of the Union Bag and Paper Co. of Ralleton, is now at an end.

A search revealed one bone and a piece of his shirt in the digester.

Makuski was employed shoveling chips into the 18-inch opening of the large digester in which the chips are mixed with sulphurous acid. He went to work at 7 o'clock in the morning as usual and continued to work until 11 o'clock at night for another employe. He did not return, and his father reported the disappearance at the mill.

AN ENGLISHMAN MURDERED.

Peter Hemmans Done to Death For His Week's Pay.

Montreal, July 25.—That Peter Hemmans was done to death for his week's pay seems almost certain. He disappeared Saturday night and yesterday his body, with the mark of a blow on the forehead, was found in the river. He was paid Saturday, went straight to his boarding-house, where he opened his envelope and paid the landlady.

Then he called on a friend, and he left for home at 11 p.m., with some $12 on him, and was never seen again. When the body was found there was only nine cents in his pocket.

Deceased was an Englishman, recently arrived.

CANNOT BAR JAPANESE.

So Long as Their Characters and Health Are Good May Enter.

Ottawa, July 23.—In regard to the protest of R. G. MacPherson, M.P., of Vancouver, against the expected influx of Japanese from Honolulu, the Department takes the view that it is powerless to act in the matter.

Should any of the Japanese be found to belong to the criminal class or to be infected with disease they will be subject to the same penalties as other immigrants and liable to deportation, but so long as they are healthy and of good character there is no machinery under the law by which their entrance could be barred.

Took Cramps While Swimming.

Brockville, July 25.—Claude, the second son of Charles Beyrl of Duane, contracted cramps while bathing in De Bar Pond and was drowned.

Three minutes after Claude sank from view the body was recovered. A doctor was immediately summoned, and for the next two or three hours every effort was made to revive the body, but without success.

Anti-Dynamite Movement.

St. Petersburg, July 25.—The Novoe Vremya yesterday publishes details of an alleged anti-dynamite movement in Southern China, ascribing it to Japanese instigators, who, the paper says, are busily preparing for the Manchu dynasty in China the same fate which has overtaken the Emperor of Korea.

The apprehensions of The Novoe Vremya regarding the re-opening of the far eastern question are fully shared in Russian military circles, where the steady armament of China and Japan is viewed with alarm.

Big Strike in Galt.

Galt, July 25.—Because, in finishing up a job at the C. Turnbull's factory extension, a non-union man was hired, the masons and bricklayers were ordered out and the trouble has extended to carpenters, plumbers, and, in fact, all the departments of the building trade.

The trouble arose from the hiring of a quarryman to take the place of another laborer who had been knocked off.

Our Option on this small block of Underwriters' Stock expires August 3rd, 1907—Subscriptions Post-marked at later date will be returned

Do you realize that investments of a hundred or a thousand will grow rapidly into hundreds and thousands and millions of dollars? The ever-conservative and skeptical will smile—they will laugh at these predictions, some will even consider this a joke—but remember COBALT, if you please, two or three years ago? Then it was a "vision," it was a "dream," "a flash in the pan," "a bubble," somebody Was "crazy"; bu now it is different. Those crazy men are now classed among the smart and keenest business men of the day. The actual value of a few mines are worth at the present date more than one hundred millions of dollars. These are facts.

In presenting this investment for subscription we appeal to the good judgement of sensible persons as to its merit.

It embodies, we believe, a correct method of developing and establishing successful and paying mining enterprises.

We desire to conduct, first of all a successful Mine Developement. We intend this to be done in a way that will be absolutely fair and honest, and bring the largest profit possible to those who co-operate with us.

We, therefore, desire this proposition to be well understood by investors. We wish it to be known just how we propose to develope, establish and operate dividend paying Mining Companies by and through this investment.

THE PLAN.—The plan involved in this proposition is that of uniting or consolidating the investments of a limited number of persons into one sum, and under one management, to be used in acquiring and developing mining properties in this wonderful region.

THE PRINCIPLE involved in this investment we believe, is one of absolute fairness to all interested. The "promotion interest" common to all mining companies, and which is the great unfair feature to investors who put their money into stocks of these companies, and whose money develops and makes the mine, if a mine is developed—does not exist in this proposition. There is no "promotion interest set aside, and against the interest bought and paid for by the investors.

In this proposition the investors, and all the investors, become promotors. They take the "promotion interest" and all the interest. They own the whole enterprise. No matter how large or how small the investment—all stand on an equal basis. Our field of operation is probably one of the greatest, and without doubt the richest, mineralized region in the world.

For its basis, upon which we will establish and build us several great producing, paying mining companies, we will exploit and develop in a mining-like and careful manner exclusive mining properties now known to us, other properties which we may acquire for the mutual benefit of all investors in this Company.

SUBSIDIARY COMPANIES.—The Larder Lake Exploration and Development Comany will incorporate a series, not to exceed five, of Subsidiary Mining Companies upon only the real proven properties acquired.

In each and every subsidiary Company incorporated, whether Mining, Milling, Smelting, Water Power, or Electric Light, the Exploration Company will take 90 per cent. of the capital stock of each Company so incorporated, and will put 10 per cent. of the Capital Stock of each Company in its treasury. It will probably never become necessary to sell any of this Treasury Stock.

Out of the total Capital Stock of each Subsidiary Company, the Exploration Company will retain 50 per cent. as its "Holding Stock." This will always control the Company. It will take and hold 40 per cent. for the mutual benefit of all stockholders in the Exploration Company. This 40 per cent will be known as "Selling Stock," and as a market is created it will be sold, and the proceeds received will be distributed pro rata to the stockholders in the Exploration Company, as their interests may appear.

The stock of the Subsidiary Companies will be inlisted on the New York Curb and Mining Exchanges of the country, and started at 50 cents a share, where it can be bought and sold according to the daily market quotations. This will afford a channel by which stockholders can sell the 40 per cent. "Selling Stock" from time to time, if they wish.

PROPERTIES. — Many different mining properties will be acquired and developed as stock in the Exploration Company, is subscribed for. All properties will be described, and reports submitted regarding same, as soon and as often as they can be examined by the engineer.

The mining properties that will be acquired for this proposition will be located in the gold and silver belt, extending from the Montreal River through Northern Ontario, eastward into Quebec, and will include properties in the Lady Evelyn District, the new Montreal River Silver District, Cobalt District, and the gold districts around Round Lake, Larder Lake, Lake Abitibi, and in the great undeveloped mineralized section of Quebec lying just east of Larder Lake and extending northward to Lake Abitibi.

We shall try and make every dollar count, and make as few mistakes as possible. We hope to create such an interest in this enterprise with investors, that will result in extensive and widespread co-operation.

Under this plan no one can truthfully say that it is not a great mining investment. We want every investor to feel a personal interest in this Mine Development. The investors in this Company will own this enterprise, and we want them to co-operate with us and our associates to make it a great success.

We are now organizing The Larder Lake Exploration and Development Company with what we consider sufficient capital ($500,000). We now have options on, and propose to acquire five distinct and separate properties which will be incorporated at $100,000 each (100,000 shares—par value $1.00). The Exploration Company will at all times hold a controlling interest in each of these companies, so that sixty per cent. of the dividends earned and declared will be paid into the treasury of the parent company, and the other forty per cent. distributed among the stockholders on record. This in our opinion will enable us to pay dividends and large ones in the very near future.

The Board of Directors of The Larder Lake Exploration and Development company will be composed only of engineers of national repute, setting a precedent in this line—Mr. Robert Morton will be president, which fact in itself guarantees conservative and able management

Investors have been pouring their money into over capitalized mining companies, they have been plunging about wildly in the hope of some day "striking it rich" never stopping to think for one instant that the greater part of their money never reaches the ground, as a rule 75 per cent. of the money invested in stock schemes goes into the broker's hands. He pays his salesmen 20 to 50 per cent. on every dollar turned in, he must get his own commission and engineers must be paid.

We never had associated with us a stock salesman, we require no commission and our engineers will be our directors, so that every dollar invested with us on this proposition will be honestly used in the purchasing and development of the different properties.

We are now offering for subscription the first allottment of stock in The Larder Lake Exploration and Development Company—every hundred shares entitles the holder to forty shares of stock in each of the subsidiary companies to be incorporated, making in all 200 shares of stock in five separate companies, which, as soon as development work is started and dividends announced, will make the stock of the Larder Lake Exploration and Development Company almost invaluable. This first allottment of only 50,000 shares ($1.00 par value) will probably be largely over-subscribed in a few days.

The next allottment will be put out Sept 25, 1907, at 75c per share or higher.

This price (15c.) will positively be withdrawn Aug. 3, 1907. If this allottment is over-subscribed remittances will be promptly returned. Checks, drafts and money orders must accompany all applications and be made payable to the financial agents.

Interim certificates will be promptly returned to subscribers. The stock certificates of the Company representing the shares purchased will be issued and delivered as soon as allottment can be made, after the 3rd of August, to all subscribers who purchase at the first underwriting price prior to that date.

Don't wait! Be wise! Act NOW! NOW IS THE TIME! Here is an opportunity that excels that which you had two or three years ago at Cobalt. Perhaps you will say as you did then, "How do we know they have got any silver up there? Perhaps you say now "How do you know there is any gold at Larder Lake?"

REFUSED TO BREAK STRIKE.

Twenty-Five Miners From St. Kitts Are Stranded In Cobalt.

Cobalt, July 25.—Nearly 25 men were found stranded in Cobalt yesterday, because they refused to go to work on the Conigas Mine after the company had paid their fares from St. Catharines to Cobalt.

Part of them are union men, but believed the strike was over. Finding it was not, they would not become strike-breakers. As a result they are now without means of getting back to their homes. Some of the party are married men.

The company is still holding their baggage.

Postcards for Roosevelt.

New York, July 25.—From all parts of the country President Roosevelt has, during the past few days, received postal cards urging him to re-consider his determination of 1904 and accept another nomination for the Presidency.

They are rather elaborately printed, containing a picture of the White House, under which is the inscription: "Uncle Sam will renew the lease."

Fatality at Midland.

Midland, July 25.—Yesterday morning J. G. Fellows was working on the G.T.R. track as a section hand, and stepping off one track to allow an engine to pass, he stepped in front of the car, which was an instant later struck by an engine coming from the opposite direction, and he was killed instantly.

Archbishop's Jubilee.

Montreal, July 25.—A large and influential party, consisting of dignitaries and priests of the Roman Catholic Church, left Montreal by the trans-Canada Limited for the purpose of taking part in the celebration of the silver jubilee of the arch episcopate of Monsignor Langevin, archbishop of St. Boniface.

GOLF DINNER.

A Menu and Decorations Suggestive of the Game.

At a dinner where the guest of honor was a famous golf player the decorations and menu were suggestive of the game. The centerpiece was a miniature golf link cleverly made of tiny ferns and the pretty creeping Selaginella mecurata, with its dainty leaves in green and bronze tints. A couple of tiny hills, a few miniature bowlders, an irregular stone wall and a tiny pond made by a fern encircled mirror produced a realistic golf link. Tiny scarlet silk flags indicated hazards. At either end the smilax enwreathed candlesticks shed a cheerful glow through shades of scarlet.

On the face of the large white cards was written the date with an attractive outdoor sketch in water colors, while on the back was the menu, the heading of which read:

"Golf and the man I sing

Invade the skies."

CLEVER SWINDLERS OUTWITTED

They Endeavored to Victimize Kingston Merchants But Failed.

Kingston, July 25.—During the past two days this city was visited by a couple of clever swindlers.

They put up at a hotel, registering as Frank Lloyd and wife. The first move in the game was by the man, who visited the Y. W. C. A. rooms and obtained the president's address. But after his departure those present remembered hearing of a swindle in St. Thomas worked ostensibly for the Y. W. C. A., so a word of caution was sent to the president. The man in due time made his appearance, represented himself to be getting out an attractive booklet in aid of the Y. W. C. A. Endorsation was, of course, refused temporarily.

The next place visited was the home of the women's national council, to whom he made the same representations, only substituting W.N.C. for Y.W.C.A. Here the swindler was successful in getting the president's endorsation.

The man and his companion then went to work at their "scheme." The merchants were visited and informed that they were getting out a booklet for the W.N.C. and advertisements were solicited, the "dummy" being divided into spaces, the charge for each being $5. Orders were numerous. After this a printing office was visited and arrangements made for the printing of the booklet.

The payment was to be made by an order on the president for the money. The merchants were to be asked to pay the canvassers, and with the money in their pockets they would quietly slip to other places, but the police were notified of their movements in the west and soon after their arrival they were shadowed.

They must have realised the situation, as they left this city Tuesday night.

G.T.R.'S GIGANTIC ORDER.

New Rolling Stock Now Being Delivered Will Cost $7,000,000.

Montreal, July 25.—With the daily delivery of engines, passenger coaches and freight cars, the Grand Trunk Railway is rapidly approaching the day when the last of nearly $7,000,000 worth of rolling stock will have been received by them during the present year. There were in all about 60 passenger coaches ordered, costing about $12,000 each, laid down in Montreal, which makes a total of $720,000. Thirty of these have already been delivered.

There were 100 engines ordered, and of these 60 have been received. The average cost is $15,000 each, or an aggregate of $1,500,000.

The tremendous increase in freight traffic may be imagined by the delivery of 4,500 up-to-date cars. The order was for 5,200, and the average cost is $850 each, so that the great sum of $4,420,000 is being spent for freight cars alone.

PLACING THE BLAME FOR COLLAPSE

Enquiry Into the London Disaster Will Be Thorough.

AN ACTION FOR DAMAGES

Great Interest Shown In the Inquest—Large Array of Legal Talent—Three Witnesses Took the Stand But the Evidence Was Unimportan—Crown Attorney Gets Adjournment Till Next Week.

London, Ont., July 25.—The inquest into the death of Willie Tambling, the Oxford street boy who was killed in the wreck of Reid's Crystal Hall, was begun in the court house here last night before Coroner MacLaren. A large crowd filled the room, showing the interest the people are taking in the all-important point of who is to blame for the wreck, the inquest being instituted solely for this purpose.

Every firm which suffered by the collapse, as well as the several people purchasing in the stores who were injured, were represented by legal talent.

Joseph Kerwin of Grand Rapids appeared for Peter Smirlies, the Greek who was the lessee of Reid's store. Maj. Judd appeared for McCallum & Westlake, photographers, whose premises were above the Brewster store and were destroyed, and David Mills for W. G. Wilson & Co., the contractors who were making the alterations to the Reid store.

Edgar Jeffrey was on hand for the Jeffrey estate, owners of the Brewster store; George A. Gibbons for W. J. Reid & Co., owners of the Crystal Hall; D. A. McDonald for the relatives of the late Mr. and Mrs. Tantum Howitt, killed in the Hamilton-Long store, and for Mr. and Mrs. Peters of St. John, injured with their baby in the same store, Ed. Weld, for the estate of the late W. T. Hamilton of Hamilton, Long & Co.

In the room were Alfred Gifford and F. Curran, both of whom were injured in the wreck.

The evidence was not important, only three witnesses being placed on the stand. Dr. George D. Wilson and Dr. A. V. Becher testified that young Tambling had died by being crushed to death, and F. H. Brewster, proprietor of the 5 and 10 cent store, swore that Tambling had been working for him the day of the accident and was killed in his store.

Crown Attorney McKillop then asked for an adjournment for a week and the request was granted. The jury will meet again in the court house next Tuesday night at 7.30.

Mr. McKillop explained that it will take fully another week to arrange his case from the mass of evidence which has been secured.

The first official notice of action for damages as a result of the Crystal Hall disaster was filed yesterday morning with the city clerk by Margaret Boyd, who was knocked down and injured while walking past the building.

Joint Tariff Agreements.

Ottawa, July 25.—The railway commission has sent out an order to railway companies asking for a return showing all joint tariff arrangements in force with other roads, the junction points of same and asking for reasons, if any, against the extensions of tariffs to other roads.

Will Make Money.

Ottawa, July 25.—Dr. James Bonar, master of the Canadian branch of the Royal Mint, has arrived from England and takes charge at once of the arrangements for the completion of the Mint in Ottawa, which is to be in operation before the close of the present year.

Quebec, July 25.—The Gosford branch of the Quebec and Lake St. John Railway, now controlled by Mackenzie and Mann, will be inaugurated on Thursday of next week.

KILLED IN A RUNAWAY.

Cobourg School Teacher Tried to Save Herself by Jumping.

Cobourg, July 25.—A distressing accident occurred near here, resulting in the almost instant death of Miss Jennie Day, for years a member of the public school staff.

Miss Day was one of a party of eight who had early in the evening driven to Coldsprings. On their return, about 10 o'clock, the horses became unmanageable in some way and ran away, throwing the occupants out and causing severe injuries to all the party. Miss Day tried to save herself by jumping. In alighting she struck on her head, causing a fracture of the skull, from which she died in a few hours.

DENIED SHORE LEAVE.

American and Jap Sailors at Brest Must Remain Aboard Ship.

Brest, July 25.—The Japanese cruisers Tsukuba and Chitose, under the command of Vice-Admiral Ijuin, have arrived in this harbor. They returned the salute of the U. S. ships.

The crews of the Japanese cruisers are to be kept on board until further orders, and the American bluejackets also have been denied shore leave. Rear-Admiral Stockton explains that this restriction is customary on the day before warships leave port.

DENOUNCED STEUNENBERG.

Attorney Darrow Contends His Opposition to Union Unjustifiable.

Boise, Idaho, July 25.—The career of Frank Steunenberg, the murdered ex-governor of Idaho, was discussed at length yesterday afternoon by Clarence Darrow in his plea for Wm. D. Haywood, charged with the murder.

Justifying the articles published in The Miner's Magazine, the official organ of the Western Federation, Mr. Darrow said the action of Steunenberg in asking for United States troops to quell riot and the establishment of martial law in 1899 was unjustifiable and properly stirred up intense feeling in labor circles against the governor.

Mr. Darrow's argument, unfinished last night, turned into an appeal for labor as against capital, and a denunciation of all opposition to labor unions. He held an audience open-mouthed as one after another of the sentiments poured from his lips.

His attack on Orchard was anticipated, but in this respect he surpassed all expectations.

SIFTING ASHES FOR JEWELS.

Sufferers In Victoria Fire Are Searching For Their Valuables.

Victoria, B. C., July 25.—The district burned Tuesday was yesterday being searched by those who have lost their homes, in a vain effort to locate valuables. In some instances owners are sifting the ashes in the hopes of finding the remains of jewelry.

The homeless are being cared for by friends. In some cases those who were burned out have lost everything they had in the world and are destitute. A subscription list has been opened and several thousand dollars is already subscribed.

Mayor Morley and the city council are being severely condemned for the inadequate facilities for fighting the flames, but the mayor is endeavoring to lay the blame on the fire department.

An investigation will be held on Friday evening, to consider the matter.

A Gigantic Coal Strip.

Hazleton, Pa., July 25.—The Lehigh Valley Coal Co. has opened what is believed to be the largest stripping in the world. The coal is in a solid bed 1,300 feet wide, 30 feet in thickness and extends at least six miles.

It is estimated that were the company to take out 500 tons daily it would require 250 years to exhaust the supply.

PORT PERRY, ONT., April 15, 1905.

MY DEAR SIR:—

I yesterday received Bonus Addition Certificate from the Canada Life Assurance Company amounting to the handsome sum of $382.65 being the profits on my $4000 policy and in writing you at the present time, I wish to express my gratification in having nearly $1400 more insurance than when I took out my policy in 1889.

With only three more payments to make I find the Limited Payment Life Policy ever so much more satisfactory than any other as under my policy all the premiums will be paid while I am yet under forty years of age and I have an insurance in the Canada Life which will be largely increased in amount, and particularly so, as life expectancy is nearly thirty years.

I think I have a right to feel pleased with the result of my insurance and investment in the Canada Life.

With best wishes,
Yours truly,
W. G. MONET.

Manitoba Has Delightful Summer Resorts As Well As Fertile Wheat Fields

Lake Winnipeg's Charms as a Summer Resort Are Described—Delightful Outing Places on Its Shores.

SOME ANCIENT HISTORY

The Lake is Notorious for Sudden Storms — Great Catches of Fish Reported From That Water.

Reproduced From Winnipeg Free Press

Perhaps no spot on Lake Winnipeg has afforded such a great degree of privacy and retirement to the few as has Gull Harbour, which is a deep, sandy-shored bay, situated on a north-east projection of Big Island. Gull Harbour is just close enough to be readily reached by boat from Selkirk, and just far enough removed to bring one into the thoroughly northern region.

Leaving Selkirk by steamboat about noon, one passes down one of the most beautiful reaches of the Red River, through the low-lying region of its delta, and by night time, after passing across the south expansion of Lake Winnipeg, finds himself in the channel between Big Island and Black Island. As the shores slowly crop up in detail, the traveler discerns the spruce and the pine and the limestone shores of Big Island on the west, and the Laurentian granite of Black Island on the east.

Just here is the secret of the charm of Gull Harbour for the camper. The channel is the dividing line between the Laurentian granite and the geologically later formations of limestone, which stretch westward, and underlie the whole prairie region. Here one finds himself under completely new conditions. The vegetation becomes intense in reaching it, yet one does not get away from the flatness, from the poplar which is typical of the prairie region, in fact, does not reach an entire change of conditions such as Gull Harbour affords. True, there is the expanse of lake and a splendid beach, but to get out of one's self, to come across nothing which will remind you of the place you left, Gull Harbour is an ideal spot.

Unlike the summer resorts of Winnipegosis, which are reached by a three-hour railroad journey, Gull Harbour, with the exception of the few miles between Winnipeg and West Selkirk, is reached by steamboat. Arrive at Selkirk, one feels already in quite a new world. The atmosphere of the place is entirely different from that of any of the western towns. One is surprised at the outlet to find a town that ranks fourth in size in the province. One instinctively feels that there is a place that does not belong to the west, whose success has been based on wheat. From the beginning of the year to the end, you have heard of nothing but wheat, wheat, wheat—you have thought of nothing but the great stretches of level plain—the daily weather reports—the real estate market. The dead level run of business has absorbed you. But here—the first step to the station platform, brings to your ear the buzz of the saw, the deep steamboat whistle—the short, walk to your hotel or it may be direct to the wharf, introduces to you the moccasined foot, the dusky feature—the first glimpse into a story above. Mosses, ferns, lichens and liverworts, peculiar fungi and the corpse plant, commonly called Indian pipe, are all objects of keen delight and interest found at every turn.

With the location of the line of steamboat travel through Lake Winnipeg, thus rendering Gull Harbour accessible, and with all the added delights of a northern region described above, it is small wonder that from the earliest years, when Winnipeg began to be, this beautiful spot has been a favourite with certain Winnipeg citizens, who are acquainted with this northern region. Before the railroads stretched out to the Lake of the Woods, Killarney and Winnipeg Beach, Gull Harbour was known and could always be reached by water. While Winnipeg Beach is a great boon to the thousands, on account of the long beaches and the ease and unobtrusiveness with which one can reach it, yet one does not find oneself instinctively feel that you are at home.

Here the covered copper kettle for the camp fire—the peculiar footwear for the lumbermen and the fishermen—the fishing nets—the stout ropes—the heavy prints and a dozen odds and ends that one finds only in some backwoods post, tells one surely, that already, but twenty-five miles from Winnipeg, he is entering the northern wilds. There is something peculiarly luring in the north. It is something which at the first defies analysis. The north is the land of which lake and river and nook—of which the canoe—the Indian guide—the rapid—the portage, are ever characteristic. The evergreen and the birds are everywhere found. On this historical Red River, you start on a trip straight north, on a waterway where you may sail past Gull Harbour on and on into the wilderness, for nearly three hundred and fifty miles.

Leaving this fishing-post of Lake Winnipeg—for you will readily have gleaned from you observation of the unloading from the boats of cargoes of fish packed in ice and of the numerous cold storage buildings and freezers, that "fish" here almost completely substitutes "wheat," so characteristic of the west—you are certain to find yourself on the topmost deck fairly revelling in the breeze, the first indulgence of the splendid body of water beginning a few miles up the north—Lake Winnipeg. You are soon passing through the famous St. Peters Indian reserve, which lies on both sides of the river for several miles. The banks, wooded in many parts, as of old, are dotted with neat, white log buildings, low and small, with here and there patches of gardens. In central locations are situated the neat white church buildings, one Roman Catholic, the other Anglican. It may be on your return that you strike the mouth of the Red River on a beautiful Sunday morning, and hear the tolling of bells calling the faithful, as your boat glides quietly up the river past the mission. On the way through this reserve one catches a glimpse of the Dynevor hospital for Indians, supported by the Church of England, and doing heroic work. A little farther down, standing out prominently at some beautiful point on the bank, amid large elms and maples, are the homes of several retired Hudson Bay factors and other officers. Their lives having been spent in the northland, their very soul linked with it, they find here an ideal place for retirement, where the flavour of the north still lingers, and yet where civilization is but at the door.

In these parts, one is delighted with the broad sweep of the Red; at one point a beautiful wooded island divides it into two channels. Not far below this, the forest gradually recedes on each side of the river, and you have in this recession the first indications of and down a broad V-shaped delta. Through your field glasses you follow the line of trees ever growing more distant to the east and to the west, as they keep back on the higher land. You look over, at first, extensive flat hay meadows, magnificent stretches for grazing. A little later you observe swampy patches and here and there small bodies of water. On a little further you look over Lake Netley—a vast expanse of shallow marshy lake, abounding in water fowl, covered with stretches and groups of reeds, of so dark a green, that you almost think they are storm-cloud shadows on the water. Here the river is actually flowing through the marshy lake, and is able through the vast quantities of sediment it carries, washed down from the prairie soils, to maintain on each of its sides a low bank, a few feet wide, broken here and there by openings, through which one can pass paddling with a small craft into Lake Netley—merely a part of the Red River delta. The river here divides into several channels, only one of which is navigable by the larger boats—navigable too with difficulty, for a government dredge is continually at work, especially where the channel bends its way out into the shallow south end of the lake.

Out in the shallow water, near this point, stands the lighthouse, which is the only safeguard between the boat approaching the Red River at night, stormy weather, boats reaching the mouth of the Red by night, are frequently compelled to wait till the approach of dawn before daring to enter. Through your glasses to the west, you dimly see the fair line of trees, which have here receded to the region of Winnipeg Beach. To the east, a similar line of trees can be barely discerned, and marks the locality where the Brokenhead River flows into Lake Winnipeg. The Winnipegger who observes the extent of this delta region—for here it is fully fifteen miles from tree line to tree line—cannot but think of the vast area which the Red River drains, and the Qu'Appelle, the Souris, the Assiniboine, the Pembina, all rise to his mind.

As you steam out into the lake, it is not long before you are practically out of sight of land. Far ahead, dimly to the east can be seen a faint blue line, and through your glasses, you can discern long, sandy beaches, destined in the future to become ever more frequented by Winnipeggers than is Winnipeg Beach to-day. These eastern shores afford a greater change than does the latter beach, it is northern—the evergreen prevails. Jutting out from this blue line, you can readily see the well known sandy point called "Grand Marais." Everybody on the lake knows it; it will be a household name in Winnipeg in the near future. The faint blue line ends abruptly in two islands—Elk Island—the channel between which is the entrance to Traverse Bay, at the head of which is Fort Alexander, and into which flows the Winnipeg River.

Valuable Asset For Winnipeg

You are now completely out of sight of land, the feeling of "bigness" possesses you—you had heard that Lake Winnipeg was large, but you had not expected to so soon leave every trace of land behind. To have left Winnipeg in the morning, and by the middle of the afternoon to find yourself looking out in every direction on a vast expanse of water, with its cooling breezes—for these are always there—reveals to you the conviction that there is an asset for Winnipeg that is as yet but little appreciated. Winnipeg is growing fast, the installation of the St. Andrew's locks, is now assured. Out city will become the port of Lake Winnipeg, in the not far distant future, the thousands will take their boat at a Winnipeg wharf, and steam down the Red River, past hundreds of beautiful suburban residences, and on quickly into the lake, out of sight of land.

One now expects to sail on and on, straight north before you again descry land and in this you are right. By evening straight ahead, you espy first faint signs of land again. It is the low, dim, blue line. You feel as if you were approaching a foreign shore. It certainly is just as new to you as if you actually were. You are approaching Big Island, as as you get closer, you learn that you are passing its southeast shore. In a short time, land looms up to your right. This is Black Island, and you are heading for the channel between them—the beginning of the Narrows in which these two islands are situated.

Is a Country of Strange People

Far ahead, there is already shining in the early evening, a clear, small point of light like a star—the first lighthouse guiding the Lake Winnipeg mariner across the south expanse of the lake, and also from the north, through the dangerous channels of the Narrows. This lighthouse is on a long sandy point, on the east side of Gull Harbour and stands in full view of the campers' cottages, situated at the bottom of this deep, little sandy bay. As you are entering the Narrows, a feeling of "foreignness" thrills you, for there on the limestone shore to the west, you suddenly spy a tiny village, a small wharf, white or unpainted buildings, a neat white little chapel

A prominent physician, famous for his success in the treatment of kidney and bladder diseases, attributes a great deal of his success to the following simple vegetable prescription:—

One ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion;

One ounce Compound Salatone;

Four ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla;

Mix, shake well, and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime.

Your druggist can supply the ingredients, and the mixture can be prepared at home at very little expense.

This, the doctor says, acts directly on the kidneys, assisting them to filter the poisons from the blood and expel same in the urine, at the same time restoring the kidneys to healthy, normal action.

We feel that a great many readers will be pleased to learn of this simple prescription, and knowing the ability of the physician whose formula it is, we do not hesitate to recommend it to any sufferer.

A FEW WORDS IN CONFIDENCE.

King Palmetto Compound is a distinct product of the twentieth Century conditions. It is not a secret or patent nostrum, on the contrary the formula is plainly printed on the wrapper. It is the result of the modern investigations into the cause and cure of all disorders of the stomach, liver and kidneys.

Science has demonstrated that ninety per cent. of the diseases to which the body is subject have their origin in the retaining of waste and poisoneus matter in the system, and that if the bowels and kidneys are properly performing their respective functions, all the other organs and the nerves will continue in a condition of abounding health. King Palmetto Compound is a kidney and liver tonic and blood purifier of wonderful virtue, and the diseases which arise from impure blood and sluggish liver and kidneys are quickly cured by its use, as cystitis, catarrh of the bladder, nervous prostration, general debility and rheumatism.

One dose a day. Pleasant and convenient to take. It contains no dangerous poisons and no narcotics, but just pure vegetable remedies of universally acknowledged efficacy.

A STORY OF LOVE AND ADVENTURE

BY BERTHA RUNKLE.

Copyright by The Century Co.

Of all the mansions in the place the Hotel St. Quentin was, in my opinion, the most imposing—carved and ornamented and stately, with gardens at the side. But there was about it none of that stir and liveliness one expects to see about the houses of the great. No visitors passed in or out and the big iron gates were shut, as if none were looked for. Of a truth the persons who visited monsieur these days preferred to slip in by the postern after nightfall, as if there had never been a time when they were proud to be seen in his hall.

Beyond the grilles a sentry in the green and scarlet of monsieur's men-at-arms stood on guard, and I called out to him boldly.

He turned at once, then looked as if the sight of me scarce repaid him.

"I wish to enter, if you please," I said. "I am come to see M. le Duc."

"You?" he ejaculated, his eye wandering over my attire, which, none of the newest, showed signs of my journey.

"Yes, I," I answered in some resentment. "I am one of his men.

He looked me up and down with a grin.

"Oh, one of his men! Well, my man, you must know M. le Duc is not receiving to-day."

"I am Felix Broux," I told him.

"You may be Felix anybody for all it avails; you cannot see monsieur."

"Then I will see Vigo." Vigo was monsieur's Master of Horse, the stanchest man in France. This sentry was nobody, just a common fellow picked up since monsieur left St. Quentin, but Vigo had been at his side these twenty years.

"Vigo, say you! Vigo does not see street boys."

"I am no street boy," I cried angrily. "I know Vigo well. You shall smart for flouting me when I have monsieur's ear."

"Aye, when you have! Be off with you, rascal. I have no time to bother with you."

"Imbecile!" I sputtered. But he had turned his back on me and resumed his pacing up and down the court.

"Oh, very well for you, monsieur," I cried out loudly, hoping he could hear me. "But you will laugh t'other side of your mouth by and by. I'll pay you off."

It was maddening to be halted like this at the door of my goal; it made a fool of me. But while I debated whether to set up an outcry that would bring forward some officer with more sense than the surly sentry, or whether to seek some other entrance, I became aware of a sudden bustle in the courtyard, a narrow slice of which I could see through the gateway. A page dashed across; then a pair of flunkeys passed. There was some noise of voices, and finally of hoofs and wheels. Half a dozen men-at-arms ran to the gates and swung them open, taking their stand on each side. Clearly M. le Duc was about to drive out.

A little knot of people had quickly collected—sprang from between the stones of the pavement it would seem—to see monsieur emerge.

"He is a bold man," I heard one say, and a woman answer, "Aye, and a handsome," ere the heavy coach rolled out of the arch.

I pushed myself in close to the guardsmen, my heart thumping in my throat now that the moment had come when I should see my monsieur. At the sight of his face I sprang bodily up on the coach step, crying, all my soul in my voice, "Oh, monsieur! M. le Duc!"

Monsieur looked at me coldly, blankly, without a hint of recognition. The next instant the young gentleman beside him sprang up and struck me a blow that hurled me off the step. I fell where the ponderous wheels would have ended me had not a guardsman, quick and kind, pulled me out of the way. Some one shouted, "Assassin!"

"I am no assassin," I cried; "I only sought to speak with monsieur."

"He deserves a hiding, the young cur," growled my foe, the sentry. "He's been pestering me this half hour to let him in. He was one of monsieur's men, he said. Monsieur would see him. Well, we have seen how monsieur treats him!"

"Faith, no," said another. "We have only seen how our young gentleman treats him. Of course he is too proud and dainty to let a common man so much as look at him."

They all laughed; the young gentleman seemed no favorite.

"Parbleu! that was why I drew him from the wheels, because he knocked him there," said my preserver. "I don't believe there's harm in the boy. What meant you, lad?"

"I meant no harm," I said, and turned sullenly off up the street. This, then, was what I had come to Paris for—to be denied entrance to the house, thrown under the coach wheels and threatened with a drubbing from the lackeys!

For three years my only thought had been to serve monsieur. From waking in the morning to sleep at night my whole life was monsieur's. Never was duty more cheerfully paid. Never did acolyte more throw his soul into his service than I into mine. Never did lover hate to be parted from his mistress more than I from monsieur. The journey to Paris had been a journey to Paradise. And now, this!

Monsieur had looked me in the face and not smiled; had heard me beseech him and not answered—not lifted a finger to save me from being mangled, under his very eyes. St. Quentin and Paris were two very different places, it appeared. At St. Quentin monsieur had been pleased to take me into the chateau and treat me to more intimacy than he accorded to the high-born lads, his other pages. So much the easier, then, to cast me off when he had tired of me. My heart seethed with rage and bitterness against monsieur, against the sentry and, more than all, against the young Comte de Mar, who had flung me under the wheels.

I had never before seen the Comte, he was, that spoiled only son of M. le Duc's, who was too fine for the country, too gay to share his father's exile. Maybe I was jealous of the love his father bore him, which he so little repaid. I had never thought to like him, St. Quentin though he were; and now that I saw him I hated him. His handsome face looked ugly enough to me as he struck me that blow.

I went along the Paris streets blindly, the din of my own thoughts louder than all the noises of the city. But I could not remain in this trance forever, and at length I woke to two unpleasant facts—first, I had no idea where I was, and, second, I should be no better off if I knew.

Never while there remained in me the spirit of a man would I go back to monsieur; never would I serve the Comte de Mar. And it was equally obvious that never so long as my father retained the spirit that was his could I return to St. Quentin with the account of my morning's achievements.

"Monsieur," I cried, "there is a plot to murder you."

It was just here that, looking at the business with my father's eyes, I began to have a suspicion that I had behaved like an insolent young fool. But I was still too angry to acknowledge it.

Remained then but one course—to stay in Paris and keep from starvation as best I might.

My thrifty father had not seen fit to furnish me any money to threw away in the follies of the town. He had calculated closely what I should need to take me to monsieur, with a little margin for accidents; so that after paying Maitre Jacques I had hardly two pieces to jingle together.

For three years I had browsed my fill in the duke's library; I could write a decent letter both in my own tongue and in Italian, thanks to Father Francesco, monsieur's Florentine confessor, and handle a sword none so badly, thanks to monsieur; and I felt that it should not be hard to pick up a livelihood. But how to start about it I had no notion, and finally I made up my mind to go and consult him whom I now called my one friend in Paris, Jacques the innkeeper.

'Twas easier said than done. I had strayed out of the friendly Rue St. Denis into a network of dark and narrow ways that might have been laid out by a wily old stag with the dogs hot on him, so did they twist and turn and double on themselves. I could make my way only at a snail's pace, asking new guidance at every corner. Noon was long past when at length I came on laggard around the corner by the Amour de Dieu.

Yet was it not fatigue that weighted my feet, but pride. Though I had resolved to seek out Maitre Jacques, still 'twas a hateful thing to enter as suppliant where I had been the patron. I had paid for my breakfast like a lord, but I should have to beg for my dinner. I had bragged of monsieur's fondness, and I should have to tell how I had been flung under the coach wheels. My pace slackened to a stop. I could not bring myself to enter the door. I tried to think how to better my story, so to tell it that it should redound to my credit. But my invention stuck in my pate.

As I stood striving to summon up a jaunty demeanor I found myself gazing straight at the shuttered house, and of a sudden my thoughts shifted back to my vision.

Those murdered Huguenots, dead and gone ere I was born, had appeared to me as plain as the men I passed in the street. Though I had beheld them but the space of a lightning flash I could call up their faces like those of my comrades. One, the nearest me, was small, pale, with pinched, sharp face, somewhat rat-like. The second man was conspicuously big and burly, black-haired and bearded. The third and youngest—all three were young—stood with his hand on Blackbeard's shoulder. He too was tall but slenderly built, with clear-cut visage and fair hair gleaming in the glare. One moment I saw them, every feature plain; the next they had vanished like a dream.

It was an unholy thing, no doubt, yet it held me with a shuddery fascination. Was it indeed a portent, this rising of heretics from their unblessed graves? And why had it been shown to me, true son of the Church? Had any one else ever seen what I had seen? Maitre Jacques had hinted at further terrors and said no one dared enter the place. Well, grant me but the opportunity and I would dare.

Thus was hatched in my brain the notion of forcing an entrance into that banned house. I was an idle boy, footloose and free to do whatever mad mischief presented itself. Here was the house just across the street.

Neglected as it was, it remained the most pretentious edifice in the row, being large and flaunting a half-defaced coat-of-arms over the door. Such a house might well boast two entrances, I hoped it did, for there was no use in trying to batter down this door with the eye of the Rue Coupejarrets upon me. I turned along the side street, and after exploring several muck-heaped alleys found one that led me into a small square court bounded on three sides by a tall house with shuttered windows.

Fortune was favoring me. But how to gain entrance. The two doors were both firmly fastened. The windows on the ground floor were small, high and iron-shuttered. Above one or two shutters swung half open, but I could not climb the smooth wall. Yet I did not despair: I was not without experience of shutters. I selected one closed not quite tight, leaving a crack for my knife-blade. I found the hook inside, got my dagger under it and at length drove it up. The shutter creaked shrilly open.

A few good blows knocked in the casement. I followed.

I found myself in a small room bare of everything but dust. From this, once a porter's room, I fancied, I passed out into a hallway dimly lighted from the open window behind me. The hall was large, paved with black and white marbles; at the end a stately stairway mounted into mysterious gloom.

My heart jumped into my mouth and I cringed back in terror, a choked cry rasping my throat. For as I crossed the hall, peering into the dimness, I descried stationed on the lowest stair with upraised bludgeon a man.

For a second I stood in helpless startlement, voiceless, motionless, waiting for him to brain me. Then my half-uttered scream changed to a quavering laugh as my eyes, becoming used to the gloom, discovered my bogy to be but a figure carved in wood holding aloft a long-since-quenched flambeau.

I blushed with shame, yet I cannot say that now I felt no fear. I thought of the panic-stricken women, the doomed men, who had fled at the sword's point up these very stairs. The silence seemed to shriek at me, and I half thought I saw fear-maddened eyes peering out from the shadowed corners. Yet for all that—nay, because of that—I would not give up the adventure. I went back into the little room and carefully closed the shutter lest some other meddler should spy my misdeed. Then I set my feet on the stair.

If the half-light before had been full of eery terror it was naught to the blackness now. My hand on the rail was damp. Yet I mounted steadily.

Up one flight I climbed, groped in the hot dark for the foot of the next flight and went on. Suddenly above I heard a noise. I came to an instant halt. All was still as the tomb. I listened; not a breath broke the silence. It never occurred to me to imagine a rat in this house of the dead, and the noise shook me. With a sick feeling about my heart I went on again.

On the next floor it was lighter. Faint outlines of door and passages were visible. I could not stand the gloom a moment longer; I strode into the nearest doorway and across the room to where a gleam of brightness outlined the window. My shaking fingers found the hook of the shutter and flung it wide, letting in a burst of honest sunshine. I leaned out into the free air and saw below me the Rue Coupejarrets and the sign of the Amour de Dieu.

The next instant a cloth fell over my face and was twisted tight; strong arms pulled me back and a deep voice commanded:

"Close the shutter."

Some one pushed past me and shut it with a clang.

"Devil take you! You'll rouse the quarter," cried my captor, fiercely. "Be not loud. "Go join monsieur." With that he picked me up in his arms and walked across the room.

The capture had been so quick I had no time for outcry. I fought my best with him, half strangled as I was by the cloth. I might as well have struggled against the grip of the Maiden. The man carried me the length of the house, it seemed; flung me down upon the floor and banged a door on me.

CHAPTER IV.

I tore the cloth from my head and sprang up. I was in pitch darkness. I dashed against the door to no avail. Feeling the walls I discovered myself to be in a small, empty closet. With all my force I flung myself once more upon the door. It stood him.

"Dame! but I have got into a pickle," I thought.

There were no ghosts, at all events. Scared as I was, I rejoiced at that. I could cope with men, but who can cope with the devil? These might be villains—doubtless were, skulking in this deserted house—yet with readiness and pluck I could escape them.

It was as hot as a furnace in my prison and as still as the grave. The men, who seemed by their footsteps to be several, had gone cautiously down the stairs after caging me. Evidently I had given them a fine fright, clattering through the house as I had, and even now they were looking for my accomplices.

It seemed hours before the faintest sound broke the stillness. If ever you want to squeeze away a man's cheerfulness like water from a rag shut him up alone in the dark and silence. He will thank you to take him out into the daylight and hang him. In token whereof my heart welcomed like brothers the men returning.

They came into the room, and I thought they were three in number. I heard the door shut, and then steps approached my closet.

"Have a care now, monsieur; he may be armed," spoke the rough voice of a man without breeding.

"Doubtless he carries a culverin up his sleeve," sneered the deep tones of my captor.

Some one else laughed and rejoined in a clear, quick voice:

"Natheless, he may have a knife. I will open the door, and do you look out for him, Gervais."

I had a knife and had it in my hand, ready to charge for freedom. But the door opened slowly and Gervais looked out for me—to the effect that my knife went one way and I another before I could wink. I reeled against the wall and stayed there, cursing myself for a fool that I had not trusted to fair words instead of to my dagger.

"Well done, my brave Gervais!" cried he of the vivid voice—a tall, fair-haired youth whom I had seen before. So had I seen the stalwart blackbeard Gervais. The third man was older, a common-looking fellow whose face was new to me. All three were in their shirts on account of the heat; all were plain, even shabby, in their dress. But the two young men wore swords at their sides.

The half-opened shutters overhanging the court let plenty of light into the room. It had two straw beds on the floor and a few old chairs and stools, and a table covered with dishes and broken food and wine bottles. More bottles, riding boots, whips and spurs, two or three hats and saddle-bags and various odds and ends of dress littered the floor and the chairs. Everything was of mean quality except the bearing of the two young men. A gentleman is a gentleman even in the Rue Coupejarrets—all the more, maybe, in the Rue Coupejarrets. These two were gently born.

The low man with scarred face held off from me. He whose name was Gervais confronted me with an angry scowl. Yeux-gris alone—for so I dubbed the third from his gray eyes, well open under dark brows—Yeux-gris looked no whit alarmed or angered; the only emotion to be read in his face was a gay interest as the blackavised Gervais put me questions.

"How came you here? What are you about?"

"No harm, messieurs," I made haste to protest, ruing my stupidity with that dagger. "I climbed in at a window for sport. I thought the house was deserted."

He clutched my shoulder till I could have screamed for pain.

"The truth now. If you value your life you will tell the truth."

"Monsieur, it is the truth. I came in idle mischief; that was the whole of it. I had no notion of breaking in upon you or any one. They said the house was haunted."

"Who said that?"

"Maitre Jacques at the Amour de Dieu."

He stared at me in surprise.

"What had you been asking about this house?"

Yeux-gris, lounging against the table, struck in:

"I can tell you that myself. He told Jacques he saw us in the window last night. Did you not?"

"Aye, monsieur. The thunder woke me, and when I looked out I saw you plain as day. But Maitre Jacques said it was a vision."

"I flattered myself I saw you first and got that shutter closed very neatly," said Yeux-gris. "Dame! I am not so clever as I thought. So old Jacques called us ghosts, did he?"

"Yes, monsieur. He told me this house belonged to M. Bethune, who was a Huguenot and killed in the massacre."

Yeux-gris burst into joyous laughter.

"He said my house belonged to the Bethunes! Well played, Jacques! You owe that gallant lie to me, Gervais, and the pains I took to make him think we Navarre's men. He is heart and soul for Henri Quatre. Did he say, perchance, that in this very courtyard Coligny fell?"

"No," said I, seeing that I had been fooled and had had all my terrors for naught, and feeling much chagrined thereat. "How was I to know it was a lie? I know naught about Paris. I came up yesterday from St. Quentin."

"St. Quentin!" came a cry from the henchman. With a fierce "Be quiet, fool!" Gervais turned to me and demanded my name.

"Felix Broux."

"Who sent you here?"

"Monsieur, no one."

"You lie."

Again he gripped me by the shoulder, gripped till the tears stood in my eyes.

"No one, monsieur; I swear it."

"You will not speak! I'll make you, by heaven."

Will be continued next Saturday

25 MANAGERSHIPS VACANT

CAN WE RECOMMEND YOU FOR ONE OF THESE POSITIONS?

All over the country business houses are installing special modernized systems, designed individually for their own businesses.

And as they put in these new systems they want men trained in their use, who are capable of stepping right in and taking hold.

The directors of Business Systems, Limited, continually in touch with the largest commercial institutions throughout the Dominion which are installing these new systems of accounting, are frequently asked to recommend men to take charge of offices.

Right this instant, they have a number of positions in which they could place capable men, if they had men whom they felt they knew enough about to recommend.

In order, therefore, that they might have men with whose work they are sufficiently familiar that they might feel safe to recommend them, they have arranged for the starting of Business Systems Commercial School.

Business Systems Commercial School will aim to fill a definite field.

Where the ordinary Business School educates bookkeepers, Business Systems Commercial School will get away from all the stereotyped routine that has so long been considered a necessary part of a business education, and will instead, give practical instruction in the methods of office system as adopted by modern commercial houses all over the Dominion.

Business Systems Commercial School absolutely will refuse to turn out as a graduate any student who is not thoroughly capable. Aiming at a high standard of excellence, pupils entering Business Systems Commercial School who cannot come up to a certain standard, are given a preliminary training before being placed at the regular work, so that when these pupils have graduated they will be capable of stepping in, taking hold and filling the best positions.

Business Systems Commercial School is not catering to infants, and the class of students, who, when they leave school, are thrust out by their parents to take a year in a business college, mostly because their parents do not know what else to do with them.

Business Systems Commercial School wants bright and aggressive young men and women who are themselves determined to succeed. Business Systems Commercial School can bring the rungs on the ladder of success closer together, but the student has to lift his own feet.

Are you the kind of man who lifts his own feet? If so, write for particulars. Fall term begins Tuesday, Sept. 3rd.

Havelock Boy Succumbs To Appendicitis Disease

A Son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Barlow—Summer Visitors are Arriving in Large Numbers at Trent Bridge

MANY ON THEIR HOLIDAYS

Havelock, July 24.—Cyril Barlow, second youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Barlow of town, passed away Sunday morning after only a few days' illness. On Tuesday morning the little fellow was stricken with appendicitis and an operation was advised. The little one was operated upon Saturday night, but it was too late and the child succumbed on Sunday morning. The funeral took place Monday afternoon to Maple Grove Cemetery. The sympathy of all is extended to the bereaved parents.

The Park Board, which was to have met Friday night, has postponed the meeting until next week.

Mr. Peter Cromar, station agent at Havelock, left Monday morning for a six weeks' holiday trip out West. Mr. Ward Patterson is relieving him.

Miss Davie of Toronto was the guest of Mrs. Jesse Campney last week for a few days before going to Trent Bridge, where she will remain for the summer months.

Mr. Linton, Campbellford, was in town on Sunday.

Miss Ada Barrie of Peterborough is the guest of Mrs. Jas. E. Fowler of town.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Forde and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Watson left Monday for an extended holiday trip down east.

Miss Mary Pickford of Norwood is the guest of Miss Catherine Falkner of town.

Mr. Jas. Sutherland of Peterborough is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Dellony of town.

Mr. T. P. Lancaster was in Peterborough Saturday.

Mr. Root. Gillies, High School teacher at Port Hope, is spending a few days in town renewing old acquaintances.

Messrs. Davis, Jackson and Braund of Toronto have pitched their camp at the Kellar summer resort at Healey Falls.

The camping season at Trent Bridge, Healey Falls and the other different summer resorts near Havelock is now in full swing, and large numbers, more than during the past seasons, are spending the summer months here. They come from Toronto, Buffalo and Ohio, and a number of other American cities.

The fishing is at present at its best, as is shown by the large boxes of fish shipped from the station here every day.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Weymark of town passed away Monday night after a few days' illness, convulsions being the cause of death. The funeral took place to the Maple Grove Cemetery.

Miss Bessie Rose is spending a week in Campbellford the guest of the Misses Armstrong and Nancarrow.

ENTRANCE EXAMINATIONS

Examiner Special.

Ennismore, July 23.—Miss Garnole of Prescott is at present visiting with Miss Minnie Young. Both are Knights of the Birch, having just completed their course at the Ottawa Normal School.

We extend our congratulations to Mr. John A. O'Donohue, teacher of the Continuation Class, who passed successfully his final examinations at the Hamilton Normal College. Also to Misses C. Guiry, M. Young and M. O'Sullivan for like success at the Ottawa Normal, and to the sixteen children who qualified themselves for High School standing at the recent Entrance exams.

Building seems to be all the rage just now, and carpenters and masons are greatly in demand. Mr. Michiel Crough has just completed a barn, 106x40 feet, which, with the exception of John Young's, is the largest barn in the township.

John Flood's new residence is nearing completion and will be a gem. Every modern convenience is provided—bath-room, cistern, hot air, etc. John is one of our most progressive and earnest citizens and deserves all the comforts which his new home will afford.

The crops of the township never looked better, and, although the hay crop is somewhat lighter than last year, the other crops will more than make up for any deficiency in the hay.

A second room is being added for Continuation Class work, and will be used for the present in teaching Chemistry and Physics.

At a recent meeting of all the trustees of the township, it was decided to follow the advice of Inspector Lees and fully equip each school room. The nucleus of a library, worth, in each case, $20; maps, globes, dictionaries, scales, weights and measures, atlas, and geometrical forms will be provided, together with a suitable bookcase for each class room. The order has been placed, and all the necessary apparatus will be on hand before the re-opening of the schools.

The site for a new Roman Catholic Church has been purchased at Bridgenorth, and a building of modest dimensions will be erected there this autumn. The influx of Catholics to the Park has rendered the building of a small church imperative.

Mrs. (Dr.) Moloney of Cornwall and her three little children are at present visiting Mr. and Mrs. John Scollard.

Mr. Paul Costello, Jr., is enjoying a well-earned holiday, having passed with honours his fourth year exams. at St. Michael's College, Toronto. This institution is rapidly coming to the front, and the new rector, Rev. Father Rosch, has already won golden opinions on all sides.

Mrs. Michael Collins and daughter of Ottawa are spending their vacation at the home of Mrs. John Collins.

The engagement is announced of Mr. John O'Gorman of Edmonton, Alta., and Miss Margaret O'Gorman of this township.

Next week Mrs. John Carroll and Misses Lottie Crough and Loretta Kennedy will leave on a trip to Chicago to visit the latter's father, Mr. John Kennedy.

What about a stone-crusher for Ennismore? Our roads are bad, very bad,—and broken stone is the only remedy, with a liberal use of the grader. Probably the council or some enterprising citizen would invest. No township should be without one. In respect to good roads, we are behind our neighbours on all sides.

A large number left to-day on the annual pilgrimage to Ste. Anne de Beaupre.

Father McColl, rector of St. Peter's Cathedral, spent a few days last week visiting Father Fitzpatrick and his former parishioners. Father McColl is a welcome visitor in Ennismore, as his sterling work for nearly ten years is still remembered by all who knew him.

The annual excursion by water is a thing of the past, and in its place a lawn social will be held under the patronage and direction of the C.M.B.A., after the harvest has been gathered in.

The Entrance examination, on the whole, was most fair. However, the first question on the Written Reading, was, to our way of thinking, far beyond the capacity of the ordinary Entrance pupil and should not have been considered by the examiners. Here is the question: "The poetry of earth is never dead," etc., etc. Explain the above. Now, no man, who pretends to understand the mental calibre of children of 12 or 13 years, should set such a foolish question. This is a fair question for advanced pupils, but for children it is arrant nonsense, especially when one considers that this passage is sight literature. Why sight literature at all? Is it fair to teacher or pupil? I fancy not. An examination should be a test of the work done, and the same work set for all, and the same proficiency demanded of each pupil. We have good Public School Readers, with admirable selections to choose from, and our pupils should be limited to these. We admire the few remarks on arithmetic made by Inspector J. C. Brown, after the list of successful candidates. We would like more such remarks on the other subjects. We thereby learn the weak points in our pupils. The examiners, after going through the work of nearly two hundred pupils, are in a position to give much valuable information to the teachers, and it should be done publicly through the press.

Our perspective butter and cheese factory remains in status quo, with every prospect of continuing so.

A native florist, a great lover and student of botany, received, some time ago, a collection of flowering plants from Jordan Bros. Among the collection was a box of tomato plants, which our would-be botanist planted carefully, yet unconsciously, with the other plants in his flower garden. He is the only one in the township who does not suspect satsup.

Calling a water

does not certify it safe for you to drink. Water can be pure and yet be harmful. Boiled water is pure, in one sense, because heat destroyed the bacteria it contained, but heat does not remove harmful salts from water, nor the organic matter. ¶ Distilled water, used so much on shipboard, is chemically pure; but seafaring men will warn you against drinking too much "condenser" (distilled) water. It brings on bowel trouble, because the salts it should contain have been distilled out of it. ¶ Some spring water is fairly pure; but even the purest spring water contains dissolved mineral matter—sulphate of lime, carbonate of lime, magnesia, common salt, potash, iron. ¶ Even pure water, if it contains too much of some of these salts, does you harm. ¶ So what are you to do? You shouldn't drink boiled water because the salts are not boiled out of it. You musn't drink distilled water because the salts are boiled out of it. Most spring waters have too much of the wrong kind of salts. What are you to drink? ¶ Why not drink a water that is not only ideally pure, but in which are naturally present exactly the salts that are good for anybody, in exactly the proportion that is right for everybody? ¶ Why not drink a water that is zestful, sparkling, limpid, with no excess of mineral, no trace of harmful salts? That is

MRS. McGOUGH.

Depressed Feeling.

Mrs. M. McGough, 219 W. 53rd street, New York, N. Y., writes:

"I gladly add my mite of praise to Peruna for what it has done for me. Two years ago a depressed feeling took hold of me. My back and sides ached continually. My stomach got out of order so that at times I could not hold a glass of cold water. I didn't like to eat, afraid that my stomach would get sick. I have been using Peruna for the three past months and now I feel as well as I ever did. My stomach is as strong as ever and my nervous troubles have disappeared. I keep recommending Peruna to my friends who are troubled as I was, and I have been thanked for doing so."

MRS. MOOERS.

Mrs. Wilda Mooers, R. F. D. 1, Lents, Ore., member Order of Washington, writes:

"For the past four years I was a wretched woman suffering with troubles peculiar to my sex, causing severe backache and bearing down pains and leaving me so weak and weary that it was only with difficulty that I was able to attend to my household duties. I used different remedies and injections, but found no relief until I had tried Peruna. Within two weeks there was a complete change for the better and in less than three months I was a well and happy woman and all the praise is due to Peruna."

MRS. NELSON.

Headache and Backache.

Mrs. Tressie Nelson, 609 N. 5th Ave., Nashville, Tenn., writes:

"As Peruna has done me a world of good, I feel in duty bound to tell of it, in hopes that it may meet the eye of some woman who has suffered as I did. For five years I really did not know what a perfectly well day was, and if I did not have headache, I had backache or a pain somewhere and really life was not worth the effort I made to keep going.

"A good friend advised me to use Peruna and I was glad to try anything, and I am very pleased to say that six bottles made a new woman of me and I have no more pains and life looks bright again."

The above testimonials represent actual experience of every-day life. They are the truthful utterances of women who have been ill and have found a reliable remedy in Peruna.

It means a great deal to the women of America who have at hand a remedy capable of performing such cures. Nervousness, backache, dyspepsia, headache, melancholy, bearing down pains. All these and a host of other symptoms are relieved by Peruna. At least this is what the women say. They have no object in saying such things, except to render truthful testimony to their suffering sisters.

The reader will note by reading these testimonials that in most cases other remedies were tried, doctors were consulted, and finally Peruna came to their rescue and made them well again.

Peruna is making such cures every day. It is the testimony of the people that has made Peruna so justly famous.

Suffered Thirteen Years.

Mrs. Anna Munden, Hollygrove, Ark., writes:

"I suffered with female troubles for thirteen years.

"I saw an advertisement of your Peruna and bought one bottle and before I had taken it all I could get out of bed and walk about.

"After taking three bottles I was as well and hearty as ever and gained in flesh. I would not be without it."

Headache and Deafness.

Mrs. Mary E. Sampson, Londonderry, N. H., writes:

"I had terrible headaches, both ears run and I was nervous all the time, was deaf in one ear for thirty years. I took six bottles of Peruna and one of Manalin, and am happy to say that it is the best medicine that I ever heard of. I am not so nervous, my appetite is good, everything I eat agrees with me, and I am feeling better in every way."

A Severe Cold.

Miss Marie Calvin, 927 Main street, Cincinnati, Ohio, writes:

"I caught a cold coming home from an evening party and as I did not pay particular attention to it, I quickly became worse and found myself in a serious condition.

"I took Peruna and it brought me immediate relief. Within a week I was cured and now whenever I feel badly Peruna will set things right."

A story of extraordinary audacity is told against a trooper of the 16th Lancers. He deserted from his regiment at Aldershot recently, and, clad in mufti, visited a motor car manufacturer's at Guilford, where he said he wished to purchase a car, and eventually selected one for a trial run. He was given a long run. He first visited Woking, and called at several private houses, telling the driver that he had to see some patients. From Woking he was driven to Aldershot to see a "Captain Warren," and on the way he picked up two Lancers, and gave them a lift as far as their quarters. At Aldershot visits were paid to hotels and private houses, and also to an officers' mess. Between Aldershot and Farnborough he had the car stopped in order to watch some soldiers at drill, and after calling at a house displaying "Apartments to Let," he decided to stay at Aldershot for the night. He made an appointment to meet the driver the next morning. Instead of keeping the appointment, he drove to Farnham in a cab, and hired another motor car, and left for London. In the meantime information had been given to the police. The roving Lancer was traced to Farnham, and a description of the stolen car was telephoned to the Metropolitan police, who promptly stopped it at Hammersmith, and arrested the rover.

John Wilson, a 12-year-old Fernhill-Heath boy, was recently charged with stealing 2s., which he was seen to take from a box in a bedroom of a neighbour's house, and with obtaining £5 19s by means of a trick. He went to Carrie Croft, a little girl living at the house, and told her his father was a policeman and would summon her if she did not give him some money. She was frightened and gave him £1 from her mother's purse. He came again and said his father said that was not enough. So she took £4 15s more and gave it to him. Then he threatened a younger child, who gave him several shillings from her own money box. He next proceeded to spend his ill-gotten gains. He took another youngster, Annie Crowther, to the market, where he bought strawberries, grapes and cherries, a prayer-book, some cards, and some tomatoes. After standing tea at a coffee house and astonishing a pavement artist by the gift of a shilling, he went home by train, further entertaining Annie, who saw him off, to chocolates and sweets from penny-in-the-slot machines. When interviewed on his return home by the Crofts" brother he had £3 12s 5d left.

That tuberculosis in its early stages can be cured by fresh air, sunlight, and a graduated system of outdoor work is being demonstrated at the Brompton Hospital Sanitorium at Frimley. The patients at the Sanatorium are all selected cases of tuberculosis in its first satge who have been carefully examined and watched for some weeks at the Brompton Hospital. After their arrrival at Frimley the patients do no work until their temperatures have been normal for some days. Then they begin on the first grade of outdoor work, which consists of simply walking about the grounds. From this they work up to doing severe manual labour, such as digging trenches in previously unbroken ground. The treatment usually lasts about six months. Of the cases transferred to the sanatorium last year 110 were discharged with "total arrest" of the disease, 21 "much improved," and 25 "improved." Of these cases, 113 are at work, 19 are not at work, while 23 have failed to report, and one only is known to have died.

Mr. W H Collingwood, a refreshment house keeper, of Plymouth, recently received a letter from a firm of solicitors in Victoria, British Columbia, informing him that his former master, who died recently in Victoria, had by his will left him a third of his estate, valued at £40,000. Mr. Collingwood, who is now in poor circumstances, states that he entered the service of the gentlemen who has left him the legacy as a page-buy 25 years ago. His benefactor was then about 60 years of age, and lived at Exmouth. He was always partial to Collingwood, and often told him he would not forget him. The ex-page boy says he has had so many disappointments in life that he is not over sanguine of getting the legacy, but if he gets the money he protesses his willingness to distribute half of it among the poor, for he knows from experience what it is to be in an impoverished condition.

Four lads, named Thomas Bowesfield 10; John Hodgson, 11; Charles Hodgson, 9; and George Edward Robson, 9; were charged at Stockton Police Court recently with placing a piece of pig-iron on the line at the Malleable Iron Works with the intention of derailing the engine. It was stated that an engine-driver had chased Bowesfield away for throwing a stone at the engine, and Bowesfield suggested to his companions the idea of putting a piece of pig-iron on the rails to upset the engine by way of revenge. The lads dragged a heavy piece of iron on to the rails, and then, as they afterwards told the officer who arrested them, they waited to see the engine upset. When it only stopped they ran away. The engine driver, on examining the engine, found that the lifeguard was loosened, and the sandpipe bent. The magistrates ordered the two older boys to receive nine strokes and the two younger ones six strokes with the birch rod.

A fatal accident occurred on the London County Council tramway service at Lee S. E., Green recently. A man fell in alighting from a car in motion. He was removed in an unconscious state to the Lewisham Infirmary. Here it was found that he was suffering from a fracture of the base of the skull. At a late hour one of the police constables, who had assisted in the man's removal to the infirmary, returned to his lodgings, where he resides with another policeman named Griffin. In the course of some conversation Mrs. Griffin expressed surprise that her brother, whom she was peeting on a visit that day, had not arrived. The first named constable mentioned the accident which had ahppened to some unknown man. The Griffins went to the infirmary, where they identified the unforttunate workman as the missing brother. Without recovering consciousness, Neville died the following day.

SCOTLAND

There arrived at Lerwick recently the Norwegian steamer Edda, having on board 18 men of the crew of the French fishing schooner Norma of Dunkirk, which had been burned at sea. Captain Lamotre of the Norma reported that he was fishing off the coast of Iceland. Fire broke out in the afterpart of the vessel, and every effort was made to get it under, but it steadily got hold of the ship. After several hours' battling with the flames, it was seen that the vessel was doomed. A fishing vessel was seen at a considerable distance, but she could not get to the Norma, as the wind was very light and there was a heavy swell on. A boat was launched from the Norma and half of the crew put into her, and they pulled away to the other vessel, which turned out to be the French fishing Figaro of Dunkirk. The men were put on board her, and the boat rowed back for the remainder of the crew. When the boat returned the schooner was blazing almost allover. The remainder of the crew hurriedly got into the boat, and none too soon, for shortly after they were clear of the burning vessel she sank. The boat then rowed to the Figaro, and the men were taken on board. The Figaro proceeded to a port in the northwest of Iceland, and from there the unlucky sailors rowed to Shetland. The men managed to save part of their clothes.

Sheriff Mackenzie, in Glasgow Sheriff Court, has decided for the defender in an unusual action at the instance of Guiseppe Guidice, teacher of languages, against Thos. Scott. Pursuer sued defender for fees which he alleged to be due him for lessons in Italian, French and German, given to the defender and his sons. An interesting point in the case was that the defender invited the pursuer, who had no one in his house at that time, to cook for him, to take his breakfast with him and his family. Pursuer demurred to trespassing to such an extent on the defender's hospitality, and it was agreed that in return for his entertainment the pursuer should talk French while at breakfast. In pursuance of this agreement the pursuer took his breakfast regularly with the defender during the period between October 1 and December 12, and talked French during the time of breakfast.

It is given to few places, either large or small, to have two diamond wedding celebrations in one week, and that is what happened in Troon recently, one couple—Mr. and Mrs. William Clark, Titchfield Road — attaining their sixtieth anniversary at the beginning of the week, and the other—Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Calderwood, Rockview Buildings — at the close. It is co-incident, too, that the nuptial knot in both instances was tied by the same clergyman, the late Rev. James Fleming, of Troon Established Church, and that both gentlemen were employed at Troon Harbour—Mr. Clark for the long period of 56 years as "Duke's joiner," and Mr. Calderwood as shipyard manager for 20 years.

At the farm of Drumyellow, near Arbroath, recently, the tenant, Mr. Grieve, was standing at the door of a shed during a thunderstorm, when he was almost stunned by a vivid flash of lightning. His dog, which was standing near him, was lifted off its feet and tumbled heels over head. Mrs. Grieve, who was in the farmhouse at the time, was severely shaken and had one of her limbs scorched. Mr. Grieve afterwards discovered that a bullock in one of the fields had been killed by the same flash, and that portions of a wall and fence in the vicinity of the steading had been destroyed.

A woman residing in the St. Rollox district of Glasgow, met with a rather serious accident recently under peculiar circumstances. It is stated that she threw a bottle of whisky from the window and that it fell on the glass roof of an adjoining building. Some time later the woman seems to have thought better of her action. At any rate, she left the window of her house and climbed on to the other roof with the object of recovering it. The glass gave way and she fell a distance of 25 feet. The woman has several ribs fractured and suffered internal injuries.

The public baptism of nine converts to the Pilgrim faith drew together a crowd estimated at 5000 people to the banks of the Whitadder at Edrington on a recent Sunday afternoon. The river was in a heavy flood at the time, and the water of the dirtiest character, but notwithstanding, the nine converts received their baptism in midstream to the accompaniment of the laughter and irreverent remarks of many of the onlookers. The matter caused quite a commotion in the district.

IRELAND

An exciting rescue took place in Dublin Bay one night recently, when a man named Matthew Delaney attempted to cross the River Liffey below the North Wall in an open boat during a storm. Delaney is employed by a warehousing firm on Butgh quay, and is in charge of a barge. Apparently, Delaney was returning to his barge in the small boat, when he experienced the full force of the gale, which blew down the river from the northwest. He was unable to withstand it, and was carried rapidly and helplessly down. He succeeded in getting within hail of the coastguard station at the Pigeon House Fort. His calls for help were heard by the watchman at that point, who called out the Coastguards. The latter responded with alacrity, and in a few minutes were out in the coastguards' boat. In speeding to the assistance of the helpless man in the small boat, which was rapidly being carried out to sea, they were assisted by the wind, and succeeded in overtaking him before he passed the Pigeon House Fort. With considerable difficulty they took Delaney aboard. The trouble was now to get back themselves, for even the skill and strength of the handy Coastguards could not contend with the force of the gale. A long and wearying struggle still found them at a distance from the Coastguard station, and all they could do was to keep the boat from being carried out to sea, until at last they were able to beach her on the Shell Corner.

Lively scenes were witnessed at a Nationalist Convention in Monaghan recently, to select a candidate for the vacancy caused by the retirement of Mr. Patrick O'Hara from the representation of North Monaghan. Three hundred delegates attended, but several of them were unable to justify their claim to be present, and were ejected with more force than ceremony. Two names were put before the convention — Mr. John T. Donovan, solicitor of Belfast, who accompanied Mr. Devlin on his Australian tour, and Mr. J. C. Lardner, a Monaghan solicitor. It was soon evident that the convention was divided into two parties bitterly opposed to one another, these being the United Irish League, led by the priests, and the Ancient Order of Hibernians, the extreme section of the Nationalists. Eventually, owing to a technical point, the meeting became so disorderly that the chairman forthwith dissolved it, without the actual business of the agenda being reached. Meanwhile, outside the hall there were a number of scrimmages, which threatened at one time to become serious. No one was badly injured, but several people received blows with blackthorns.

A dreadful domestic tragedy is reported from Achill Sound, where Owen Lavelle, a county councillor and extensive merchant, recently cut the throat of his wife and child, killing both instantly. The accused was held in the highest respect and esteem throughout Mayo generally. In commercial circles he bore the name of being a very successful, and his place of business in Achill, is of large dimensions. He also took a prominent part in public life, and is a county councillor for Achill and is a member of the Westport Board of Guardians. His family relations had always been of the most happy character. At 1 o'clock on the morning in question, the accused entered the room where his wife and daughter, aged six, were sleeping, and cut their throats from ear to ear. A baker in the employ of the accused was the first to learn of the occurrence, and he at once arroused the other members of the household, who seized Lavelle, and held him with the blood-stained weapon in his hand until the police arrived and took him into custody.

An interesting old man, who goes by the name of "Sir Davy Stephens," was recently on a visit to London from Ireland. He is a newspaper vendor, and a well known figure in the streets of Dublin and of Kingston. "Sir Davy" boasts of an acquaintance with royalty, and on one occasion received a new sovereign from the hands of the late Queen. He also once had the honour of handing the King a newspaper when His Majesty landed at Kingston. "I came over for the Derby," said Sir Davy, when interviewed. "For thirty consecutive years I have attended the race." The old man's face lighted with pride as he added "King Edward knew me; he recognized me as I stood by the paddock gate, and shook hands with me!" Being an Irishman, "Sir Davy" out of patriotism, backed Orby, the Derby winner.

Colonel Courtenay, C. B., who had a good deal of property in County County Galway, has sold most of his farms to his tenants under the Ashbourne act, at 18 years' purchase, but has retained a farm for himself at Ballyshea, near Roxburgh. Recently a crowd came upon the farm and drove the horses and cattle out on the public road. Then they went to a neighbouring farm belonging to Mr. Blake and having levelled the walls and driven out the cattle, drove the two herds towards Rushin. It is stated that if Colonel Courtenay cannot secure adequate police protection for his lands he proposes to take independent steps for its protection.

A band of terrorists, most of whom carried firearms, made an attack one night recently, on the house of Mr. H. P. Blake, J. P., near Athenry, and riddled several of the windows with shot. Mr. Blake has incurred disfavour in the district because he holds grazing lands from Lord Ardilaun, and has at the local petty sessions condemned intimidatory conduct. At an anti-grazing demonstration which preceded the attack arrangements were made for enrolling 250 young men armed with batons to resist the police, against whom charges of ill treatment are made.

When the steamship Earl of Erne was leaving Dundalk Harbour for a pleasure cruise to Dublin recently a "Sinn Fein" member of the party of excursionists on board cut down the Union Jack flying from a vessel conveying guests to a municipal ceremony.

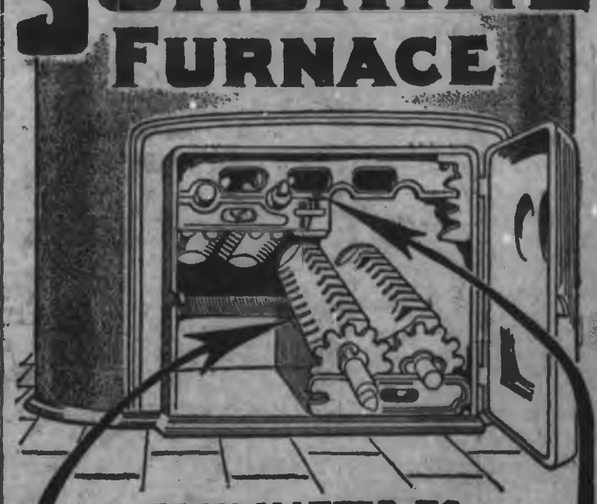
SUNSHINE FURNACE



EASY MATTER TO REMOVE GRATES

If necessity requires, it is an easy matter to remove the grates from the Sunshine.

Could any operation be easier or simpler?

What's left in the ash-pan is not worth sifting.

with a spire; and there to your surprise, is a small buildings which looks peculiarly like a country school house. Moored to the wharf, are several fishing smacks, and other small crafts. This is all too unexpected—you are approaching a strange shore, but you are scarcely ready to find yourself wholly in a foreign land. Yet here is a little coast village entirely unlike anything you have seen in the west. It at once declares itself a fishing village. Here for thirty years, patient, hard toiling, Icelandic settlers have won their living from the lake. Here they have thrived and educated their children, under difficulties that they learned to master, and under conditions that our own people would have found insurmountable. Here you find practically a little bit of Iceland transplanted to our lake shore. The old men, skilled in boat building, supply the crafts; the old women can be found to-day, spinning in the true old fashioned way. Small but beautiful green clearings are there, with cattle and a few sheep. The land is level, for not far beneath its surface lies the flat, limestone rock. This little village is Hecla, named after the famous Icelandic volcano. There are other scattered settlers along the shore, as you walk to Gull Harbour but four miles north.

You have now reached the lighthouse, and you are well into the channel with the shores of Black Island to the east, looming quite distinctly. This island is heavily wooded and as you pass it in the evening, it has certainly a very "black" appearance. The boat sweeps round the lighthouse and down into the bay, to the wharf. You have reached Gull Harbour.

The deep whistle of the steamboat is sure to have called down to the wharf a group of campers, anxiously looking for new-comers or for the mail. Supplies are landed, the rope is thrown off and the boat is quickly on its way up the lake again. No time is lost by these boats on the lake. The fishing season is short, the call for the famous white fish of Lake Winnipeg by the great American cities of the south and east is urgent. The fish companies centred at Selkirk, put forth every exertion to supply this demand. The boats travel ceaselessly with night and day crews.

Fish Companies Are Kept Busy

On reaching the northern end of the lake, it may be at Warren's Landing on the Nelson River, or at Black River on the east side, or at Selkirk Island near the mouth of the great Saskatchewan, the leading fishing grounds, no time is lost. All is hustle and bustle. Hundreds of boxes of white fish packed in ice, are loaded till the boat frequently sinks deep into the water, often far past the danger line. Frequently the decks are piled with fish boxes, and the captain knows that his only safety on the inward trip lies in a calm voyage or in being able to reach a good harbour or the lee side of an island, in case of a storm. But the demands of commerce are ever pressing, and great risks are taken in order to satisfy the American palates with this Canadian delicacy. Arriving at Selkirk, the unloading and the taking on of necessary supplies and any small freight destined for various points on the lake, is just as hasty. The fish industry of Lake Winnipeg dominates everything. To it navigation, passenger traffic, the delivery of freight—all are subservient.

Nevertheless Gull Harbour is a very accessible place. Consult a map of Lake Winnipeg and you will see that every steam-boat no matter to what port it may be destined in the north must pass Gull Harbour, in full view of the wharf. And after all, no more obliging men are to be found in the west than the boat captains on Lake Winnipeg. No matter how much delay by the bad storms that are frequent on the lake, no matter how urgent the shipment of the valuable cargo which they carry, they will always call at Gull Harbour if a white flag is hoisted by day, or a lantern by night, on the tall pole which has been placed on the wharf for that purpose. The future will undoubtedly see a boat service on Lake Winnipeg wherein the welfare of the passenger is the first consideration. Yet at the present time, while one is not always sure of exactly when a boat will reach Gull Harbour, he is always sure, leaving out of consideration the storms, that a boat will pass there nearly every day.

Regular Service For Passengers

The Lady of the Lakes has always held its place as the campers' favourite. Captain Pollock who has been in charge of this trim, little craft for many years, is known to them as perhaps the most genial man on the lake, and it will be a source of regret to many who have enjoyed the hospitality of his boat, and have experienced his many acts of kindness, to learn that beginning with this year, he will reside in Selkirk, and look after the interests of the fish company in which he is interested. It will be an additional source of regret to learn that their favourite "The Lady" had been purchased by the Dominion Government for use in the mounted police patrols on the lake.

Turtles May Be Discovered There

The beach at Gull Harbour possesses all the qualities of an ideal beach. The west side of the bay—St. George's—is chiefly a limestone out - cropping, and the dangerous, sandy shoals. Is strewn with granite boulders, with limestone shingle along the shore. But the bottom of the bay and the east side is one long stretch of uninterrupted beach, where one may wade out to a considerable distance on hard smooth sand. The structure of this beach is similar to that of the Lake Winnipeg beach. Behind the beach is a quiet lagoon of clear water, extending deeper still to the base of the former, high, limestone bluffs which decend steeply into the water. Across the bottom of the bay, along the line where in the former time the large waves have broken into surf, the present splendid beach has been gradually built up, cutting off completely the bottom of the bay which is now a quiet little lake, wooded to the shores, and frequented by water fowl. So close is it to the lake that the water in it rises and falls on a level with the water of the bay, the porous sand giving ready access for the freshwater to the lagoon. The water does not thus become black. Owing to these peculiar conditions, the animal life to be found in this lagoon is specially interesting. Some five specimens of Chigooltz, the frog, can be found, and I would not be surprised if turtles proved to be there.

Bathing Beach in Retired Spot

At the north end of this lagoon, and situated the campers' cottages. First of all just at the base of the steep bank underlying which is limestone, there are [illegible] which snuggles the ideal log cabin of Canon Coombes, who has appropriately named it "Casa Canonica." Built of unhewn logs and containing a large English brick fireplace and open hearth, this spot is an ideal haven of rest. Not far away is the cottage of Miss Millidge, of St. John's College, picturesquely called "Sylvana Redea." This cottage occupies a position similar to "Casa Canonica."

A little farther along the base of the same hill is situated Canon Murray's cottage, formerly built by the Rev. Mr. Little, of Selkirk. This completes the group of cottages at this particular point. All have a magnificent view showing in its pure whiteness across the bay and past the dark shores of Black Island about a mile distant. These shores of Black Island afford many excellent beaches facing Gull Harbour, which cannot be found on the east shore of the same island, owing to the granite formation. Every boat passing up and down the lake can be seen from these cottages. About a quarter of a mile north of these, close to the wharf on its north side are situated the homes of the Rev. Dean Cowley and of W. G. Scott, formerly Winnipeg's city treasurer. Mr. Scott's house is a large log structure, two storey's high, splendidly planned for its purpose. In the heart of a spruce and birch forest, and with a well trodden path through the woods leading from it westward to a small bathing beach on the west shore of Big Island, it is an especially unique and quiet place of retirement. The walk through the woods up over the crest of the island and down on the west side to the beach, is one of beauty and long to be remembered. Large spruces and birch are everywhere found. Great fungi a foot wide overhang from the old decayed trees. Cornet fiast, or Indian pipe can be found at frequent intervals in pure white waxen clumps by any one after a slight search. The greater part of the shore on the west side to which this path leads is composed of limestone shingle—smooth, generally flat and circular pebbles of whitish or grayish colour. A few granite boulders, ever present to remind you of the Laurentian Rock to the eastward, are strewn along the pebbly beach, at rarer intervals, however, than on the east shore of the island.

Object of Joy to the Children

A storm on the lake at Gull Harbour is always of the keenest interest and cannot but afford the deepest delight to the camper who is a nature lover. If it comes from the northwest which is the prevailing direction, it well repays one to run across the island to the shaggy beaches to see the great waves rolling in and pounding on the shingles. The grind, grind of the pebbles keeps up a constant undertone as of low rumblings of thunder. It is small wonder, you think, that the pebbles are worn smooth to smallness by this terrific pounding, and grinding. By a little search among the peobles, one can pick up a handful of fossils, composed of corals and ancient shells. If the wind, however, sweeps down from the northeast, as it does at times with great fierceness, the phenomenon is perhaps as deeply interesting. In a short time with such a wind blowing, the water in the bay will frequently rise a couple of feet. The mouth of the bay looks northeast the water is piled up directly into it, so that the waves dash over into the small lagoon at the bottom. The shore becomes strewn with wreckage, stray trees and logs. One of the great objects of delight to the children is the remains of an old sailboat, wrecked in just such a storm, and engulfed in the sands of the shore.

The spirit of Gull Harbour is an old man settled there nearly thirty years ago. Hailing from Iceland he has established himself with the characteristic industry of his people. The old man points with great pride to two large spruce trees standing apart and sentinel like sentinels of the Harbour These are the first objects to meet the eye of the camper. The old man tells of clearing the land when he first settled there and leaving two small spruces which to-day stand as sentinels, one on each side of the wharf. For thirty long years these have grown as the old man has improved his place and as he points them out to each camper, year after year, it is small wonder that he considers a special attachment for these splendid spruces. It is the old gentleman who looks after many of the wants of the campers. It is never too late for him to keep the lantern burning on the pole at night to call in the first passing steamer which some camper wishes to catch and he is always the one to cast off the last rope of the departing boat.

The supply of fresh eggs and milk from his farm proves a great boon to the cottagers. It is quite possible to get these from other settlers along the shore towards Hecla but his supply is right at hand and he accustomed to catering to the demand. He also keeps a small store where the ordinary supply of sugar, tea biscuits, flour, pork, and canned goods can be obtained. These Icelandic settlers all, of course, take out licenses for fishing with nets, so that the very choicest fresh fish are always available—white fish, pick-erel and sturgeon. Perhaps the greatest delicacy in the fish line to be obtained at Gull Harbour is the smoked goldeyes cured by these fishermen. They are adepts at curing fish. A well smoked goldeye is always a tempting dish, but go to Gull Harbour for your supply.

Delicacy of Smoked Goldeye

Then the camper can find excellent fishing for himself, either trolling in the body of the bay or fishing with hook and line in the current of the channel just off the light-house. With the trail, one is not likely to catch anything but jackfish, but in camp these often make a tempting dish. If in the channel, however, with your boat anchored in the stream, that one enjoys the most exciting sport in this line. During August and September, goldeyes may be obtained here in large numbers. The best time for fishing is in the early morning from 5 to 8 o'clock It is then that one easily appreciates the reason for the name given to the Harbour. Thousands of gulls hang over the channel screeching, darting, apparently flying nowhere and yet everywhere. Dipping repeatedly into the water they can be easily seen rising again in their graceful way with a small minnow in their beaks. The scene is one of life and wildness. The goldeyes apparently are intent on feeding on these smaller fish, and can be seen on all sides darting out of the water. It is here that you throw in your line, of which you need but a few feet. You have not a real birch rod. Eighty-three goldeyes caught by a party of five of us before breakfast, early on an August morning in 1905, is a record which can be readily duplicated in the same place. This goldeye fishing is unique and the conditions are peculiar. It is not often elsewhere that you hear of such splendid catches of this fish and those who have enjoyed this sport are ever ready to return to it another season.

Duck Shooting in The Reaches

If one finds himself in Gull Harbour later in the season, excellent duck shooting can be found in the shallow stretches of the lake between Big Island and the western main land. It is near those parts that Grassy Narrows are situated, a stretch accessible to sailing craft and very dangerous for them even, in stormy time. In the woods partridges can always be found.

Beautiful Trip of the Berens

Gull Harbour is a centre from which many excellent trips may be taken. Icelandic sailormen are always available with their yawls. A sailing trip around Black Island on a trip northward through the Narrows to Grindstone Point or Bullhead will well repay one. At these latter points, limestone outcroppings becomes very high and precipitous adding a new flavour to the scenery not found farther south.

Boats at West Selkirk.

In some place the falling over of hugh rectangular masses of limestone have enclosed artificial caverns through which one can readily work his way. These peculiar caverns are often dank and dark and slippery from the drip of some spring higher up. But perhaps the finest trip of all is to take a boat to the mouth of the Berens river which flows into the east side of Lake Winnipeg, north of the narrows. An Indian reserve is situated at the mouth there engage your Indian guide—the most expert canoeman on Lake Winnipeg can be found there—place your canoe in the river and head for Little Grand Rapids, which is about one hundred miles up the river, or on to Pahangekum. At these points are situated small Hudson's Bay posts. In the first hundred miles you will have about forty portages, every portage meaning a cascade or waterfall, but these portages are all across high ground and thus easy and enjoyable. The trip up the Berens river is bound to become known as the finest trip of its kind within the same radius of Winnipeg. The wonder is that it has not already been found out by large numbers. Leaving Selkirk in the afternoon, you reach the mouth of the Berens river early the next morning. The Berens is a typical Laurentian river, constantly expanding into lakelets and contracting into narrow gorges where the water is seething and boiling.

The scene is ever changing, and the river is ever turning, so that the canoeist is constantly held in a strained but delightful anticipation. A former Hudson's Bay factor, stationed at Norway House, told the writer that during his service he had travelled the northern waters from Labrador to the Pacific coast, and that for variety and beauty, the Berens river excelled anything that he had seen.

Lake Winnipeg is frequently spoken of with disfavour. It is notorious for sudden storms, but the fear of those will be gradually overcome by increase and betterment of shipping on the lake. However, the main reason for this disfavour is the lack of accommodation for the tourists wherever the boats touch At Warren's Landing, the most northern terminus of the boat routes, the country is low and uninviting. There is no alternative for the tourist but to remain on the boat and return with it. But Lake Winnipeg will stand searching. There are dozens of beautiful spots to be reached and these will soon be found out by Winnipegers. But wherever you go on Lake Winnipeg at the present time, always take along with you your canoe and your tent, prepared to travel and to stop where you like.

Right to the Point!

The following letter has been received by the District Manager of the Canada Life which explains itself.

S. E. SALLS, Esq.,
DISTRICT MANAGER,
The Canada Life Assurance Company,
TORONTO

PORT PERRY, ONT., April 15, 1905.

MY DEAR SIR:—

I yesterday received Bonus Addition Certificate from the Canada Life Assurance Company amounting to the handsome sum of $93.65 being the profits on my $4000 policy and in writing you at the present time, I wish to express my gratification in having nearly $1000 more insurance than when I took out my policy in 1899.

With only three more payments to make I find the Limited Payment Life Policy ever so much more satisfactory than any other as under my policy all the premiums will be paid while I am yet under forty years of age and I have an insurance in the Canada Life which will be largely increased in amount, and particularly so, as life expectancy is nearly thirty years.

I think I have a right to feel pleased with the result of my insurance and investment in the Canada Life.

With best wishes,
Yours truly,
W. G. MONET.

PHELPS AND BRADFORD, TWO MOST INTERESTING CHARACTERS IN THE PICK-POCKET TRIAL

Trial Of Alleged Pick-pockets Will Open On Monday Morning

On Monday morning, four men will face His Honour, Judge Weller, on a charge of picking pockets, the alleged crime said to have been committed on June 25th. The men who are to be placed on trial are pictured on this page to-day. Their names are Goldfarb, Lewis, Phelps and Bradford, all claiming New York as their place of abode. They are all young men, and clever. What the result of the trial will be, of course it is impossible to say, but it is understood that some damaging evidence will be presented on Monday.

A friend of the prisoner Lewis, arrived in the city yesterday from New York, and will, it is understood, make a strong effort to secure his release. Lewis is said to be a boxer of some considerable ability, and has appeared in boxing contests in Montreal and Buffalo.

The officers of the law believe that Phelps, who is the eldest of the four men, was the ringleader in their alleged nefarious work. He appears to have been the spokesman of thee quartette, and, if reports are true, is a man old in the ways of the world.

More than usual interest attaches itself to this trial. It is not often than in a comparatively quiet place like Peterborough, four men charged with a crime of this kind, and with records equal to those which these men are said to have, are apprehended.

BURGLAR DISCOVERED WITH HIS HANDS IN SIDEBOARD DRAWER

Daring Thief Props Doors Open and Makes Good His Escape—No Description Could be Obtained.

A SURPRISE FOR HIM

A burglar with his hands in the sideboard drawer was caught red-handed in the act of searching the contents last night in a residence in the north-western part of the city. By a peculiar coincidence an inmate of the house came face to face with the light-fingered thief, causing the latter to vacate the premises at a rather fast pace, and leaving nothing behind that would tend to expose his identity. The owner of the residence whose duties cause him to be out late at nights arrived home this morning about 2 o'clock and went straightway to bed.

Awakening a couple of hours later he remembered that he had neglected to get some articles mended which he needed early in the morning, so he quietly arose and descended the stairs to perform the forgotten duties. Coming down he turned on the electric light in the hallway and entered the dining-room where he turned on another light. The door from the dining room to the kitchen was closed and as he made but little noise his footsteps were unheard by the assiduous searcher who was more bent on obtaining some valuable than looking for the appearance of any person on the scene.

Opening the door leading to the kitchen and turning on the electric light switch, the owner was amazed to see the figure of a man standing—but only for a moment—in front of the sideboard with his hands in one of the drawers. No sooner, however, had the rays of light fallen on the burglar than he gave up his search and made for the door opening into the woodshed to the rear. This, as well as the one leading out doors had been propped open in the case of an emergency and the action on the part of the midnight marauder was certainly at lucky one for him.

He ran out into the night and disappeared down the sidewalk. Owing to the disturber of the search not being dressed for the occasion he was not able to follow the man who vacated the spot as fast as his pedal extremities could carry him.

In speaking to an Examiner representative of the occurrence this morning the owner of the house stated that he did not obtain an extra good look at the face of the man and did not believe he could identify him again. The burglary was reported to the police but there is no clue left to identify the perpetrator of the deed.

Sugar Company Creditors Who This Week Receive Their Cheques

Small Proportion of Those Having Claims Get Full Amount—They Assigned Them For 40 Per Cent. to Promoters.

TWO CLASSES NAMED

More Than 200 Creditors Who Are Paid — Shareholders Will Receive Possibly Five Per Cent.

Reference was made a few days ago to the fact that the liquidator of the Sugar Company had mailed cheques to the creditors of the company in settlement of the claims held against it. A few of the creditors will receive the full amount of their claims, though one hundred per cent. is being paid, the great majority of them having previously assigned their claims to the promoters of the company for 40 cents on the dollar. The shareholders who have paid their money forstock will be dealt with now, and it is expected that they will receive about five per cent. of the amount they paid in. At this they consider themselves fortunate in not having to pay additional calls on their stock to pay the creditors. The large sum received for the sale of the land to Hon. Geo. A. Cox enabled the liquidator to realize enough to give the creditors the 100 per cent., and still leave a small return for the shareholders.

Following is a list of creditors whose claims have been settled. The first list embraces those who have been paid the whole amount of their claims, and represents those who did not assign their claims, while those who accepted the 40 per cent. are named below:

LIGHTNINC KNOCKED PIPE FROM MOUTH OF AN OTONABEE FARMER

Lightning worked one of its peculiar freaks in Otonabee last week during a rather severe electric storm. Three men, Messrs. W. B. Stewart, D. Laurie and T. J. Johnston, were engaged in drawing in hay on the farm of the former, when the storm arose, accompanied by a downpour of rain. The men were working in the mow of the barn, unloading the hay, when a sharp flash of lightning entered the building. No damage was done to the barn, but the men distinctly felt the shock of the fluid running through them. But, what was more peculiar, the pipe that Mr. Laurie held in his mouth was mysteriously knocked out by the unseen force.

THE FISH CARS ALONE SAVED THE PASSENGERS FROM AWFUL DEATH

Mr. Harry Long Passed Through Exciting Experience on His Way Back From Vancouver, on Imperial Limited.

A HEAD-ON COLLISION

Light Engine Smashed Into the Express Train — Locomotives Were Ruined—Passengers Got Bad Scare.

Two cars loaded with fresh fish were all that saved Mr. Harry Long and the several hundred passengers on the train on which they were travelling, from death or serious injuries. The accident referred to happened on the Imperial Limited C.P.R. train between Golden and Beavermouth, and was due, probably, to the fact that it was just the second day after the new train was put into service this year, and before the other employees of the railway had become familiar with the new train and its time.

A light engine was running at a high rate of speed through the mountains, when it collided with the engine on the Limited, which, fortunately, was running slow, a heavy grade being negotiated. The engineers on neither train saw the approaching engines until it was too late to prevent an accident, a sharp curve on the track hiding them from each other's sview. As soon as the engineer on the Limited saw the light engine approaching he reversed his engine, and, calling to his fireman to do as he did, jumped clear of the engine and landed on the ground with little or no injury. The men on the other engine, however, were not so fortunate. The fireman was throwing coal on the fire and the engineer was busy with his engine, and the result was that the first they knew of the danger was when the two engines came together with a terrific shock. They were both hurled from the engine and badly injured.

The engine on the passenger train was smashed up considerably, and the first car of fish behind the engine was completely demolished. It took the brunt of the shock, however, and saved the passengers, for not one of the latter was hurt. The first they knew of the trouble was when they were thrown from their berths in the early hours of the morning, and, making inquiries, they learned that there had been a collision.

The track was blocked during the greater part of the day, and the passengers were taken to Golden, where they were given their meals by the company.

Vancouver is now greatly agitated over the prospect of a tidal wave. A lady who claimed that she predicted the San Francisco disaster, has made the prophecy that Vancouver is about to be destroyed by a tidal wave.

She is insistent in her belief that it is coming, and has repeatedly written ten to the mayor of the city, calling upon him to request the people to leave the place. The residents, however, laugh at her, and, if the wave comes, as she predicts, it will find them, like the people of San Francisco, unprepared for it.

A pleasing incident is recorded by Mr. Long in connection with his trip, and it is one which gives an indication of the extent to which Peterborough is being advertised by the manufactured products she turns out. Riding out of Seattle on a trolley car, he saw on a sign board an advertisement for the Peterborough Canoe Company. It was a picture, painted on the board, of a Peterborough canoe, with two bright, healthy looking Canadian girls paddling, and it made him homesick, but, at the same time, he was proud to think that his home city was being made known in other lands.

Mr. Long's trip has been a delightful one, and while he was away he met a large number of former Peterborough people, who are all prospering in the West. In each case they are among the best people in the community in which they live, and are bringing credit to themselves and their native county. In spite of it all, however, he expresses frankly his pleasure at being back again at home. More than that, he has not seen any city in his travels that can surpass Peterborough, either as a place of residence or as a business centre.

Baltimore Spending Ten Millions For First Sewers

Former Peterborough County Man Who Occupies Prominent Position in That City, Here on Visit to His Home.

NEW PARKS AND DOCKS

Mr. S. B. Sherin, of the advertising department of the Baltimore News, who has been visiting at his home in Lakefield, was in the city last night on his way back to the American city in which he makes his home. Mr. Sherin is one of the Peterborough county boys who has made good progress since he left his Canadian home for the land of Uncle Sam. His ability as a business man is recognized, and he has an important position with the News, the most influential paper in Baltimore.

That city, he states, is rapidly recovering from the effects of the disastrous fire which swept over it a few years ago. At the present time ten million dollars are being spent in building a system of sewers, the first general sewer system it has had. It will replace the surface drains, which have done service in the city up to the present time. Docks and parks will also be erected and established with a portion of the money.

Healey Falls Power For Kingston Now Proposed

City Council Taking Up the Proposition of Providing Cheap Power for Limestone City.

MR. CULVERWELL'S PLANS

Kingston has dreams of cheap electric power from Healey's Falls. The following is from the News, of that city, of yesterday's date:

Mr. Wm. Monda, C.E., of the firm of Connor, Clarke & Monda, Consulting Engineers, of Toronto, is in Kingston to-day, with Mr. J. A. Culverwell, Managing Director of the Northumberland and Durham Power Company, who propose to supply power to the lake front towns from Healey's Falls. They first consulted with Ald. Toye, chairman of the Light, Heat and Power Committee, and afterwards made a tour of the power users of Kingston, in order to form an estimate of the quantity of power used, with a view of submitting later a low rate for power from Healey's Falls. A low rate for Kingston would be out of the question if the power had to be brought direct from Healey's Falls to Kingston, but by the plan to supply it to intermediate points it is hoped the problem of cheap power for Kingston will be solved.

Keep Up With The Procession

They couldn't keep up with the procession, and the result, they were left behind. Last night the Salvation Army band had its picture taken at Victoria Park, and after the exposure had been made marched back to the barracks. They did not all march, however. Two of the members had been in an accident a few days before and were lame. They were able to get to the park and stand for their picture, but they could not march with their fellow-musicians. They came behind, slowly and, apparently painfully, with the band increasing the distance between them every step.

The incident isn't a serious one. It illustrates though, the conditions prevailing in the procession of life. Those who can't keep up with the band have to drop behind, and they are soon forgotten. Their ability recognized passably while they were in with the leaders, is forgotten when an infirmity prevents them from stepping as quickly as they used to be able to do. The procession moves on; their places are taken by others who have not been as long on the road and are still fresh.

There is a lesson in this circumstance. While you're up with the band in the front of the procession play the best you can. There'll sure to be a time, when you'll have to drop behind. It comes to every one of us.

ENLARGEMENTS TO LOCAL BANK

The Bank of Ottawa Offices Are to be Extended

On August 1 the Bank of Ottawa will take over the premises which have been occupied by the late P. Simons, and the bank offices will be extended to embrace the new premises. Shortly after the first of the month a staff of men will be set to work effecting the alterations, which will be in keeping with the interior fittings of the present offices. The business of this bank has increased to such an extent that the offices at present occupied have become too small, and an expansion is necessary. It will be some weeks yet before the new offices will be ready for occupancy, but when completed a great improvement in the appearance will have been effected. Mr. Hollingshead is to be congratulated upon the success which has attended his management of the business since the opening of the local branch.

BIG LUNGE SECURED ABOVE NASSAU DAM

Mr. Jas. Bogue Caught 19 1-2 Pounder With Rod and Line

Mr. Jas. Bogue, Sr., went fishing on Thursday afternoon above Nassau and was the lucky capturer of a 19 1-2 lb. lunge. The monster prize was, according to the Examiner's informant, caught and hauled in with the rod and line—a very uncommon feat in Otonabee waters.

Ready For Rochester But Trunk Was Held In Storage

Peculiar Position in Which Young Lady Was Placed — Landlady Wanted $2.50 Extra for Baggage

GIRL SEEKS ASSISTANCE

A fair young maiden, of not more than 18 summers, called at the police station last night to register a complaint against her late landlady, who, she claimed, was withholding her trunk for storage pay, and she wanted to go to Rochester on the 11.45 train this morning. The young lady informed one of the police officers that a few weeks ago she had paid for her board, and, leaving her trunk there, she had gone home. On her arrival back, the landlady refused to allow the baggage to leave the house until the young lady handed out $2.50 storage for one week.

This the girl refused to do, so that at 10 o'clock last night the trunk was still in the storage room of the house, and the owner, with all arrangements made to leave for Rochester this morning. The maiden would not have cared, she said, if other boarders had been used as she, but the landlady had not charged others rooming there for a similar storage—and all because she had had a few words with the lady of the house.

The policeman reminded her that it was not lawful for trunks, containing wearing apparel, to be withheld, and advised her to obtain an order from the magistrate this morning for the release of the goods.

She had offered the lady 50 cents storage, but that was not accepted.

IN THE RIGHT PLACE NOW

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, at Ottawa, on Thursday, gave a long audience to Hon. J. P. Graham, leader of the Liberal Opposition in Ontario. Some wiseacres assert that the subject of the interview was that of Mr. Graham's appointment to a cabinet position. This is perhaps far from the truth, but there is no doubt that the situation in Ontario was discussed. Hon. Mr. Graham rendered valuable service to the Dominion Liberals at the last general election, when he took charge of Eastern Ontario during the campaign. The result was seen in the election returns, and, therefore, his views on what is desirable in the interests of the Liberal party of the province, are of great value. He can be of the greatest service to Sir Wilfrid in this capacity; and still retain the high value as a leader to the Liberals of this province, which, even his brief occupancy of the position, has demonstrated that he possesses. The greater the desire of Ontario Conservatives to get Mr. Graham into the Cabinet, and, therefore, practically, out of local provincial politics, the greater should be the desire of Liberals to retain him in a position, where he is feared by his political enemies, and trusted and valued by his political friends.

SOME STATISTICS

Here are some statistics which will not much encourage Mr. Borden in the hope of sweeping Ontario at the next elections. In 1902 the Conservative majority in Dufferin was 1,344, a figure that justified one in regarding the riding as a "Tory hive." In the Dominion elections of 1903, Dr. Barr (Conservative) scored a majority of 1,286. In the Provincial elections of 1905, the Conservative candidate had the party majority cut down to 292, and, in the recent bye-election, the Conservatives squeezed in by a slim majority of only 78. Mr. Whitney's big majority in the local Legislature may melt to nothingness if the same record as that achieved in Dufferin should be effective in other constituencies of the Province. The spoils system employed as an engine of party advantage, the prostitution of license administration to the party advantage, the exploiting of the administration of justice to party advantage, as conspicuously in evidence in the Orangeville case, in the riding of Dufferin, were no doubt contributing factors in reducing the Conservative majority, in fewer than five years, from 1,344 to nearly the vanishing point, which, reached so nearly in a bye-election, promises to be quite reached in the next general elections.

Iron in the blood is necessary. Miller's Compound Iron Pills contain that element in its most assimilable form. For sale by W. Madill.

A very practical tribute to the great growth and development of Canadian shipping interests is made by the fact of the Canadian Pacific Railway contemplating the abandonment of Montreal as a terminus for its ocean steamships, on account of the great congestion of traffic in the port of Montreal. It is, therefore, proposed to make Three Rivers the cis-Atlantic terminus, as Quebec does not afford sufficient shipping facilities, such as it seems to be the duty of the city, or province, or Dominion, or all three jointly, to provide.

PRISON LABOUR

The Whitney Government has a malodorous record in the matter of prison labour, which may account for the circumstance that a commission, appointed by the Whitney Government to consider the general question of prison labour, is composed entirely of friends of the Government—Conservatives. This will prevent any inconvenient little facts in connection with the Government's connection with prison labour from getting outside the party family. The presence of Liberals on the commission would be inconvenient, from a party point of view. Liberals are known to be friendly to labour, having passed practically all the legislation, on either the Ontario or Dominion statute books, in the interests of labour. Liberals would, therefore, be regarded as prejudiced in favour of labour, and the commission might make some finding that would be colourably in favour of the masses as against the classes. Seeing that under such a commission the Government is practically on trial, in some respects, on the labour question, it is very convenient, even if it scandalously improper, to have the jury, without opportunity to challenge, composed entirely of friends of the defendant ministry.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Men easily revolt against a campaign of personal slander. — Toronto News, (Conservative.)

The Toronto World has an article upon "the Ontario Hog." Why will Toronto people continue thinking themselves "the whole thing?"

"The world do move." A very few years ago, the site of Calgary, was a buffalo pasture. Now Calgary is a city of 15,000, with all the civic frills of civilization, and the place that only lately resounded to the air of an Indian tom-tom, is sending a crack military band to the Irish Exposition, Dublin.

They will try to organize a team and to get all the towns they can to enter a team in the Trent Valley League next year and to play a good square game, and if all towns agree to have only home batteries. While the different towns keep jangling about imported batteries every time they lose a game the league cannot keep going.

ELEGANCE AT MODERATE COST

Some men prefer the square-cornered Coat but do not like the superfluous goods that must be in the double-breasted coat. For these we advise the straight front coat. It is natty and fills the above requirements.

The Trousers for Sack Suits are cut moderately full at the knee, tapering to the bottom and with a permanent turn-up on those of the Outing Suit.

N. B.—Few men realise the amount of good that is derived from having their clothes properly pressed and we advise that this be done at regular intervals.

Crowe's Landing, Stony Lake, July 22. — the people of that part of Stony Lake lying east of Boschink, are beginning to flatter themselves, and there is more gayety here than at the lower end of the lake. There is this to be said at least, that almost every cottage is occupied and that there were more people at the Landing on Saturday night than there were at Juniper, according to the statements of those who should know whereof they speak. With its fine new store, and ice cream parlour upon which work has been started, Belvidere will be a most attractive resort. Mr. J. R. McKelvie, the proprietor, expects a large number of guests this season.

Fishing is not as good as it has been in other years, although several parties have been very lucky. Huckleberries are ripe, however, and they form a good excuse for an all-day jaunt to the head of the lake, with a "shore dinner" and other attractions.

Nearly all of the cottages north of Boschink are now occupied, among those here being the following:.

Mr. and Mrs R. J. Winch, Mrs. Pentland, the Misses Irene, Viola and Agnes Pentland of Peterborough, and Miss Olive Johnston, of Montreal, at "Yarrow Brae."

Miss Williams of Norwood, with a number of guests at Maplehurst.

Mrs. Harmer and Mr. Chas. Harmer of Peterborough, at Belle Isle.

Mr. and Mrs. H. LeBrun and Miss Dot Hackett at Belle Chasse.

Mr. and Mrs. Gibson, of Peterborough and Miss Jessie Stair of Toronto.

Mr. Mitchell and family of Toronto are at Sunnyside.

Mrs. C. H .Winch, Mrs. Walter Young and child, Miss Edna Winch, and Miss Mabel Robinson of Montreal, are at Wun Winnet.

Mr. R. H. Jackson of Peterborough, is at his cottage at Eel's creek.

Mr. Roxburgh of Norwood with a number of guests, is at Rocklands.

Mr. Richard Lees, County School Inspector, is occupying his cottage with his family.

Mrs. Smith and Miss Vivian Smith of Toronto, are the guests of Mr. Bliss, who is occupying Mr. Lundy's cottage.

Mr. Charles Hughes of Peterborough, who has been spending a week's vacation at Crowe's Landing, returned this morning.

Miss Mary Nicholl of Norwood, has been holidaying at the Landing.

Mr. Jack Roxburgh brought his sailing sloop up from Lakefield on Saturday accompanied by Mr. Har old Brown. On Saturday evening the craft met with a mishap coming into the wharf here. The mail sail caught on a package on the dock and was badly torn.

Messrs. Norman Reid and Norman Brown spent Sunday at Yarrow Brae.

Mr. J. W. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Fiske and Mr. Bert Miller, came up to Fern Rock Saturday.

Mr. R. E. Layfield spent Sunday, at the Y.M.C.A. camp.

Mayor and Mrs. McWilliams spent Sunday, the guests of the former's parents at Tecumseh Lodge.

Miss Gladys Roy was the guest of Mrs. Crane at Gladhalken oh Sunday.

Mr. Graham Ferguson spent Sunday at Boschink.

Mrs. A. L .Davis came up to her cottage on Saturday.

Mr. Rogers of Toronto was one of the arrivals at the lake on Saturday.

To Keep the Skin in Health

AVOID PORE-CLOGGING POWDERS AND CURE ALL SKIN IRRITATIONS AND ERUPTIONS WITH

Dr. Chase's Ointment

It is quite possible that, while you know of Dr. Chase's Ointment as a cure for eczema psoriasis and the most severe forms of itching skin disease, you may have overlooked its value as a beautifier of the skin.

There are minor forms of skin trouble, such as rough, red, skin, chafing, chapping, pimples, blackheads, blotches, irritation, or poisoning from the clothing, etc., which disfigure and form a starting point for serious trouble.

A few applications of Dr. Chase's Ointment at such times not only remove these blemishes, but also restore the health and beauty of the skin, and positively prevent further development.

Miss C. Stanley-Jones, professional massage and nurse, 2-3 Simcoe st. st. Toronto, Ont., writes: "In my occupation as a nurse I have come across many cases in which Dr. Chase's Ointment has been used with extraordinary results. One case I recall was that of a child of sixteen months, who was in a bad way with scaly head. It was a really nasty case, causing the child to suffer very much and to be very troublesome. I persuaded the mother to use Dr. Chase's Ointment, and in ten days the child was entirely cured.

"Another case was that of a lady who was greatly troubled with eczema on the face. The doctor was dosing her with medicine, which was doing no good. In this case cure was effected in seven days with only one box of Dr. Chase's Ointment. Both of these cures were lasting."

Dr .Chase's Ointment is delightfully pure and creamy, is pleasant to use, and is rapidly absorbed. It acts as a food for the skin, making it soft, smooth and velvety. By its soothing, antiseptic and healing properties it allays inflammation, relieves itching, and heals sores, wounds and ulcers; 60 cents a box, at ... Johnson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

THE TABERNACLE EXCURSION

Pleasant Outing to Rice Lake Enjoyed Yesterday by Good Crowd—Gale Encountered

THE ATHLETIC EVENTS

The annual excursion of the congregation and Sunday school of Bethany Tabernacle, George street, was held yesterday to Idyl Wild. The steamer Otonabee left Wolfe street wharf shortly after 9 o'clock, and, after calling at the East City and street railway wharves, there were about 250 adults and children on board.

The gale which prevailed all day was the strongest of the season, and many who were eager for the enjoyment of a good tonic breeze were glad to seek protection in sheltered portions of the steamer. The sail, however, proved a delightful one—the merriment of the children filling the parents and adults with animated spirits. It was a subject for remark among those who were taking in the regular trip and who did not have excursion tickets, that the friendliness which seemed to characterize the Bethany Temple brethren was of a more social character than generally prevails on similar picnics. The Rev. A. E. Steuernagel, the respected pastor of the congregation, and Mrs. Steuernagel, who was enjoying her first trip on these waters, accompanied the excursion. Both were untiring in their efforts to infuse a friendly spirit among the party and went in and out among the people, inoculating them with their counsel and social influence.

The steamer arrived at Idyl Wild shortly after 12 o'clock, where all disembarked and took refuge from the prevailing gale of wind — which was immensely high on the lake. After dinner was enjoyed a programme of games and amusements was enjoyed. Several games of amateur baseball was played, after which the children's competition in races took place, with the following result:—

Boys under 6—Harry Strain, B Moore, Percy Revoy.

Girls under 6—Gladys Meredith, Beatrice Meredith, Lily McCarthy.

Boys under 9—Chas. Telford, Herb. Ross, Douglas Cunningham.

Girls under 9—Myrtle Smith, Olive McKinley, Quannie Johnston.

Boys under 12—Fred Revoy, Stanley Godfrey, Roy Delair.

Girls under 12—Ethel Keegan, May Valois, Bessie Weir.

Girls over 12—Ethel Long, Vera Peters, Edith Archibald.

Girls' obstacle race, led by Herb Johnston—Carol Johnston, Edith Flannery, Hazel Billings.

Boys', three-legged race — Percy Telford and V. Revoy, Chas Telford and Roy Delair.

Boys' boot race—Herb. Ross, Roy Delair, Fred Revoy.

Teachers' race—Miss B. Telford, Miss D Billings, Miss L. Telford.

At 4 o'clock the steamer set out for the return journey and after another pleasant sail up the river, arrived home at 7.30 in the evening.

Mr. A. Johnston, the assistant superintendent of the Sunday School, and other officers, assisted in the management of the excursion with credit.

Thanks was also given to Miss Taylor, Harry Edmison, T Redner and others who contributed music during the day in a hearty manner.

STONY LAKE TRIP

The steamer Otonabee will run an excursion to Stony Lake on Wednesday, July 31st, leaving the Wolfe St. Wharf at 7.30 and the Lift Lock at 8 o'clock, returning at 8 p. m. The return fare is 75c, children 40c. 3d23

FIRE ALARM DEFECTS POINTED OUT

Citizens Are of the Opinion That Improvements Might be Easily Made.

A GENERAL ALARM WANTED

Is the new fire alarm system perfect?

This is a question which the general public are asking daily, and which others of the general public are answering in the negative. Many defects are pointed out by men, who although they have never had much to do with electricity or the mechanism and principles of operation of fire alarm boxes, are the possessors of common sense, so that their opinions must be taken into consideration.

Yesterday a local lawyer, in speaking to the Examiner about the system, believed that there were few who understood its operation, simple as it may be. He suggested that cards should be placed on each pole where a box is located, explaining the various things to be done in the operation of the box.

The card he said, should read something like this: "Break glass—take key—unlock box—pull down lever once," so that any person with eyesight to read might at a glance grasp the whole situation. By publishing how the work was done in the daily press for one time, would not give every person the whole operation of the alarm, as not many would read it, and the most of those who did would forget.

It may probably be news to many why the small spring is placed inside the key box. That is merely there for the purpose of holding the glass in position, and has nothing to do with the operation of the box.

Another complaint against the new system is that no general alarm is sounded. Firemen, some distance from the city clock, cannot hear the alarm, and many in factories or offices even more centrally located, are liable to miss the ring. It is suggested that if after the alarm was sent in, a general alarm were sounded, it would be a great benefit to the citizens. Street car motormen would then be acquainted with the fact that a fire was in progress, and could then make way for the fire waggons.

ANXIOUS MOMENTS

Thousands of Little Ones Die During the Summer Months

The number of deaths occurring among children during the summer months is simply appalling. In the city of Montreal last week 175 children under the age of five years died and nearly all the deaths were due to stomach and bowel troubles. With ordinary care most of these little lives might have been saved. Watch the food given the little ones. Do not feed meat; see that the milk given is pure, and give an occasional dose of Baby's Own Tablets, a medicine which surpasses all others in preventing and curing stomach and bowel troubles.

SISTER HIT BROTHER WITH A BOTTLE

An Accident Which May Result Fatally—Boy a Little Hero

New York, July 22.—Little Joseph Gabbott, only five years old, demonstrated himself a hero yesterday. Although dying from a blow inflicted by his little sister, he pleaded that she be not punished for the act.

The little fellow was playing with his sister Florence and several other small children in a lot opposite the home of Joseph Gabbbott, No. 49 Railroad avenue, Coney Island, yesterday, throwing heavy soda water bottles at a tin can. The youngsters were having a great time, when Florence, with a girl's proverbial inaccuracy as a thrower, let a bottle slip from her hand and strike her brother in the temple. He fell to the ground stunned.

The children ran away shrieking and several grown people hastened to the little sufferer's aid. He opened his eyes and the first words he uttered were:

"Don't whip sister. She couldn't throw. Girls can't throw."

Then he lapsed into unconsciousness. The little fellow was taken to the Emergency Hospital, where all possible was done for him by Dr. Johnson, but his life is despaired of, as the small skull is hopelessly fractured.

Florence sat all afternoon beside the cot of her little brother and was inconsolable. She says that she did not throw the bottle but the other children say that she did. It was believed last night that the boy could not last until morning.

Guests Coming Steadily To Rice Lake Summer Resorts

The Season Commences Late But August Wil be a Big Month—Number of Guests at Idyl Wyld.

AMERICANS ARE COMING

Special Staff Correspondent.

Idyl Wild, Rice Lake, July 27. — Since the warm weather set in, the summer resorts in the vicinity of Rice Lake have been enjoying a large patronage of tourists from Canada and the United States. The steamers Otonabee and Monarch have also been carrying many excursionists to the various points on the lake, and large numbers of picnics and launch parties contribute to keep things lively during the day. The season started late at all the resorts this year, and August will be the big month for tourists.

Idyl Wyld

The following is a list of guests registered at the Idyl Wild summer resorts during the past week:

July 20. — Miss Lilian Bell, Keene; F G Downey, Sudbury; W H Bell, Keene; Jas Quinn, Keene.

July 12. — Geo Brody, Lindsay; D J Moher, Campbellford; Margaret Kennealey, Lakefield; Ted LeFleur, Pembroke; J F McCarthy, Hastings; John Linton, Campbellford; Lilian Collins, Mary Welsh, Josie Coughlin, Cassie Welsh, Jas Welsh, Jack Welsh, all of Hastings.

July 23. — T Q Quartermaine, Peterborough.

July 25. — J Hagerman, Peterborough; Jas Conroy, Port Hope; Hildah Dobbin, Peterborough; Mrs W H Robertson and Miss Mattie B Robertson, Peterborough; R F Goodfellow, Prince Albert, Sask.

The management at Idyl Wild has been much improved, and guests are booked for August in considerable numbers. Mr. J Londerville, the manager, who was not satisfied with the conditions assigned to him in the early part of the season, and who had resigned his position, has been persuaded to remain and look after the business. Mrs Henderson and Mrs. Hubbell have been lately assisting in overseeing the diningroom and household affairs, and increased attention is now given to the requests of guests.

Mr. "Bob" Londerville is the veteran fisherman and porter of the hotel, and reports muskinonge and bass fishing in the bay east of the island to be All.

Male Singers In The Choir Of New Catholic Church

It is Learned That Gregorian Music Will be Used and That Male Singers Will Alone Compose the Choir.

GOOD CHOIR IS PROMISED

In accordance with the wishes of His Holiness Pope Pius X., the choir in the new Catholic Church in the south end will be composed entirely of male singers, and the Gregorian chant will be chiefly used in the services. In many churches throughout America the change to the plain Gregorian music has been made, and in every case has been received by the congregations as a pleasing substitute for the usual music. His Holiness called for the Gregorian music in all the churches, and the change is being slowly made. It is learned that St. Peter's choir will adopt the same music before long.

Male singers alone being required for the new choir, will mean that the music will have to be taught to the young men, the most of whom, if possible, will be taken from the south end of the city. It is expected that they will have some knowledge of singing, and a fluency with Latin is also a requisite, although the proper pronunciation and meaning may be gained through practice. Those in charge of the new church are desirous of having everything in keeping with the building, and an effort will be made to select a choir that will be a credit to the church.

It is not known just when the new building will be completed, as the tenders have not yet been let, but the quarrying of the stone to be used is being advanced at Stony Lake.

POLICEMAN SAYS CRIME IS ON DECREASE

There May Be More Convictions But Crimes Are Not Increasing

Despite the apparent increase in crime in the city, from the number of police court cases coming up before the Magistrate, it is asserted by one of the constables that actual crime is not on the increase. There may have been more convictions during the past year than in the year previous, but the greater number of them, he said, were not due to the committing of real crimes.

A crime, according to the general version of the term, is an offense such as theft, assault, manslaughter, forgery, etc., but no person would consider it a crime to walk on the railway tracks, to ride a bicycle on the sidewalk, or to erect a sign extending more than two feet over the sidewalk. Taking all these breaches of the law into consideration, there were possibly more convictions during the year than usual, said the policeman, but if only the "crimes" were counted up, he believed that they were on the decrease, and not on the increase, as reported.

A BIG EXCURSION FROM TORONTO HERE

About 400 Employees of Polson Iron Works in City

A C.P.R. special train arrived in the city this morning from Toronto carrying about 400 of the employees of the Polson Iron Works, Toronto, on the occasion of their annual picnic. The train arrived here 10 minutes before due, having made the distance from Toronto to Peterborough in 2 hours and 20 minutes.

On reaching the station about 200 went over the lift lock on the steamer Otonabee, the other half coming up to the city. This afternoon a baseball match between the married and single men will be the chief feature of the sports at Jackson Park.

The excursion was not so large as expected owing to a strike at the Iron Works.

MANY CITIZENS ENJOYED BAND'S WEEKLY CONCERT

Victoria Park was literally alive with citizens last night to listen to and enjoy another of the splendid weekly concerts given by the 57th Band. This organization was never, perhaps, in a better condition in regard to instrumentation and skill of performance than now, as the excellent quality of the music provided last night abundantly proved. The hearty applause which succeeded the presentation of every number, so insistent in some cases as to require double repetition, also indicated popular appreciation of especially the more taking popular airs. Those who enjoy good music well performed were greatly delighted with the artistic performance of Middleton's scoring of the grandly solemn and stately hymn, "Days and Moments Swiftly Flying." The rich harmonies incidental to the setting were well developed, and the chant movement was performed with especial feeling and effect. The "Reminiscences of Ireland," also touched a tender spot in many hearts. The programme in its entirity consisted of, March, "Plutocrat;" medley, "Merry Minstrel;" "Down South;" "Arrah-Wana," "Reminiscences of Ireland," Hymn, "Days and Moments Quickly Flying," 289 A. & M.; two-step, "Mumblin Mose;" march, "Gloria." The full enjoyment of the music is prevented by the outrageously rude and boisterous shouting and play of boys and girls during the performance of a number.

SUMMONSES SERVED FOR MONDAY'S TRIAL

About Sixteen Witnesses Served by Deputy Sheriff Hall

Mr. Fred Hall, deputy sheriff, has had a very busy week serving summonses to the various witnesses in the case against the alleged pickpockets which comes up on Monday morning at 10 o'clock. On Wednesday he drove to Young's Point and served William Hurl, the man who stated he lost some money on circus day. Mr. Hall served a number of local people on Thursday and yesterday was in Millbrook for the same purpose. Altogether there will be in the neighbourhood of 17 witnesses for the crown in the big case. There will be either three or four charges against the prisoners.

On Monday the case against Geo. Eccles who was arrested in Chemong by P. C. Newhall some time ago and who is charged with indecent assault upon Nellie Brown, will also come before the Judge.

COUNTY JAIL IS NOW WELL FILLED

At Present There Are Nineteen Inmates In That Institution

At present there are 19 inmates of the county jail, which is about double the number usually there at this time of the year. That number includes three females, all of whom are awaiting transportation to the Mercer Reformatory in Toronto. Of the 16 remaining, four of them will receive their trials on Monday, they being the men arrested on the charge of picking pockets. Hoggins, a suspected vagrant, who was remanded from Police Court the other day, will be also tried on Monday.

Castle Nesbitt, therefore, seems to be a rather popular place of abode, and it always seems large enough to hold another.

NEW SCHOOL LIBRARY FOR GOSPEL HALL

Members of This School Will be Supplied With Wholesome Reading Matter —Other Gospel Hall News

Commencing to-morrow morning, the Sunday school in connection with the Gospel Hall will be held at 9.30 a.m. From now until September 1 it will be held at that hour. A new library will be opened for the use of the members of the school, and, in addition to the supplies, the scholars will be given good, sound, and, at the same time, interesting reading. At 4 o'clock to-morrow afternoon a baptismal service will be held in Bethany Tabernacle, when a number of young believers from the Gospel Hall will be given this rite. Mr. Fleming May of Bancroft will be the preacher at this service, as well as at the evening service at 7 o'clock, in the hall. Everyone is invited to attend these meetings.

MRS. RICHARDS SEEKS LEGAL ADVICE

But Unfortunately She Got Into the Wrong Office

Mrs. Richards, who has recently become notorious in Police Court circles, is now making strenuous efforts to prevent her husband, who has also gained considerable notoriety around the same institution, from breaking away further from the paths of righteousness and sobriety. On Thursday she called into an office on Water street, where she accosted the occupant, who, by the way, is not a lawyer, asking him to be her counsel in attempting the improvement of her husband.

The office man had great difficulty in disentangling himself from the wiles of Mrs. Richards, who, after a lengthy discussion, vacated the office.

Yesterday morning she vowed that never more would she taste the golden goblet that brought her into such prominence, and last night was seen with her husband, helping him along against his will.

WIND PLAYED HAVOC WITH THE WILLOWS

Branches Blown Down in Many Parts of The City

The high wind that was blowing yesterday afternoon caused some inconvenience to the G.T.R. section men, by a large willow limb being blown across the G.N.W. telegraph wire on Antrim street, where the railway crosses. It lay on the wire for some time until the men who happened to be near procured a ladder and cut the limb free from the tree. The willows all over the town suffered yesterday from this cause.

TO-MORROW'S MUSIC IN ST. JOHN'S CHURCH

In St. John's church to-morrow at Matins Mr. H. Sawers will sing the solo, "But the Lord is Mindful of His Own," from the oratorio, "St. Paul," Mendelssohn. Evensong will be fully choral, Responses to Tallis, Psalm to Cathedral Psalter Chant, Canticles to Winchester. Offertory selection, Sullivan's "Hymn of Peace."

MOTHER BADLY HURT WHILE SPANKING CHILD

Point of Pencil Held by Youngster Pierced Mother's Arm

Columbus, Ind., July 22.—A spanking being coming to Lucille, the seven-year-old daughter of Mrs. Otto Lawless, the child was laid across the parents' lap and as the mother's hand was descending for the first blow Lucille threw up one of her hands in the hope of protecting herself from the blow.

In the child's hand was a lead pencil with a sharp point, and the point of the pencil penetrated the mother's arm to a considerable depth, inflicting an ugly and painful wound, from which, it is feared, blood poisoning may result.

CHANGES IN THE C.G.E. DEPARTMENTS

New Transformer Building Completed and Work is Begun There

The new transformer building erected by the Canadian General Electric Company has now almost been completed and already a large number have moved from the old building into it. All that is yet left to be done is in connection with cleaning up in the interior and the structure will be in readiness for the manufacture of the transformers. The test department will in future be placed in the new building where the machines will be tested. Also the coil winders will work in the new transformer construction.

In view of these changes a number of others will also be effected. The north end of the old transformer building will, it is expected, be used as a store room for wire and other appliances, and the east end of the building in which the store room is at present located will be occupied by the armature winders. By these arrangements there will be more room obtained in the machine shop where it at present is greatly needed.

IMPORTANT CHANGES IN REAL ESTATE

Mr. J. J. McBain Disposes of Fine Residence—Market Clerk Makes Purchase.

The Examiner has learned of two important real estate changes recently, one of which was the sale of that beautiful property recently occupied by Dr. Holloway, dentist, at 291 Reid street, between King and Charlotte street. The purchaser was Mr. F. C. Cubitt, who will shortly take possession of the premises. The property, which was one of the finest in that part of the city, was owned by Mr. J. J. McBain.

The other, also a beautiful property, was that recently occupied by Dr. Neal, on King street, which has been purchased by Mr. W. A. McIlmoyle, market clerk, who is now moving into the residence. He has purchased the property for his own private use. It is learned that the purchase price of each was over $4,000. The last deal was also put through by Mr. J. J. McBain, who when seen by the Examiner confirmed them both.

SANITARY INSPECTOR VISITED LAKEFIELD

Reports That Sanitation Law is Not Being Violated to Any Extent

Sanitary Inspector Geo. Ball was in Lakefield yesterday on his regular weekly official visit to that village and reports everything that came under his notice in good condition. There had been some complaints that refuse was being allowed to drop into the river from the lumber mills there, and to float down stream. But on examination he found that the only refuse he could see was that falling off the logs on the drive. Bark and pieces of wood frequently dropped off the logs and it was probably this, and not the refuse from the mill, which is burnt up, that the complaints were made about.

Velvet Skin, Soft and Clear

What one or two applications of Dr. Chase's Ointment will do for inflamed, rough and irritated skin is almost as wonderful as is the complete cure of eczema by its persistent use. By its healing, soothing and antiseptic influence Dr. Chase's Ointment quickly cures chafing and skin diseases and eruptions and leaves the skin, clear, soft and velvety.

WEARY TRAVELLER GOT FREE ACCOMODATION

He Walked Into the Right Pew on Water Street

Jno. G. Switzer sauntered into the police station last night about nine o'clock and after gazing around a moment or two, wondered if he had struck "the wrong pew." Switzer apparently had had a long and weary walk and needed a night's repose. When he discovered that he had really entered the police station, he asked P. C. Newhall for a bed and the latter readily assented. "Jno. G. Switzer is my name if you want to know," he said, but seeing that the policeman was not very particular about that, he walked into the cell and was soon reposing in the arms of Morpheus.

THE LARDER LAKE EXPLORATION AND DEVELOPMENT CO.

CAPITAL, 500,000 SHARES—PAR VALUE $1.00 PER SHARE

15c FULLY PAID AND NON-ASSESSABLE 15c

First allottment of 50,000 Shares at Fifteen Cents per Share

Our Option on this small block of Underwriters' Stock expires August 3rd, 1907—Subscriptions Post-marked at later date will be returned

Do you realize that investments of a hundred or a thousand will grow rapidly into hundreds and thousands and millions of dollars? The over-conservative and skeptical will smile—they will laugh at these predictions, some will even consider this a joke—but remember COBALT, if you please, two or three years ago? Then it was a "vision," it was a "dream," "a flash in the pan," "a bubble," somebody Was "crazy"; bu now it is different. Those crazy men are now classed among the smart and keenest business men of the day. The actual value of a few mines are worth at the present date more than one hundred millions of dollars. These are facts.

In presenting this investment for subscription we appeal to the good judgement of sensible persons as to its merit.

It embodies, we believe, a correct method of developing and establishing successful and paying mining enterprises.

We desire to conduct, first of all a successful Mine Developement. We intend this to be done in a way that will be absolutely fair and honest, and bring the largest profit possible to those who co-operate with us.

We, therefore, desire this proposition to be well understood by investors. We wish it to be known just how we propose to develope, establish and operate dividend paying Mining Companies by and through this investment.

THE PLAN.—The plan involved in this proposition is that of uniting or consolidating the investments of a limited number of persons into one sum, and under one management, to be used in acquiring and developing mining properties in this wonderful region.

THE PRINCIPLE involved in this investment we believe, is one of absolute fairness to all interested. The "promotion interest" common to all mining companies, and which is the great unfair feature to investors who put their money into stocks of these companies, and whose money develops and makes the mine, if a mine is developed—does not exist in this proposition. There is no "promotion interest set aside, and against the interest bought and paid for by the investors.

In this proposition the investors, and all the investors, become promotors. They take the "promotion interest" and all the interest. They own the whole enterprise. No matter how large or how small the investment—all stand on an equal basis. Our field of operation is probably one of the greatest, and without doubt the richest, mineralized region in the world.

For its basis, upon which we will establish and build us several great producing, paying mining companies, we will exploit and develop in a mining-like and careful manner exclusive mining properties now known to us, other properties which we may acquire for the mutual benefit of all investors in this Company.

SUBSIDIARY COMPANIES.—The Larder Lake Exploration and Development Comany will incorporate a series, not to exceed five, of Subsidiary Mining Companies upon only the real proven properties acquired.

In each and every subsidiary Company incorporated, whether Mining, Milling, Smelting, Water Power, or Electric Light, the Exploration Company will take 90 per cent. of the capital stock of each Company so incorporated, and will put 10 per cent. of the Capital Stock of each Company in its treasury. It will probably never become necessary to sell any of this Treasury Stock.

Out of the total Capital Stock of each Subsidiary Company, the EXPLORATION COMPANY will retain 50 per cent. as its "Holding Stock." This will always control the Company. It will take and hold 40 per cent. for the mutual benefit of all stockholders in the EXPLORATION COMPANY. This 40 per cent will be known as "Selling Stock," and as a market is created it will be sold, and the proceeds received will be distributed pro rata to the stockholders in the EXPLORATION COMPANY, as their interests may appear.

The stock of the Subsidiary Companies will be inlisted on the New York Curb and Mining Exchanges of the country, and started at 50 cents a share, where it can be bought and sold according to the daily market quotations. This will afford a channel by which stockholders can sell the 40 per cent. "Selling Stock" from time to time, if they wish.

PROPERTIES.—Many different mining properties will be acquired and developed as stock in the EXPLORATION COMPANY, is subscribed for. All properties will be described, and reports submitted regarding same, as soon and as often as they can be examined by the engineer.

The mining properties that will be acquired for this proposition will be located in the gold and silver belt, extending from the Montreal River through Northern Ontario, eastward into Quebec, and will include properties in the Lady Evelyn District, the new Montreal River Silver District, Cobalt District, and the gold districts around Round Lake, Larder Lake, Lake Abitibi, and in the great undeveloped mineralized section of Quebec lying just east of Larder Lake and extending northward to Lake Abitibi.

We shall try and make every dollar count, and make as few mistakes as possible. We hope to create such an interest in this enterprise with investors, that will result in extensive and widespread co-operation.

Under this plan no one can truthfully say that it is not a great mining investment. We want every investor to feel a personal interest in this Mine Development. The investors in this Company will own this enterprise, and we want them to co-operate with us and our associates to make it a great success.

We are now organizing THE LARDER LAKE EXPLORATION AND DEVELOPMENT COMPANY with what we consider sufficient capital ($500,000). We now have options on, and propose to acquire five distinct and separate properties which will be incorporated at $100,000 each (100,000 shares—par value $1.00). The Exploration Company will at all times hold a controlling interest in each of these companies, so that sixty per cent. of the dividends earned and declared will be paid into the treasury of the parent company, and the other forty per cent. distributed among the stockholders on record. This in our opinion will enable us to pay dividends and large ones in the very near future.

The Board of Directors of THE LARDER LAKE EXPLORATION AND DEVELOPMENT COMPANY will be composed only of engineers of national repute, setting a precedent in this line—Mr. Robert Morton will be president, which fast in itself guarantees conservative and able management

Investors have been pouring their money into over capitalized mining companies, they have been plunging about wildly in the hope of some day "striking it rich" never stopping to think for one instant that the greater part of their money never reaches the ground, as a rule 75 per cent. of the money invested in stock schemes goes into the broker's hands. He pays his salesmen 20 to 50 per cent. on every dollar turned in, he must get his own commission and engineers must be paid.

We never had associated with us a stock salesman, we require no commission and our engineers will be our directors, so that every dollar invested with us on this proposition will be honestly used in the purchasing and development of the different properties.

We are now offering for subscription the first allottment of stock in THE LARDER LAKE EXPLORATION AND DEVELOPMENT COMPANY—every hundred shares entitles the holder to forty shares of stock in each of the subsidiary companies to be incorporated, making in all 200 shares of stock in five separate companies, which, as soon as development work is started and dividends announced, will make the stock of the Larder Lake Exploration and Development Company almost invaluable. This first allottment of only 50,000 shares ($1.00 par value) will probably be largely over-subscribed in a few days.

The next allottment will be put out Sept 25, 1907, at 75c per share or higher.

This price (15c.) will positively be withdrawn Aug. 3, 1907. If this allottment is over-subscribed remittances will be promptly returned. Checks, drafts and money orders must accompany all applications and be made payable to the financial agents.

Interim certificates will be promptly returned to subscribers. The stock certificates of the Company representing the shares purchased will be issued and delivered as soon as allottment can be made, after the 3rd of August, to all subscribers who purchase at the first underwriting price prior to that date.

Don't wait! Be wise! Act NOW! NOW IS THE TIME! Here is an opportunity that excels that which you had two or three years ago at Cobalt. Perhaps you will say as you did then, "How do we know there have got any silver up there? Perhaps you say now "How do you know there is any gold at Larder Lake?"

A FACT PROVEN
Should Convince Even the Most Skeptical of Its Truth
If there is the slightest doubt in the mines of any that dandruff germs do not exist, their belief is compelled by the fact that a rabbit innoculated with the germs became bald in six weeks' time.
It must be apparent to any person therefore, that the only prevention of baldness is the destruction of the germ—which act is successfully accomplished in one hundred per cent. of cases by the application of Newbro's Herpicide.
Dandruff is caused by the same germ which causes baldness, and can be prevented with the same remedy—Newbro's Herpicide.

Hicks Predicts Light Rain-Falls In The Grain Areas

St. Louis Weather Forecaster Believes That Precipitation of Moisture During August Will be Light.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES

There is a variety of opinion in reference to the reliability or otherwise of the weather forecasts of Ira Hicks; the St. Louis weather prophet, some of his followers claiming that his prognostications have been fulfilled to the letter, while others are somewhat inclined to doubt. The last issue of Word and Works contains the following forecasts for the month of August. Cut it out and see how closely he has been able to guage the weather for the coming month.

The regular storm period will be at its crisis on August the 1st and 2nd. A Mercury period is near its center at this time and will prolong and intensify storm conditions at this period. Thunder storms, with many stiff, local gusts of wind and rain will center on and about the 1st and 2nd. Immediately after these storms pass east of any given locality, the wind will shift to westerly the barometer will rise and change to some cooler will take place. Cloudiness with a degree of threatening conditions will remain for several days, even after the storm areas have passed away. Such are the characteristics of the Mercury equinox, which is central on the 4th, extending from July 28th to August the 10th.

The reactionary storm period is central on the 5th, 6th and 7th, on and about which days may be expected a return at storm conditions. The warmth will increase, the barometer will fall and cloudiness will grow into decided areas of storminess and precipitations. These storm areas will, of course, not cover the whole country on any one date but they will start in western parts and progress in regular order eastward across the country. If you were on a train starting in the west with, and keeping up with storm areas in their eastward passage, you might be in the storm all the way, but the people who remained at their homes would have to take it when it passed their localities We shall never have done with repeating this law of storm progression. There are many who do not understand it, and a few who do not want the people to understand it. Those few are the ones who say we predict storms! Storms! Storms! everywhere and all the time and never a ray of sunshine or a fair day." Whereas, those who exercise common sense and reason know that storms are things in rapid transit from west to east, that may rarely last more than a few hours in any locality, and that our forecasts call for fair warm weather cool or storm areas, and cooler, clearing weather west of storm areas, all within the days embraced even in the storm periods. Do you see?

A regular storm period period extends from the 10th to the 14th. It is central on the 12th and will come to a crisis, centially between east and west extremes of the country, on Tuesday and Wednesday, the 13th and 14th. If you are far west you will get your storms a day or two earlier; you who are far to the east will read of the storms before they reach you. Bide your time and watch things grow. The new moon is on the 9th, hence hot, threatening weather may hold through the Mercury brace. Take seven days with the 9th as the central day, and you have a period of great seismic probability. Read reports from the world generally.

A reactionary storm period is central on the 17th, 18th and 19th. As this period begins it will grow much warmer, first in the west, the barometer will fall and reactionary storms of rain, wind and thunder will pass eastwardly across the country, reaching their culminating stages on and touching the 18th and 19th. Let it be remembered that the earth's autumnal equinox extends to this part of August, as indicated by the brace "earth" in the storm diagram. Barometric and other storm indications in all the gulf regions should be watched at this and following August periods. While equatorial West India storms may not appear, common sense and experience show that such results are not only possible but probable, even in August.

A regular storm period covers the perturbing power the 21st to the 26th. During this period the moon passes perigee on the 21st, full on the 23rd, and the celestial equator on the 26th. The Venus disturbance, which is central in September, will also affect storm and weather conditions at this period. This period may also be put down as a decided seismic period, centering on the 23rd and covering the whole period. The telegraph will report seismic shakes in widely different parts of our planet. See in every probability tropical storms, calling for watchfulness and care, will reach our southern coasts during or very close to this period. The barometer will also give timely indications of active inland storms between the 23nd and 26th. In case of low barometric conditions in the south, northerly winds and high barometer will follow inland storms from the northwest, making frosts more than a possibility in northern sections during the last week in August. We urgently request that our "passengers" turn to page 47 of our 1907 Almanac and carefully read what we say about equinoctial storms in connection with our forecasts for August. Our brother editors especially those whose fields lie in near proximity to the gulf and South Atlantic coasts, might do themselves and their readers a far-reaching favour by reprinting our explanation of equinoctial storms. See pages 46 to 48 of our 1907 Almanac.

A reactionary storm period is central on the 29th, 30th and 31st. This is a well-known fact that great tropical storms, coming up from equatorial regions, outlive as a rule the limitations of the ordinary storm periods. This is true especially in cases where the Venus equinox and other astronomic causes unite with earth's equinox. But in all such cases it is safe to say that these storms take on renewed energy and violence as they run into the storm periods next following those in which they originate. Hence, if tropical storms appearing at the period 21st to 26th outlive that period, they will grow in strength and magnitude as they reach our coasts and march into our interior during the closing days of the month.

At the close of our monthly astronomical chapter we refer briefly to the record of storm and earth wake for June, also to the fact that June was a "record breaker" for low, unseasonable temperatures. We again remind our readers of our positive forecast that the characteristics of the season prevailing at the beginning of the May period in April, would be continued through May and June, or during the continuance of May's brace in our storm diagrams. Examine these charts again, and then compare reports of the "late unfavourable season from most parts of the northern hemisphere." From all countries on the north end of our planet come the same reports and complaints of cold, unseasonable weather, and late unpromising crops, compared with other and average seasons See our special warning in April Words and Works, repeated and emphasized from our 1907 Almanac. At the date of going to press with this issue of Words and Works, we repeat our belief that there will be a marked shortage of diffused rainfall over most grain raising regions during the remainder of the summer Scattered downpours will not meet general wants.

Rev. J. J. Rae Performed A Midnight Ceremony

Interesting Story of the Romantic Ending of a Courtship---Wedding With Romantic Details.

PAID $5 FOR THE LICENSE

Rev. J. J. Rae, Methodist minister in Picton, and formerly of Peterborough, performed a wedding ceremony under peculiar circumstances this week. The story is told told in a recent issue of the Belleville Ontario in the following terms:

The simple announcement of the marriage last Wednesday of Richard Dominic Rice of Malone, N.Y., to Mrs. Alice Pearl Bush, formerly of Picton, and daughter of David McBurney, by Rev. J. J. Rae, contains much real of it that is of unusual interest Couples seldom experience such a strenuous attempt to be married as did Mr. and Mrs. Rice last Wednesday. The bride's home had been in Deseronto. She was a Presbyterian in religion, and when Mr. Rice, a Roman Catholic obtained the promise of her hand, the two visited the parish priest, who, it is understood, declined to solemnize the marriage, advising them to go to a certain priest in Kingston. However, the priest they sought being absent from the city, they took the steamer Caspian and went to Picton. On arriving there, the much tried couple sought out the pastor of the First Methodist Church. It was after 10 o'clock and Rev. Mr. Rae was adverse to marrying the couple so late at night. Considering their experience, he consented, if the intended groom would get the necessary license. A man was paid $5 to get the desired license, and the marriage knot was tied before midnight.

Pupils Complaint

There are many complaints about the unfair papers set for those who wrote at the recent examinations in the High Schools. The greatest protest is made against the ancient history, chemistry, and physics papers. On this account it is said there will be a large number who will fail to secure a pass.—Stirling News-Argus.

Meandering Cows

Some of the village residents are anxious to know why the Warkworth pathmaster does not attend to his business, and look after the wandering cows on the streets. They complain that some of the citizens of the village had to dispose of their favourite cow a few years ago because the law was strictly enforced, but the present pathmaster is very remiss in his duty. Almost everyone would be pleased to have the cattle law observed; it is much more pleasant for pedestrians.—Warkworth Journal.

Dark Secrets

Burnley is still alive.

Anyone that hasn't settled for the buggy had better come at once and settle; for Fred has payed his ten.

Oliver has finished learning to make cheese, and has started trading buggies.

Hello Dan; what has happened that we don't see you on the swing no more.

Jimmie must be pretty good on the end of the lines; we see he was driving Dan on Sunday.

What happened Cliff, that Alex had your girl? You had better get a go-billie.

Selecting Teachers

The most important duty school trustees have to perform is the selection of a teacher. Few, very few, realize how important this duty is, or how much influence for weal or woe it has on the future of the children. Carelessness in the discharge of this duty is censurable. Selections made for any other reason than the welfare of the children are criminal. Trustees should bear in mind that a special grant of $20 is now paid to every school whose teacher has a second class professional certificate. In addition, forty per cent. of the excess of salary over $300 is paid.—Havelock Standard.
